Adam and Eve: Temptation and Sin — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 3.

The serpent was more subtle than any other beast of the Garden of Eden, and he tempted Eve to eat the fruit of the tree of knowledge, which was forbidden Adam and Eve.

The serpent told Eve it would make them like gods, knowing good and evil, to eat of the forbidden fruit, so Eve ate of the fruit of the tree and gave it to Adam and he ate also.

Ashamed of disobedience, Adam and Eve hid when they heard the Lord calling them at eventide, and they acknowledged that they were tempted of the serpent and had eaten the forbidden fruit.

God cursed the serpent and sent Adam and Eve out of the Garden to work and suffer for their sins, Adam tilling the ground out of which he was taken. (GOLDEN TEXT—Ezekiel 18:4)

An Ill-Considered Idea

A great deal of pretentious nonsense is talked these days about "the German national character" by people who profess to understand it. Recently Emil Ludwig, who has won fame for himself as a popular historical writer, outlined a plan for the treatment of Germany after the war which he feels would substantially alter that character and would convince the Germans that the spirit is superior to force.

Now Emil Ludwig ought to know something about the German people, for he is himself a German of Jewish family and he served Germany during the first World War as a journalist and propagandist. Like many German Jews and intellectuals he is understandably disgusted with modern Germany and he wants to see the people of that country undergo a radical change of heart. But we think that his scheme for achieving this end shows a sad lack of realism; Ludwig's books have always been distinguished more for their romantic and dramatic qualities than for their insight or their understanding of facts. And his understanding of psychology, as shown in his lives of Napoleon, Bismarck, Goethe and Christ has not inspired great respect.

Mr. Ludwig suggests that after the war Germany be deprived of arms, education and government. Arms may be borne only by the army of occupation; education and government will be administered solely by foreigners until Germany is fit to govern herself again. This, in Ludwig's opinion, may not be for some decades. "Religion, history, philosophy all teach principles foreign to the German character and can only be infused gradually," he says.

In fact, this man believes that we can reform the Germans by treating them like children or savages. But the Germans, for all their stupidity, unreasonableness and wickedness are not children or savages, but powerful adults, ready to resent such treatment with the utmost bitterness and emerge from such a prolonged schooling with a hatred for the rest of Europe which would last for a thousand years. With nations as with people, education is essentially a personal business, and we shall only succeed in reforming Germany if we force her to reform herself. And before we can begin that long and difficult process we must give her a thorough trouncing, so that she may never again say that she was not defeated, but betrayed.

Has Mr. Ludwig really considered what his scheme would involve? What, for instance, would we think if by some unlucky chance Germany were to defeat us, and were then to send us an army of occupation, a government, and a group of educators? Would we not hinder that army and kill its men whenever we could? Would we not sabotage that government? Would we not feel that every word uttered by those educators was a lie? No, we must give Germany no possible excuse for grievance; we must make her do her own work of reconstruction. And first of all we must give her the worst beating she has ever had in her history; that will do more than anything else to satisfy her appetite for war.

Let us stop talking about Germany's "national character" as though all Germans were as alike as sausages. First-rate psychologists do not approve of the term. But if we must attempt to form a notion of the character of the German people we shall do better to read Freud's great essay on Civilization and Its Discontents than to listen to muddled thinkers like Emil Ludwig. And let us get rid of any notion that we are going to send missionaries to reform the Germans after the war. They are quite old enough to reform themselves, and our job is to see that they do it or suffer the consequences.

Advice To The CBC

A few days ago we suggested in these columns that ill-natured and destructive criticism of the CBC was foolish and did no good; we felt that complaints about the Corporation's policy should be sent to its head office in letters. We are going to make a suggestion to the CBC now, concerning a small matter which we think might advantageously be cleared up.

During recent months the CBC broadcasts have suffered from a number of those tiresome interruptions called "technical faults." On Thursday night, for instance, the broadcast of a symphony concert from Montreal broke off suddenly and was not resumed again for ninety seconds or two minutes; but in that short time a snatch of a gramophone record of a violin solo was played and it was interrupted by another record of someone playing on an organ. This ceased only when the Montreal concert was picked up once again.

Now the last thing which a listener wants when a musical program is interrupted is a filler-in of some other sort of music, and to change from a violin to an organ in so short a time is to add insult to injury. And for the Corporation to remain silent in the matter is discourteous. We have never heard a technical fault in a broadcast from the U.S., so we do not know what their custom is, but we know that the BBC deals with the matter in a simple and direct manner. As soon as the break occurs an announcer apologizes for it and says that the broadcast will be resumed as soon as possible, and after that there is silence until the program is audible once again. This is polite, explicit and interrupts the program which the listener wants to hear as little as possible. Why doesn't the CBC adopt this policy, instead of making matters worse with gramophone records?

Disposing Of Human Ashes

Our esteemed contemporary, the Stratford Beacon-Herald, offers a mild protest because an aviator has scattered the ashes of a former resident of that district along the sands at Van Wagner's Beach. The journal says, "It is unpleasant to think that living people may pick up on their clothes, and shoes, or even by the mouth, minute particles of the remains of a human being who may have died of some terrible disease, albeit the process of incineration destroys all danger of infection...The proper thing is to put the ashes in an urn and inter them or place them in a vault."

The men and women who leave instructions for their cremation after death would not agree with this view. They want to disappear, leaving no grave, no monument to show where they lie and perhaps to vex and depress the spirits of those whom they loved in life; they want to leave no reminder of the flesh which they have sloughed off. That is why they ask that their ashes may be scattered at sea, or on land at some place which they have loved and in which they have been happy. Last year an account appeared in an English paper of a farmer whose ashes had been strewn, at his request, over the fields which he had loved and served, and which had been the possession of his family for many generations. There is a depth of feeling in this which is too rarely found in the modern approach to death; we are inclined to emphasize every precaution which will postpone the body's eventual and inevitable union with Nature. Are there in all the world more pitiful objects than those mummified Egyptians whose corpses are displayed in museums for all the world to gape at, centuries after the spirit which gave them significance has fled? Is it not better to unite with the earth as quickly as possible?

And if the ashes are scattered on a beach, or in a garden or a forest, is any living creature the worse? If in our lives we never touch or breathe in anything worse than the ashes of a human body we shall not fare too badly. Let us not add to our vice of over-legislation for the living the impertinence of legislation for the dead. Surely, after he is through with a world where there is less and less liberty of action, a man may elect to rest where and how he will?

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is estimated that a billion lead pencils are used in the U.S. every year. Half this number could be salvaged from under chesterfield cushions.

Buses used merely for sight-seeing have been banned in the U.S. Apparently the saving of rubber has been extended to the neck.

Says the Chicago News: "Attempting to treat with Vichy on the curious assumption that it is free must be a good deal like courting a Siamese twin."

Some days ago German newspapers announced that the British had retreated from El Alamein and that battle was a Nazi victory. Can some Axis correspondent have seen a mirage?

Odyssey of Sigrid Undset

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THERE are few women whose names command more respect in the world of letters than Sigrid Undset. She is best known in this country for her two long romances of life in medieval Norway, "Kristin Lavransdatter" and "The Master of Hestviken". These have been sufficient, however, to win her the respect and admiration of thousands of people. When the Nazi hordes swept over Europe many of us were surprised to find that we had friends in foreign countries which we had never visited—friends who were wholly unaware of our existence. Nevertheless we feared for them and were anxious about their safety. It is for this reason that many of us thought, when first Norway was invaded, What has become of Sigrid Undset?

Sigrid Undset is one of the most important of living Norwegian writers. Norway, which has a population of about three millions, has a literature which is known all over the world. It has a literature which puts that of Canada to shame, although we have almost four times as many people here to produce books and read them. Norway is a country which has always taken kindly to the things of the mind. Sigrid Undset, who was given the Nobel Prize in 1928, has lived for many years in the quiet retreat of Lillehammer, writing her books, engaging in the cultural life of her country and of Europe, and pursuing those bypaths of Catholic thought which are so dear to her. In 1940 she was fifty-eight; in 1940 the Nazis invaded her country and she was forced to leave it.

IN her recently published book, "Return To The Future'" she tells the story of her escape and her journey by way of Russia and the Trans-Siberian Railway to Japan, and her subsequent flight to the United States. It is not as adventurous as many of the escape stories which have been published since the beginning of the war, but it is none the less interesting for that. Many of the heroes of hairbreadth escapes were newspaper correspondents—superficial thinkers and slovenly writers; the journey of Sigrid Undset was the odyssey of a mature, intelligent, sensitive woman. She has written of it with restraint and a curious selflessness; she does not allow herself to bulk too large in her own story. Because of these things her book is one of the handful of eye-witness accounts of events in this war which can be regarded as literature. At best, the others are reporting, and often very bad reporting.

No one in Norway expected that country to be invaded, and when the German planes came they were still unable to take in the importance of the news. It was some days before they grasped the fact that their ill-defended and unprepared country was indeed being snatched from them. Sigrid Undset was at home, caring for three Finnish refugee children and a refugee German priest; her eldest son, Anders, was with his regiment, and soon after the invasion began he was killed. The writer soon realized that her position was serious. She had spoken and written against the Nazi regime for years, and her books were banned in the Third Reich. A part of the Nazi scheme of conquest in Norway was to induce prominent writers, if possible, to declare themselves in favour of the New Order. Those who refused met with a disagreeable fate. Only one, the aging Knut Hamsun, did their bidding. It was clear to Sigrid Undset that there was no heroism in remaining where she was, and so, accompanied by her younger son Hans, she began the long and difficult flight to Sweden.

THE journey to Sweden took her very near the fighting. She had the chance to see German soldiers in action. Shouting and bellowing like beasts, they rapidly overcame the Norwegians and the British youths who had been sent, so ill-equipped and ill-trained, to resist them. The Nazis, it was discovered, were equipped with squares of chocolate containing cocaine, which they ate before attempting any difficult task; the dose was a fairly large one and it seemed to fulfil its purpose. One wonders, however, whether an army of cocaine addicts will be easy to deal with in times of peace. Everywhere the travellers went they met with kindness and assistance, and at last they arrived safely in Stockholm and travelled by plane from there to Moscow.

Sigrid Undset is as little impressed by Communism as she is by Nazism. Moscow surprised her and lowered her spirits. Moscow has doubled its population since the Revolution, but it has not increased materially in size. As a result, the city has the air of a gigantic tenement. Every places are thronged with people walking. The house is crammed and the streets and public shops are poor and there is almost nothing to buy. And the city stinks with a rich mixture of humanity, ill-washed clothes and the rancid oil which Russians use to clean their boots. To an orderly, cleanly Norwegian it was a hell on earth. The journey on the Trans-Siberian Railway was worse. The Russians were kind and friendly, but irrevocably and ingrainedly dirty. However, they seemed used to dirt and apparently thrived on it. Japan, where the people bathed regularly, was a paradise by comparison.

THIS is a book which I can recommend highly. The translation, by Henriette C. K. Naeseth, is tolerable, though she should not make a famous author say "averse to"; it must be "averse from" or nothing. Nothing does a foreign author such harm as a translator without taste. But in spite of a few translator's indiscretions this book stands as a record of a fine mind during a period of stress.

Unconsidered Trifles

After a long, searching cross-examination, the little woman in the witness-box remained quite calm. At last the lawyer exclaimed:

"You say you had no education, but you answered all my questions smartly enough."

"Yes, sir," replied the witness meekly; "but you don't have to be a scholar to answer silly questions."

Entering the newly-opened shop, the commercial traveller exclaimed cheerfully:

"Good morning, Mr. Smith! How's trade?"

"Not so good."

"I'm sorry to hear it."

"Yes," Mr. Smith went on; "when a laddie came into the shop yesterday and asked for an empty box, my assistant gave him the till."

"GUTS"

Timoshenko's North Line Cut

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE situation on the Don front appears black with ill portents for Marshal Timoshenko's battered Southern Army, although its full significance is beyond long-distance estimation.

Moscow press reports fail to bring into clear focus what is happening hour by hour on a 100-mile sector of the Upper Don. There seems no doubt, however, that Timoshenko has been all but cut off from direct communication northward by a German surge to and across the Don in the Voronezh sector, and also is threatened at Rossosh, 100 miles to the south, with having his own army cut in two.

SITUATION OBSCURE

Moscow admits that the Red Army has abandoned Rossosh, 100 miles east of Kupyansk and on the Moscow-Rostov railroads south of Liski where an eastern feeder route still gives the Russians some semblance of rail connections with Moscow.

The situation in the 100-mile span between the Voronezh and Rossosh is obscure, but it is clear that the main Moscow-Rostov railroad line had been severed by the Nazis at Rossosh.

Unless the Rossosh situation can be corrected quickly, it must confront the Russian commander with the urgent necessity of getting that part of his army still west of the Voronezh-Rossosh line or along the Oskol River out of a menacing trap. A German pincer movement down the east bank of the Don from Voronezh and up the Moscow-Rostov railroad from the captured cty of Rossosh could encircle and perhaps destroy his whole right wing.

The Nazi break-through to Rossosh does not of itself represent another penetration to the Don. The town is on a western tributary of the Don which lies some forty miles to the east and still could afford the Russians a formidable holding position to avert a complete disaster if they escape the indicated trap. If they still hold the segument of the Kupyansk-Liski railroad between the Oskol and the Don, they have both a route of escape eastward and an eastern source of reinforcement and supply.

Since the Nazi offensive is primarily, by Hitler's say-so, an effort to smash the Russian armies, Red retreat to escape entrapment seems in order rather than a stand on any front. A general retreat on so wide a front would, however, remove any possibility of a Russian flanking attack from the south on the corridor the enemy is driving eastward through Red Army positions. It would mean a gap 150 to 100 miles wide from north to south and 120 to 100 miles wide from east to west driven into the Russian front in the Don Basin.

That also must alter the situation favorably mendous penetration — the Kursk-Voronezh for the Nazis on the north flank of this treflank. While it remained a triangle instead of a great rectangular bulge eastward, there was always a chance for Russian counter-attacks from the north to pinch it off.

That possibility is diminished if not wholly removed by the widening of the breach. It makes a German turn northward from the Kursk-Voronezh line toward Moscow at least feasible, although it still seems more probable that the Nazi plan is to exploit present gains eastward and southward to cut Russia and Russian armies apart to the Volga and seal off the whole Don Basin and the Don gateways to the Caucasus for attack unhampered by Russian interference from the north or east.

Capital Closeups

OTTAWA, July 11.—(CP)—Short snatches from Parliament Hill:

War production figures are kept pretty quiet but here are some astronomical figures from Donald McNiven (Lib. Regina City) as printed in Hansard: "The 1941 production of aluminum at the Arvida (Que.) plant was 500,000,000 pounds. It is estimated that 1942 production will be between 700,000,000 and 800,000,000 pounds and that this amount will provide all the auminum that is required for approximatey 80,000 panes."

ODDS AND ENDS

The toughness of Finance Minister Ilsley's budget has been circulated pretty widely...Luis E. Palms Were Read

A WOMAN of some prominence in Germany and an expert palmist often had asked Hitler to let her read his palm. He finally agreed, but in order to make it more sporting, stipulated that another person should stand with him behind a curtain and she should read both their palms without knowing in advance which was which. This was a few months before the beginning of the war.

Two right hands were thrust through the curtain, one of which she read quickly and without much interest. The other she examined long and exhaustively, found much interest and good in it and finally pronounced that the owner some day would do something to get the world's tongues wagging. The curtains parted and the owner of the hand appeared. It was Rudolf Hess. —Frederick C. Oechsner.

A Bible Message For Today

((From The Authorized Version)

AND it came to pass also on another Sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the Sabbath day: that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing: Is it lawful on the Sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so; and his hand was restored whole as the other.—Luke vi., 6-10.

AND the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father), full of grace and truth...For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.—John i., 14, 17.

Did Gestapo Help?

A YOUNG Belgian doctor, who recently arrived in Leeds after adventures in France and Spain, has enlivened the harassing story of his escapes with an anecdote from a concentration camp in Spain, where unsuccessful escapees of all nationalities were herded together.

One day a party of Gestapo arrived, accompanied by the Spanish police, to give the men the choice of remaining in the camp until the end of hostilities or of returning in safety to their own country. As they passed along the lines of men, asking each his decision, they came upon one young man who hoped for return to his native land.

"Sensible man," said one of the Nazi police, "I assure you that we shall do everything in our power to facilitate your return home. What nationality are you?"

"English," replied the young man.

A Senator's Demand

SPEAKING of Prince Edward Island Hon. Creelman MacArthur said in the Senate: "We are getting no consideration from the Government . . . We have a car ferry which is nothing but a glorified scow . . . Either P. E. I. will have adequate train and car ferry services, as one of the nine provinces, or she will go out." And does Senator MacArthur suppose hat if "The Island" were a Crown colony the British Government in the midst of the war would divert a couple of million dollars to build a car ferry?—Ottawa Journal.

A Belated Memorial

AT long last a memorial commemorating the pioneer trans-Atlantic flight of Alcock and Brown in 1919 is to be erected at the spot in Newfoundland whence they took off in their Vickers Vimy omber. If flights by Ferry Command require real courage nowadays, they were feats of almost super-human endurance in the rickety aircraft of 1919, and Alcock and Brown deserve all the recognition and commemoration that it is possible to give them.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

LUXURIOUS LYNX

By ALICE ALDEN

THE WOMAN WHO is fortunate enough to be able to invest in a fur jacket should consider the charm of lynx, especially if she goes in a great deal for smart spectator sports things. A lynx jacket is ideal for outdoor wear during the day and does well at night over dinner things, too. Dein-Bacher of the Waldorf likes lynx and has used some wonderful skins of Russian lynx for this longer-than-usual jacket. The long white hair is swirled around the hem in a border design that helps give the coat its length, and adds to its smartness.

Garvey—Tonor

DOWNEYVILLE, July 11.—(ENS)—In St. Patrick's Church, Phelpston, recently, the wedding of Suzette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tonor and Dennis Garvey, son of Mrs. Michael Garvey and the late Mr. Garvey of Downeyville was solemnzied. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Doyle who also said the nuptial mass, assisted by Master Jack Shannahan and Jackie Tonor, cousins of the bride.

The altar was beautifully decorated with pink and white peonies. She wore a necklace of pearls worn by her mother on her wedding day and carried a bouquet of roses and vouvardai.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Tonor, wearing a gown of larkspur blue crepe made with a moulded bodice and full skirt. A halo headdress of blue plaited crepe and blue cornflowers and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Alphonse Garvey of Toronto and the ushers were Mr. Dennis Moran of Barrie and Mr. Leo McLaughlin of Phelpston.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother receiving in a dres sof British navy crepe with pink trimmings and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother also assisted attired in a navy blue flowered dress with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Attending the wedding from a distance were: Mrs. Michael Garvey, the Misses Imelda, Moureen and Bernice Garvey, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Morrissey, Messrs. Opening Night Of Carnival Draws a Crowd

A large crowd enjoyed the Carnival held by the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E. and the Y's Men's Club on Friday evening in Riverside Park. A merry-go-round and other rides provided fun and thrills for the children, and games of chance, at which bacon and eggs and jam, and other fine prizes were offered drew the attention of adults. Two large bingo games with excellent prizes, did a roaring business. The booths were supervised by members of the two organizetions.

Other booths sold hot dogs, popcorn, ice cream, soft drinks and other carnival fare. Mr. Roly Krant, president of the Y's Men's Club drew the winning tickets on the draw held last night. Tonight, the second night of the carnival, other worthwhile prizes, including a $100 Victory Bond will be drawn for.

Fall Clothes To Pop Eyeballs

By JOHN B. LEWIS

NEW YORK, July 11.— (AP). — Gentlemen, brace yourselves! Your wives next fall are going to wear the most cock-eyed clothes since the hobble-skirt of first Great War fame.

Around the dinner table in New York these nights, husbands are hearing the most outlandish tales—relayed straight from the tea party, bridge game and the fashion front.

Here are some of the stories that have sent men's eyebrows up in surprise and their jowls down in a frown:

A war of windmills is being waged between designers of hats on the theory of 'maximum' and 'minimums.'

The establishment of John Fredericks has the ladies doing loops over their big, floppy, high-crowned 'wind-catchers.' Some women still refer to this type as 'picture hats.' They're called 'Maximums,' but colossal might be a better word.

Then there's Walter Florell, a hat designer, who has just come out with 'a daring little thing,' so the women infer, which clings close to the head and looks a little like the top of a Hallowe'en pumpkin.

These are called 'Minimums,' but you can coin your own word for them.

It takes the dress designers to make something that will catch a woman's eye, and probably pop her husband's orbits.

Charles Armour, a fashionable designer, made it all quite clear when he told a group of women at his style show:

"I don't think these clothes are in good tase—but they will sell, and every storekeeper is after some of the 'new money' from the war plants.'

His dresses and those of other stylists feature the trim, modest silhouette demanded by the War Production Board last spring.

The dresses, friend sufferer, will be hung with fringes, wide gold braid, beads, sequins and anything else the clever designers can think up to catch a woman — and our pocketbooks—in a trance.

And just to send your week-end thoughts reeling the hobble-skirt is coming back!

FINE CLOTHES NO EVIDENCE MAN IS PHILANDERER

Girl Fears Fondness for Dress Is Reason to Mistrust Suitor

DEAR MISS DIX—Can you tell anything of a man's character by the way he dresses? What does it mean when he wears a flower in his lapel? I have a man-friend who is about thirty-four years old who dresses as elegantly as any movie star. His taste is perfect. Nothing gaudy or loud, but everything very fine and expensive.

He is a prominent business man so he can well afford it. Can such a man be trusted, or is he likely to be a philandering husband?

ANNETTE.

ANSWER: If a man wears a flower in his buttonhole, it simply means that he likes flowers and has no bearing on his moral character, nor is it any indication that he would make a wandering husband.

Of course, a man's clothes are not an infallible index to his character, but they certainly do give us some mighty good pointers in sizing him up and, as a matter of fact, our snap judgment on any stranger is formed on the way he is dressed.

That is all we know of him. That is all we have to go by. It may be that a ragged coat covers a heart of gold, or a battered hat surmounts an intellectul brow, or perchance he may be a wolf in sheep's clothing and we may have to entirely change our opinion on further acsuaintance with him, But, at the moment, all that we have to go by is how he looks and we are attracted, or repulsed, by his appearance.

Generally speaking, the way a man is dressed does give you a very good idea of his character. If, for instance, he is sloppy, if his suit is spotty, if his linen is soiled, if his shoes are unshined, you don't need to be any Sherlock Holmes to deduct that he is too lazy to keep himself clean. While, on the other hand, his clothes may be threadbare, but if they are cleaned and pressed and his shoes shined, you know he is energetic and the sort of chap who makes the best of his circumstances, and that somehow he will fight through to success.

The man who is inappropriately dressed shows that he lacks judgment and taste. The one who looks as if his clothes had been thrown at him is inaccurate and has no sense of detail. And so you can go through the whole list of the masculine wardrobe and see how every man expresses himself in his clothes.

No Evidence

There is no evidence to show that the well-dressed man is particularly given to philandering, unless it be that women run after the men who look like the glass of fashion and the mold of form.

Tragedy When Love Comes Too Late

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young married woman deeply in love with a man who is also married, but who loves me as much as I love him. I have a fine husband and this other man has a fine wife, and we both have children. So we have decided not to hurt those who love us by getting divorces so that we can marry each other.

We are both miserable and feel that life without each other is ruined for us. I have lost forty-five pounds and my nerves are on edge. He has moved away to another town so that we can try to forget each other, but it can't be done. Do you think we have done right, or should we take our happiness as we find it?

LONELY.

ANSWER—You and the man both seem to be fine people with a sense of responsibility to others, so I don't think you would find any happiness in being together if, in order to do so, you had to break up two homes and half-orphan two sets of children. Always there would be in the back of your minds the knowledge that you had betrayed the ones who trusted you; that you had broken the vows that you had taken before God and man, and that you had been weaklings who could not stand up under temptation. And always you would hear the cry of little children for the father and mother who had deserted them.

It is, of course, a tragedy when love comes to a man and woman when it is too late for them to take it honorably, but they do not better matters when they let their passion make them selfishly sacrifice others to it. For somehow, someway, the wrongs of the innocent are always avenged and those who sow the wind are made to reap the whirlwind. Time and again we have all seen these fierce loves burn themselves out in a fw months and those who defied the world in order to be together come to loathe the very sight of each other.

And we have seen the men and women, who broke up their homes for an illegal love, have to pay for their folly in knowing that they wrecked their children's lives when they deprived them of a home and a father and mother.

The Philanderer is a Selfish Brute

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man of twenty-nine. My wife found lipstick on my coat lapel. Of course, I am innocent, but how can I make my wife believe it? I do not want a separation because I love my wife dearly. Please advise me as to the steps I should take.

A DEVOTED HUSBAND.

ANSWER—You will have to be a spellbinder in order to dispel your wife's suspicions about the lipstick on your coat lapel and convince her that the cat must have put it there. Unfortunately, there are few women with the trusting disposition of the wife who said that even if she saw her husband philandering, she would know that it was her lying eyes that had deceived her.

But, seriously, if you really love your wife and do not want her to leave you and to have your home broken up, do you think you get enough fun out of kissing other women to make it worth the risk? It seems to me it is a pretty poor gamble.

Of course, the philanderer never considers anything but the kick he gets out of having an affair with other women. He doesn't think of the humiliation he puts upon his wife, nor of how her heart is torn to tatters with the knowledge of his infidelity, nor of the many nights her tears is wet with her tears at knowing she has been cast aside. But, even o, it seems to me that he makes a poor bargain when he throws away the love and respect of a wife who loves him for the bought kisses of a gold-digger who, he knows, cares nothing for him.

But, at any rate, a man has his nerve who comes home with his coat smeared with lipstick and signs himself "A devoted husband."

LUCKIES DROP CHANCE TO GAIN LEAD

Plazas Score 13 Runs To Luckies One

Handcuffed by the heads-up pitching of Parsons, husky speedball artist for the Plazas, the Luckies lost their chance to gain the leadership in the Men's Senior City Softball Loop on Friday evening when they were down 13 to 1 at Riverside.

Pitching his second game in as many nights, Parsons turned in one of the finest performances of the season, holding the Luckies to four scattered hits, while he walked three. Behind him the Plazas clicked like automatans, dishing up a brand of ball that lacked little of championship stuff. The losers just couldn't get going, while their opponents seemed unable to do anything wrong and they clouted the offerings of two opposing pitchers for a grand total of 25 hits, a record for the season. This super clouted included home runs by Ellis and Heal, doubles by Wib Starr and Blewett and a three bagger by Julian Wade. Heal had a good night, pounding out a circuit, and two singles in seven trips while Eddie Starr had five singles in six tries. Godfrey poled out two hard hit singles, and Ellis had a brace of singles along with his four bagger.

Bill Lewis started on the mound for the Luckies and went along alright until the fourth when the Plazas started a hit parade. After one was out, and three runs had crossed the plate on four solid bingles, including two doubles, Lewis was yanked in favor of Bill Moorehead, but even he couldn't stop the barrage of clouts. The Plazas got five more solid wallops including a homer by Heal before the side was retired, and it was eight counters, and nine hits in one frame.

Lewis Hit Hard

Lewis struck out one, and allowed 12 hits in three and two thirds innings, while Moorehead, walked one, and was nicked for 13 hits in five and one third innings.

McCormick in right field for the losers got two of their four hits, both of them singles, Mowry and Lewis got the others. In the field Crowe, Wade, and Blewett were the tops, the latter making one great running catch in the ninth. Stuart in centre for Luckies, handled seven chances perfectly, while Padgett at third, and Maurice Caccavella at short turned in nice fielding cards. The Luckies worked a double play in the sixth, when Crowe popped to Caccavella at short, and Blewett was caught off first. Plazas also staged a double in the eighth when McCormick grounded to second forcing Lewis at second and the shortstop taking the throw whipped it over to first to get the batter.

An Odd Play

A rather odd play took place in the first innings when Heal made first on a single, then Lewis who was pitching lost control of the ball on a pitch to the batter, and the ball dropped over the third base line, half-way between home and third. The runner left for second base just as the ball dropped and was ruled out, because he had left the base before the ball crossed the plate.

The teams:

Plazas—Heal, ss; E. Starr, c; W. Star, 3b; Blewett, cf; Crowe, 2b; Ellis, 1b; Wade, lf; Godfrey, rf; Parsons, p.

Brintons Whip Electrics

Brinton Lassies continued merrily on their way on Friday evening with a decisive 18 to 3 victory over the Electrics at the Ashburnham Bowl in a scheduled Ladies' League battle. The losers looked smart in their new red uniforms, but couldn't do much with the offerings of J. Hughes, the Brinton pticher.

Britons smacked out 14 hits and started the barrage early in the game. They got three runs in the first when A. Weir and M. Berry singled, and L. Hughes cracked out a double. Two more crossed in the second, and in the fourth they started a regular parade that didn't stop until eight runs had been chalked up. In the sixth, four more runs were tallied, with the Brintons romping around the bases almost at will. M. Larmer did the hurling for the Electrics. She fanned six and walked two. Hughes for the Brintons sent seven down swinging, and walked two.

D. Walker, smart young catcher for the Brintons, poled out a home run for the longest hit of the game. T. Batley and M. Hunter teamed up for a double play for the Electrics, and N. Smith worked a double play unassisted in the eighth for the Brintons. The teams:

Electrics—M. Hunter, ss; S. Milburn, 2b; M. McIlwain, cf; R. Milburn, c; E. McKenzie, 1b; M. Killingbeck, 3b; T. Batley, rf; C. Stewart, lf; M. Larmer, p; A. Larmer, lf; C. Barnes, rf; A. Coffee, 3b.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, July 11 — (CP). — A few years ago a baseball scout for Chicago Cubs travelled from San Francisco to Wilcox, Sask. looking for talent. He found none, and even if the village of Wilcox had been teeming with big league prospects he ordinarily wouldn't have stayed for more than a couple of days.

But he stayed a week and when he left he wrote a letter that brought annual gifts of uniforms and equipment for years thereafter. It was his frist meeting with Father Athol Murray.

Father Murray is head of the Notre Dame School for Boys (Alumni: Nick and Don Metz) at Wilcox. That year he had a good baseball team. He liked it so much he wrote a letter to William Wrigley, owner of Chicago Cubs. The little priest is eloquent. He started to write about one player, wound up by extolling his entire team. He wrote so well that Wrigley sent a scout thousands of miles to look at Father Murray's senior amateur team, the Notre Dame Hounds.

It isn't hard to imagine this scout rattling through the middle of the continent preoccupied with matters of grave import to baseball. After travelling for days, he finally heard the conductor shout: "Wilcox, next stop." He gathered his bags, prepared to detrain.

From the steps of the railroad car he took one horrified look at Wilcox, then turned to the conductor.

'Are you sure this is Wilcox, Saskatchewan?" he asked.

The conductor said he was.

"The home of the Notre Dame Hounds?" the scout persisted because from the letter he knew the name would be known to any Canadian.

The conductor said that he was right, too. So our hero stepped gingerly to the platform. This is no reflection on Wilcox, but it wasn't exactly the type of place in which he expected to find the great baseball club he had been sent to scout.

It was midday, and the village streets were deserted. He walked along in the heat, carrying his luggage, looking for a hotel He also wanted to find Father Athol Murray The first human being he saw within talking distance was a little man in a black suit, hatless, and with tousled hair.

"Pardon me," he called. "Could you tell me where I could find Father Murray?"

The little man turned, stuck out his hand. "Sure," he said. "Right here I'm Father Murray."

The res of the story is simply told. The Scout didn't bother looking for a hotel, because Father Murray insisted he come and stay at the school. He looked over the Notre Dame Hounds, an average club Its players had only one strong claim to greatness; Father Murray's faith that they were great. There was no real business in Wilcox for a Big League scout, or even a Minor League scout.

But our May stayed a week. Father Murray called Regina about an hour's drive away, and Al Ritchie came out. If there is one man in the world wo can talk as fluently about any given subject as Father Murray, it was Al Ritchie. And it was seven days later before the scout could tear himself away

A few weeks later crates of baseball equipment started to arrive in Wilcox—uniforms and equipment the Cubs couldn't use. but Hounds could. That Notre Dame team became the best dressed amateur club in Canada.

You can see through that story the character and personal charm that Father Murray gives to is calling — any any other worthy cause that happens along. What made me think of it was a two-hit game Frank Germann pitched for Notre Dame Hounds a few days ago: Wait until Mr. Wrigley hears about that!

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Despite the heavy clouds and the possibility of rain a fair crowd turned out on Friday night for the week-end tourney. There was some good bowling and some not so good, but it all added up to a night of good fun. The winning skips were T. McMillan, R. Payne, and P. Moore.

Looking over the records we find in the ladies' section that all their schedule games are played up to date —no hang-overs from postponed games or rained-out games. That's a mark for the men to shoot at.

Have you made your entry in the open doubles tournament for next Wednesday? Better step on it, if you have not done so already.

Many of the boys have arranged to play their club singles on Monday night on the spare greens.

C. Renaud from our club has entered a rink at High Park for the Harrington Trophy. Play commenced at 9:30 this morning.

Do you know that the schedule games have reached the half-way mark—maybe a little better than that.

The Saturday mixed will be held this evening. Everything the same as usual.

St. Peter's Leading In Catholic Loop

The standing to date in the Catholic Softball League shows St. Peter's still is the leading slot, with Sacred Heart and the Cubs trailing in a tie for wins, three games in the rear. The K. of C. are the same distance from the latter. Figures for the standing are as follows:

	Won	Lost
St. Peter's	9	3
Sacred Heart	6	4
Cubs	6	8
K. of C.	3	9

Sacred Heart have an edge over the Cubs, having played only ten games so far.

Last night's schedule game between the St. Peter's and Sacred Heart squads was postponed at the last minute, the latter club finding difficulty in finding a team because of the holidays, and thus it was too late to catch the paper before going to press.

Officials of the C.S.L. wish to thank all tose who co-operate in any way in helping to make the benefit game Thursday night a success.

Games next Monday and Tuesday at the Memorial Park field are, respectively, Cubs vs. St. Peter's, and Sacred Heart vs. K. of C.

Lionel Conacher To Handle RCAF Recreation

TORONTO, July 11.—"Naturally," Lionel Conacher said over the long distance telephone from Montreal last night, "I am enthused over this new assignment. I am reporting to Air Minister Power a week from Tuesday. My first task will be a survey of R.C.A.F. schools. On this I will base a report to be considered, along the lines the Air Ministry is pointing."

Appointment of Lionel Conacher, M.P.P. for Toronto-Bracondale, as a director of recreational and entertainment for the Royal Canadian Air Force was made in Ottawa last night by Air Minister C. G. Power.

"I was greatly impressed," Conacher said, "with the anxiety of both the Air Minister and his deputy, to set up a recreational and entertainment program for our airmen. I hope I will be able to provide that sort of program."

"Premier Hepburn," Conacher added, "was highly enthused over the R.C.A.F. appointment, since he felt the contribution to Canada's war effort merited any attention I could give to the new air force program. It was on his advice that I accepted."

Canada's Top Star

Probably the greatest all-round athlete in the history of either amateur or professional sport in the Dominion, Canacher has come a long way in public life in recent years, and his new assignment provides him with a wide scope in furthering Canada's wartime program for its fighting forces.

The 42-year-old Toronto-born born "Big Train," who is a member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto-Bracondale, and chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission, will have the honorary rank of squadron leader. He will serve in his new post without pay.

Conacher's appointment in Ottawa Friday coincided with the announcement that the R.C.A.F. was planning recreational and entertainment facilities for student airmen in the schools of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan."

"His purpose," read theOttawa announcement, "will be to plan continuous and sustained activity for the hours airmen are able to spare from their principal job. It is intended that airmen should have healthy exercise and wholesome entertainment so that they may relax completely from the strain of their intensive training."

There is every indication that the appointment of big "Con" is a move in the stepping up of the recreational program for Canadian armed forces, after the manner of the American organizations. These have recruited from civilian and public life such outstanding athletic figures as Gene Tunney, Bernie Bierman, Jim Crowley, Mickey Cochrane, Jack Dempsey, Colonel Kilpatrick to carry the recreational torch for the boys in uniform.

A Real Record

Conacher left behind a glittering record on the fields of Canadian amateur sport to pursure a career as a professional hockey player. He moved up after amassing a long series of achievements in boxing, lacrosse, baseball and football.

He was graduated from amateur hockey ranks via Pittsburg Yellow Jackets of the National League in 1925-26, moved to New York Americans, and then shifted to the colorful Montreal Maroons. In 1933-34 he moved out of the rollicking, frolicking life of a Montreal Maroon to become the driving force behind Tommy Gorman's Chicago Black Hawks, who came through with one of the biggest Stanley Cup championship marches in hockey history. When Gorman returned to Montreal the following season, "Con" went with him, and this rare athletic combination made more history by producing another Stanley Cup title club for 1934-35.

During his professional athletic days, Conacher invaded the wrestling world at the suggestion of Ivan Michaeloff, pursued a short but hectic campaign. He had a fling at pro baseball with the Toronto Leafs. In face, the fellow missed none of the athletic tricks that savared of action and excitement.

In 1937 Canada's "one-man athletic-team" surprised John Public by invading a world that was regarded as foreign to sport heroes. He was elected to the Ontario Legislature as Liberal member for Toronto-Bracondale. Latterly he was named chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission ,a post he still holds.

Oshawan Almost Upsets Phil Farley

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 11 — A 24-year-old tool designer stood in the way of Phil Farley to-day as the dapper Toronto Scarboro golfer reached for the amateur crown that would make him king of Ontario golfers.

Winner of this year's open tournament, Farley met Nick Wisnock of Burlington in one of this morning's semi-finals while Jack Nash of London and John Lewis of Brantford two former champions, fought it out in the other draw.

Wisnock, who learned his trade and his golf at Windsor, is perhaps the most formidable threat to confront the smooth Scarboro golfer.

He polished off two tough opponents yesterday with a display of sub-par golf, ousting Whitey Lathrop of Lookout Point 5 and 4, and J. Twiss, Toronto Mississauga, 5 and 3.

Farley defeated L. Bissell, London 3 and 2, in his first round yesterday, but caught a tartar in Bill Ezinicki in the afternoon round, the 18-year-old Polish-Canadian hockey player yielding only on the 18th when he ran into a s-tymie. Ezinicki came from Winnipeg to Oshawa just a month ago.

After his defeat Ezinicki asked Farley for his autograph, admitting he had admired the latter for some years.

Lewis and Nash had comparatively easy roads to travel to the semi-finals. Lewis defeated Rudy Horvath Windsor Ontario junior titleholder, 3 and 2, and Nash ousted th defending champion, Bruce Bradley Oshawa, 3 and 1.

The semi-finals are slated to get under way at 10:30 o'clock this morning, with the finals this afternoon.

Sets 'O Canada' In Style Of Symphonic

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 11 — (AP). — Canada's anthem, "O Canada," has been arranged in symphonic style, and Saturday night the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will give the new work its premiere at the Lewisohn Stadium.

Henry Brant young Canadian composer who studied at the McGill Conservatoruim of Music in Montreal, has written the set of symphonic variations on Calixa Lavallee's national song.

"I show seven or eight different aspects of the tune as it seems to me," Mr. Brant said. "The enterprise springs from one of my earliest musical recollections, it is a musician's way of expressing the symbol of friendship between two countries."

Alexander Smallens will conduct the orchestra for the wor's premiere. The composer has worked on the score intermittently for more than three years, and the completed version takes 15 minutes to play, representing a multifold expansion of the original tune.

At the outset of the composition the tune of "O Canada" is played over much as it is done in the ordinary way. Then the variations follow, each beginning with the theme, but with different treatment, one being pastoral, another martial, another lyrical, another rhapsodic, and so on.

Second Inside Week

The "O Canada" variations representing Mr. Brant's second new work within a week. A few days ago his "Patriotic Partita for Winning the War" was performed by a symphony orchestra over a radio network. That composition dealt with saving gasoline, suits without trouser cuffs, air raid wardens and war bonds.

"It exemplifies the high spirits and good cheer with which these things should be approached," he explained.

Mr. Brant, who now resides in New York, rapidly is advancing to the foremost of the new composers. Two years ago he won wide recognition for his ballet music for "The Great American Goof," which he did in association with the playwright William Saroyan. Before that he wrote "Mr. Bach Goes to Town," conduting the New York Philharmonic personally at the premiere.

Blood Donors Clinic Completed Plans Have Been Made To Start Operations Next Week

Things are zooming along in the new Blood Donors' Clinic on Brock street, where women of the local branch of the Red Cross are busy preparing for the opening Tuesday, of the 26th clinic of this type in Canada. It is hoped that within a short time, they will be handling 100 transfusions a week, in the two mornings, Monday and Wednesday, that are to be devoted to this very worthy cause.

With the exception of one paid technician, all the workers are volunteers, doctors, nurses and helpers who are willingly devoting a morning or a few hours a week to this vitally needed work. At the present time, Great Britain has only 15 per cent of the amount of blood serum that is needed and there should be 3,000 transfusions a week in Canada, if this deficiency is to be made up before there is another heavy drain made on the available supply. There will be a regular nurse stationed in each of the six rooms where the blood is to be taken ,and these nurses do not leave the room at any time. Then there is to be a "floating nurse," whose job it is to conduct patients to their cubicles and to send the blood bottles into the typing and blood cutting rooms after the "operation" is finished. The technician, Mrs. Roy Taylor, 422 London street, who has been specially trained at clinics operating throughout the country and at the Connaught Laboratories in Toronto, where the blood is dried into the powder form, is in charge of all the nurses and equipment.

It is estimated that patients will not be detained more than half or three-quarters of an hour when they come for their transfusions. Upon entering the Clinic, there is a small hall, and the patient turns right from there into a larger room on one side of which is a room marked Waiting Room. Here there will be a volunteer worker to make out the equivalent of an enrollment card, getting the answers to such things as name, address, place of occupation, and so on.

No Waiting

When the enrolling has been completed, the donor passes into the examination room, where he will receive a thorough going over by a doctor, assisted by a nurse, and if his condition is satisfactory, he will be taken immediately for the transfusion. Anyone who has already registered and who has been tested will not be obliged to undergo this examination again. Every possible safeguard has been taken and it is hoped that Peterborough people will rouse themselves to the worthiness of this cause for which the response has been only fair, about 600 donors, and there should be at least 2,000 to fill the quota that is being demanded.

The Clinic has been laid out with a view to efficient organization and all the walls and floors have been painted in attractive shades of pale and dark green. There are a surprising number of rooms besides the main office at the entrance, and the waiting room and the examination room, already mentioned.

There are six walled cubicles with sparkling white curtains for use of the donors. Each one is equipped in exactly the same manner with a medical lamp, a bedside table, which will contain a tray with alcohol, iodine, scissors and other necessary equipment. There is also a very peculiar-looking "bed." It is long white wooden table, that stands about three feet from the floor and has a shelf running along underneath it. The bed is covered with a brown leather mattress, which in turn is to be covered with a fresh sheet of white paper from a roll that hangs on the end of the bed. This is used to save the expense on buying and cleaning sheets. There are two arm rests on the side of this bed and a rack swings out from the shelf underneath to hold the bottle while the blood is being drawn. These six rooms are along the wall facing Brock street.

Refreshments Served.

There are two rooms with regular hospital cots for anyone who should feel the need of a little rest, before going to the Rest Room. This latter has been beautifully decorated in shades of yellow and brown and has all kinds of comfortable chairs and chesterfields scattered around. Bright yellow tables and chairs that some of the women have painted are very attractive and really set off the room. The arrangement is that while the donors are relaxing here, buttered toast and tea, coffee, or cold drinks will be served, before they are taken home. It has not defintely been decided yet, just how this transportation system will be worked, but there will be some conveyance to return the donors to their homes.

All or mose of the electrical equipment has been donated and installed by the Canadian General Electric Company. The kitchen is very compact with its rows of cupboards and its electric refrigerators and shining pots and pans. Various groups from churches of every denomination have volunteered to supply women for one week at a time to preparae the food. The I O.D.E. Chapters of the city will provide people to do the serving for the same period of time. To accelerate service, a folding counter has been made.

Along the west side of the building are the three most important rooms, the Utility room and the Blood Typing and Counting room. The Utility room is a marvel of whiteness. Here is where the sterilizer is set up to keep the needles in the proper sterile condition, the bottles are prepared, and the cleaning up process is carried on in the same place'

There is quite a system to setting up the bottles Each bottle resembles a pint milk bottle, and there is a thick rubber stopped with two small holes in it that fits in the top. In each of these holes there is a glass tube stuck in, that has been bent at right angles. One tube is left open but the other has rubber tubing attached, and at the open end of the tubing is the needle with a large hole through which the blood will flow freely. So that this will be kept sterile, the needle when not in use lies encased in a glass test tube. Then there is a wide strip of paper that is placed over the top of the bottle, and which is not removed until the doctor takes it off.

When the bottles are ready to be sterilized, they are put in large metal containers, which will hold about 15 bottles, and are covered with a cotton cloth and sent to one

A hangover from the day when troops dug in and fought static warfare are the trench mortars. The mortars today, however, lob shells over enemy positions with greater accuracy, longer range and with greater efficiency than the last Great War. The mortars in common use come in two sizes, 2 and 3-inch, one firing a heavier shell than the other. Trench mortars are most familiar to infantry battalions. They are made in Canada.

JIMMY FOXX WAKENS AGAIN CLOUTS CUBS TO WIN OVER BRAVES

Reds Beat Out Dodgers 2-1 In 10 Sessions

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

No one has accused James Emory Foxx of anything but a decorus debut in the National League. For days after he joined Chicago Cubs the big slugger was as inconspicuous as a stick of gum.

If the senior circuit expected Foxx's huge war club to remain silent indefinitely, however, it must know better now.

He set off a cannon-cracker on the Fourth of July with a three-run homer that knocked Mort Cooper out of the pitcher's box after he had won nine straight games and yesterday he made half of the Cub's six hits and knocked in the deciding run in a 3-2 victory over Boston Braves.

This game was a pitching duel between Claude Passeau and Jim Tobin with the unlucky Boston hurler helping beat himself with an error. In attempting to start a double play he threw wild and let Phil Cavarretta reach second, from where he scored on Foxx' single in the eighth.

The Braves made two other errors and one of them was by Shortstop Eddie Miller, who hadn't made a miscue in his 40 previous games.

Passeau held the Braves to five hits in scoring his 13th triumph against five defeats. He now has won more games than any pitcher in either major league.

Cincinnati Reds nosed out Brooklyn Dodgers 2-1 in 10 innings in a night game with Frank McCormick singling Bucky Walters home to decide the game after the pitcher had opened with his second hit and advanced on an error.

Another for Higbe

Each team scored a run in the third in the only other interruption of a stirring pitching battle between Walters, who gained his 10th victory, and Kirby Higbe, who was charged with his sixth defeat against eight successes.

Walters allowed but six hits and Higbee gave only five for nine innings. Then Walters singled to open the 10th and Hugh Casey came in to give up the winning blow.

The defeat shaved a full game off the Dodgers' apparently ample 8½-game lead because St. Louis Cardinals snatched a 3-2 victory out of the fire in a 10-inning tussle with New York Giants.

The Redbirds had been blanked on four hits by Bob Carpenter till two were out in the ninth. Then Whitey Kurowski singled and pinch-hitter Walker Cooper doubled. Ace Adams was rushed to the mound and served another single to Pinch-hitter Coaker Tirplett for the two runs that tied the score.

In the 10th inning Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter singled and Stan Musial bunted down the third base line. Adams fielded the ball and threw to third for a force play—but Bill Werber wasn't there and the winning run came in unmolested.

This uprising saved Mort Cooper another defeat, for he gave up two runs in the fifth and all the Giants' eight hits before retiring for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

In the American League New York Yankees continued their mastery over St. Louis Browns with a 5-2 victory—their eighth straight over St. Louis. The Yanks scored all their runs on three hits off John Niggeling in the first inning. Afterward they made only two blows off Stan Ferens but the game had been decided.

Mel Harder held Philadelphia Athletics to four hits as Cleveland Indians scored a 4-2 victory and Tex Hughson not only pitched seven-hit ball, but drove in three runs himself with a double and a single as the Boston Red Sox battered the Detroit Tigers 6-1.

Night games between Philadelphia-Pittsburgh and Chicago-Washington were postponed.

THEATRE HIGHLIGHTS

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, July 11 — (CP). — Canadians who are lucky enough to see Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army" will compare it with Canada's popular soldier show of the First Great War, the Plunkett-Rafferty-Hamilton - Newman "Dumbells."

"This Is the Army" is a smash hit on Broadway. The object of its production is to raise $1,000,000 for the United States Army Relief Fund. After a limited engagement here it will be taken on tour. Then, when the financial objective has been reached the troupe will disband and the cast will return to the Army.

The show is bag and lavish, as an Irving Berlin musical should be. The composer has contributed several numbers that may be popular and one that probably will be a hit, 'I Left My Heart at the Stage Door Canteen." The pace is fast and the fun is clean and rough.

"The Dumbells," whose several editions Canadians took to their hearts after the last war, was a small and intimate show compared with the Berlin extravaganza. But in common are lusty soldier humor, pretty girl impersonators—remember Ross Hamilton of "The Dumbells"?—and grand songs.

Berlin himself comes on the stage to sing his 25-year-old Army song, "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning." That is the high spot of the entire production.

Corporal Ezra Stone the shrill-voice Henry Aldrich of radio, has trained and directed the cast of 200-odd men. A plump young man who seems too young to be wearing khaki, Stone proves himself a mature man of the theatre.

"Stars on Ice," a new version of the skating carnivals that have kept the Centre Theatre in Radio City full for nearly two years, is settling down to a long run. Sonja Henie again has invested in the show, though she doesn't appear in it.

A newcomer to the stage rink is Alexander Hurd, one of the best Canadian speed skaters of the last 15 years. The curved blades are not for Hurd, who wears long speeders and to the amazement of the audience, jumps over barrels piled two deep. How the Hamilton, Ont., skater manages to get up enough speed for this accomplishment on such a small rink is a mystery. Anyway, his act is a hit.

Florence McGee, the Toronto actress who scored Broadway triumph several seasons back in "The Children's Hour," may have a new starring vehicle in "It's High Time," a comedy by David Carey. She opened in the play this week at the Cape May Summer Theatre in New Jersey and if it goes well a fall Broadway production is in prospect.

Centre—Starts Monday

Royals Whipped 7-2 By Orioles

By the Associated Press.

All was relatively quiet on the International League front yesterday, with the weatherman the victor on three fronts.

The third-place Montreal Royals muffed a chance to gain on Newark Bears and Jersey City Giants by losing to Baltimore Orioles, 7-2, in the only game played. The Bears now are a game ahead of the Giants who top the Royals by half a game.

Joe Krakauskas hurled for the Orioles, and although he issued seven bases on balls, he allowed only six hits and was not scored upon until the seventh inning when Stan Rojek propelled the pellet out of the lot.

Scoring once in the first inning and twice in the fifth on Bob Lemon's 17th homer of the season with one on, the Orioles finally hammered Texas Jack Kraus to cover with a four-run outburst in the sixth.

Del Jones shared batting honors along with Lemon by getting three hits including two doubles in five trips to the plate. Lemon drove in four of Baltimore's seven runs.

Although remaining idle, Rochester Red Wings announced that Manager Roy Pfleger of the Hamilton Pony League Red Wings since 1941, would join them as a player. The Pony League club is seventh in the standings.

Pfleger is an infielder, having played second, short and third for the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association in 1936. He was acquired by Columbus Red Birds, a St. Louis Cardinal farm in the same league later.

Pfleger appeared in 100 games, 93 of them at second base for Hamilton last year and batted more than .300.

All teams are scheduled to swing into action to-day with the spotlight focused on the twin bill between Newark Bears and the hustling Toronto Maple Leafs.

"Angel" Makes 1A Draft Class

BOSTON, July 11 — (AP). — "If this country can use me, I'll be very glad to go; I like to fight," said the husky gent, once described as a throwback to the Neanderthal man, to his draft board.

It was "The Angel"—Maurice Tillet—wrestler, who likes to mix a little fisticuffs with that sport, talking as he presented himself for physical examination to the Brighton district board yesterday.

The examination tossed "The Angel" right into Class 1-A.

Tillet, a veteran of six years in the French Navy, once submitted to an examination by Professor Earnest A. Hooton head of the Department of Anthropology at Harvard University. Hooton said he resembled in physical stature the Neanderthal man.

Shut Out Favored At Empire City

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Ben Jones and Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons are regarded as two of the United States' outstanding trainers but their entries in today's $25,000 Empire City Handicap are playing second fiddle to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Kentucky Derby dandy, Shut Out.

Shut Out, weighted with 129 pounds, remains the favorite although his running technique resembles that of Whirlaway who found Empire's box-like corners and short home stretch too much last week-end.

Jones, who didn't get famous by loafing around tracks, delayed his take off for Arlington Park to Chicago to remain here and saddle Warren Wright's Col. Teddy for the mile and three sixteenth. Col. Teddy will lug only 115 pounds.

And it is no secret that Sunny Jim has prepped both Apache and Vagrancy, best of the present crop of three-year-old fillies, for this race. They'll go to the post as the William Woodward entry.

Others in the field of nine are Tom Howell's Amaho, winner his last three times out; Joe Robeling's Lochinvar; Walter P. Chrysler, Jr.'s Ramillies, whose early speed may make him hard to catch on the short home stretch; Ben Whitaker's Eternal Peace and Jake Freedman's Billy O.

Sports Spice

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP) — While other golfers have been worrying about the war's effects on their clubs, a bunch of the boys up at St. Johnsbury, Vt., decided to do something about it . . . Like all the rest, they've had to economize, so every Monday evening ten or a dozen gather on the course and instead of chasing a little pill they put in three good hours wielding scythes, riding mowing machines, raking and weeding traps, etc. . . . So now they not only have a layout that's in fine shape but they have a lot more interest in the club than before.

And while we're on golf, out in Okoboji, Iowa, L. C. Shoemaker of Sioux City teed off on the 14th hole of the Brooks Country Club just as a plane came in to land at an adjoining airport. Shoemaker's ball sailed up, landed on the plane's wing, and dropped back on the fairway.

Hold that pun

Eddie Stanky, Milwaukee Brewers' shortstop, once hoped to be a boxer. He took part in an amateur tournament in Philadelphia until his mother came to watch his fifth—and last—bout . . . "You didn't look good hanging over the ropes," she said.

Wholesale Beef Prices Set Up On 28 Cuts

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP).—A detailed list of wholesale beef price ceilings, covering 28 different cuts of beef and applicable in 15 zones across Canada, was announced last night by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, effective during the period July 13 to Aug. 2, inclusive.

The order, issued by Hon. J. G. Taggart, foods administrator of the Board, follows an order issued last month which prescribed maximum prices at which processors and wholesalers might sell carcasses, sides or quarters of beef.

The new order provides tighter control of beef prices by setting up maximum prices for the various cuts. In each case the maximum prices apply to top quality beef in each class designated. Beef of lower quality, the announcement said, is to be sold by processors and wholesalers "at reasonable reductions from such prices."

The Board also recalled that retailers are prohibited by last month's order from paying more than the maximum wholesale price, and that their selling prices to consumers must not, on the average, exceed the average delivered cost of carcasses, sides, quarters or cuts, plus whatever markup they used in the basic price ceiling period, Sept. 15-Oct. 11 last.

Accompanying the new beef control order is a schedule of prices for the 28 different cut, varied in 15 zones across the Dominion. These zones also were defined in the previous order.

7 Hindquarter Cuts.

The schedule lists seven hindquarters boneless cuts and six frontquarter boneless cuts, prices also varying according to the classification of the carcass. There is one set of prices for baby, yearling, steer or heifer, and another for cow o. bull.

The schedule shows that highest prices are for tenderloin from baby beef, yearling, steer or heifer. Wholesale price per pound of this cut ranges from 61 cents in most of the Maritimes and part of Quebec to 57 cents in three Prairie zones. Prices in Ontario range from 60½ to 58½ cents. Prices in British Columbia vary from 59 to 60½ cents.

Lowest prices apply to the flank cut from hindquarters of bull or cow. Wholesale price per pound of this bone-in cut ranges from 8½ to nine cents in the Maritimes; 8¼ to nine cents in Quebec Province; 7¾ to 8; cents in Ontario; 7¼ cents in the Prairie Provinces, and 8 to 8¾ cents in British Columbia.

A hindquarter steak piece from young cattle costs 23¾ to 24¼ cents per pound in the Maritimes; 23½ to 24¼ cents in Quebec Province; 23 to 24 cents in Ontario; 22¼ cents on the Prairies and 23¼ to 24 cents in British Columbia.

General Finds Democracy Works In Army

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADA ARMY CAMP, July 11—(CP).— Democracy may not work in the army as a general rule but Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, commander of the 4th (armored) division, uses it in judicious doses for particular problems.

He took command of the 4th Division when it was an infantry division and his job was to convert it. Part of that job, in the general's view, was to make the division a homogeneous body, with all units trained to a common standard.

He found the different units pursuing their own courses, with their own peculiarities, each with a certain laudable pride and self-consciousness.

"I called the Regimental Sergeant-Majors together and laid the problem before them," he said in an interview with The Canadian Press. "They did just what I wanted them to do. They mapped out a course of training for themselves and proceeded to train each other."

Thus he had all the Regimental Sergeant-Majors going through the same course and when they finished it they went on to provide a course for the squadron Sergeant-majors, and so the methods and instruction the Divisional commander wanted taught percolated down through the division.

Out of that first gathering of Regimental Sergeant-Majors came something new. Usually the R.S.M. is just about the stiffest man in the army as far as adherence to established procedure is concerned. But these men formed a permanent committee and elected a chairman who now is their official spokesman in communications with the divisional commander.

Even Lend Instructors

"All walls were broken down," Gen. Worthington said. "Everybody started working together. The units are helping one another. They lend one another their equipment and their instructors."

That, he believes, is as it should be. It is carrying the esprit de corps of the unit to a higher formation and the general believe it should be carried to the whole army. Every soldier should feel that if another soldier is not up to scratch it reflects on himself as a soldier, instead of being proud that men in his unit are a little better than men in another unit.

Then, he says, they will help the other fellow catch up and become a better soldier.

At the 4th Division's won camp the idea was actually carried beyond the division. Some home defence troops came there for training in anti-aircraft and coast defence batteries. They did not look like soldiers, their discipline was not of the best.

"I told our regimental sergeant-major to find out what was wrong," said the General. "There was nothing wrong with the men except that they had never been taught."

The regimental sergeants-major of the division started instructing the non-commissioned officers of the other troops, to pass on to them their own methods and knowledge. The home defence troops started to show improvement.

Hit 3 Sweepers

LONDON, July 10.—(CP).—British light coastal craft sank two Axis minesweepers and damaged three others in a clash with a superior enemy force last night, the Admiralty announced to-day.

The announcement reported that the engagement was fought at point blank range of fthe German-occupied coast of the continent, where two small British patrol vessels tackled six Nazi minesweepers.

"Both our vessels have returned to harbor without having suffered any casualties,' the Admiralty declared.

Saboteurs' Aides May Face Treason Charges

By JAMES J. STREBIG

WASHINGTON, July 11 — (AP). —Having opened a crack in the curtain of secrecy surrounding the military trial of eight Nazis accused of coming to the United States by submarine to sabotage industry, office of war information officials sought to-day to expand the information available to the public by releasing two bulletins daily.

The first break in the barrier against publicity which was raised in the interest of national security came yesterday with the issuance of two brief statements by Maj.-Gen Frank McCoy, president of the trial commission.

The information was limited to a disclosure that the proceeding began Wednesday with disposal of some "preliminary procedural motions"; that seven witnesses testified during the first two days, and that all participants were sworn to secrecy.

It took a determined effort by Elmer Davis, recently-appointed O.W.I. director, and a conference among President Roosevtlt, War Secretary Henry Stimson and Davis is to wrench that much loose.

An official who may have been familiar with prosecution plans prior to the trial, but who declined to permit use of his name, intimated that no more than a score of witnesses will be called, and that, at the present rate, the government might complete its case by Saturday night.

Meanwhile, J. Edgar Hoover, Federal Bureau of Investigation director, gave a strong implication that persons who aided the men after they arrived in this country might be tried on treason charges.

In a radio address last night, Hoover declared that "those who gave them (the eight Nazis) aid were traitors. Treason shall not be profitable." Some persons who aided the eight men have already been arrested, but no offcial statement of their number or identity has been made.

Recover Fliers' Bodies

MONTREAL, July 10.—(CP). — All three bodies of the crew of a Royal Air Force ferry command bomber, which crashed in nearby Lake St. Louis Sunday, now have been recovered, it was announced to-day.

The body of Lac. Clement Llewellyn of Pen-T-Craig, Glamorgan, Wales, was located yesterday while the bodies of Sqdn. Ldr. "Pat" Christie, 25, Montreal, and Wing Cmdr. Brian Carr-Haris 39, Toronto, were found today at the same spot about 100 feet from the wreckage of the plane.

A coroner returned a verdict of 'accidental death' in all three cases.

A Teaser Of Beer

ALEXANDRIA Egypt, July 10 — (Delayed)—(AP). — British Navy fliers, operating over the Egyptian Desert, teased the sun-parched Germans to-day by dropping 12 cans of beer behind the Nazi lines with the following sardonic note addressed to Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel: "We thought you might be thirsty."

66 p.c. Of All Auto Machinery Now On War Jobs

DETROIT, July 11—(AP). — The United States automobile industry at war already is "operating in what might be termed an industrial substratosphere," Alvan Macauley, president of the Automotive Council for War Production, told the first annual meeting of the council here today.

Declaring that the industry is technically equipped to move into even greater heights, Macauley said:

"The real problems that will close around us and imperil attainment of the utmost output are those of supply. This industry unquestionably faces difficulties in finding the necessary manpower. Greater still is the question of raw materials."

The council reported reservations for approximately 1,000 officials of automotive companies throughout the country for the one-day meeting to discuss war production problems and the progress made in the seven months since the United States entered the war.

Reviewing the industry's progress since Dec. 7, 1941, Macauley said the first step was to "throw away the competitive habits of mind" and "attack our work co-operatively."

Telling of the listing of all machines in all automotive plants, he said:

"In the first six months almost 250,000 were thus listed in 442 plants of 259 companies. Of these, 66 per cent. now are fully at work on production for victory, about five per cent. are allocated to pending war contracts, and seven per cent. are working on replacement parts. The remainder—22 per cent.— are available for sale or lease, or for production in their present location.

"In less than five hours recently, this service supplied seven major sources capable of executing a navy job requiring a total of 75,000 man-hours. For a Massachusetts company's idle screw machines, the service found work for months to come in the crowded war plant of a former producer of spark plugs."

Fire In Her Bed Fatal To Woman

TORONTO, July 11 — (CP). — Mrs. Irene McLean, wife of Harry Falconer McLean, president of the Dominion Construction Company, was burned to death today when fire broke out in her apartment.

According to police, fire broke out in Mrs. McLead's bed. She was carried to a hallway by J. W. Burch, janitor of the building, who heard her cries for help, but died before medical aid arrived.

Mr. McLean, in charge of a construction project at Digby, N.S., was notfied of the tragedy and is flying to Toronto.

xMrs. McLean was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of Montreal. She was married to Mr. McLean in 1917.

Police said they believed a lighted cigaret butt started the fire.

Coral Sea, Midway Wins Nimitz D.F.M.

A U.S. WEST COAST PORT, July 11 (AP).—The United States Navy announced today the Distinguished Service Medal had been conferred upon Admiral Chester Nimitz, Commander in Chief of the United States Pacific Fleet.

Nimitz was decorated by Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander in Chief of the United States Fleet, aboard a United States warship.

The award was conferred for exceptionally meritorious service since the outbreak of the war with Japan, particularly in connection with the battles of the Coral Sea and Midway Island. United States Naval forces dealt heavy blows to Nipponese sea power in both those encounters.

In a one-minute speech of acceptance, Admiral Nimitz said the achievements behind the award were due to "the devoted service of the men under my command—the task force commanders, the junior officers and the rank and file—a loyal and devoted crew."

Charge Chain Stores

MONTREAL, July 10 — (CP). — Three Montreal chain stores — Steinberg Groceteria Ltd., Dominion Stores Ltd., and Stop and Shop Stores—were charged here today with selling meat at prices in excess of the prices prevailing at the basic period set by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The firms entered pleas of not guilty before udge Rene Theberge, and July 15 and 17 were set as the dates for trial.

Belgian Ship Lost

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)— The Navy Department announced to-day that a medium-sized Belgian merchant vessel had been torpedoed in the Caribbean and survivors were landed at a Gulf Coast port in the United States.

Women Doctors Needed In Army

OTTAWA, July 10 — (CP). — Qualified women physicians are being taken into the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps on the same basis as men, Brig. R. M. Gorssline, director-general of medi services, to' The Canadian Pr s today.

"They will be utilized wherever possible to replace men of the younger age groups," said Brig. Gorssline.

YOUNG GIRL MAKES FOGHORN TALK

When people ask Miss Adelaide Gerwig, a slim, attractive 21-year-old Chicago brunette, what she does for a living she smiles brightly and replies, "I'm an articulator. I articulate." Miss Gerwig discovered last September that she was a natural for the job.

Pressing two delicate plastic electrical gadgets against her throat, then silently forming words with her lips, she found that she could make inanimate things speak really understandable English. For example, she could make a locomotive say "I think I can, I think I can," just as that talking locomotive in "Dumbo" had said it.

"I was simply dying to get started," she says now, "but my chance didn't come until January 6th when Lever Brothers decided to have a foghorn say 'B.O.' on one of their programmes."

VOL. LXXXVI, No. 9 — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1942

MAIN STREET TOPICS

LIKE "THE BEAN STALK"

Alvin Drain, R.R. 2, Lakefield, has sweet clover on his Dummer farm measuring 8 feet, 8 inches, more evidence of the grass growth this season.

SMALL FIRE

The Fire Department received a call from H. Rutter, 508 Elm street, at 4:47 Friday afternoon, when overheated pipes set fire to a partition in a shed at the back of the house. The estimated damage is about $30.

BAND CONCERT

By permission of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park, V.D., the Band of the Prince of Wales Rangers will be heard in a concert on Sunday night in the East City Bowl with a program featuring several new popular numbers.

A NOTABLE RECORD

Of the 126 boys who have registered as members of the Friday Night Supper Club 90 have already joined the armed services with 54 in the Royal Air Force. Surely a notable record for any young man's club.

NOT SANITARY

A citizen asked the Examiner to say that the practice of dropping paper handkerchiefs along the streets "is a filthy practice that may spread disease. "People should take these modern handkerchief home and burn them. At any rate they should not be tossed in the street. There ought to be a law against it."

GRADUATING TO-DAY.

Cadet Cyril (Cy) E. C. Whatley, well-known athlete of Peterborough and son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Whatley, 218 Westcott Street, is getting his officer's certificate as a 2nd Lieutenant at Brockville Officers' Training Centre to-day. Cadet F. Gerard Black a popular and well-known figure in Campbellford, is also getting his officer's certificate

COMMUNITY GARDENS

Relief Officer Metheral says a group of citizens have been making a good job of the community gardens this season. All but two of the lots were put to use, and the crop has reached the pea and carrot stage. A few of the folks who started out busily enough found that they could get around with the hoe only at the week-ends. In the meantime weeds were racing the potatoes and actually got a start. With the exceptions, which may yet be released, the gardens are flourishing.

HEARD IN PENNSYLVANIA

Radio station CHEX is being heard far afield, according to a letter received by Jack Davidson, manager. Richard H. Cooper, Kittanning, Penn., a member of the National Radio Club, wrote July 6 saying that he had gotten remarkably good reception from CHEX and had heard the programs "Music and Moonlight" and "You Can't Do Business With Hitler." He stated that at times there was heavy interference, but that on the whole reception was clear. This station has been heard as far east as Halifax.

NICE PEOPLE

Mayor Hamilton did not tell the council, nor the Examiner but the information transpires that the sting of anonymous letters about Wartime Housing and the Hatton property chiefly prompted his protest at the council meeting Monday night. You know how full of courage and goodwill are the writers of that sort of sneaking missive. The authors obviously do not "reside below the tracks", of dear no; nor at Auburn, or around the centre of the city. The Examiner's informant says that neighbors from the "fawctory" district would have been really edified if they had seen these letters.

THREE GRADUATE.

In the list of graduates at the Jarvis Bombing and Gunnery S hool this week are three district fliers. George R. D. Hall and C. P. McWilliams of Peterborough and H. H. Armstrong of Millbrook, Ontario.

RATION BOOK FOUND.

Police have in their possession a ration book commercial No. 13232-C which was found and turned in. The owner, who probably needs this book pretty bad, may secure it by applying at the police station.

A NASTY SPILL.

Ross Forsythe, a youngster who lives at 403½ London street, rereceived a nasty cut over the right eye on Thursday afternoon when he fell off a swing at Jackson Park, and struck his face on a stone. He was taken to the Clinic where the wound was treated. His eye was not injured.

GETS DISCHARGE.

Pte. James Schweier, 130 Stewart street, who has been serving with the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, has been dis harged with a low medical category. He has been in the Canadian Army for 15 months, and his low rating was brought about by an accident at one of the advanced training centres on the coast.

THE WRONG MAN.

A few adys ago, a husky young fellow from Elmhirst's summer resort at Keene, came into the Examiner office with a 25 pound muskie. He stated that Albert E. Loyal of Detroit, had made the catch, but now we learn from Mr. Loyal, that it was his partner, A. W. Grimm, of Youngstown, Ohio, who hooked the big fish. Loyal was in the boat at the time.

CITY HALL MEETINGS

Meetings at the city hall next week include the Board of Health, Tuesday, July 14 at 7.30 p.m. and Parks Committee, Tuesday at 3 p.m. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the proposal for improvements to Nicholls Oval to encourage more frequent and general use of the park by the citizens.

REJECTED GARDEN

Citizens ought to know about the "champ" of the relief list. During the long lean years he hiked it to the relief office for the dole, and the war years brought only a temporary absence. Then he tried to get back again. This year he refused to plant a garden. One doctor says he is not fit to work, another said he could not find anything wrong, and a third doctor was dubious. It is a long and a drab story, but although additions to the family keep coming with drythmic regularity this gentleman is not getting relief.

Frankford Man Is Jailed For 25 Days

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11. — (ENS). — Pleading guilty on two counts, one of having liquor in an illegal place, the other of causing a disturbance, earned John Howard of Frankford 25 days in jail. He was found guilty on both charges by Magistrate R. B. Baxter, who assessed him $10.00 and costs, for each offence. Howard, who had already served ten days of the sentence, decided to serve the remainder of the term instead of paying the fine.

Robert Returns

PORT STANLEY, Ont., July 11.—(CP).—Robert, the missing Macaw, is back on his perch at Fred Jones' garage here with no more damage than 'feathers and disposition ruffled.' The aircraftsman who took Robert in a spirit of 'foolish bravado' is raving his wings clipped by the R.C.A.F.

No Breach Of Law

WINNIPEG, July 11 — (CP). — Tea cup reading as practised in Winnipeg is no infraction of the Criminal Code, the Police Commission has ruled. The ruling was in answer to a complaint by George Cormack, Regional Foods Administrator, who protested the amount of tea consumed in tea cup reading.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC

Open For Inspection to the Citizens of Peterborough

Tuesday, July 14th, Afternoon, from 2 to 6 o'clock.

Tuesday, July 14th, evening, from 7 to 10 o'clock.

The local Branch of the Red Cross Society cordially invites you to visit the Blood Donor Clinic, fully staffed, during the above periods on Tuesday next and see what provision is made for the comfort of the blood donor who is giving his blood for overseas.

All departments will be open for inspection.

There will be facilities for any one to register as a blood donor.

Peterborough Branch Red Cross Society.

MRS. R. H. TURNER, President.

MRS. H. R. H. KENNER, Secretary.

Blood Clinic Requires 2,000 Donors

The urgent necessity for donors for the Blood Clinic was impressed upon representatives of district branches of the Red Cross, as they heard Mrs. Charles Ray, secretary, explain that with the quota of 100 donors a week to be met, 2,000 donors were needed, and that they hoped to get 1,000 from Peterborough, and 1,000 from the outlying districts. Both Mrs. Ray and Dr. C. Waite gave these visitors a clear outline of the work that is to be carried on here, they they met Friday.

The Department of National Defence asked the Red Cross to supply the clinic and the donors and stated they would supply the facilities for drying blood, Mrs. Ray said. During the bombing of the British Isles, the serum was proved to be invaluable, and if the boys go into action they must have this ready. At the present time stocks in the Old Land are very low, and it is reported that in the British Navy there is practically none at all.

"We can't all go overseas," she continued, but there is a job we can do on the home front. Men between the ages of 18 and 55 are being asked to give a transfusion once every three months, and that is little enough to do in comparison with the sacrifices others are making for us."

In the matter of organization, as in any other war work, the presonal touch is considered very important, members were told. As for transportation, since the Peterborough group is under considerable expense with the clinic, it is thought it might be well to have each branch of Red Cross make as their wartime project, the bringing up and taking back of donors. There is nothing they could do that would be more beneficial.

No Financial Loss

To date ,there have been two industries in the city canvassed and they have offered donors and promised that they will not lose financially for the time that the men take from their work. The Red Cross is trying to co-operate with the factories by letting them send donors as they please, and in this way the men are picked so as not to interfere with the war work and hold up production. A record of the blood types of out-of-town donors will be sent back so that perhaps at some time it will prove to be of use to the doctors of the community.

Dr. C. B. Waite, along with three other doctors, who have been given the undivided support of the Associated Medical Service have been visiting clinics in other cities and getting advice. In his talk, he told something of the system that is being used for the medical end of this work.

"In the last war, transfusions were used to a certain extent but they were cumbersome and the results often uncertain. We have more knowledge of them now. During the Spanish War blood transfusions were given on a large scale, but there must be a large supply of donors or a blood bank available. A blood bank is when blood is taken from a large number of people, typed, marked and stored in the refrigerator until needed. This is good, but it has its disadvantages in war time because the difficulty and delay in typing it makes it to slow."

Will Keep Indefinitely

There are only four groups of types of red blood cells and the blood group is a personal characteristic, so that the blood of one person will not always mix with that of another group. The blood bank if cold can be used for ten days or in some cases even for three weeks, and it is transportable, Dr. Waite explained. Dr. Charles Best of Toronto, an associate of the late Sir Frederick Banting, has done a lot of work on the drying fluid process of the blood, where the fliud is removed from the cells and frozen and then reduced to a powder. This will keep indefnitely without refrigeration. When it is needed, all that has to be done is to add a little sterile distilled water to make it up to the regular value. In this no typing is necessary.

"Shock is a very serious thing, and now men can be attended almost on the field of battle. In the Spanish Civil War it was proven that the earlier the transfusion was given, the more recoveries there were."

Watch Breakfast

Dr. Waite was very emphatic on one point; namely, that of the meal eaten before the transfusion. Things like butter, cream and milk must be avoided because they are fats and they cloud the blood so that within an hour it will interfere with the drying of the blood. For breakfast have mostly starches, he said, such as toast or marmalade or tea without milk and sugar and there will be absolutely no ill effects.

His Honor, Judge Sheldon Smoke, was chairman for the evening, and he paid high tribute to members of the Red Cross and particularly Mrs. Ray, for the wondeful job they have being doing. They started with a large garage and now they have a completely equipped clinic for which the local Red Cross branch has shouldered the financial responsibility ,to be later reimbursed in part by the Government, Judge Smoke said.

Mrs. R. Turner, head of the local branch of the Red Cross, gave a warm welcome to the representatives from Port Hope, Norwood, Millbrook, Lindsay, Bailieboro, Keene, Young's Point and Peterborough, who were there to get the details for their respective organizations so that they can decide just how far they are willing to co-operate. After the speakers were finished ,the delegates were taken over to the new Clinic to look around, and were served refreshments.

Noted Whistler To Give Radio Program

An opportunity to hear a noted artist who is one of the finest in his own sphere of entertainment has presented itself through the offer of Ernest Nickel, internationally celebrated concert whistler who is holidaying near Buckhorn, who will give a program over Radio Station CHEX next Wednesday from 9.05 to 9.45 p.m. on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

In moving picture films, Mr. Nickel has appeared in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" among many others of which the latest release was "Bambi" in the early part of this year. He has appeared in 38 different short pictures, a notable one of which is named "Birds in Springtime". In the field of radio he has appeared on programs with Grace Moore, Bing Crosby, Fred Allen, Major Bowes, Kate Smith and Eddie Cantor. Mr. Nickel has performed in almost every country having appeared with symphony orchestra's in New York, Boston, Vienna, Chicago, London, Philadelphia, and with the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra, besides appearing on programs with Fritz Kreisler, Madame Schuman Heink, and was a protege of Carrie Jacobs Bond.

This rare opportunity has presented itself through the wish of Mr. Nickel to contribute towards our war effort through endeavouring to help the people of Britain through the local and district fund for that purpose, something which he has done on a number of previous occasions on behalf of other similar worthy causes which have benefitted in a very material way by substantial amounts.

The secretary of the fund will be on hand to receive donations by telephone or they may be sent by mail to the Examiner Office, and all will be acknowledged in the lists for the fund as published day by day. Further information in this regard will be given prior to the event, and an opportunity afforded residents to leave their donations in a central point in their own district if they so desire.

Lovely Flowers Help

Nothing perhaps carries a brighter and better message of cheer to those afflicted than does the lovely creations of an ever kind and unseen hand, Who has made beautiful flowers, symbol of a life to come with a better world for all mankind.

Jack Smith of 150 Benson avenue, has a beautiful grden, and while these could in no way be sent to comfort the stricken people in Britain who have been afflicted through air raids on that country, yet they have been made the means of carrying a message of cheer to them, by his making the sight of his garden available to the general public, who gave a silver collection to carry comfort to them in their time of need. This in all amounted to $20.26, and then in connection with this event a personal donor added a donation of $5.00 under the name of "A Lover of Flowers" which might really be credited to the previous sum for it was inspired by Mr. Smith's act in making his lovely garden the means of raising money to help the fund along. This was staged under the auspieces of the Peterborough Horticultural Society of which Mr. Smith is a long standing member.

Not so long ago, the Silver-Moon Grill opened its doors for business, giving the whole of the gross proceeds of its first days business to help along the war effort by dividing this between the local Community Red Cross fund and this fund. Shortly after that a penny box was placed there in the interests of the fund, and today there is listed $2.60 in their name, the result of a collection made from the box on Friday.

A Susanna Moodie Letter Of 1836, Written From Lakefield Home, Treasure Of Rochester Engineer

A letter written on August 12, 1836, by Susanna Moodie at her home in Douro township, about a mile north of Lakefield, was shown to the Examiner today by Morley B. Turpin of Rochester guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Robinson, 627 Weller street.

Time in its century and six years has dealt kindly with this vestigial fragment of the correspondence of one of the most courageous and distinguished pioneer women of this country, whose memoirs as a young wife in "Roughing It In the Bush" have left to posterity illumnating glimpses of family life when the first settlers of Ontario were literally clearing the virgin forest to make homes for themselves and their families and to found a young nation whose beginning, after all, seems not so long ago.

It may be assuming too much that readers generally know the story of the Strickland sisters and their manored background at "Reydon Hall" in England. This is really Mr. Turpin's story, especially the interesting circumstances by which he became a devotee of the famous sisters. However, just a few flashbacks to Mrs. Susanna Moodie and her sister, Mrs. Catherine Parr Traill, both of whom came to Canada, leaving at home two equally gifted sisters, Agnes and Elizabeth Strickland.

Agnes Strickland's "History of the Queens of England" is a classic in its field. The femininity of the Strickland family was notably endowed with literary talent, and it seems almost providential that two of the pioneers of the early thirties, one hundred and ten years ago were so eloquently and fervently vocal and expressive that in spite of the obstacles of rude and meage home equipment they found the inspiration and something of the deep joy of life, an overplus of spirit and intellect, that sought and found satisfaction in authorship.

Mrs. Moodie arrived in Canada in 1832 lived for a time at Port Hope, and then with her husband struck back through the woods the frontier hamlet that was Peterborough, to the place north of Lakefield known in these days as the Down property on Highway 28.

To return to Morley B. Turpin, retired municipal engineer. He was assistant city engineer in Rochester for thiry-eight years.

A Vacation Enquiry

"One time I was back at South Beach quite a while ago," Mr. Turpin recalled today. "It was over here on a holiday. I asked a Mr. Brooks something about the people who used to live around that part of the county and he told me about the book "Roughing It In The Bush" and Mrs. Moodie, who wrote it, and advised me to get a copy and read it on my holiday.

Mr. Brooks sent me over to the rector of the little church at Young's Point (St. Aidan's). He was pitching hay, and he had lent his copy of the book and he did not know where it was.

When I got back to Rochester I used to think now and then about Mrs. Moodie and her book, and finally I spotted its title in a catalogue from Salt Lake City, Utah.

Owned By Lady Peel

I sent for it at once. It came in two volumes of the original edition published in London, England, in 1852. It had been purchased in the first place by Julia, Lady Peel, wife of Sir Robert Peel. That appealed to me as exceedingly strange; Mrs. Moodie's "Roughing It" reaching Salt Lake City, no doubt after wandering about from the time it left the Peel library. You read in the press some time ago, I suppose, about the death of the son of the present Lady Peel, killed in action as a member of the Royal Air Force, I think."

And so Mr. Turpin became an admirer of Susanna Moodie and undertook his own quest of Moodiana, in addition to his research of the early history of Rochester which has become his avocation in leisure.

Letter To Publisher

The Moodie letter of 1836 from Douro was written in the time before postage stamps had come into use, and envelopes were not invented. Paper, too, was scarcity. This

Man Remanded Drunk Driving

A three car crash on Hunter street, just west of Bethune street late Friday evening had its aftermath in city police court this morning when Edgar H. Young, Hilliard street, was charged with being drunk in charge of a motor vehicle. He was remanded until Monday, at the request of his counsel, W. J. A. Fair, and the police retained possession of the car.

According to the police report, a car owned by Lloyd Young, and driven by Edgar Young with Bert Woodcock, 83 Sophia street, as a passenger was proceeding west on Hunter street when it crashed into the rear of a car parked on the north side of Hunter. This car was owned by Stewart James, 264 Hunter street, and was in front of the latter's residence. The impact drove James' car forward and it banged into another parked car, owned by J. P. McCarthy, also of 264 Hunter street. Both parked cars were extensively damaged, and the Young car was also smashed up. The complaint was investigated by Constables Morrow and Moyes, and Constable Morrow placed Young under arrest and locked him up, after having Dr. J. M. O'Brien attend to a cut over the driver's lip, which required stitches.

Arthur Lefave, charged with vagrancy a week ago, because he had not worked for a month, and according to police had refused to work, was allowed another week's freedom on condition he return to work.

"I have worked steadily for 13 months, but haven't worked during the past month" Lefave stated.

"This man could stay out of trouble and on the job if he would change his companions" Chief Newhall stated.

"You get to work or take six months in jail, Magistrate Gee told him. The Magistrate adjourned the charge until next Saturday until 10 in the morning when disposition of the case will be made depending on the action of Lafave during the week.

2-Man Invasion Ends In Court

LONDON, July 11 (CP)—Eagerness for a fight and a desire to do more for their country led two young British soldiers, Sgt. Peter King, 27, and Pte. Thomas Cuthbertson, 19, to make a private raid on occupied France, they told an Aldershot court martial yesterday.

Members of a non-combatant dental corps unit, they sent Prime Minister Churchill a letter about their project and then set out May 4 in a small motorboat.

After a perilous trip, they landed near Cherbourg about midnight and were scaling a cliff when the Germans heard them.

Searchlights sought them out. They had to flee.

But the fuel in the craft gave out and they were adrift in the Channel without food and with little water for 15 days until a British destroyer picked them up.

Their intention, they said, was "to destroy enemy buildings and lines of communication and obtain useful information."

To prepare for their adventure they hardened themselves by sleeping on beaches and in caves and often going without food.

The court announced a decision would be given later on a charge of absenting themselves without leave and being in improper possession of army revolvers.

A new order, signed by Used Goods Administrator Samuel Godfrey, provides that no person shall purchase any used drum or used barrel 'for the purpose of containing any product manufactured by him or his agent, otherwise than from an autrorized dealer.'

Early Surveys Of Peterboro Are Discussed

Kiwanians heard a most interesting talk on "Early Surveys and Land Surveyors of Peterborough," given by Jack Pierce, which was based on the records that he has gathered together since coming to Peterborough.

The speaker explained that the reason for the selection of the location of Peterborough, when adjoining townships of Monaghan and Smith were surveyed by Sam Wilmott in 1818, was because of the water power in the Otonabee river. The survey was not completed till 1825 when Richard Birdsall laid out what is now the central part of the city along the river.

At this time there was considerable immigration from the British Isles, and one of the noteable events was the arrival of several hundred families from Ireland. This immigration was carried out under the personal direction of the Hon. Peter Robinson, a brother of Chief Justice Robinson, of the government of Upper Canada, which a few years later was referred to as the "Family Compact." Large numbers of these immigrants were here for several months before they could be located and it is recorded that Peter Robinson supervised the location and maintenance of these people until they got on their feet, Mr. Pierce continued. Out of gratitude for his kindness, when a new name was needed for the growing centre of "Scott's Plains," the inhabitants chose Peterborough in his honor.

Touching lightly on some of the more prominent surveyors, he told of Jim Huston, surveyor under the direction of Peter Robinson, who located immigrants on the land in nearby Emily and Ennismore townships. In 1833 he was engaged in a survey in the town plot of Lindsay, when he received instructions to lay out the balance of the town plot of Peterborough. Several letters, written by Robinson to Huston, were read, and an original, dated 1825, was in remarkably good shape.

Then passing on, he told of the two families, Reid and Stewart, who arrived from Belfast, Ireland, in 1822, and who occupied a pominent place in the community. Street of the city were named after them in recognition of their work. Sandford Fleming, the father of Standard Time, who played an important part in community life, was touched on and also the work of R. B. Rogers.

"Rogers was the Dominion Land Surveyor and was the first superintendent of the Trent Canal. It was his idea to have a hydraulic lift lock system, and as there were only three in operation at the time, in Belgium, France and England, he was sent to investigate. As a result of his report the present lift lock at Peterborough and Kirkfield were deigned and erected. Another member of the same family founded the Peterborough Canoe Company."

The speaker was introduced by Jack Lewis and the vote of thanks was extended on behalf of the Club by John Bradshaw.

The right hand of fellowship was extended by L. J. Pettit to Stan Northrop, a new Kiwanian, as he instructed him in a few of the privileges that are open to a member, and wished him joy in his new work.

IN MEMORIAM

WARD. — In loving memory of Emma Burns, wife of Alfred Ward, who passed away 13 years ago, on July 11, 1929.

A silent thought, a secret tear,
Makes her presence ever near.
Time wears away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.

—Sadly missed by Husband and children, Willard and Muriel (Mrs. Mongraw).

McCALL.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Marietta McCall, who died July 11, 1941.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will
But in our heart she liveth still.
A faithful wife and mother, one of the best,
May God grant her eternal rest.
Good was her heart, her friendship sound,
Loved and respected all around.
To a busy life came a sudden end,
She died as she lived—everyone's friend.

—Ever remembered by children, Viola, Kay, ake and Zetta.

McCALL.—In loving memory of a dear wife, Marietta McCall, who died July 11, 1941.

Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand;
Your dear, kind face to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.

—Ever remembered by husband, Wilbert.

NORTHEY.—In loving memory of wife and mother, Mrs. Sam. Northey, who passed away July 11, 1939.

Three years have passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in my heart she liveth still.

—Missed by Husband and Family.

of the hospitals for sterilization in their regular machines. Every precaution has been taken so there need be no worry on that score.

Processed In Toronto

As soon as the blood has been brought out by the floating nurse, it is passed through into the room where trained women type it and from there it is sent into the "clot room." It is broken into clots because more serum will be gotten that way. That is as far as the handling goes at this end of the line. The Red Cross looks after getting the blood, and shipping it to England, but the government has arranged for the blood to be made into serum at the Connaught laboratories in Toronto. The blood is sent in the bottles in big cartons, the same day it is taken, and the process is completed in Toronto and the dry powder is put in cans ready for shipment to England.

It was explained that the donor will feel very little discomfort. His arm will receive the usual alcohol swab and then he will be given a local anestetic. The amount of blood taken is officially 420 cc per person, but actually it depends on the individual reaction. As soon as the required amount has been taken, the donor rests for a few minutes, has his refreshments and then leaves. The transfusions are not made any oftener than once every three months.

Workers at the Clinic paid high tribute to the members of the Medical service who have given unfailing co-operation, and to the salvage committee, who furnished the office and doctor's examination room complete at a cost of $200.

It is estimated that the blood of five donors is required for the treatment of one wounded person. During 1941, 36,306 Canadians donated their blood, but the number must be higher this year because Britain needs 50,000 pints of blood and she hopes to get it from this country.

At the present time only male donors are needed and this is an opportunity to save the life of someone who is over there doing the job for the people over here. This is one of the modern miracles of opportunity to contribute.

letter is clearly legible and unfaded. It looks as if it might have been written ten years ago; and the paper was folded into the size of an ordinary envelope of today's postal use, address on one side, and the folds at the back were bound together with wax, imprinted with the Strickland seal.

So Mr. Turpin continues his story with the enthusiasm of the confirmed devotee.

"Mrs. Moodie wrote this letter to Sumner Lincoln Fairfield, 59 Pine street, Philadelphia. I shan't read it all, but it seems Mrs. Moodie was contributing to a magazine Mr. Fairfield was publishing. She writes in this letter that she did not have enough money to pay the postage on her next manuscript, and he answered that he would pay it for her, and so she was forwarding it.

This part may interest people who like myself know something about Susanna Moodie..."You have doubtless heard of Thomas Pringle, late editor of "Friendship's Offering," and secretary of the Anti-Slavery Society, a man much loved and respected by all who enjoyed the privilege of his friendship.

A most dear friend he was to me, and deeply have I lamented his untimely death. His widow, a very excellent woman, is now in this country to which her family immigrated some years ago. The poor thing is in ill health and struggling to live respectably on a very limited income. She has a very valuable collection of autographs to dispose of, consisting of most celebrated English authors of the last century.

Should you know any person curious in those matter who would wish to become a purchaser, information on the subject would be thankfully transmitted to you by Mrs. Pringle of her friends...

Mr. Moodie unites with me in kind regard to yourself and family, and with best wishes that the magazine may increase your worldly prosperity and literary fame, I remain, Dear Sir, Yours most truly, Susanna Moodie."

Mr. Turpin said that he had every edition of "Roughing It In The Bush" beginning with the very first, published in 1852.

Son Of A Strickland

He also showed the Examiner a press photograph of George H. Harris, once superintedent of the Little Lake Cemetery in Peterborough.

"Mr. Harris died in Rochester in October, 1893. His mother was Fidelia Strickland, who came to Rochester in 1820, and I am trying to find out whether she is one of the Moodie-Traill Stricklands. In 1872 Mr Harris married Julia E Hughes, daughter of Dr Jesse Hughes of Pittsford, N.Y., and took his bride to Peterborough, where he had just received the appoinmtent of superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery. Then he went to Elmwood Cemetery, Detroit, and finally became superintendent of Mount Hope Cemetery in Rochester.

It seems to me that this coming to Peterborough might have been in some way associated with his mother's name of Strickland. However I have nothing definite about that as yet.

A U.E. Loyalist

An American citizen, Mr. Turpin is a member of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Toronto, he told a reporter. Circumstance largely the seeming conflict of those two loyalties.

"My mother was born in Kingston. Louise Bebee, daughter of Mary Magdalen Groomes who was a daughter of Elijah Groomes, who settled in Kingston in 1783. He was a British loyalist who left New Jersey to come to Canada after the American Revolution. However, the Bebees moved to Rochester in 1817, and our family has lived there ever since. My father was William Turpin. He was born in England, and came to Rochester. And so he met my mother."

Vitamins Lost in Improper Cooking

Throwing Beauty Down the Drain

Good-by vitamins!

Down the drain they go, carrying away all their precious health and beauty elements—A for resistance, B for pep, C for strong teeth, D for body tone, G for digestion.

Often people whose menus really have enough vitamins lose them in cooking. They put too much water on vegetables, cook them too long and then throw the liquids away. Or they may add soda (enemy of vitamins) to keep the green color, which can be retained if the food is cooked in an open kettle.

To get all your vitamins, use only little water in cooking and then save that water for soups, sauces and gravies. Don't stir air into foods while cooking or put fruits or vegetables through a sieve when hot.

Excellent sources of Vitamin A are egg yolks, liver, green and yellow vegetables and fruits.

Vitamin B is plentiful in milk, whole wheat and beans, Vitamin C in tomatoes and the cabbage family, Vitamin D in fish liver oils.

Serve vitamin-rich meals to your family! Our 32-page booklet has charts showing which vitamins the various foods contain, suggests inexpensive vitamin-high menus for beauty and health. Tells 10 ways to preserve vitamins in cooking.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

OFFENSE IS ONLY PART

AN ADVANCING army must have plenty of drive forward to gain ground. At the same time, however, it must protect its flanks. In other words, the offense is only part of its work. It is the same with a No Trump declarer. He is seeking to collect nine tricks to score his game. But he must watch out for himself and make sure that the opponents do not collect five tricks before he gets to work on his nine. Hence, he had better have some kind of stopper in the suit the enemy attacks, unless their attack falls short through their suit being of only four cards in length.

North: ♠ K 4 ♥ K J 8 ♦ 9 7 4 3 ♣ 9 7 5 3

West: ♠ 7 2 ♥ Q ♦ A K Q J 10 2 ♣ A 10 8 2

East: ♠ A J 10 8 5 ♥ 10 7 3 2 ♦ 6 ♣ K Q 6

South: ♠ Q 9 6 3 ♥ A 9 6 5 4 ♦ 8 5 ♣ J 4

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 NT	Pass

West did not actually make that last bid of 5-Diamonds. If he had, all would have been very salubrious for his side, as he could hardly have lost more than two tricks, one in hearts and one in spades.

Playing at No Trumps, East was "behind the eight-ball" from the start, and never had a chance. Sitting there all ready and poised to run six tricks in diamonds, four in clubs and a spade, for a total of 11 tricks, he never got his plan of action started until the battle was over.

South naturally led his heart 5, the singleton Q falling to the K, the J coming back, then the 8, so that the A-9 trapped the 10 and enabled South to take a fifth trick with the 6. The rest of the tricks were, of course, East's, but he had already been obliged to discard two winners, and there were only eight tricks left to be taken anyway.

Stoco Produces 28-lb. Muskie

TWEED, July 10—(ENS). — Ross Fetterly, Toronto angler, who has been coming to Tweed for some years, was successful in taking out the first big muskie of the season. The fish weighed twenty-eight pounds and was caught in Stoco Lake near Grant's Island, on the east side of the lake.

Fetterly was casting into the weeds with a jitterbug artificial bait when the muskie took hold. He battled it for half an hour before bringing his quarry into the boat. This is getting to be an old story for the Toronto visitor who has taken many muskies from Stoco Lake in years past.

The first bowling team of the season from Tweed to enter outside competition, Messrs. John Sager and Sam McGee, carried off one of the prizes at the Stirling Scotch doubles tournament on Wednesday, winning one game with the highest score.

US Uses Women Testing Big Guns And Tanks

ABERDEEN, Md., uly 11 (AP).—Women are loading and firing guns—not just rifles and machine guns—but big anti-aircraft guns and powerful howitzers for the United States army.

High ranking army officers let the secret out on an inspection tour of the Aberdeen proving ground where in the last 90 days 300 women have been employed, many replacing men, to test guns, ammunition and tanks.

Take for instance, Mickey Lippert of Oswego, N.Y., 18 and red-headed, with a green bow in her hair, who learned in one day (Army officers said that it usually takes a man a week) to handle a 15-ton crane in a machine shop.

With an, "Oh, I love it!", she gave a demonstration yesterday. She brought the huge crane down the room, its bell clanging a warning, into position to reach down with the big hook and move a heavy gun part.

There were women all over the place. A big movable crane lumbered by—a girl in slacks at the wheel. A large truck "honk-honked" to get by—a woman driver. A workman was doing an adjusting job on a big tank—a woman.

Two 18-year-old girls, not long out of high school, made up with three men the gun crew testing ammunition for a 75-MM. gun. Ultimately the army hopes to do this with crews of four girls and one man.

Frances Ouek, a month ago a New York secretary, lifted the live shell and inserted it. Then Doris Peterson of Wildwood, N.J., employed a week ago, stepped back the correct distance, got the command, and pulled the trigger.

Two grandmothers, Mrs. Ruby Barnett of Delta., Penn., and Mrs. Mabel Cahall of Peach Botton, Penn., made firing a light anti-aircraft gun seem as simple as washing dishes. They fired a round in turn. "Nothing to it," commented Mrs. Bennett.

Claim Bata Urged Synthetic Rubber

Claiming that the late Thomas Bata, former head of the Bata Shoe Company, attempted to get synthetic rubber production started in the United States several years ago, Chairman Sol Bloom of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee, this week contributed a sidelight to the rubber shortage situation.

Several years ago, said Mr. Bloom, the Bata executive came to the United States and said that he knew how to make synthetic rubber.. "They are making it in Germany now," Bloom quoted Bata as saying. "I know how to make it, and synthetic rubber is going to be important. You can make it in this country."

Mr. Bloom said he took Bata to several Federal officials, including, as he recalled, the then Secretary of Commerce, Roper(and they all laughed at the idea of the United States wanting synthetic rubber. Bloom and Bata never succeeded in putting over the idea.

Landlord Must Give Tenant Statement As To Services

TORONTO, July 11. — It is now possible for every person renting any type of accommodation for one month or more to find out the maximum rental and what services are provided by the landlord. This was announced today by Wishart F. Spence, Regional Administration officer.

Under a board order, the landlord must give the tenant a signed statement on a form provided by the rentals administration and known as RC 40 and forward a copy to the nearest regional rentals office within ten days whenever a new lease or a renewal of a lease for any commercial or housing accommodation is made involving a change in tenant, a change in rental, a change in the services or accommodation supplied by the landlord or for premises which have been untenanted for some time.

The form must be filled in whether the lease is written or oral. But it is not required from landlords of boarding or lodging houses where there are three or more guests in addition to the members of the operator's family or by landlords renting for less than one month.

The form lists not only the maximum rental on the basic date but also gives a statement of services which were supplied at that time and those being given under the lease.

In this way the public is given protection against an illegal advance in rent by reason of a cut in the services provided.

"I have been impressed," said Mr. Spence, "with the fact that, although most real estate men are aware of these regulations and take every precaution to comply with them, citizens who are not in the real estate business, yet who make rentals occasionally, either have not informed themselves of the regulations or have carelessly ignored them. This cannot be tolerated and I must state reluctantly that stern measures will be taken when the Administration finds there has been failure to comply with these regulations."

Forms may be obtained from the regional rentals office, 330 Bay street, Toronto, or from the sub-regional office of the Board at 159 Hunter street, Peterborough.

Breach Of Trust Laid To Analyst

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP). — A. Keith Light, chief analyst in the Testing Department of the Department of Public Works, to-day elected jury trial on a charge of breach of trust and was remanded on $1,000 bail by Deputy Magistrate Joachim Sauve. No plea was taken.

Walter F. Schroeder defence counsel, protested in court that after arrest by Royal Canadian Mounted Police Mr. Light was not allowed to communicate with a lawyer and was kept in jail overnight, being denied bail until the following morning.

Mr. Schroeder said the Crown had informed him that during the period April 1 to June 30, 1942, while accused was chief analyst, a sample of powdered soap was tested in the laboratory of the Department of Public Works. The Crown said the test showed the soap did not meet requirements and charged that the report was copied by the accused and altered, so that the soap was brought within the requirements and marked "Passed" by the accused.

There was no suggestion of fraudulent action in the particulars given him and no statement that the act had been committed "wilfully and knowingly," said Mr. Schroeder.

J. P. Madden, Acting Crown Attorney, then inserted the words 'fraudulently and in breach of trust" before the word "altered."

"I am just wondering whether this is not a departmental squabble,' said Mr. Schroeder. "If the R.C.M.P. are going to attack a citizen of this character, they should have more particulars. I submit that this is an abuse of the process of the court. The police say they are still investigating.

"I am going to ask that the Crown be ordered to furnish full particulars of his charge within three days."

Refuse To Change Dance Hall Hours

The Council of the Township of Smith met at the Court House, Peterborough on Monday with all the members present. Reeve Allan B. Mann presided.

A letter was received from Wartime Housing advising that the company does not plan to build any more houses in Smith at the present time.

In connection with the application of the city to the Municipal Board for an order annexing the area north of Wolsley Street and west of Dixon Street, the Council by resolution approved the annexation of Wartime Housing property and gave notice of intention to oppose the annexation of the properties of Mrs. Mary Franks, Miss Susie Best, W. F. Welsh, and O. L. Dalgleish.

C. H. Westlake's survey of lots on Chemong Lake was approved for registration.

A. H. Lewis manager of Chemong Pavilion was present and asked for the privilege of operating an extra hour two nights each week. The township by-law provides that all dance halls in the township close at 12 midnight. On motion no change was made.

Colector J. A. Middleton reported a balance to collect on the 1941 roll of $4,638.53 and collected on 1942 roll to July 1, $14,101.26.

The following accounts were approved for payment:

Road accounts, $1,098.79; Miss Pammett, care of Miss Harris, $22.00; Dr. J. A. Morgan, account, $32.11; Hydro Commission, street lights, $15.16; C. Whitmore, relief accounts $15.92; W. J. Charlton, sheep killed by dogs, $72.00; Peter Nichols, valuating sheep, $5.00; Roger Charlton, killing dog, $5.00.

2 More Sinkings Raise Toll To 351 Ships

By The Associated Press

The sinking of two United Nations vessels, announced Friday by the United States Navy, raised the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of Allied and neutral cargo vessels sunk in Western Atlantic waters since the attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7 to 351.

The Navy reported the torpedoing and sinking of a United States cargo ship off the coast of South America with the loss of 11 members of its 29-man crew, and of a medium-sized Belgian merchant vessel in the Caribbean. These two sinkings raised to 14 the number of Allied vessels reported this week at destroyed.

At a United States gulf coast port, survivors of the Belgian ship—one one man of a crew of 48 was lost—told how a warship, speeding to their rescue, dropped a barrage of depth charges in the vicinity of an Axis submarine, but the U-boat's fate remained in doubt.

They said that loss of life was small because they had just heard an explosion on another merchant vessel plying the Caribbean. The identity and fate of the other vessel and its crew were not learned.

The torpedoing of the United States ship was the 23rd sinking reported in waters off South America since Dec. 7.

At a gulf coast port, survivors said that their ship had been torpedoed by a large Axis sub, apparently powered by a Diesel engine. The sinking occurred early in the morning of May 4.

MORE ABOUT—

House To Sit

ustice Minister St. Laurent.

In the three-hour Friday sitting the House gave third reading to two important bills and passed another through all but third reading.

The War Risk Insurance Bill, which went through all but its final stages Thursday, was given third reading and Labor Minister Mitchell's bill to provide for reinstatement in employment of those who serve in the armed forces was given third erading.

Mr. Mithchell's bill to extend and enlarge vocational training for war and civilian activities was passed by committee of the whole, but stands for third reading later.

The measure for reinstating men in employment after the war places in statutory form an order-in-council which has been in operation since early in the conflict. It developed considerable discussion in committee.

During the discussion on procedure Mr. King was asked by Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata) when Bill 80, the Conscription-enabling bill which was given second reading last Tuesday after a long debate, would be considered in committee.

"Bill 80 will be brought up in due course," Mr. King replied.

Much of the discussion from now on to the end of the session will be in committee of the whole, since the main business left includes the budget resolutions, the conscription measure and the main civilian estimates.

Friday's discussion on the Government measures was largely a series of questions and answers on their details, which had already been studied at length in special committees.

The measure for providing reinstatement in employment was extended to cover those serving in the armed forces, merchant marine and overseas fire-fighting forces, but does not cover those in essential war industries.

It was considered at length by a special committee and was subject of extended debate when first introduced in the House early in the session.

Berliners Try To Hide Their City

Pointing up their war jitters, Berliners are camouflaging important buildings, streets and landmarks of their city in case the R.A.F.'s next big scale raid—or its next, or the one after that—is aimed at the German capital. Here is Exposition Hall on the Kaiserdam, a principal Berlin street, with camouflage nets of varying colors draped over the building to give the impression of rolling hills to anyone looking from above.

Householders Will Be Visited By A.R.P. Wardens During Week

Commencing next week air raid wardens will make a visit to every house, apartment, office building, store and factory in the city of Peterborough and parts of North Monaghan, Smith, Douro and Otonabee townships. This formidable task which is being undertaken so that householders will be left a card giving instructions as to (a) where the nearest A.R.P. post is located; (b) the warning signals for Peterborough; (c) what to do in an air raid or blackout; (d) how to deal with incendiary bombs; (e) suggested equipment for a refuge room, etc. ,and (f) how to protect yourself against gas.

Both women and men compose the 450 wardens who will also undertake to get some simple information for the protection of the residents, on another card for A.R.P. purposes. This card will contain the name and address of the householder, the number of persons living in the house, the number of invalids or aged persons and the number of children five years of age or under.

In some municipalities, more elaborate information has been obtained by the wardens, but it is felt that the above information will be of assistance in protecting this area from enemy air raid damage and are giving up their evenings and spare time, to make these visits in the sections of the area in which their are posted for duty.

The wardens visiting the householders, etc., will be equipped with an arm band and an identification card and will endeavor to give any advice relative to A.R.P. work which is not contained on the householder's card.

Householders are requested to study the card which is left with them, and to hang it up in a conspicuous place in their homes, preferably the hall, and if they move to another residence the card should be left. Householders changing their residence are requested to get in touch with the wardens in the new section to which they move.

The card which contains the latest information regarding protection against enemy air action has been compiled from the best data available and is being issued by the local Civilian Defence Committee (A.R.P.). Any information which may be given to the wardens regarding number living in the house, invalids, aged persons and children is only used for the protection of householders in case of evacuation or damage done to their residence during an air raid, and is used by the section warden only for this purpose.

Mayor Hamilton as chairman of the local committee, and Lt.-Col. M. Sloan as chief warden, bespeak the hearty co-operation of all householders in this task which the wardens have undertaken and hope that the residents of this area will as far as possible carry out the instruction contained in this card, for the protection not only of themselves and their homes and families but also those of their neighbors.

Presentations Feature Of W.C.T.U. Meeting

FAIRVIEW, July 11 — (ENS).—The Smith W.C.T.U. held a meeting at the new home of Mrs. Walter Heard on Wednesday afternoon, with a splendid attendance of 22 ladies.

The president, Mrs. Gordon Mann, presided for a short program. Readings were given by Mrs. Allan B. Mann, Mrs. Fred Bell and Miss Jean Fowler. Mrs. Joseph R. Mann and Miss Mary Milburn both sang. A splendid report of the W.C.T.U. convention held recently at Plainville was given by Mrs. Austin Poast. Mrs. Bruce Heard and Mrs. Henry Sharpe each contributed lovely guitar solos.

A very pleasing feature on the program was a presentation made to two recent brides, Mrs. Bruce Heard and Mrs. Henry Sharpe. Mrs. Elmer Milburn read an address, expressing appreciation for the many times they had helped in the meetings with their music, also expressing the joy of having both brides making their homes in the community. Mrs. Gordon Mann presented each with a beautiful flower vase in Indian ware. Both expressed their sincere appreciation.

desert fighting and over Malta, British Mediterranean base, 13 British aircraft are missing.

The renewal of fighting came after 10 days of comparative quiet and there are many indications the fate of Egypt is in the balance, with each army seeking to strike a mortal blow.

The action started a few hours after Field Marshal Er in Rommel shortened and repormed his lines by withdrawing his right wing farther northward toward the Mediterranean under pressure of British mobile units.

Although British and United States bombers have whittled unceasingly at Rommel's transport and rear communication lines in the last week, the size of his concentrations in the front area and in the immediate rear indicated the fightin, probably would be bitter and prolonged.

That the German commander has fresh supplies is a certainty, for British reports have told of Axis convoys moving across the Mediterranean toward Libya. Some of these supply ships have been sunk by British submarines and others have been attacked from the air.

Most of the British activity in the past week has been pointed toward reinforcing and supplying its own forces in the desert and cutting off supplies destined for the Axis army. Yesterday British fighter-bombers came upon a concentration of some 2,000 Axis vehicles in the desert and knocked out 400 or 500 of them. Fifty-five more vehicles were reported destroyed in another R.A.F. action.

BOYS IN GROUND CREW

MILLBROOK

Quilting Party Held On Lawn Of Mrs. Rowland

MILLBROOK, July 11—(ENS).—A quilting party, under the trees on the nicely-shaded lawn of Mrs. John Rowland's home, preceded the regular July meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church, on Wednesday, at 3 p.m. Group A, Mrs. Irwin Hatherly convener, having charge of the program.

Adjournment was made to the house for the meeting, the special theme for study being China, and the leader announcing that the regular topic, "The Cause for Total Abstinence" would be taken up later when a speaker could be secured.

Mrs. W. R. Howard, leader of the Mission Band, sent thanks for supplies of World Friends for the boys and girls, and Mrs. F. J. Smith gave the Christian Stewardship message, after which Mrs. A. L. Sisco took up the study book; "The Tide Turns" being the chapter heading. Previous to her talk Mrs. Sisco urged much prayer for China, now in her sixth year of war with Japan, "carrying on still with a courage and determination that is most commendable."

"The war is a factor that has united all China as nothing else could have done; and she has built 70,000 miles of modern highway; established new industries, and done many other things that she found impossible in times of peace. The missionaries have urged keeping hate out of her dealings with the Japanese, and the co-operative movement is growing all over the country."

Nab 14 Aides Of Nazi Saboteurs

Six Women In Group; Sheltered Wreckers On Landing

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP)—Arrest of 14 alleged associates of the eight Nazis standing trial for their lives before a military commission was announced today by Attorney General Francis Biddle.

Biddle said that the group included six women and that the 14 persons were the "immediate contacts" of the German agents who landed on Lond Island and Florida coasts from German submarines last month.

At the same time, Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said that the arrests had been made in Chicago and New York during the last three weeks and that the investigation of their activities, and of other possible contacts, still under way.

Those announced as in custody were: Helmut Leiner, Astoria, Long Island, N.Y.; Anthony Cramer, New York; Miss Hedwig Engemann, New York; Hermann Heinrich Faje, Astoria, Long Island; Mrs. Maria Kerling, New York; Ernest Herman Kerkhof, New York; Hans Max Haupt and Mrs. Haupt, Chicago; Harry Jacques and his wife, Emma, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Richard Wergin, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilhelm Froehling, Chicago.

"The individuals apprehended," Hoover said, "are known to have given shelter to the saboteurs after their arrival in New York and Chicago and to have furnished them assistance which would have aided the foreign agents in their sabotage activities in the United States. One of the individuals assisted by purchasing an automobile for the use of one of the (Nazi) agents in transporting the explosives and other material recovered by F.B.I. agents on the Atlantic shore on Long Island and Florida."

OTTAWA, JULY 13—(AP)—A substantial increase in the manpower requirements of Canada's war effort was indicated today in a statemen by Elliott M. Little, director of national selective service, that 250,000 persons will be needed within the next five months for war industries and the armed services.

Only four months ago, Prime Minister Mackenzie King estimated in the House of Commons that approximately 293,000 persons would be required for industry and the service within the following year.. He estimated 100,000 would be needed for munitions work, 100,000 for the army, another 80,000 for the air force and 13,000 for the navy.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY AT EL ALAMEIN, Ju y 12— (AP).—(Delayed). — Roaring out of the sunrise, bombers heavily blasted Axis forces attempting to throw up new fortifications to-day after beng hurled back by hard-slugging Australians and South Africans.

As the sun spilled over the desert the big planes swept overhead, imparting a comfortable feeling to this correspondent who had spent the night across a ridge from the enemy.

Within two or three minutes their bombs were kicking up dust among the enemy positions, just out of sight behind the ridge to the southwest.

They were a heartening sight to the Aussies and South Africans who had put in three days of fighting.

The first squadrons returned for more bombs. We counted them and found everyone there.

Throughout the rest of the morning and into the night wave after wave of medium bombers shuttled across the desert, unloading their bombs and returning for more.

Grab Key Ridge.

Throughout the day the Australians continued to edge forward to the west, capturing an important ridge about six miles west of the Alamein on the Mediterranean coast and 200 prisoners.

While the Australians were advancing along the coast, South Africans south-west of El Alamein were consolidating positions in a bulge previously cleared by the Aussies.

Farther south the Axis withdrew to the west after losing five tanks and seven 75-millimetre guns to attacking British armored forces.

From their coastal ridge the Australians are in position to threaten Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's supply lines.

Hard Labor For Women In Effort To Quieten France

VICHY, July 13 — (AP). — The Germans announced to-day in Paris they would shoot males over the age of 18 years who are members of families of fugitives from German military courts accused of terrorism or sabotage.

This applies to "all near male relatives in the ascending line as well as brothers-in-law and cousins." Women of the same degrees of kinship will be sentenced to hard labor and children of adults thus punished will be sent to reform schools, the announcement said.

A notice issued by the Gestapo director to the press in the occupied area said in part:

"I....have decided to make use of the most severe penalty not only to strike at perpetrators of terrorist attacks, saboteurs, and troublemakers themselves after they are arrested but also, in case of escape, as soon as the fugitives names are known, at families of these criminals if the latter do not present themselves during 10 days following their forfeits to the German or French police stations.

"In consequence, I am announcing the following penalties:

"1. All near male relatives in the ascending line as well as brothers-in-law and cousins from the age of 18 years will be shot.

"2. All women of the same degree of kinship will be sentenced to hard labor.

"3. All children under 18 years of men and women subjected to these measures will be sent to reform schools.

"I therefore appeal to all to prevent by means at their disposal terrorist attacks and acts of sabotage and disturbance and to give the slightest clue which could be useful to the Germans or French police authorities in order to apprehend the criminals."

Call On Workers To Mean Some Factories Close

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP). — Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, forecast today that some non-essential industries may be closed down to help provide some of the more than 250,000 workers required by the armed services and war industry within the next five months.

Warning that "we will tighten the reins where and when necessary," Canada's manpower chief told an Ottawa service club that the labor situation is tightening rapidly, disclosed that a national registration of unemployed females will be held in a few weeks and predicted that labor transfers will mean "inconvenience and trouble for thousands of Canadian workers in the next year.

"To meet the carefully estimated needs of the three armed services, and continually expanding war industry, we must find more than 250,000 workers within the next five months," he said.

"Think what that means—a quarter of a million workers, and they don't come out of thin air. The vast majority of those 250,000 plus are going to come out of jobs, jobs they are holding now."

80,000 Jobless Men 16-69

He also disclosed that the recent inventory of male unemployed showed there were approximately 80,000 in this category between the ages of 16 and 69. Not more than 60,000 of these, however, were even partially employable and few of those who were partially employable were capable of working under modern, high-speed production.

The movement of labor from one firm to another no longer could be accomplished on a haphazard basis.

"These more or less automatic releases of workers are a substantial contribution to our wartime labor pool," Mr. Little said, "but we now are reaching the stage where we must also consider the necessity of

Hun Roll 170 Miles In Week On Crest Of Massed Tanks Threaten Rostov And Volga

Voronezh Gives Nazis Toughest Battle As Hitler Throws Thousands Of Troops Into Line—Timoshenko Pressed In South

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 13—(AP)—The battle of the Don valley took a grave new turn today with the Germans pointing a menacing spearhead toward the Volga and the great industrial centre of Stalingrad from bloodily-won positions a scant 200 miles away.

After driving 170 miles eastward in a week, the Nazis were in the vicinity of the town of Boguchar, their deepest penetration of Soviet soil thus far, and were throwin tanks and planes by the hundreds and men by the thousands into their thrust.

With the position of the Red armies becoming more precarious, the fighting in this southern sector today developed into a two-way German drive, one across the Don before Voronezh and the other sweeping down the Don valley between the Don and the Donets.

Both these operations are of sufficient strength to carry unquestioned threats to Rostov, the north Caucasus and middle Volga regions.

The lower end of the German drive across the Don valley, which has pushed the Russians from Lisichansk, presented a menace of growing proportions. Marshal Timoshenko's forces were in a new line which could not be less than 125 miles north of Rotosv and 225 miles west of Stalingrad.

In the middle sector, the German operation which drove the Red army from Kantemirovka, 145 miles south of Voronezh, to the Boguchar area put the invader about 200 miles west of the Volga at Stalingrad.

Should the offensive in the central sector carry to Boguchar and the Don just beyond, it was obvious that the Red Army could also be faced with the task of stopping a two-directional drive upon Stalingrad itself.

In some quarters here it was held that such a strategic situation already existed.

In still a third drive north of Voronezh, the Germans were battering at unyielding Soviet defenders of that communication centre's approaches. In this sector the Germans were reported battling to expand their positions on the east bank of the Don.

The Germans were achieving their successes at a tremendous cost in men and equipment in this smash at the Caucasus, front line accounts said.

Some Berlin Claims.

In Berlin the Germans declared to-day that the Russians were being pursued "on a broad front" in the south but turned to the central sector north-west of Moscow for a specific victory claim — that 30,000 Red soldiers had been taken captice in an 11-day battle south-west of Rzhev.

Strong Soviet resistance north and north-west of Voronezh, the left flank of the German thrust in the Don Basin, was indicated in the assertion that a Red Army "diversion attack" in those directions had been repulsed with 111 Russian ranks shot up.

This attack, it was indicated, was against German bridgeheads thrown across the Don.

Strong German air formations were reported joining the pursuit in the southern setctor, where they were said to have destroyed several Don and Donets River crossings which could be of value to the Russians in manoeuvring their forces.

The centre prong of this offensive stabbed through Kantemirovka, about 145 miles south of Voronezh, and forced the Russians to withdraw to the region of Boguchar, slightly less than 200 miles north-west of Stalingrad on the vital Russian artery, the Volga river.

The Russians were giving up every foot of ground grudgingly, strewing land mines before the advancing Germans and taking a tremendous toll of German lives and machines, Russian dispatches said.

Boguchar is about 50 miles father eastward than Rostov, the southern anchor of the Red Army line and the previous highwater mark of Nazi penetration. The Germans were pushed out of Rostov last year after taking it in their 1941 offensive.

To the Donets East Bank

The third prong of the Nazi drive pushed the Russians out of Lisichansk, about 55 miles south of Kantemirovka, and forced them to take up new positions, presumably on the eastern banks of the Donets river, which curves about the town

Rommel Gone?

LONDON, July 13. — (CP).—A Reuter's dispatch from the Eyptian front said today that two R. A. F. planes bombed and machine-gunned a Fiesler Storch type plane such as those used only by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and other senior staff oficers in the desert and that all occupants of the craft were believed killed. The news agency's account said the plane was attacked in the northern sector of the El Alamein front and that one British bomb landed on the Axis machine when it was only 15 feet from the ground.

Suffocate Miner In Duel Over 3 Murders

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 13. — (AP).—Answering demands for his surrender with gunfire, Pete Yabacavin, 60, a miner, suspected of the slaying of three persons was suffocated by smoke from a fire lighted to drive him from a mine tunnel 12 miles from here.

Traced to the mine eptrance yesterday by a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and a Deputy United States Marshal, Tabacavin, believed to be the man who killed Milo Saulich, 65, his 55 year old wife and Mary Stay, 14, Thursday night fired eight shots at the entrance.

The officers built a fire at the tunnel mouth and fired pistol and rifle shots into the 70 foot shaft, only to be met with return shots.

Several hours later the F.B.I. agent entered the tunnel and found Tabacavin dead of suffocation, 30 feet from the tunnel mouth.

The officers said they were convinced the elderly miner killed Saulich and his wife because the couple objected to his attentions to the girl and then slew the girl because she spurned him. The young girl was a housemaid for the Saulich family.

Aussies Help Push Axis 10 Miles See Saw At El Eisa

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 13 — (AP)—The Royal Navy, intervening in the battle of Egypt, has heavily bombarded Matruh, most advanced Axis base on the North African coast.

Sweeping close inshore, fleet units raked the harbor with salso after in this first reported action by the Royal Navy since Field Marshal Erwin Rommel launched the offensive that swept through Tobruk into Egypt.

Numerous fires were started among harbor installations of this railhead and former British strongpoint 170 miles West of Alexandria.

Anti-aircraft positions were effectvely shelled.

As the fleet guns opened up, naval aircraft swept over the harbor and let go with their destructive cargoes.

"The bombardment was a magnificent sight," said a naval airman who witnessed the assault.

"The Navy knocked hell out of the place."

In a prelude to the raid, British naval forces sank by gunfire an Aris ammunition ship which had been disabled off Matruh by naval planes.

Hold 10-Mile Gains.

CAIRO, July 13—(AP).—Britain's army of the Nile, once again bolstered by Australians, stood firm in its newly-won positions 10 miles west of El Alamein today after repulsing sharp German attacks, but Field Marshal Rommel was reinforcing his forces by air and sea and preparing for a new thrust toward Alexandria.

Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck also was drawing new strength from his stores and reserves in Egypt.

6 Canucks Drop 150 Tons On Hun

PORT ALBERT, Ont., July 13.—(CP). — Six Canadian air officers who have sent nearly 1,500,000 pounds of bombs down on Nazi ships and cities, are back in Canada today at the Royal Air Force School of Navigation here.

Among them is Fo. Keith Deyell, of Alameda, Sask., who has been on 60 raids over enemy-occupied territory, the greatest number in which any Canadian has participated.

Fo. Deyell probably is the only navigator to raid Berlin alone. En route to the German city with two other Stirling bombers, Deyell failed to notice the other machines developed engine trouble and turned back to bomb alternative targets. In his single Stirling, he went on and bombed a railway station in the heart of Berlin by himself.

Deyell's Canadian classmates are Fo. Walter Davey and Fo. Roger Napier of Toronto; Fo. F. W. Hoadley, Kamloops, B.C.; Fo. Pete Oleinek and Fo. J. R. Alverson of Edmonton.

All but Deyell are members of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Shoot 21 Poles For '39 Tactics

LONDON, July 13 — (CP) — A spokesman for the Polish government said today that the Germans had executed 21 Polish soldiers at Bydgoszcz, charging that the soldiers maltreated Germans they had in custody during the early days of the German invasion of Poland in 1939.

The spokesman said the executions, which have been announced in German newspapers, took place July 6 after a long trial during which the Poles were accused of "fantastic brutalities."

He asserted that the leader of the group, Capt. Jan Drzewiecki, a well-known Polish newspaperman, was singled out for "special treatment" and hanged in the market square after the population was summoned to watch.

Germans Refused Them Shetler In Big Raid

LONDON, July 13.— (CP Cable). The R.A.F.'s 1,000-odd plane raid on Essen killed 2,000 Germans and wrecked the main part of the big Thyssen steel works there, Belgian circles in London said yesterday.

These informants said their information came from German refugees who have arrived in large numbers in Belgium since the R.A.F. started its systematic desruction of Nazi industrial centres.

Other reports indicated many Belgian workers engaged in forced labor for the Germans were killed duing the attacks because they were not permitted to take shelter.

Information reaching the Independent Belgian News Agency told, meanwhile, of the wrecking of a bridge at St. Ghislain, Belgium, over a canal connecting Mons with the River Scheldt and the dynamiting of an electric power pylon at Courcelles, France, by saboteurs.

Movement of barges laden with industrial coal was said to have been halted several days at St. Ghislain.

Wholesale Slaughter Ahead of Hitler

Nazis Buying Gains In Russia At Terrific Price Without Reds Cracking

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Herr Hitler has continued to purchase mileage in Russian territory at a terrible cost in German lives during the week-end, thereby increasing the danger of severance of the central and southern Red armies and bringing him nearer to his dream of crashing the gateway to the Caucasus.

There is perhaps small satisfaction in the fact that this advance was to be expected because of the weight of the Nazi attack. In appraising the position, however, we must take into consideration a fact to which the Russians themselves point today; namely, that the invaders have a long, bloody course to pursue before they can hope to cut off the apprraches to the Caucasus from the north, for the Red line still holds.

The Nazi Fuehrer is prepared to see a wholesale slaughter of his men in this effort to ham-string the Russians and reach oil this year. The Russians are far from beaten, though, and are continuing their magnificent resistance, despite grave lack of equipment. Hitler still has a long way to go, as the Muscovites remark, and time is working against him.

Some compensation for the Russian setbacks is to be found in the position of the battle for Egypt, where the British forces have further improved their position and were still retaining a very active initiative at latest reports. It would be a tragedy for the Allies if Nazi Field Marshal Rommel were to make a quick conquest of Egypt and then be able to throw his army against the Middle East while his master drove for it from the north. Such a development might spell the difference between holding Hitler at the gateway to the Caucasus and being forced to let him through.

Cairo reports that the reappearance of Australian troops in action against Rommel has given the badly manhandled British 8th Army a new life. It is indeed good to see these "Fightin' Fools" back in the Egyptian desert.

The Australians find a worthy leader in Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, who took over command of the 8th Army when it was in a tail spin and in a few days turned a dangerous British retreat into a sturdy stand which had Rommel on the defensive. There seems small doubt that this hard-bitten Scotsman saved the Allies from a disaster at the 11th hour.

Appeal To Alsace Lorraine

B.B.C. Tip Urges Them To Be Ready In Few Days

LONDON, July 13—(CP).—In a French-language broadcast beamed to Europe, the BBC Saturday read an appeal to the people of Alsace Lorraine, on the eve of Bastille Day, saying that they who had given birth of Jeanne d' Arc, and had created the Marseillaise would in a few days once again find themselves in the first tine of the fight.

The appeal issued by Jacques Lorraine, in response to a request by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free French movement, said in part:—

"People of Alsace Lorraine and compatriotis: As always in the history of France you are everywhere in the first line of the home front, as your comrades are on the fronts abroad.

"We have been betrayed. We were sold out and Vichy is afraid because its design has been revealed. Vichy is afraid, for one day, soon perhaps, we will settle all accounts.

"We all know that you will do everything in your power to rally others to join with you in celebration of July 14. You must convince the hesitant, rally the timid, fortify the weak. Such is the role of the people of Alsace Lorraine.

Advance Ten Miles Since Friday Take Trucks, Guns

CAIRO, July 13.—(AP).—(AP).—British forces have repulsed all attempts of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis armies to drive them from positions which they occupied 10 miles west of El Alamein during the week-end, British headquarters announced to-day

At the same time British shock troops and artillery were reported harassing the enemy on the southern end of the front, just north of the Qattara depression, while in the centre Axis forces were kept on the defensive by continued shelling.

Heavy dust storms interfered with aerial operations yesterday, but Allied fighters made protective sweeps over the lines and fighter bombers strafed enemy positions, a communique said.

Two enemy planes were shot down over the front in Egypt and three more were reported knocked out of the sky over the British Mediterranean base of Malta.

Only one British plane was lost in these operations, Headquarters said.

To-day's communique gave little detail of the fighting west of El Alamein, merely reporting:

"In the northern sector yesterday, our troops drove off an attack by the enemy on the northwestern area of positions occupied during our recent advvance."

It appeared, however, that the hard-bitten Australian troops, worse arrival in the battle zone has given the British army a fresh lift, were tightening their grip on newly-won positions near Tel El Eisa.

Capture of the positions, announced by British headquarters yesterday, was accomplished in sharp fighting during which 2,000 Axis troops were taken prisoner and 18 enemy tanks were knocked out of action. Guns and trucks also were reported captured.

(The BBC, quoting its correspondents at the front, said a further advance was made by British forces yesterday and that 700 more prisoners were taken).

The operations carried out by the Australians were the chief development announced during the week-end and represented an advance of 10 miles on Field-Marshal Erwin Rommels left flank since dawn on Friday, when the Battle of Egypt was renewed after a 10-day lull.

The funeral service for the late Edward Franklin Borbridge was held from the George H. Rogers funeral home in Ottawa, Monday, July 6.

Borbridge, whose sudden death occurred in Alberta while on vacation, received his education in Peterborough in public and high schools, and was at one time a member of the law firm of Peck, Kerr and McElderry.

Besides his sorrowing wife, the former Jean Metcalfe of Hamilton, he leaves to mourn his passing his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Ralph Honey of Peterborough, and Mrs. Frank Stinson of Millbrook.

The Rev. George Lindsay was the officiating clergyman and interment was made in the family plot in Beachwood cemetery, Ottawa.

Perfect Record Of Attendance

Two Rotarians, Dr. H. R. H Kenner and Ross Dobbin, were given honorable mention for having had 100 per cent attedance during the past year, at the regular meeting Monday. The average of the whole club showed about 68 per cent of the members had 80 per cent or better attendance.

Due to unforseen circumstances, the guest speaker, Wallace Bunton, of Toronto, did not arrive and the meeting was given over mainly to business discussions. It was decided that in two weeks the starting time of the meeting will be changed from 12:15 to 12:10 and all members were urged to make an effort to be preseant so that the meetings would not be running overtime. It was also announced that next week's meeting will take place at 6:30 p.m. when Rotarians will entertain those who so ably assisted in making the carnival a success.

President Ian McRae read a letter from Arthur Phillips, a member of the Newport Rotary Club, England. In it he sent his best wishes to the Peterborough club and said that they were marching side by side to victory, and that in the postwar world, he hoped to see Rotary principles established universally The Newport Club has a membership of 101, he related, and they have recently equipped and opened a new sport club and they hope to see Canadian soldiers enjoying the use of it.

Guest soloist for the day was Arthur Jones, of the Salvation Army who sang "All the World Will Be Jealous Of Me," and "As The Sunbeam Loves The Rose" both written before the first world war.

One of the women, Maria Kerling, was identified as the wife of Edward John Kerling on trial as the leader of the four Axis who landed near Jacksonville, Fla. June 17. Mr. and Mrs. Hapt were said to be the parents of another defendant in the military trial, Herbet Haupt, who was in Kerling's group.

Meanwhile the military trial of the eight Nazi saboteurs who landed from U-boats were resumed today for its fifth session with a member of the defence counsel reporting that he had no idea how long it would continue. Some person close to the prosecution counsel expressed the view that the secret hearing might be concluded in the next three or four days.

War Work Cuts Orange Walks

By the Canadian Press.

Thousands of Ontario Orangemen paraded and listened to speeches in many centres on Saturday and on Sunday in celebration of the "Glorious Twelfth," the 252nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

The parades were not quite so large this year because many members of the Orange Order are on active service and others are engaged in vital war work.

Orangemen and Orangewomen at a mass meeting in High Park at Toronto on Saturday afternoon unanimously adopted a resolution calling for immediate formation of a National Government. They also asked assurance from Prime Minister Mackenzie King that overseas service be made obligatory for all Canadian armed forces, regardless of race or province.

In a preamble to the resolution, the Province of Quebec was charged with opposing conscription and being "....in the driver's seat."

W. H. (King Billy) Harper, riding a white horse, marshalled the procession as he had done for 42 years.

At London, where the big celebration will be held to-day, Orangemen and Orangewomen paraded to St. Paul's Cathedral where the Very Rev. Dean P. N. Harding urged them all to be "last ditchers" in the fight for Christian ideals.

closing down some industries altogether, regardless of whether they have available raw materials, so their workers may be diverted into more useful channels.

"The extent to which we will have to apply this kind of control to the less essential civilian industries will probably vary with the war labor needs of the different localities."

Mr. Little said a national registration of unemployed females—"at least within certain employable age groups"—will be held within a few weeks. Women would have to be increasingly employed in industry, "women doing jobs which industrialists thought could only be done by men."

Another source of manpower was a solution of the problem of absenteeism.

"We have been wasting thousands of man hours through inexcusable absenteeism," he said. "Just because it is raining out maybe the worker decides to take the day off. That means to maintain production in an even flow, his plant must keep on hand at all times a surplus of labor to take up the slack."

Fighting still is in progress northwest of Wenchow, in Chekiang Province to the north, one of the few ports which has been in Chinese hands, the communique said.

In Kiangsi Province, northwest of Fukien, the communique said the Japanese were rushing air forces to rescue 30,000 troops trapped between the Kan and Fu River. This force had attempted a southward push toward Fukien Province.

Japanese based at Lichwan in Kiangsi attempted a retreat westward, but were hurled back, the Chinese said.

Until the Chinese recapture of Futuo Island, twin Japanese offensive were imperiling the two principal ports remaining in Chinese hands.

5 Million Chinese Slaves Aid Japs

CHUNGKING, July 13—(AP). — Invading Japanese forces have impressed approximately 5,000,000 Chinese laborers in North China during the last five year and sent them to Manchuria and Japan to relieve an acute labor shortage, Chinese quarter, reported today.

Now, these quarters declared, the Japanese are planning to conscript 2,000,000 more of whom 1,500,000 are to be sent to Manchuria, 150,000 to Inner Mongolia and 100,000 to Japan, while the remaining 250,000 will be put to work in North China.

In order to facilitate this program the Japanese-sponsored regime in Shansi Province, it was said, issued orders that 10 laborers be sent from each village "for training." The puppet government was reported planning to conscript 120,000 workers in that province alone before the end of the year.

One of the favorite methods used by the Japanese to obtain laborers, the Chinese said, is to arrest young men on various pretexts. Early in February the Japanese were said to have arrested more than 1,000 able-bodied men in southwestern Shinsi and transported them to an undisclosed destination for "reconstruction work."

Bullet In Side Undoes Thief

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—(AP)— A bullet in his side, a 19-year-old boy went six weeks without medical attention—then implicated himself in a crime, Detective-Sergeant Fred Tagg said, by boasting about the wound to a prison cellmate.

Tagg said Norman Berger was shot by a policeman May 23 while driving a stolen automobile. He escaped, the detective added, but was arrested later on an automobile larceny charge in connection with another car theft, and held without bail.

Word of his boast reached a prison guard, who took him to a doctor. X-rays showed the bullet but the wound has healed. Physician said he apparently had suffered no ill effects. Tagg said new charges would be placed against him.

Call To Return Due For Cardin

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP). — The Ottawa Citizen says in a newspage story: "There was a strong rumor current in the Capital's parliamentary circles last night that Hon. P. J. A. Cardin was to be invited to return to the Cabinet to take over the duties of Minister of Public Works and Transport."

Mr. Cardin resigned from the Cabinet after the April 27 plebiscite when Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced introduction of Bill 80—the measure empowering the Government to impose conscription for overseas service by proclamation at any time it sees fit.

The Citizen story says: "It is well known that the Government is under considerable handicap in respect to the filling of the post vacated by Mr. Cardin and that his return would be welcome and might serve to heal to some extent the rift in the Liberal Party resulting from the plebiscite issue and the subsequent passing of Bill 80."

RAF Smashes Danzig By Daylight

Plant Great Bombs In Sub Depot On 1,750-Mile Flight

LONDON, July 13—(CP)— The new potency of Britain's air campaign to drive the U-boat from the seas by smashing Germany's replacements before she can get them into the water is the story behind the R.A.F.'s sensational daylight raid on Danzid Saturday.

That neither daylight, distance nor foul weather deterred squadrons of British bombers from sweeping low over Germany on a 1,750-mile round trip in daylight showed that the Nazis now are exposed to mighty air assault anywhere and at any time.

The test of the Danzig raid is comparison with the dramatic daylight air attack on the German submarine plant at Augsburg just last April. Only 12 planes made that stab, about half as far from home as the former Free City, and only five returned.

The attack on Danzig cost but three planes and unofficial indications that this was less than five per cent. of the attacking force meant that at least 60 bombers made it.

On this longest and riskiest daylight operation so far, the R.A.F. sent out their Lancasters — great, four-motored bombers which are the newest and highly-secret bomb-carriers in its air fleet.

For hours these tough planes flew over Germany's heavily-guarded coast before they sliced down to lay their heavy bombs on Danzig's submarine yards in the bright light of the northern evening.

Rake Flensburg Too

Other bombers at the same time raided another U-boat base, Flensburg, on the German-Danish border 400 miles nearer England than Danzig.

To get to Danzig, the bombers had to buck thunderstorms, treacherous winds and icing for hours over Germany's defence-studded home precincts.

This daylight sweep was far

Canucks Swoop To Housetops Gunning Danzig

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Pres Staff Writer

LONDON, July 13 (CP Cable) — Canadian airmen made daring, low level attacks on enemy targets in Saturday's raid on Danzig, it was announced today.

Calling it the "longest daylight attack of the war," the R.C.A.F. revised first reports of the operation which said no Canadians participted

"It was pretty exciting while it lasted and gave us some tense moments in the target area," said FO. Herbert B. Barber of Toronto, navigator and bomb aimer aboard a Lancaster.

"We flew down so low that antiaircraft fire went right over the top of our machines and blasted buildings on the other side of us as we sped away from the target," added Barber, who is a former Winnipeg resident.

PO. R. R. Waterbury of Prince Albert, Sask., said he started in bad weather and lost his formation early on the trip. But near Danzig he picked up four other Lancasters.

"We rode in together and dipped to 2,500 feet to make the bombing run," said Waterbury. "The Flak was pretty hot but we carried out the bombing in the dusk. We went right down almost to deck and the Germans lowered their ack-ack almost to ground level. The result was that their fire went over the top of us and must have inflicted civilian casualties."

Waterbury, who flew with Barber, said their gunners "permanently turned off the switches of three searchlights in Danzig by machine-gunning.

Other R.C.A.F. men in the Danzig raid included: Flt. Sgt. C. Schriner, Niagara Falls, Ont; Sgt. V. W. McKuaid, Belleville, Ont.

United Church Minister Analyses Trend

COBOURG, July 13 — Some long-established beliefs were rapidly undergoing changes, declared Rev. Wendall P. Woodger of Trinity United church in an address here at the weekly meeting of Cobourg Rotary Club. He was introduced by the president, R. N. McKenzie, and the thanks of the club for his instructive address was given by Reuben Freeman.

Quoting a news story about the Russian flag assuming its place on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, along with the flags of the other United Nations, the speaker recalled to mind the occasion not so long past when the then premier, R. B. Bennett, ordered stoppage of coal imports from Russia because of the antagonism to Soviet principles at that time.

Commenting on the appointment of Rev. A. Wilson to the editorship of the United Church Observer, Rev. Woodger recalled the great indignation felt not so long ago when Rev. Wilson, on returning from Russia, told of some of the successes of the Russia "experiment."

Political Outlook Changes

Referring to the political feud between Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario and Prime Minister McKenzie King of Ottawa, the speaker pointed out that twenty years ago such a difference of opinion would have resulted in one or the other of the premiers being read out of the Liberal party. The speaker foresaw a national insurance scheme in the future through the tie-up now of the government and insurance companies. State medicine seems inevitable in Great Britain, he said. Higher income taxes have brought drastic changes in the mode of living of many Englishmen, and has brought a great curtailment of the private school system of education, which, he declared, will mean that scholarships in the future will be won more on ability than on other considerations.

Reform Trade Laws

In recent years, the speaker continued, the attitude toward the United States had undergone radical changes. England and the United States are becoming closer knit, he said, as also are Canada and her neighbor to the south. He recalled the 1911 election when Canada turned down reciprocal trade with the United States for fear it would mean annexation, but now the entire English-speaking world was united in close friendship.

For the future, the first essential was the defeat of Hitler. A system of world-wide trade would have to follow, "unless we are to make progress in reverse." He explained that if free trade relations are not forthcoming, make-shift products will be used to perform the duties of products unavailable in one's own country as for example, rubber. Thus would appear the nations using their talents to manufacture ersatz products, an example of progress in reverse.

"One cannot help but feel that hope for the world lies in an alliance between Great Britain and America and the other English-speaking countries of the world. We are hoping there will be a League of Nations re-established with a real police force for the world—one with teeth," declared Mr. Woodger.

Ketcheson, and the Bungle Band, under Sergt. G. Brooks, paraded with the Legionnaires from the Memorial Hall to the place of service. Also given an honored place in the parade were Sub.-Lieut. George O'Neill of the Royal Canadian Navy and local members of the Air Force and other units. Past President W. Bedore of the Marmora branch of the Canadian Legion was standard-bearer. Seats were placed to the front of the parade ground for Mr. and Mrs. William R. Regan, their son Kenneth, their daughters Helen and Eleanor, and other near relatives who were present.

A united choir of members of St. Paul's and St. Andrew's choirs, under George Woodhouse, was in attendance to lead in the singing of the hymns. Before announcing the opening hymn, "Rock of Ages," Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, the deceased soldier's clergyman in his civilian days, read a message from the chaplain of the regiment, Capt. Revx. E. N. Grant, regretting his inability to be present.

The opening hymn having been sung very impressively to the excellent band accompaniment, prayers were offered by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. The 23rd Psalm was read responsively. Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher read the scripture lesson.

Wreaths were placed each side of a cross which stood on the school steps by Major N. Broad and President T. E. Pritchard. Sergt. G. Brooks sounded the Last Post which was followed by the two minutes' silence and the sounding of the Reveille. The hymn, "Fight the Good Fight," having been sung, an address was given by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell upon the text, "His reward is with him." There are two thoughts, he said, which emerge as we think of those who have laid down their lives for their country in this war. The one is the greatness to which they have attained; the other the atonement they have wrought.

Speaking of the heroism of the fighting men of the armed forces of modern history and of those which still fill the lists of the fallen, the preacher mentioned that to be one of the number now serving King and country was to take one's place in history. Theirs is an experience of which poets will sing and historians write as long as the world endures. "Some share of that greatness," he continued, "belongs to him for whose life and death as a soldier we thank God today; and we believe that, as without a murmur he gave his life, so our God will hear the prayers we offer that his soul may rest in peace and light eternal shine on him. To those who mourn his loss this comfort must come, that their loved one has passed into the company of those great heroes who counted not their lives too dear but at the call of duty sacrificed all for the sake of their country, the good of mankind and the cause of our liberty. The death of our sons has done more than prove their greatness. It has been an act of atonement. When our Lord made atonement for the sin of the whole world, it was by the shedding of His blood that He accomplished it. 'Himself the victim and Himself the priest.' Sacrificial shedding of their blood has been the great work of our fallen heroes."

G. Woodhouse rendered "Some Day He'll Make It Plain To Me."

Rev. Father H. J. Farrell followed with a very telling message of hope and cheer. Referring to misgivings which some might hold with regard to the future, Father Farrell paid tribute to the inherent courage of strength and will which comes of the knowledge that we have chosen the right, and that right shall conquer. "Today," he said, "we are commemorating the passing of one from our midst and from the midst of his army comrades. As a boy of the village he will be missed for his merry laughter and smile. No longer can he be looked for to cross the threshold of his home. The longing of his loved ones will be exemplified hereafter when they shall meet again." In conclusion, Father Farrell expressed his sympathy with the family and all who sorrowed with them.

Rural Dean Caldwell offered the memorial prayer and pronounced the benediction. The closing hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," was followed by the National Anthem.

A loud speaker service, operated by Harold Auger, added to the effectiveness of the service.

Dismissal of the imposing parade took place at the Memorial Hall following a march through the village.

Honor Caretaker

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 (ENS). —Waiting for C. C. Massie when he came down from Peterborough to spend the week-end with his family here, was a lovely smoker's stand, the gift of the staff of local public school teachers here. Mr. Massie, who had been caretaker at the school for seventeen years, resigned several months ago and it was in appreciation of his many years of faithful service at the school that the gift was made. Attached to it was a message signed by Principal C. S. Haig, who on behalf of the staff expressed appreciation and best wishes to Mr. Massie.

TORONTO, July 13. — (CP) — Thirty-four-year-old Ronald Lazenby of Toronto was treated in hospital for head lacerations after being struck by door of his own car. He was stepping out of the machine when another car struck the open door, slamming it back against his head.

Berlin Admits Littorio Out 18 Months

NEW YORK, July 13—(AP)—The Axis acknowledged tonight that one Italian battleship, apparently the speedy 35,000-ton Littorio, was knocked out for eighteen months and two others were out of action for four months as a result of the smashing British aerial attack on the Italian naval base of Taranto on the night of Nov. 11-12, 1940.

The Berlin radio broadcast a Rome despatch which quoted "competent Italian quarters" as making the admission while at the same time claiming that the Italian Navy has been extremely active and "will hereafter continue to dominate the Mediterranean."

These Italian quarters, the broadcast said, claimed that only three battleships were hit in the Taranto raid, in which Britain announced those and other naval units were struck.

"Two of these battleships were in service again after four months and the third one after eighteen months, although the Littorio was hit by two torpedoes," the radio said.

This was the only reference to the Littorio by name. The implication seemed to be that it was the Littorio which was out for 18 months.

After the Taranto raid, the British Admiralty announced that one battleship of the new Littorio class was left badly down by the bows with her forecastle under water and a heavy list; another battleship of the 23,622-ton Conte di Cavour class was beached with her stern up and her turret under water while a second battlship of the latter class was probably severely damaged.

There are only two ships of the Littorio class now reported in commission—the Littorio herself and the Vittorio Veneto. Two others have been reported under construction.

The Italian quarters quoted by the radio said the Italian Navy has been "employed to a much greater extent than is usually assumed." They said the Vittorio Veneto cruised 15,073 nautical mile in the first years of the water.

The Fascists said further that Mussolini's navy had lost "only seven of 19 cruisers it had in service in 1940."

Victoria Lodges Walk In Haliburton

LINDSAY, July 12—(ENS).—The Glorious Twelfth was celebrated Saturday in Haliburton by the largest crowd ever to assemble in the northern hamlet. The people of the northland set all cares aside for the day, and participated in what might truly be termed a real old time reunion. While the turnout of the Sons of William was not as large as in former years, due to war work and elistments, which depleted the ranks, the attendance of those who love to see a parade reached a new high.

Lodges from Victoria and Haliburton counties participated in the big celebration. A special train left Omemee early in the morning, carrying lodges from Omemee, Reaboro and Emily townships. The Lindsay lodges, which paraded early in the morning headed by the Boys' Band, also boarded the special. These consisted of L.O.L. No. 32; L.O.L. 557, and the L.O.B.A., and Juvenile lodges and the True Blues. The special also carried lodges from Cambray, North Emily, Dunsford, Bobcaygeon and North Verulam. The special also picked up en route to the north lodges from Fenelon Falls, Cameron, Burnt River, Kinmount, Coboconk, Norland, etc.

When the train reached Haliburton the lodges received a warm welcome at the hands of Bro. Clayton Hodgson, Grand Master of the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario East as well as the northern village, which was en fete for the occasion. The main street was gaily decorated with flags and bunting. The procession wended its way to the Memorial Park, where the lodges disbanded for noon hour. The park was crowded with a vast concourse of people, who had brought their baskets and were prepared to celebrate the day in real picnic fashion.

Fifty Lodges Walk

At two o'clock the lodges reassembled in the colorful event. Grand Master C. Hodgson was master of ceremonies and headed the walk, which was viewed by hundreds. Nearly every lodge had its fife and drum band. A feature of the parade was the marching of the ladies' lodges in their colorful regalia. They received a warm hand along the route of the parade.

Arriving at the park the people gathered around the platform to hear the addresses, which were delivered by Grand Master C. Hodgson, L. M. Frost, K.C., M.L.A.; T. H. Stinson, K.C., of Lindsay; Reeve C. D. Logan of Verulam; Mrs. E. W. Monk, Past Grand Mistress, Grand Orange Lodge, Ontario East, and the resident clergy. The addresses were of a patriotic nature, the speakers calling for complete conscription of man-power in order to combat the common enemy.

Orangeism was established in the county of Haliburton over one hundred years ago, and Grand Master Hodgson is the second resident of the county to hold that office; the late J. H. Delamere, who was at one time editor of The Minden Echo, having held that office half a century.

One of the oldest Orangemen in the parade was Isaac Gilpin of Toronto, who has been visiting in Lindsay. He is 80 years of age, and has been a member of the Order for 67 years. He is a past master and honorary member of L.O.L. St. Anne's 2478, Toronto.

Orange Grand Lodges in the western part of Victoria County celebrated the day at Beaverton. They were Oakwood, Valetnia, Woodville, Kirkfield, Hartley, Bolsover and Dalrymple.

Kilties Go Hill-Billy In Togs To Aid Kinsmen Milk Fund

COBOURG, July 13 — (ENS). — Cobourg Kinsmen Club staged a unique parade on Saturday evening to boost their Milk for Britain campaign. Cobourg Kilties Band, in rustic garb, rode in a hay wagon driven by Albert Hircock, and supplied the music for the parade.

Jack Cook headed the parade with the Union Jack. Highlight of the parade was a Jersey cow led by Doctor Bil Brett. The cow carried placards which announced: "This is no bull," and advertised the Kinsmen Milk Fund. Driven by Joe Patterson a large truck contained an appropriate float on which rode a nurse and several youngsters wearing bandages for their blitz injuries.

Astride one of those ancient bicycles of some generations ago, with the huge front wheel and the tiny small one behind was Lloyd Dickhout, who, trying the unwieldy thing for the first attempt in his life, made good progress. Before the parade started off from William and King Streets, an old gentleman who said that he had ridden one of the bicycles, "back when I was 19," gave a few valuable pointers on how to stay up on the cycle.

Also in the parade was a pony ridden by Anne Barnes. A group of pretty milkmaids in costume, carrying milk pails attracted considerable attention. The milkmaids were Jean and Shirley Ralls, Blanche Staples, Marjorie McLaughlin, Jacqueline and Frances Navin, Margueriote Bingham, Margaret Boggs, Norma Leslie, and Margaret Weller. Two of the milkmaids stood in the door of a milk wagon driven by Douglas Russell. A donkey in charge of Doctor Austin Allen and Bruce Marshall completed the lineup, although it times it appeared that the donkey was in charge of its two attendants.

U.S. Air Force Takes Two Hotels

CHICAGO, July 13 — (CP). — Two huge Chicago hotels—the Stevens, the largest in the world and the Congress, lodging place of nine Presidents—will be taken over by the United States Government on August 1 to house Army Air Corps personnel.

An order to that effect was signed by Judge William H. Holly shortly after the United States District Attorney's Office filed condemnation proceedings at the request of the Secretary of War. The petitions stipulated that the hotels are needed for war purposes, that they would be occupied by the Army until June 20, 1943, and that rental rates would be determined later by Air Corps officials and the owners.

The Stevens, it is estimated, will accommodate 10,000 trainees, and the Congress 5,000.

U.S. Rent Control Hard Beset

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP).— The rent control sector of the government's stand against inflation, was beset today by strong pressure from organized and individual landlords in many sections of the United States.

Threats from Seattle of a country-wide gathering of property owners to force rent ceilings upward reached the office of price administration here simultaneously with news of a threatened "rent strike" by 200,000 Congress of Industrial Organizations unionists in Detroit if rents were raised.

Attempted wholesale evictions were reported from New Haven, Conn., and to top it off, a suit challenging constitutionality of the whole Price Control Act was on file in Mobile, Ala., where a property owner petitioned Federal court to block enforcement of the rent freeze in that area.

H. Kong Camps Reported As Improving

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP)—A report from "official Japanese sources" made public last night by the External Affairs Department asserts that prisoner of war at Hong Kong, including an estimated 1,600 Canadians, are satisfied with their food rations, and that conditions in prison camps in the area generally are improving.

The report was the first direct word from official Japanese sources since the Far East base, garrisoned by Canadian, British and Indian troops, fell to the enemy last Christmas Day.

Acknowledging that an epidemic of dysentery had occurred among Indian soldiers in January, and that cholera had afflicted some Japanese soldiers and Chinese civilians at Hong Kong in the middle of February, the report said measures had been taken to cope with these afflictions, and that in both instances the number of cases had declined.

Number of wounded patients, the report added, had "satisfactorily" declined from a total figure of 1,150 in January to 391 by the middle of March.

The news of conditions at Hong Kong was relayed to Canada through the Argentine Government, which in April made representations to Japan for an official report. The Argentine Government until recently was the protecting power for Canadian and other British Commonwealth interests in Japan. A short time ago Switzerland became the protecting power.

In its detailed account of conditions at various prison camps, including an example of food distribution at a camp identified as Camp Zentzugi, the Japanese report described transport difficulties as "acute" and contended that it had been "virtually impossible to bring supplies to Hong Kong in large quantities."

There had been no complaints about clothing, said the description from Japanese sources, although officers were required to pay for the clothing they received. Other ranks were supplied without charge.

Reply To M. C. MacLean

Elsewhere on this page the reader will find a letter from Mr. M. C. MacLean in which he takes issue with an editorial which we published recently putting forth our views on the liquor question. But unfortunately for our purpose and his Mr. MacLean has clouded the issue by introducing a quotation from another paper which refers to the opponents of the use of liquor as "hysterical fanatics," and shortly after he refers to "beer propaganda . . in our local paper"; it is this incorrigible looseness of thought and expression on the part of the advocates of total abstinence which makes argument with them difficult. The Examiner would never think of calling advocates of total abstinence "hysterical fanatics," although it believes that a very small portion of their number might be aptly so described. And the Examiner does not publish "beer propaganda" in its editorial columns or anywhere else. But the advocates of total abstinence know only black and white; they are strangers to the shades of the pearl and the dove's breast; anyone who does not rally round the pump is a beer propagandist.

We use the expression "total abstinence" although the present agitation is merely for a curtailment of the sale of alcoholic beverages, and especially beer. But the backers of the present campaign make no secret of the fact that they consider all drinking evil and would prevent it if they could; they know, however, that a campaign for total prohibition would meet with no success and they are attempting only what they believe possible.

Mr. MacLean, who can see "beer propaganda" in our editorial, has apparently been unable to see that we have supported his case as far as we thought it advisable to do so. We are perfectly well aware that the conditions existing in some beverage rooms are bad; we know that some men and women neglect their duties and their children to spend long hours there; we know that there have been instances of misconduct among soldiers who have had too much to drink. We are strongly in favor of a closer supervision of beverage rooms but we think that it would be a mistake to close them. They are social centres for many people and when they are well-conducted they are as orderly and as respectable as any other public meeting-place; for soldiers they are often the only places in a town where it is possible to sit in a comfortable chair and be quiet without being subjected to well-meaning attempts at entertainment by strangers. Often habitual beer-guzzlers are to be found in them but we do not wish to see the many penalized for the transgressions of the few. It is up to the proprietors of beverage rooms to keep their places respectable.

As for soldiers, we are a little amused by the eagerness which some people show to protect them from beer. A man who is old enough and daring enough to be a soldier is capable of making his own decisions on the matter, and will do so. If he wants to be a soak the Army will make short work of him; if he wants to enjoy beer in moderation, who has a right to hinder him; and if he does not want to drink, no one will force him to do so. The Examiner denies flatly that any group has a right or a duty to keep beer from a man "for his own good." To drink or not to drink is a decision which every adult must make for himself; and no country has a right to say to a man, "You are enough of a man to fight, and you must do so, but you are not enough of a man to be trusted with a few glasses of beer."

With a lack of humor not uncharacteristic of the cause which he defends Mr. MacLean deals with our quotation of a lyric in praise of beer written by the great Bishop Heber. We quoted it, he must remember, because the advocates of total abstinence have repeatedly quoted from the Bible in support of their cause. Mr. MacLean does so himself in the conclusion of his letter. The implication of this quotation, as we understand it, is that if the Government complies with requests of the anti-liquor group God will forgive our sin and heal our land. We are inclined to doubt this; we think that somewhat more sweeping reforms will be needed.

The Examiner repeats that it is strongly in favor of temperance, in the true meaning of that word. But temperance is a quality which comes from within a man; it must be of his own creation. And temperance, we insist, has nothing whatever to do with total abstinence. For instance, although we assume that Mr. MacLean is a total abstainer, we feel that he has been anything but temperate in referring to our statement of opinion on June 13 as "beer propaganda."

The Drew Fiasco

The withdrawal of the Crown's charges against Colonel George Drew, leader of the Ontario Conservatives, has brought to an abrupt conclusion a proceeding which no sensible Canadian could regard with anything but distaste. Col. Drew was charged with having made statements prejudicial to recruiting, contrary to the Defence of Canada Regulations, regardless of the fact that he has been active in recruiting since the beginning of the war and has on many occasions shown himself a devoted and loyal citizen. The charge arose because Col. Drew made a public statement to the effect that matter had been covered up in the report on the Canadian expedition to Hong Kong which would have caused extreme dissatisfaction if it had been made public.

When the charge was made this paper stated its belief that Col. Drew made his allegations primarily for political reasons and that the matter to which he referred, though doubtless enlightening, would not curdle the blood, which is what Col. Drew said it would do. A politician's blood can be curled by almost any act of an opponent. Certainly the appendix to the Royal Commissioner's report contained evidence of blunders, but it did not invalidate the Report as a whole or convict the Commissioner of whitewashing the affair. But this paper also stated its opinion that the prosecution of a man of Col. Drew's stamp upon such a charge was ridiculous and smacked unpleasantly of an attempt to silence a political opponent.

Now there is to be a free discussion of the Hong Kong Report in Parliament, and we hope that as a result the public will learn what lay behind Col. Drew's attack on that document. If Col. Drew is right, and serious matter has been suppressed, we want to know it. But we have faith in the integrity of Sir Lyman Duff, and we seriously doubt that anything of the kind will be disclosed. But we are particularly interested in seeing Col. Drew returned to his proper place in the estimation of the Canadian people; we do not like to see him put in court like an agitator, and we do not like to see him elevated to the status of a martyr; we like to see him regarded as the able, intelligent and respected leader of opinion which he is.

In bringing charges against Col. Drew the Government has been most unwise. Whether or not it eventually appears that Col. Drew was making a mountain of a molehill the Government has put itself in the wrong by its arbitrary action and has put a whip in the hands of its enemies. As a contemporary has said, the Government appears determined to make George Drew the next leader of the Conservatives in this Dominion.

Silent Impotence

The Ottawa Journal deals a resounding thwack to a cherished Canadian illusion in these words:

"For years before the war we boasted that we were the interpreters of the British Empire to the United States. Well, in the real test of this war, we haven't done much interpreting. While isolationists and Nazi agents sought, and not always unsuccessfully, to drive a wedge between the British Empire and the United States, to create distrust of the British and distrust of Canada, we have been content with a role of silent impotence."

Too true, alas! In the hour which tested our strength we showed that we knew precious little about the States and not much more about England. We are learning rapidly, however, and when the war is over we may be able to get our job as interpreter back again. But we shall have to do it honestly. The specious arts of the public relations counsel are of no use in our job. We shall have to know both our neighbors and ourselves better before we are any good at it, and we shall have to find our tongue. At present we are the least articulate of countries.

Swedish girls working in a certain munitions factory have all become red-haired as a result of chemicals which are used there. Knowing the popularity of redheads we suggest that this must be one of those Swedish Match plants.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

PIG breeders in Ontario are doing a good job and are maintaining quality, often improving it. The pig raisers cannot pay too much attention to the demands of Grade A. We are now laying the foundation for an after-war bacon market, and if the job is well done it will be a good thing for our farmers' market when things get back to normal. We must keep in mind that the British is the only bacon market we have and that market is a stickler for quality.

The United States Department of Agriculture has promised Britain to increase their war production in 1942 by 10 million hogs, 500 million dozen eggs, 900 million gallons of milk and 7 million acres of oil crops. This does not mean an increased export of these amounts, but if they are produced the world's food supply will be so increased that exports will be easily made if, and when, shipping is available.

HEIFER calves are getting in keen demand in England. The necessity of breeding stock following the war is beginning to be realized more every day. Many of the calves from dairy farms were sold at veal prices and that is true of grade bull calves, but heifer calves have an added value for prospective breeding purposes. Most of these calves are sold when a few days old and such calves in England are now bringing £8 to £9, which is almost $40.00. Information from the occupied countries seems to be to the effect that much of the dairy stock has been slaughtered for beef under German direction. Food for the troops comes first in Germany's demand, and milk for babies is not of such great account. There is liable to be a shortage of cows for the dairy in Britain and so the rearing of calves is becoming a business on some farms in order that a curtailment of milk may not happen in the near future, as well as to guard against difficulties in supplying the demand for cows in Europe later on.

Pig clubs have been organized in most English cities to raise a few more porkers on kitchen waste. These clubs have invaded London, and quite near some of the one-time fashionable shopping districts a few pigs are finding shelter and feed to enable them to grow into much needed meat.

A RATHER unique thing with regard to farmers' sons and daughters who work on their fathers' farms in England has happened. Farmers must pay their sons and daughters wages or they will have to pay income tax on that money as profits. The amount earned by sons and daughters can only be subtracted from the farm profits if actually paid out. This is as it should be and may be a method of straightening out some claims often not recognized.

Foxes in England have become so plentiful, with the relaxation of the hunts, that the farmers in Wensleydale have organized the Dales' Fox Extermination Association and are offering £1 for each fox brush delivered to them. Foxes' tails have gone up in price.

BALING hay in the field, following the mower, has had a good many advocates in England. It must not be thought that the hay can be baled green as it is cut, and then dried in the bales. With heavy crops the grass is cut and allowed to lie in the swathe for from five to seven days, the swathes being turned between the fifth and seventh days. Then two 6-ft. swathes are gathered into one by a side delivery rake about the 6th or 8th day and the windrow is baled on the 9th or 10th day. The condition of the weather will speed the business up a good deal, but rain in England does not come down in torrents as it does here and hay is easier saved. When the hay is baled they like to pile it under cover, or in a barn, with four-inch spaces between the rows of bales. Under good conditions hay may be baled a day sooner than it could be stacked. The bales are very convenient to handle and take up much less room than loose hay. The baler will handle from 15 to 20 acres per day, depending on the kind of crops. There are a few balers being used in Ontario.

We might have a dry spell now, and if so it will be a good plan to harrow corn as soon as it gets its head well up. If the land is inclined to bake this should be done as easily as possible and followed by another stroke of the harrow if weeds appear. If we have a shower the ground should be stirred as soon as a crust forms of it. A light harrow is best for this work unless a very hard crust has formed. Harrowing corn is a good plan to follow every year, but this would appear to be a year when it was likely to be of more than ordinary importance. We may have a hot July, and if the corn is harrowed when small and then cultivated until it shades the ground it will keep going ahead.

THE cattle market in Canada should be more or less definitely settled very soon as farmers must be on the lookout for cattle to feed next winter. There is an abundance of grass and whatever weight can be put on in pasture before winter is always to the good. Cattle, to eat a year's crop during the winter, must not be put in at prices that are unduly dear. We need beef, we must have it for our own fighting forces, and we ought to be able to send some overseas to help on the battlefront. We better, therefore, know whether the market is to go to its peak or to be controlled, and if so, how, and by what price ceilings or prohibition of exports.

The dispersion sale of Holsteins at Hudson Heights, Quebec, on June 29th, was a wonderful tribute to the constructive work of the late T. B. Macaulay in building up what was regarded as the greatest herd of Holstein cattle on the North American Continent. There were 68 head sold in the auction at an average of $1,926, or a total of $130,950. The top price of the sale was $6,500 paid for a five-year-old cow which last year was all-American four-year-old champion, and one of the outstanding cows of the breed on this continent. The top price for a bull was $5,200 paid by Senator Raymond of Raymondale, Vaudreuil for the junior herd sire. The whole story of the auction is a list of top prices paid for top cattle and goes to prove once more that it always pays to breed the best.

MUSIC TO THEIR EARS

Liquor Restrictions in War Time

Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—As a comparatively new-comer to this part of Ontario, I have become a reader of The Examiner, and am pleased to commend it as a news gathering agency and also to say that I am in accord with many of its editorial pronouoncements. I take the liberty, however, of challenging your attitude toward the present policies of the Dominion Government and that of the Province of Ontario, regarding the existing laws and regulations governing the sale of alcoholic beverages to men and women, soldiers and civilians alike. A metropolitan morning "daily" recently quoted with approval these words regarding those who protest the present growing manufacture and sale of intoxicants: "What's wrong with all these hysterical fanatics who insist that every person who does not believe as they do must be disciplined." Those who oppose "the Traffic" know very well what to expect from it and its patrons.

Recently The Examiner carried a long editorial on this question under the caption, "Prohibition Improbable," or words to that effect, in which it was irrelevantly said that a noted hymn-writer whose hymns are sung in our church services wrote a ditty in praise of beer. That does not necessarily reconcile us to the growing flood of beer that wastes materials and weakens efficiency in both the military and industrial armies. It is well known that authors of two popular hymns supported slavery with pen and voice. This information might please Hitler but does not reconcile us to slavery.

Two facts should be borne in mind by all who read beer propaganda, whether in our local paper or in the widely circulated daily already referred to. The first is this:

(1) Among the many who protest against the growing and privileged traffic in intoxicating beverages no body of representative citizens has asked for the prohibition of the traffic. So called "hysterical fanatics" have vigorously protested against the loss and waste in materials and efficiency directly traceable to beverage alcohol and many others have expressed grief and indignation that our soldiers must face not only the necessary perils of war, but also the unnecessary perils to body, soul and efficiency inherent in alcoholic beverages. And whatever their thoughts and desires may be regarding the ultimate solution of this personal and national problem, at present they are asking that the evil may be greatly restricted in favor of the nation's war effort. Among these "hysterical fanatics" are municipal councils like that of the City of Toronto, the Women's Liberal Associations of Ontario, Church synods, conferences, assemblies and conventions and a large representative delegation from the churches of Canada, Catholic and Protestant together, who who interviewed the Ottawa Government some months ago, asking for what? Prohibition? Not by any means but for the following:

1. That sale of alcoholic beverages in taverns, beer rooms, wine shops, etc., be discontinued and that sale of such beverages be confined entirely to government owned liquor stores;
2. That sale from government liquor stores be permitted only between the hours of 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening and on week days only;
3. That all advertising of liquor in Canada be forbidden except in the place of sale;
4. That when the request in item 1 is implemented an order issue from the Department of National Defence closing all wet canteens in military establishments.

Why then obliquietly attack the demands made by these and many others by using the proverbial "red herring" It would be better to know the 'straw man" effigy and face the realities which stirred the above-mentioned bodies to protest.

(2) The second fact to be remembered is this: That while the government has wisely moved to restrict our uses of many commodities and also our cherishes privileges in many ways, the same government in the face of protest and petition extends priority privileges to the manufacturers, distributors and vendors of alcoholic beverages to the extent that the great corporations engaged in the business advertise their prosperity in the newspapers. Dividends are bigger and better; arrears are being paid, etc. The future too is rosy for the business as the war affords "a chance for brewers to cultivate a taste for beer in millions of young men, who will eventually constitute the largest beer consuming section of our population." (Brewers Magazine, May, '41). What a glorious war! We have been told it is a war to save civilization. Surely we must have been misinformed for according to this advertisement it is to make the future safe for the brewers. No hysteria or fanaticism in that!

Let us not, however, miss the point. The public is asked to accept restrictions in food, clothing, travel, holidays, building materials and many other things and privileges. But no restrictions are to be placed on the consumption of alcoholic beverages, the use of which is associated with accidents, immorality, diseases, disorder and violence, neglect of or incapacity for duty as soldier or civilian and many other evils. The pages of The Examiner have told us a harrowing story of the abuse and neglect of children while parents enjoy themselves for hours in a beverage room. These things cannot be successfully denied and much to our regret and loss they apply to many of our men in uniform. The people are asking why not equality and impartiality in this matter. Does The Examiner know why?

Not long ago we read this passage in the Bible Message for the day on your editorial page:

"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their evil ways: then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land."

I submit this scripture is apropos to our present situation and experiences.

I thank you for your generosity in printing this letter.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity.—Ps. xciv., 11.

AND the vision of all is become unto you as the words of a book that is sealed, which men deliver to one that is learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I cannot; for it is sealed: and the book is delivered to him that is not learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I am not learned

Wherefore the Lord said, Forasmuch as this people draw near me with theirmouth, and with their lips do honor me, but have removed their heart far from me, and their fear toward me is taught by the precept of men: therefore, behold, I will proceed to do a marvellous work among this people, even a marvellous work and a wonder: for the wisdom of their wise men shall perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid.—Isa. xxix., 11-14.

BUT as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.—I. Cor. ii., 9-11

Spain Getting Itself Disliked

A RIO DE JANEIRO newspaper, El Globo, charges that Spanish merchant ships are supplying Axis U-boats with fuel in Brazilian waters. A little of that won't improve Spain's past sentimental position as a sort of cultural parent of the Latin Americans at large. The Brazilians are mostly of Portuguese stock, but their dislike of having their ships torpedoed is heartily shared by all of their Latin-American brethren. Mexico declared war on the strength of it. Argentina's reluctant government is now beset by the same aggressions.—New Orleans Item.

Japs Ready To Hit in Siberia

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

HITLER'S mass offensive in Russia is so perilously close to cutting Red armies of the south and of the Caucasus off from the rest of the north and east, that the time seems ripe for action elsewhere by both Axis and Allies to complement or counter the German successes.

The danger of a German break-through from the Don to the Volga on a wide front is very real. Stalingrad, great industrial centre, is on the Volga—and Hitler's headquarters claimed this week-end that his forces are within eight miles of the city. To the southeast is the Caspian Sea. Should the Nazis drive through to the sea they would cut off the great oil field of the Caucasus and isolate a great mass of the Red Army. Mashal Semon Timoshenko's rail communications with the north have been broken. The right flank of his line on the Upper Don stands threatened also with isolation from its southern wing. Presumably he must look eastward, beyond the Volga, for supplies and reinforcements for his left flank upon which defense of the Caucasus rests.

JAPAN MAY STRIKE

Therefore, the moment for which Japan has been waiting to strike at Siberia, may be at hand. There seems little doubt that Red reserves from east of the Volga, perhaps even from the Siberian defense area, must be in motion southwestward to bolster the tottering front in the Ukraine.

Chungking accounts have insisted for weeks that heavy Japanese forces were being mustered northward for use in July against Siberia. An attack there, integrated with the German offensive in Southwestern Russian, has been repeatedly forecast in China. It is there that the first "second front" of the 1942 campaign might develop on Japanese initiative to add to Russian peril before Anglo-American preparations are complete for whatever attack from the west may be in the making.

To support that view it can be argued that Hitler's Japanese accomplice, despite the trouncing received at Midway, has laid a protective groundwork in the Western Aleutians for an attack on Siberia. The Japanese footholds on the extreme northwestern tip of United States territory, which those fog-bound islands represent, could to some extent impede aid to Russia.

American Aleutian bases could help materially in shuttling air forces to Siberia to bolster Russian defenses if they are attacked or to strike back by air at Japan. Nipponese outposts there (for which a heavy price in lost aircraft has been paid) stand athwart that land-sea bridge. They do not necessarily make it unusuable, however. Presumably they could be by-passed at need. They do impose a definite obstacle, however, and one difficult to remove completely.

Unconsidered Trifles

Almost with one voice the five children protested: "Oh, that isn't fair. Daddy will win every time."

Ryan-Harvey Vows Taken In Beautiful Ceremony

LAKEFIELD, July 13 — (ENS). —The marriage took place in St. John's Anglican Church, Lakefield, on Saturday, July 11, of Mary Elisabeth Gretchen Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklyn Harvey, to Captain Harold Robert Stuart Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Ryan of Port Hope, with Rev. H. R. Howden, rector of Trinity Church, Barrie, and former rector of St. John's, officiating for the ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with regal lilies and blue delphiniums. Wedding music was played by Mrs. John Twist, the church organist.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white triple sheer, fashioned on Grecian lines with embroidered bodice and short train. Her finger-tip veil fell from a head-dress of pleated net outlined in orange blossomss. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses, blue delphiniums, and stephanotis.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. R. Grant Dillane of Newmarket, matron of honor, who was dresses in dresden pink with bodice of organza and a full skirt of net inset with panels of organza. Her bouquet was of blue cornflowers and baby's breath. Miss Mary Walker of Toronto and Mrs. Terrance Whitbread sister of the groom, of Paris, also attended the bride in gowns similar to the matron of honor's, but in heavenly blue. Their bouquets were of pink cornflowers. All wore head-dresses of net caught with cornflowers.

Harold M. Ryan, father of the groom, was best man.

Leading Aircraftsman R. Grant Dillane, R.C.A.F., and Terrance Whitbread were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a delightful reception was held at Riverside, home of Mrs. H. J. Stuart.

The bride's mother received in a gown of rose sheer, with matching felt hat and corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother was frocked in navy flowered sheer with white revers, black straw hat trimmed with blue, velvet flowers and veil, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

For the wedding trip to the Kawartha Lakes the bride chose an aqua gabardine suit, with a British tan hat and accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses.

Fit Young Women For War Services

LONDON, July 13.—(CP)—The first 100,000 recruits now are wearing the navy and white uniform of the National Association of Girls' Training Corps. They are Britain's young women nearing conscription age and their association is the little sister of the uniformed auxiliary services, the W.R.N.S., the A.T.S. and the W.A.A.F.

The movement to form the association got under way only last February and Miss Grace Browning, chairman, and Miss K. Curlett, the organizing secretary, preached the gospel of the movement in tours throughout the country. They stressed the need of giving all girls nearing conscription age some sort of pre-service training.

So far as the girls themselves were concerned they apparently needed no urging to join the movement. It was the parents who had to be convinced. The girls clamored for the same opportunities which are provided their brothers in the various cadet movements.

The Women's Voluntary Service helped the girls obtain their uniforms—the girls have to get them themselves—and classes now are under way in signalling, first aid, and physical exercises designed to fit the girls for quick acclimatization when they are called up for full-time service.

The girl who hopes To answer "YES" Should wear a FRESH and DAINTY dress!

How to keep dresses Fresh and Dainty!

There's no substitute for daintiness. Men adore it! Don't spoil it with a dress that whispers "perspiration," for that may spoil your romance, too.

Dip your washable summer dresses in Lux frequently. A dip in Lux — and perspiration odor vanishes. Your dress is once more fresh and nice to wear. And Lux is so gentle that it keeps your colorful washables looking bright and new much longer, and that's doubly important these days.

DIP them often in— LUX

THE AUGURIES, based on this day's mutual and lunar aspects bespeak a pleasant, profitable and progressive day, with all things moving toward the goal of happiness and accomplishment. It is possible that the domestic, social or sentimental, as well as the artistic and cultural, affiliations will claim paramount attention, although business of a productive and enduring nature may be under excellent stimulous for success. Affairs out of the customary routine may flourish and find stability through strange contacts,, or probably in collaboration with large or secret organizations or influential friends.

Those whose birthday it is may count upon a year of happy, progressive, prosperous and gratifying events, with some things stirring in unusual grooves or in conjunction with strangers, that may bring surprising denouements. Influential persons, elders and old or secret institutions may contribute to success and enduring good fortune. However, the major interests and activities of the year may revolve around the private life, social, domestic and artistic, with romantic or affectional culminations occupying the spotlight. Altogether a prosperous, happy and worthy year as well as an adventurous one may be expected.

A child born on this day should be blessed with excellent endowments of mind, heart and spirit, equipping it for a prosperous, happy eventful, rich and useful life.

DOROTHY DIX

PEOPLE INDULGE IN DISCOMFORTS DURING SUMMER MONTHS.

Part of Tradition to Do and Live Differently Regardless of Suffering.

Who was the hopeless optimist who first began ballyhooing about the good old summer time? Anathema be his name, for I know it was a man. No woman who has even gone through the struggle of trying to keep a permanent permanent when it melted down in the heat like a plate of ice cream at a picnic, and who has worn herself to a frazzle in a vain attempt to look fresh and crisp in clothe that appeared to have gone through the wringer, ever wasted any breath in touting the charms of summer.

In reality, summer is the time that combines most of the unpleasant phases of the other seasons of the year, and then adds a special line of afflictions of its own. It is when we are most uncomfortable in body most irritable in disposition and when our morals and our morale get as flabby as our collars. We do things in the summer we would be incapable of doing in the winter. Men who are Josephs in January and Don Juans in August. Women who are models of virtue in December rally along the primrose path in July. Prim maiden ladies strip off their inhibitions along with their high-necked red flannel underwear and appear on the beach in bathing costumes that would make Sally Rand feel that she was over-dressed.

Why summer has this affect upon us, we do not know. It just does. It is just part of the tradition that in the dog days we must do differently and live differently and be jour and carefree and sing a merry roundelay, though Heaven knows this imposes sufferings upon us that makes us often wonder if we will have the strength to live through it until fall.

To attempt to catalogue all of the disadvantages of summer would take a bill of indictment longer than one of Mr. Dies' report about his suspicions. But, passing lightly over the mosquitos and sand-flies and red-bugs and poison ivy and such minor afflictions that pertain particularly to summer, let us leap at once to that ever potent source of torture—the summer cottage or shack in the wods, or the tent by the brookside.

Summer Discomforts.

What agonies of discomfort, what weariness of bone and muscle, what sleeplessness of nights, what boredom these impose upon poor, guileless, innocent men and women, no tongue can tell. Yet every year, driven by some inner compulsion they cannot resist, millions of people who have comfortable homes, with a delicatessen store handy and Joe's right around the corner, in case the cook leaves, go and live in squalor and eat out of cans and lie on beds that seem stuffed with rocks, just because it is summer.

Summer is also responsible for that other horror—the week-end. At other times of the year your friends are humane enough to let you have your Saturdays and Sundays to yourself and exercise your constitutional right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, according to your own taste. But just let July show its head and the thermometer hover around the 90's, and you are a dead duck.

Everyone who has anything against you pays off the score by not only asking, but positively shanghaiing, you into spending a week-end with them at their little place in the country, where you bake in a cubicle under the roof, help with the housework, nurse the baby, listen to your host's old stories for the steenth time, and lose the money at bridge that would have bought the hat you have been dying for and felt you couldn't afford.

Other Drawbacks.

Still another drawback to summer is that it is vacation time. Especially for the children Of course, we all adore our own precious darlings and want them to be happy and to indulge in all of their innocent sports and pastimes. We like to think of their merry laughs ringing out as they engage in games with their little comrades.

But when the back yard is filled with a mob of kids from morning till night, who yell and shriek like wild Indians; when there is an incessant cry of: "M-o-t-h-e-r what can we do next?" "Mother give me five cents for an ice cream cone"—well, our nerves aren't what they used to be, and we long for fall to come when we can pass the buck to the school teachers for part of the time, anyway.

Oh, summer is a good old time; it is a wonderful thing to look forward to and make plans about. It is great to talk about after it is over. But while we are going through it, it is not so hot? Or is it?

YELLOW AND BLACK

By ALICE ALDEN

BLACK SPLASHED with bright yellow is a color combination that is a favorite from coast to coast. One of the most beautiful prints of this season is worn by Julie Bishop. It is of black crepe with a design of daisies and nasturtiums that run the whole gamut of yellow from pale tones to orange. The flowers are concentrated at the waistline and scattered on the skirt. The frock has a softly bloused top, slim skirt and black patent leather belt at the natural waistline.

Provides Laughs For Russ Troops

MONTREAL, July 13 — (CP). — The soldiers of Russia in grim defence of their Homeland, still find time for laughter.

A cable received by the Soviet Information Bureau here from Nil Nai Radlov, Russian painter and cartoonist, tells how a collection of cartoons, jokes and humor verses, conceived in the dark days when Moscow was in danger last year, grew into a semi-monthly magazine for the troops at the front.

"I experienced the greatest artistic doubts, and perhaps the happiest moments of my life as an artist during the grim days of October 1941," said Radlov. "We felt no fear for Moscow when the enemy was nearing the city. But it seemed to me that the art most to my taste—that of satire and humor—had become unnecessary for perhaps a very long time to come.

"It seemed that those people must have forgotten laughter. Their face muscles lost the ability to form into a smile...."

Then a representative of the Red Army on the Central Front—the vital Moscow front then endangered—went to see Radlov and asked for a collection of "front laughs" for the troops. In a small windowless room containing a desk and two chairs, Radlov and fellow artists prepared the collection and sent it to the front.

So popular was the collection that more and more were demanded until the plan blossomed out into a regular twice-monthly magazine.

"Yes,' said Radlov, "it turned out that our valiant soldiers found time for laughter. Thus we cartoonists found ourselves mobilized—laughter had become an arm of the Red Army.

LOCAL GOLFERS SET NEW MARKS

Andy Rutter Wins Saturday Sweep

The high wind Saturday afternoon helped two boys to blow their score sky-high at the weekly sweep held at the Peterborough Golf Club.

Andy Rutter, switching from high balls to low balls was able to beat the wind by driving them a country mile, leading the field for low net with a 68. Andy is playing great golf, and the dopesters are calling for a few upsets when he gets going in the club championship. Saturday he toured the first nine in a hot 38, with six 4's and a three, slowed up on the eighth and ninth taking 5 and 6, he ruined the last nine by taking a 10 on the 15th, putting two balls out of bounds.

Jack Hardill, playing a steady game bracketed a 46-44 coming in for second low net 70.

The five-star feature of the afternoon was Orley DeGraw, canning his second shot on the 17th for an eagle. This hole par four is 450 yards long. With a carry, over a ravine and with trees in a direct line, the average hitter detours around them. Orley's shot cut the trees close and was about 245 yards from the pin, so the shot can be placed in the hole in one class.

The ball winners were:—

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

This Wednesday is the day of our open tournament for men's doubles. The hour of play is set at 2 p.m. There will be three 15-end games played. Two in the afternoon and one in the evening; and as this is the only open doubles that we are having this year and, further, as the number of entries have been limited to 32, our bowlers are advised to make their entry at once.

Congratulations to C. Renaud and his rink. They were successful at Withrow Park Saturday. They came high for two wins. Each received War Savings Stamps. The rink was H. Darling, E. L. Sackville, J. Culen and C. Renaud.

Lawn bowlers throughout the entire district extend their heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. F. Leach, well-known member of the Peterborough Club, in the sudden passing of her son, who died at the age of 26 last week.

Plazas Lead Loop With Seven Wins

Games played during the last week in the Men's Senior City Softball Loop only served to emphasize the strength of the league-leading Plazas, who took a stronger grip on the top rung of the league ladder.

The Plazas can still be ousted without much trouble, but the Luckies, who had an admirable chance to do just that folded badly in their try and took a terrific beating. Royals however downed the Plazas, and the Juveniles took a trimming from the Soldiers. The teams are pretty well bunched with the exception of the Juveniles, and a couple of wins for any of the lower bracket teams could make a whale of a difference in the standing.

The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Plazas	7	3
Luckies	5	4
Soldiers	5	4
Royals	5	4
Juveniles	1	8

Softball Schedule

Industrial League headquarters have released the following schedule covering games for the next two weeks:

Time For Revenge

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. W. J. Squire has taken her squirrel problem directly to the city council.

"For 20 years," she complained, "they have dug up my flowers and eaten all the fruit on the trees, but last week we found they had chewed our shingle roof to pieces, and one of them even came in the door and tore up a set of my marquisette curtains."

The council has the matter under advisement—a city ordnance specifically prohibits the destruction of squirrels.

Willkie Active Again

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP).—Wendell Willkie says he will take part in the fall congressional elections campaign and will support candidates who favor a world order following the war. In an interview yesterday, the 1940 Republican presidential candidate said he favored men elected to office "who will see that barriers to international trade are broken down. We cannot have peace with economic co-operation and I want to see men elected who realize that."

Cough $3,000 Late

GREELY, Colo., July 13.—(AP)—If Mrs. Carl Meier, 37 could have coughed 20 years ago as successfully as she did today, she would be $3,000 richer. She estimated that sum had been spent in two decades for treatments, X-rays and surgery to dislodge a pin. She coughed today and the pin came out in three pieces.

Canadians Stage Greatest Seaborne 'Raid'

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH A CANADIAN ATTACK FORCE AT A BRITISH PORT, July 13—(CP).—Canadian forces, acting with the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force and looking to the day when they will invade Europe, have completed the greatest sea-borne, air-supported attack manoeuvres ever witnessed in European waters.

Assaulting the coast of England in mimic warfare with infantry and mechanied units the Canadians conducted practice landings for weeks, carrying with them for the first time lieutenants and sergeants from the United States expeditionary force stationed in Northern Ireland.

A huge armada put to sea several times with the Canadian force, staging in staggering dimensions dress rehearsals of the kind of work it would be required to do in an invasion of the lowlands, France or Norway. It carried the arms, ammunition and explosives it would require in establishing a continental bridgehead and went through the manoeuvres with such a show of reality that a field company of engineers required a full week to repair damage caused by demolition of defence works set up by British troops acting as "defenders" of shore establishments.

As correspondent with the Canadians I saw the training in every detail. It was the most impressive and encouraging evidence of offensive intention and power I have seen since I came to Britain almost two years ago.

I went ashore with the infantry invading force after two hours in a wild sea that had almost every man seasick and miserable until the blunt-nosed landing craft and 'R-boats' neared the shore.

Wait Like Sprinters

It was strange to see the men bounce back from their state of unhappiness to keen alertness, sitting tense like sprinters waiting for the gun in the last five minutes before our boats ground their noses against the beaches.

For the practice raids the fleet—the biggest ever to engage in such manoeuvres—went far out to sea and was shepherded to a rendezvous by the navy in the small hours of the morning.

It was rough the day the men were sick, so rough we all thought the landing boats would capsize in waves that towered 10 feet, tossing us like chaps for a moment, then burying us below the crests in the dary troughs.

As we neared the coats I stood up in the boat which was carrying me ashore with the main assault force. Seaward I could discern the water dotted for miles with vessels of various sides. The navy simulated a bombardment of targets ashore. Destroyers slipped eerily passed and gunboats guided us to the beaches. Overhead flew squadrons of the R.A.F.'s Hurricanes and Spitfires. A screen of acrid vapor from smoke shells in our path screened us from the shore.

Then through a break in the smeke I sa wone regiment already sitting on the beach. We touched, the ramps were lowered and the infantrp rushed ashore, crossing the shingle in less than 15 seconds.

Troops Hack Path Through

Two more battalions landed and our force slammed home the main attack. Engineers blasted at the wire entanglements and tank traps while troops cut and clawed their way through.

One platoon was baffled momentarily by a tricky wire coil hazard, but two privates flung themselves against it and 38 men ran across them, surmounting the obstacle. Other battalions landed behind after the bridgehead was established.

Engineers, lavish with their explosive charges, smashed windows for a quarter of a mile around.

On this manoeuvre the Canadians stayed ashore several hours, being ordered to re-embark after they had accomplished their objectives. Utilizing carefully learned plans they got off with their equipment, incuding their armored vehicles, and joined the mother ships which had been waiting offshore. The fleet then returned to its base.

The rehearsals were held in secret, attended only by between 30 and 40 senior commanders, including Lord Louis Moutbatten, chief of Britain's famous Commando force.

Lt.-Gen. A. G. L McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army in Britain, and his second in commad, Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, watched from the beach.

Lord Mountbatten's view was shared by such senior British officers as Lt.-Gen. Bernard Paget, general officer commanding in chief, Maj.-Gen. Giffard Martel, commander of the Royal Armored Corps, and Maj.-Gen. Bernard Montgomery, a special services expert.

One Maj.-Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, commander of American forces in the European theatre, paid a visit to the practice area to talk with senior United States army and navy officers who had been invited to attend as observers.

Boy Commandos Defend Coasts

VANCOUVER, July 13.—(CP). — Thirty youthful 'commandos' have attacked and defeated an imaginary 'enemy' which defended a small cove near Vancouver's Second Beach.

The attack was a part of field manoeuvres carried out by boys of the First Vancouver Cadet Training Corps—said to be the only cadet corps in Canada operated without adult supervision. The officer commanding is 17 year old John McNeil, who is proud that his unit was officially recognized by the federal government at the start of the war, and was granted a charter from Ottawa.

"After Pearl Harbor," young McNeil explained, "we were made an auxiliary to the forces of national defence. Commando work and field manoeuvres are the main types of training the cadets receive. We also do other work, including wireless, field engineering and aircraft detection." For weapons the cadets use a number of dummy wooden rifles, given them by the Legion of Frontiersmen.

FRENCH HOLDS PIRATES TO 3 HITS TO WIN HIS TENTH VICTORY

Dodgers Drop Second Game To Pittsburgh

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sport Writer

Lefty Larry French, leading pitcher of the major leagues and only undefeated hurler among all the regular starters, has turned out to be one of the biggest bargains since the Indians let go of Manhattan.

Brooklyn Dodgers picked up French for the waiver price of $7,500 late last season and the 33-year-old left-hander hasn't been beaten since.

He won his 10th game of the year yesterday, holding Pittsburgh Pirates to three hits in pitching the Dodgers to a 2-1 decision in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Dodgers lost the second game and watched their National League lead shrink to eight lengths, but French reached the halfway mark in a season that promises to be his best in the majors. His best previous years was 1936, when he won 18 and lost nine for Chicago Cubs.

The Pirates came from behind with from behind with a four-run rally in the eighth inning to down the Dodgers, 6-4, in the second game.

St. Louis Cardinals drew one game closer to the leaders by whipping Boston Braves, 5-1 and 9-3, the first on a two-hit pitching job by Harry Gumbert.

In the American League, the first place New York Yankees also divided a double bill but boosted their lead to 4½ games with the help of St. Louis Browns. While the Yankees were losing to Detroit Tigers, 6-4, and winning, 3-1 in 13 innings, the Browns pinned a double defeat on the second place Boston Red Sox, 1-0 and 10-6.

Saves Day for Yanks

Buddy Hassett saved the day for the Yanks, winning the night-cap with a two-run homer in the 13th inning after the Tigers had come from behind to whip Red Ruffing in the opener.

Denny Galehouse blanked the Red Sox on six hits in the first game, but the Browns needed a six-run rally in the ninth inning, featured by Chet Laabs' three-run homer, to take the afterpiece.

Johnny Vander Meer matched the pitching exploits of French and Gumbert by tossing a three-hitter at Philadelphia Phils as Cincinnati Reds captured both ends of a bargain bill. Vandy struck out 13 men in winning 2-0. The Reds won the nightcap 2-1.

At Chicago, Lon Warneke made his first appearance since returning to the Cubs and was whacked soundly by New York Giants, who captured the opener 6-2 but the Cubs bounced back to square accounts, 8-3.

Cleveland Indians took both ends of their twin bill from Washington Senators, winning the first 9-7 with a two run rally in the 10th inning and the second 5-0 on Jim Bagby's eight-hit pitching.

The day's best pitching performance in the American League was turned in by Jake Wade, who held Philadelphia Athletics to three hits and contributed three blows himself as Chicago White Sox took the second game 11-1. Roger Wolff pitched five-hit ball in winning the first game for the A's, 3-2.

A passed ball in the second game enabled the Dodgers to win a doubleheader 5-0 and 3-2 from Cincinnati in Saturday's National League games. The Giants got 12 hits off three Cardinal pitchers for an 8-3 victory, Boston beat Chicago 4-2 and Pittsburgh subdued the lawly Phils 12-5.

In the American League, Chicago turned back the Senators 5-3, Cleveland won 3-1 over the Athletics and the surprising St. Louis Browns defeated the Yankees 5-2. Detroit at Boston was postponed.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 13 (CP) — The Canadian racing season approaches the three-quarter mark in its third full wartime season with Vancouver providing the only dissenting evidence in general indications that the public wants racing, war or no war ...Vancouver's crowds and parimutuel takes are down considerably.

The Prairie meetings boomed, with Winnipeg up 14.5 per cent in betting and about 17 per cent in attendances....Ontario and Quebec racing also is drawing the mobs... the answer to Vanvouver's non-conformity may be proximity of the Pacific coast to immediate battle zones...If enemy srells dropped a few hundred miles from Woodbine or Fort Erie the punters wouldn't be enthusiastic either.

Social note: Omar' Gift, the 37-cent filly (someone should think up a new tag one of these days) who won the Winnipeg Futurity, is eligible for Mrs. Orpen's Cup and Saucer...Apparently the only factor to keep her from becoming one of the favorites is that she hasn't shown she can go a distance...She may have much of the event's early speed, though...but it's a long time until October...One thing to favor Western entries is the amount of practice they'll get on half-mile tracks this summer...

The Cup and Saucer will be decided at Dufferin this year because the army has controlled Long Branch since last Fall...Even two-year-olds can't run their best over a track full of tents.

Football talk

Joe (Winnipeg Free Press) Ryan finds a ray of light in the outlook for Winnipeg Blue Bombers because Wally Stanowsky (Toronto Maple Leafs), Bill Juzda (New York Rangers) and Andy Brannigan (Brooklyn Americans) are in the Air Force and will be training near Winnipeg in the Fall...All three were great Junior football players...Joe thinks they wil turn out for football and says: "If they do, lay a fin on the Grey Cup remains in its Littly Gray Home in the West"...Vancouver Grizzlies are not likely to operate this season...The club lost money last year and Greg Kabat, playing coach, has taken a war services job up the coast with Knights of Columbus.

Incidentally

Bill (Moncton Transcript) Hutchinson records a precipitous drop in Tenis interest in the Maritimes... Theo Dubois, Northern American singles champ, and Hec Millward will represent Ottawa at the Royal Canadian Henley at St. Catharines, Ont., July 23-24-25...Watch out for Sudbury in senior hockey next winter...It wouldn't take much coaxing to have Sam Rothschild take over the coaching...There's the nucleus of a great team in the Northern Ontario city now...If you notice several more hockey stars Sudbury-bound in the next few months, don't be surprised.

Newark Whips Baltimore Twice By 5 to 1

By The Associated Press.

Stranger things may have happened and even stranger things may be listed among the things to come, but yesterday's doing in the International League win the cast iron pillow for the present.

To begin with the league-leading Newark Bears defeated Baltimore in both ends of a double-header by the same scores, 5-1. And both Al Gerheauser, who hurled the first game, an Joe Page, who pitched the second for the Bears, allowed only two hits each. In each game, Baltimore scored its run on a walk.

The scene now shifts to Syracuse where Jersey City Giants and Syracuse Chiefs split a double header. In both instances the score was 2-0.

Bobby Coombs of the Giants and Red Barrett of the Criefs each gave up five hits in the opener, with the veteran Coombs coming out on top. The nightcp was the killer-diller, however, for each team could garner only one hit and both bingles came in the fifth inning.

At Buffalo, Buffalo Bisons and Montreal divided a bargain bill with the winning number in each case being eight. The Bisons took the first game 8-2 and the Royals the finale 8-3 Ten home runs were exploded with each team getting five.

The tussles that took place between Toronto Maple Leafs and Rochester Red Wings at Rochester close the days record. The Wings defeated the Leafs twice, Toronto getting four runs in each contest. Rochester scored eight times in the seventh inning to capture the lid lifter, 8-4, and five times in the second inning of the aftermath to win 7-4.

In Saturday's games, Jack Tising gained credit for both victories as Buffalo won 11-1 and 5-4 over Syracuse. In the seven-inning opener, Tising held the Chiefs subdued throughout and entered the second game in the eighth inning, rescuing George Barley, to clinch the verdict. Newark split with Toronto, 6-3 in 10 innings and 5-2, and Jersey City defeated Rochester 12-3. Baltimore at Montreal was postponed.

Dodgers Secure New Southpaw

CINCINNATI, July 13 — (AP).— Brooklyn Dodgers moved on Saturday to eliminate their shortage of left-handed pitchers by obtaining Southpaw Max Macon from their Montreal farm in the International League for an unannounced amount of cash.

Macon who has won eight games and lost four with Montreal this season was scheduled to report to Manager Leo Durocher in Pittsburg yesterday. Before he becomes eligible to pitch for the Dodgers, however, they must release another player, since the team is carrying the limit of 25.

It was considered probable that Linwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, veteran righthander who was purchased from Detroit this season, would be sent to Montreal.

The only other lefthander on the Brooklyn pitching staff is Larry French, who is sporting a record of ten victories without a defeat.

NEW YORK, July 13 — (AP). — Weather report: Are those storm clouds brewing among the peaceful Pirates of Pittsburg?....'Tis said several Buc players have their own idea why Al Lopez wasn't picked on the National League's all-star outfit....And some of 'em are rooting for Al to land a manger's job—whether it's in Pittsburg or some other place.

Dis-a and dat-a:

Rudy York gets a five-grand bonus if he knocks in 100 runs this year....He's on the 50-mark now.. ..But what boys would like to know is who made a fancy fielder of him? ....The way he's improved, there's even hope for Zeke Bonura.... Texas Ben Whitaker reports that Requested is all over his feverish knee, but he's been taken out of training again because of ankle trouble....And there's no telling when the hard-hitting little colt'll come back to the races.

Quizz program:

Are the big leagues getting ready to welcome Pepper Martin back—as a manager?....And what major race track as much as told the Turf Committee of America it wasn't making any plans to chip in to war relief, even though most of the big apple plants have kicked in with 100 G's apiece?

Target practice:

The big rubber mats which carpeted the runways in Wrigley Fields' lower stands these many years have been tossed into the Government's scrap rubber drive by the Cubs....Rogers Hornsby is happier now running the Fort Worth club the way he wants to than he's been in years....Even though there is no racing in Texas.

Apache Sets New Track Record

NEW YORK, July 13 — (AP).— Shut Out declined the issue in the rich Empire City Handicap on Saturday because of an off-track and maybe it was lucky he stayed home.

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons sent his "comeback kid," Apache, out to the wars, and the tall son of Alcarzar not only grabbed off the $10,100 winner's purse, but romped to a new track record.

Shatters Record.

Having his first outing since he finished ninth in the Preakness in early May, Apache took over the lead after half a mile, and just buck-jumped the rest of the way under Jimmy Stout's easy ride to hit the wire in 1:56 flat for the mile and three-sixteenths that lopped three-fifths of a second off the mark Tola Rose stet up only a week ago in upsetting Whirlaway.

With Shut Out scratched because of footing regarded only as "good," Apache and stablemate, Vagrancy, from Banker William Woodward's barn, went off as favorites in the field of seven. Apache was 5-for-2 in the betting, and won like a 1-to-5 shot as he galloped home three lengths in front of Joseph M. Roebling's Lochinvar before a crowd of 21,462. Warren Wright's Col. Teddy coming from last place, was third, another three lengths further back. Vagrancy finished fourth.

The Woodward entry returned $5 for each 2 $win ticket $2.90 for place and $2.30 for show. Lochinvar was $3.90 for place and $2.60 for show, while Col. Teddy paid $2.70 for third.

Although the triumph meant virtually nothing in the chase after the three-year-old championship, now that Shut Out is regarded as the horse to beat, the victor established the high-quartered colt as the No. 1 comebacker of his division.

At the start of this season Apache won the Experimental Handicap, and was rated as the East's top threat in the Derby. But he never ran a lick in that heat. In the Preakness he set a pace for a mile, then stopped badly.

A couple of weeks ago, under Sunny Jim's magic touch, he started to show signs of coming to life aagin and Saturday he was hot. Carrying 114 pounds, he looked as if he was able to run all afternoon.

Right Jobs Found By Selection For Men In Army

The development of highly modern methods of Personnel Selection is one of the chief reasons for the stream-lined efficiency of the Canadian army.

It not only makes for better team-work in a fighting force, where victory depends on team-work. But also it strives to make every soldier a more responsible and contented individual. In modern warfare, victory depends on this, too.

What is Personnel Selection? Simply this: finding the right man for each particular job—giving each particular man the job that suits him—helping each man to make a success of his job.

And the army has a new way of telling whether or not a man will make a good electrician, or a good mechanic, or a good shock-trooper and so on. And, above all, it has come to realize that a man will not make a good soldier in any capacity unless he is contented with his lot.

On Road to Victory

The army know that if you put each and every man in the job which his natural abilities and likes fit him to do well, then you have put him on the straight road to victory in the complicated business of mechanized warfare.

The soldier knows that the army, to which he is proud to belong, is concerned with his individual, personal success and well-being, as never before.

Of all the things which contribute to this end, Peronnel Selection is one of the most important.

Here's how it works.

A man enters the army. Within a very few days he is called into the office of the Personnel Selection officer in his particular camp, training centre or depot. He is given a test. The test is not merely an aptitude test, or an intelligence test. As a matter of fact it is a little of both, and something more. Following this he has a frank talk with the officer; and he can ask all the questions he wishes. And the officer does his best to get to know each man' interets and capabilities. One man wants to be a despatch rider. Another leans toward radio work. Personnel selection will help them attain their desired posts provided it is in the interest not only of the man but of the army as well.

Treated as Individuals.

To be treated as an individual, in this way, is one of the most important factors in the happiness of any soldier. When he leaves the office of the Personnel Selection Officer he should feel assured that, in joining the Canadian Army he has by no means exchanged his identity for a regimental number. His qualifications have been noted —and his preferences. His scores on the aptitude tests have been recorded. In short, a report is made out with all the particulars of the man on it. The officers doing the work are trained men and are able to handle the problems presented by the recruit with real understanding

If a man is in difficulty; if he has trouble, for instance, learning the drill movements or the other parts of his training, the Personnel Selection Officers can usually help him. His particular problem becomes the object of their earnest consideration until, with the co-operation of the Officer Commanding and the Medical Officer, they have found what seems to be the cause of the difficulty. When the remedy is provided, the man not only becomes a more contented soldier, he is a much BETTER soldier.

When a call comes in to a camp for a man to take a specialized course in some branch of the Army, Personnel Selecton again comes into play. Report cards are looked over. Men are again interviewed Finally a selection is made.

The benefits are quickly seen. Nowa days, there is nothing hit or miss about the choosing of men for special jobs in the Army. There is little danger of putting square pegs in round holes. And finally, the men themselves are happier. They know that the Army has a desire to help them into work which will enable them to serve their country best ,and, at the same time, be making use of their special training and interests, to prepare them in many ways for good jobs.

Hit Main Jap Base

CHUNKING, July 11 (AP)—Allied planes blasted Japanese headquarters at Linchwan, main base of the enemy's drive into central Kiangsi province, "with satisfactory results" yesterday, United States headquarters announced tonight.

The communique said two planes did not return—the fitst official reference to Allied losses since the American Volunteer group was incorporated into the United States Air Force in China.

Bell For Salvage

TILLSONBURG, Ont., July 13.—(CP).—No longer will the old school bell toll out its ringing message to students at the Tillsonburg High school. Instead, it will be turned into salvage and the bell sounds will change to the rum of death for Axis soldiers.

Be Ready To Fight

London, July 13 (CP Cable)

IN one of its periodic broadcast warnings to residents of French coastal areas, the BBC to-day asked Frenchmen to be ready to handle a gun because when the right time comes Allied forces will invade the Continent.

"When the time comes for British and Allied forces to effect a landing on French soil, let there be as many Frenchmen on shore as there can be to hold out a welcoming and helping hand to their liberators.

"Let every Frenchman, when the time comes, be ready to handle the gun handed out to him."

His Worship Mayor Hamilton and Russel T. Kelly, Hamilton, president of the Blood Donors Clinic Branch of the Red Cross, will officiate at the opening of the local clinic on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

PROBABLY STOLEN.

Provincial Constable Price Morris wishes to get in touch with anyone who lost, or had stolen, a box of groceries. The groceries were found in a woods on the 8th line of Smith township on Saturday.

THEY HAD LUCK

Three Americans, Joe H. Davis, Carter Buck and John Corkery, are sold on this district as a vacation spot. They have just completed a week's fishing during which time they nabbed fifty bass and three maskinonge. They were staying at R. Nurse's place on Lake Chemong.

INJURED OVERSEAS

Word has been received that Pilot Officer Lloyd Parnall has been slightly injured overseas. No details are given except to stress that his injuries are slight. The pilot of the bomber plane in which Parnall served was killed in the same mishap on July 6.

FLIES FROM COAST

Lt. Jack Gemmel and Lt. Douglas Cruthers, who graduate from the Officers' Training Centre at Gordon Head, British Columbia, flew from Vancouver to Toronto over the week end. They made the trip in about 13 hours. Both will be posted to Petawawa Camp.

RETURNS TO CANADA

Major George R. Melton, former accountant at J. K. Hughes, and one time adjutant of the Prince of Wales Rangers, has returned to Canada from overseas. He was serving in England and it is presumed that he will be posted to a unit for instruction duties.

APPLES RIPEN

The Belleville Intelligencer brings an intimation, if further sign is needed, that summer is at its peak. Yellow Transparent apples grown in the Quinte district were offered on the market there Saturday at 10 cents a quart. New potatoes were 70 cents, huckleberries 30c a quart and red raspberries 30 cents a quart.

THEY HUSTLED

Spectators report the Peterborough Fire Department emergency squad really turned on the speed when they got the call for assistance in a near-drowning at Camp Wenonah on Sunday evening. While there may be a few who claim speed is not justified, the greater bulk of the people will applaud the firemen for getting on the job fast.

IT'S A SHAME

At the Orange Parade in Peterborough, Saturday, one military officer was heard to say it was disgraceful the way civilians and soldiers utterly ignored both the meaning and the sight of the Union Jack as it was carried by. Apparently three years of war still have left a lot of people in the dark as to that that flag really symbolizes, he said.

BAKERY FIRE

At 5:37 a.m. Sunday a call was turned into the Fire Department by Charles Cheverill, a baker at Stocks Bakery. The fire started between the floor and the ceiling on the first floor and although the damage will be small it had the makings of a nice fire. Chief Gimblett is still investigating, but it is believed that the blaze was caused by a defective damper or one of the bake ovens.

MUST WORK HARDER

Police Inspector James F. Reid learned with regret this morning that the member of the R.C.A.F. who was piloting the Spitfire fighter purchased through the Police Spitfire Fund, had been killed, and it is presumed the plane was lost. This means the police will redouble their efforts to secure funds for another plane, and already contributions have been received for this purpose. Inspector Reid is Dominion Treasurer of the fund.

CHIEF CONSTABLE DIES.

Chief W J. Lannin, chief at Sarnia for many years, died last Thursday. He was well known in Peterborough, and for several years was a regular summer visitor to the summer hotel of the late Hank Howie at Hiawatha.

A PERFECT DAY

Prince of Wales Rangers were hosts to families of the regiment and to other visitors on Sunday afternoon, and everyone had a most enjoyable time. Tea was served in the officers' mess and in the sergeants' mess, and a picnic dinner was served to the gathering. The entertainment took place at the newly-established week-end camp at the Rifle Ranges.

TRAFFIC VICTIM.

A small red fox was struck by a car driven by Frank Horkey, 173 Adeline avenue, early this morning five miles south of Marmora, on Highway 14 The impact broke the animal's front leg, so the driver brought the fox into the city with him. On investigation he discovered the wisest thing to do in view of existing laws was to set the fox free again. Often fox survive after having a leg broken by a bullet or trap.

Wrecked Car Burns On Warsaw Road

Two cars were wrecked on the Warsaw Road late Friday night in the third bad accident on the same road within two weeks, and to cap the story, one of the cars left in the ditch caught fire two hours later and was burned.

A car driven by Frank Kelly, 303 King Street, was proceeding west on the Warsaw Road when it came into collision with an east-bound car driven by Joseph McMahon, R.R. 10, Peterborough. McMahon's car turned upside down on the road, but was later righted and pushed into the ditch, where it was left by the owner. Two hours later it was a flaming pile of wreckage.

In Kelly's car as passengers were the driver's sister, Miss Rosalie Kelly, and Mrs. B. Freeman. None of the people were injured to any great extent Provincial Constable Price Morris investigated

Market Stall Makes $15 For War Victims

It is some time since the Market Stall made available by the city fathers for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has been put to use, so the start that was made on Saturday past to take advantage of this for the fund was indeed a welcome one, and in the light of the total amount raised of $15.10, demonstrates just how well this can be utilized to help things along.

Two young girls, both bearing the Christian name of Shirley, set about this task of raising money for the fund in a most businesslike manner a may be realidy surmised from the nice amount of money they made, this marking at least the third effort of Shirley Garner of 143 Hart avenue and also a repeat work by Shirley Ball of 161 Park street, to help along others less fortunately situated than themselves.

The stall was laid out in quite attractive manner and almost represented a variety store with an array of dishes novelties, homemade cooking and canned goods from which they did a thriving business, showing they were quite alive to the self appointed task of raising funds to help the people of Britain.

A similar effort was held by two other girls, Dorothy McGee and Theresa Stewart on the lawn at the former's home at 526 Water street. These two young misses turned in the fruits of at least two efforts last summer, and were quick to take advantage that the Orange Walk would pass their doors to raise some money for the fund with the result that they were able late on Saturday night to turn in $8.00 to help things along. They, too, had a variety of goods to sell, and held a small draw on three small prizes which were drawn for by the secretary of the fund resulting in first prize going to Mrs. Leach with ticket 604, second prize to Mr. Kennett with ticket 146 and third prize to Barbara Johnson with ticket 186.

All of these children are turning to good account the leisure which absence of school work gives them, and incidentally the money they have raised between them will pay for a week's rent for five whole families whose homes have been lost to them by attacks from the air.

On a number of occasions a donation has appeared in the lists for the fund under the name of "The extra cent a day" from E. A. and M. This represents the putting away of one cent a day by three ladies, none of whom are in affluent circumstances, in order that those less fortunate than themselves might have some help, and once again they appear in this day's list for the fund.

Previously acknowledged	$43,741.80
The extra cent a day from E. A. and M.	3.00
Proceeds of Market Stall sale by Shirley Garner and Shirley Ball	10.10
Proceeds of Bazaar held by Dorothy McGee and Theresa Stewart	8.00
Total to date	$43,766.90

Lefave Faces Assault Charge

Arthur Lafave, faced his second charge in a week in city court this morning, when he was charged before Magistrate A. E. Gee with assaulting his wife.

Lafave had been remanded on a vagrancy charge on Saturday, on condition he obtain employment, but was picked up on Saturday at the request of Lafave's wife, when she charge he came home in a drunken condition and abused her. Lafave asked to be allowed out so that he might work, but Magitrate Gee told him, he had been treated very leniently by the court during the week, and would have to remain in custody. The charge was laid over until July 16.

Seven men paid the usual fines of ten dollars and costs for drunkenness, and Percy Holland, charged with selling liquor was given two months in jail.

Cowan Completed New Zealand Work

Still in New Zealand on June 9th when he wrote a letter to a member of the Editorial staff of the Examiner, received today, H. B. Cowan said he expected to leave for Australia about the end of the month.

"I had expected to be back in America several months ago. However, both the work I have been doing for the Government in Washington and International Research Committee of real estate taxation has involved much more time than was anticipated. It is about completed now. The Japs have been busy around Australia recently and the trip promises to be an interesting one. There have not been any passenger boats leave for Australia for months, but the United States government has undertaken to get me over. The New Zealand government has given me wonderful cooperation in the surveys I have been making, and the results seem likely to have much of interest to business firms as well as the average ratepayer, including those in Peterborough."

81 Years Old

Mrs. Annie Frick, 47 Jackson Avenue, is quietly celebrating her 81st birthday today. She was born near Welcome in Hope township, and has been living in Peterborough for the last thirty-seven years or more. Mrs. Frick was able this spring to plant the small garden at her home, and was happy today to be in good health in greeting friends and the members of her family on reaching her 81st birthday. Her children are Mrs. Corrine Meehan and Stanley Bucknell of this city and Albert Frick of St. Catharines.

Texans Invade Hospital Lynch Negro

TEXARKANA, Texas, July 13 — (AP)—Sheriff Monroe Watts said that Willie Vinson, 25-year-old negro suspected of the attempted rape of a white woman, was taken from a hospital by a group of men and hanged early today to a winch at a cotton gin outside the city.

Vinson had been tentatively identified by the woman involved.

The attempted rape was the third in this community this month.

Two other negroes had been picked up as suspects in yesterday's rape attempt and were placed in the Boston, Texas, jail. Watts said they would probably be released as the woman said neither looked like the man who had molested her.

The woman, wife of a worker in an ordnance plant, was reported dragged from her trailer-camp bed early Sunday by a negro who clapped his hand across her mouth. She was sleeping beside her 19-month-old son. Her husband was at work.

The sheriff said the woman screamed when her assailant tried to drag her to a wooded section. She wrenched free. Neighbors ran out and the negro fled. They chased him down the street into a cafe, the sheriff related, where a fight followed. Vinson, the sheriff said, picked up a butcher knife and one of the men in the cafe shot him in the stomach.

"The negro," he added, "was taken to a hospital Today a little after midnight some fellows came into the hospital. Vinson was on a lower floor, like a basement. I don't know how many were in the party or how many cars they had, but only three went into the hospital. The men weren't masked or armed."

Nurses notified officers. Sheriff Watts said he went to the cotton gin and cut the body down.

Labor College In Port Hope

PORT HOPE, Ont., July 13 (CP)—Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, at the opening here yesterday of the first Labor College in Canada, told delegates of labor unions at an all-day cosed conference that a new labor pool must be organized, principally from women. He made his statements public at an interview following the conference.

"The present labor pool is practically exhausted," Mr. Little said. "Women, single and married, have to move into industry in greater and greater numbers. Regimentation is a necessity."

Further curtailment of less essential production was also forecast, together with an increase in the efficiency of use of manpower.

Escape By Ladder

MONCTON, N.B., July 13.—(CP)—A man and woman escaped by means of a ladder after fire broke out in the three-storey Norman Sleeves building on main street late Saturday night. Other occupants were able to leave by the main stairway.

Burned Saving Son

STEWAICK, N.S., July 13.—(CP)—Mrs. Arthur Bulmer was burned about the face in rescuing her seven-year-old son, Willard, when fire destroyed their home at nearby Brentwood yesterday. The boy, an invalid, suffered burns on the back and legs.

Burton O. Miller Passes Away

Burton Oliver Miller, 52, youngest son of the late Colonel and Mrs. J. W. Miller, died this morning about 5 o'clock at his home, 212 McDonnel street. Stricken two weeks ago by an embolism, causing partial paralysis, Mr. Miller's condition held out extremely little hope for his family and friends. The aid of a medical specialist was obtained, but without any avail. Mr. Miller had suffered head and chest injuries in an automobile accident near Newtonville last September, and his health during the winter has been uncertain, although he had been out and around in recent months.

Mr. Miller was born in Peterborough and educated here. After matriculating from the Collegiate Institute, he worked for a time in the electrical test department of the Canadian General Electric Company and eventually graduated as an electrical engineer from McGill University. He was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and a veteran of the Great War. A charming personality, Mr. Miller's condition had caused his friends a great deal of anxiety during the early months of the year, and to them the report of his death this morning was a profound shock in spite of rather hopeless intimations from his beside last week.

He is survived by four sisters and four brothers: Misses Ada and Ethel Miller, Mrs. H. O. Fisk and Mrs. Lillian Schneider, all of Peterborough; Frederick and Gordon, also of this city, and Norman and Captain William Miller of Toronto. One of the last motor-trips of considerable distance which he had made was when he drove with his father, a veteran of the Army of the North in the American Civil War, to the battle field of Gettysburg for the seventy-fifth anniversary of that historic engagement.

The funeral of Mr. Miller will take place Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. from the family residence, 212 McDonnel street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Cheese Production In June Up Three Million Pounds Over '41

Cheese production in June reached 20,226,128 pounds as compared with 17,281,275 pounds in the corresponding thirty days last year, an increase of 17 per cent., as recorded in the monthly dairy report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

W. J. Moore, dairy instructor for this district, said today that the cheese factories of Peterborough and adjoining sections of Northumberland are making substantially more cheese than last year, and the local industry is holding up its end of the nation's contract with the British people.

"All sections of the province show an increase," the government's report states. "The cumulative production for the January-June period now totals 53,566,581 pounds, or 51.9 per cent. more than in the first half of last year, when 35,262,694 pounds were manufactured, and in that output the industry felt that it had done an extremely good job.

Peterborough Figures.

Although Peterborough cheese factories do not comprise the important sector which they once held in the dairy structure of Ontario, at least they are in step with the rest of the country while the creamery output has declined.

Creamery butter production in Peterborough county for the first six months of 1941 was 529,498 pounds, and for this year to the end of June 494,878 pounds, a drop of 34,620 pounds. For June, 1941, the make of butter in this count; was 151,078 pounds, as compared with 135,078 pounds last month, a shrinkage of 15,812 pounds.

Cheddar cheese production in the county has been as follows: Six months of 1941, total 433,[illegible]7, and six months this year 534,065. Production for June last year was 248,474 pounds, and for June this year 286,379 pounds.

The increases in cheese quantity were 37,905 pounds in June and 90,598 pounds for the six months.

"And the cheese-makers are turning out a really fine product," said Mr. Moore.

Bonus Attracts.

W. G. Ovens of Campbell's Dairy said today: "Our butter output is down because the dairy farmers in many cases switched to the cheese factories. For one reason they have been getting the bonus of 36 cents a hundred pounds of milk; but apart from that there is quite a strong patriotic motive with a lot of the farmers. They have been asked and urged to make cheese for the British people and they are doing that in larger quantities than ever. In fact I think the industry has vastly surprised itself with what it can do. And turning out ine quality cheese too. That explains the drop in the output of creamery butter and the increase in the manufacture of cheese."

Mr. Ovens said the dairy-farmers are turning into Peterborough as fine a quality of cream as could be found anywhere else in the province.

Northumberland Up.

Down in Northumberland county the farmers with cows have turned the scales from butter to cheese by a big margin.

For example: Their six months' output increased from 1,076,482 last year to 1,648,799 pounds this year; and for the month of June the cheese poundage rose from 615,046 last year to 736,173 last month.

Mr. Moore said today that the flow of milk has held up steadily in the cheese vats, and pasturage is still green.

"A good shower this week would help a lot," he said.

Ceiling Holds On Butter Fat

One of the women selling butter on the market Saturday pushed the ceiling price upward a substantial notch and thereby left herself in the position of liability to prosecution under the Wartime Prices and Trade regulations.

This woman from out Omemee way sells high grade produce, butter and eggs and so on, and presumably feels that she earns every cent she gets. Apparently she is the alert type, trying to keep in touch with the restless times and their changes.

"I heard on the radio that butter fat is up six cents a pound," she explained to the Examiner. "That would bring the price to 41 or 42 cents. I have explained that to my customers, and told them that if they wanted butter Saturday it would be at that price."

Creamery butter makers in the city said this woman should not have charged anything beyond the existing "ceiling," and that what she did was in contravention, however innocent in intention, of the government's orders.

"What happened was this," the Examiner was told. "The Dominion government applied a bonus of six cents a pound on butter fat which must be paid to the producer, the dairy farmers. This bonus is paid through the creameries, and it comes out of government funds. This woman was taking a bonus for herself out of the pocket of the consumer, and in that she was doing something that was unwarranted and no doubt was simply a mistake in judgment."

The general price of butter on the market Saturday was 36 to 38 cents. Women from the country said they had heard some rumors about a price over 40 cents, but they had no definite information about it and they did not intend to take a chance on pushing up the price until they had definite advice for their guidance.

Any way, one woman put a dent in the ceiling on her own initiative, but probably Donald Gordon won't hear about it, and no harm has been done other than a surplus charge to the customers of the woman who heard something on the radio that sounded like authority to advance the price to be paid by consumers.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 13, 1917—Russians advanced in Galicia on a front of nearly 50 miles to the foothills of the Carpathian Mountains, capturing several imoprtant heights of the Dniester River. French repulsed German attack on Chemin de Dames ridge west of Craonne.

Father And Son Rescued ByNon-Swimmer

Quick thinking and prompt action on the part of Leslie Delong, 130 James Street, saved Arthur King and his son Victoria, 82 McDonnel Street, from the swift waters of the Otonabee River early Sunday evening at Wenonah Camp.

With no thought of his own safety, Mr. Delong, who is unable to swim, secured a boat and pushed off, after hearing Mrs. King's call for help.

An employee of the C.G.E., Mr. King was spending some time at the camp with his family when his 3-year-old son, Victor, slipped off the wharf where he was playing. The father, who was not able to swim either, plunged hurriedly in after his son, and soon both were in difficulties. Mrs. King called for help and her appeal was answered by Leslie Delong, who had been visiting his parents at the camp.

Keeping his head, Mr. Delong soon was able to haul the boy into the boat, and then the father, and Dr. E. P. Snider was called. The Fire Department received a call and sent out the pullmotor, but their equipment was not used Mr. King was taken to Nicholls Hospital, and it is expected that he will be released today, and Victor apparently none the worse off for his ducking, was able to go home.

C. E. LaBranche, president of the Peterborough Branch of the Royal Humane Society, reported that he would draw this act to the attention of the Royal Humane Society as soon as possible.

Their Jinx Day

DELHI, Ont., July 13—(CP). — Twelve-year-old Jolam Molinar suffered severe foot laceration when she stepped on a broken bottle while bathing in Big Creek. Her companion, Phylis Kowalchuk, 10, was bitten on the knee by a dog when she ran screaming for help.

Local Woman Shot On River Road

Police are investigating an unusual shooting accident which took place on the River Road south of Nassau on Saturday afternoon, in which a young woman received a bullet wound in the calf of the leg.

The victim is Miss Gladys Allen of Lakefield, who was a passenger in a car with Pte. R. Lucas of the Midland Regiment, and Douglas Leal, 177 Bethune Street, Peterborough. On hearing shots all three stepped out of the car to investigate. Another shot rang out, and the bullet passed through Leal's trousers and struck Miss Allen on the calf of the leg, inflicting a painful wound. She was taken to the city, and Dr. R. K. Magee treated the injury.

Provincial Constable Price Morris intimated today that an intensive investigation is going on, starting with this case, and he believes quite a number of people who have been using high-powered rifles and .22's will face charges. He stated too there was quite a bit of evidence to indicate sabotage.

Boy Is Drowned In Burnt River

LINDSAY, Ont., July 13—(CP).—The body of six-year-old William Bowin, son of Postmaster Charles Bowin, of Coboconk, was recovered in the Burnt River a short distance from where he fell in the river on Sunday morning.

The young lad had been visiting his grandparents and had gone out after supper to look for bait. When he failed to appear near dark the grandparents investigated, and after finding the boy's fishing pole on top of the river dam they organized a search party.

Villagers dragged the waters for several hours before the body was recovered by W. Angiers. It is believed that the boy must have lost his footing on the concrete top of the dam and fell in the swirling waters below.

Measuring Thief

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 13 — (CP)—Someone here is going to do a lot of measuring, think police, who were informed a 200-foot steel tape was stolen from a truck parked alongside No. 2 Highway.

BUDGET LOANS

FOR EMPLOYED MEN AND WOMEN

No endorsers or guarantors needed — Monthly payments to fit your own income — Quick, private service

DO YOU NEED some extra cash? Would you like to pay off old bills as part of your wartime financial program? This advertisement tells about a simple plan which is helping many men and women with their present-day money problems.

Repay out of income

Suppose you need $100 for an emergency or to pay off debts. You get the money in a quick, simple transaction. Then you may repay on a regular monthly payment plan. At the end of a definite time, you are entirely in the clear. The payment plan thus becomes a personal debt-paying program.

The cost of this service is reasonable. Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each, a total of $107.10. The cost of your loan is just $7.10. A $50 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $8.93 each, a total of $53.58, costs only $3.58.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit. The principal requirement for getting a loan is a steady position or other source of income. We consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. You can get your loan quickly — usually in twenty-four hours or even sooner.

Loans for many purposes

People borrow at Household to pay a doctor or dentist bill, general expenses, insurance, mortgage payments, down payments on homes, old store bills, car repairs, a training course, tools, moving expenses, coal for winter — and for expenses of many other kinds.

You may repay your loan on almost any plan you wish. The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2 to 15 payments. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Look in the table now for the loan you need. See how you may repay out of income.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. Or just phone and tell us how much you need.

IN MEMORIAM

McCALL.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Marietta McCall, who died July 11, 1941.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
A faithful wife and mother, one of the best,
May God grant her eternal rest.
Good was her heart, her friendship sound,
Loved and respected all around.
To a busy life came a sudden end,
She died as she lived—everyone's friend.

—Ever remembered by children, Viola, Roy, Jake and Zetta.

LUCANO.—In loving memory of Mrs. Lucy Lucano, who died July 13, 1939.

Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

—Remembered by Husband and Family.

CAMERON.—In memory of my father, Donald K. Cameron, who died July 14, 1912; also my brother, Donald N. Cameron, who died July 15, 1940.

One by one they go before us,
They are fading like the dew,
But we know they're watching o'er us,
They the good, the fair, the true.
They are waiting for us only,
Where no pain can ever mar,
Dear ones who left us lonely,
Watch us through the gates ajar.
There's a father, mother, brother,
Gone within those gates ajar.

—Daughter Margaret and Family.

Beck Yawl Wins Long Huron Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 13.—(AP).—The Hostess II, a 52-foot yawl owned by C. W. Beck, Jr., of Detroit, was first across the finish line to-day in the annual Port Huron-to-Mackinac yacht race, completing the 240 mile haul up Lake Huron in an elapsed time of 37 hours, 29 minutes and 28 seconds.

The craft, entered in Division 'A' of the racing-cruising class, finished at 3.40 a.m. E.D.T. Her time allowance was 1:20:49. The course record, established by J. P. Lowe's Manitou in 1940, is 32 hours, 45 minutes, 27 seconds.

White Cloud a 60 foot ocean-going cutter brought from Baltimore by Charles E. Sorenson, Detroit automotive executive, was expected to finish more than six hours back of the Hostess II.

Three other entries of the field of 20 which started from Port Huron, Mich., Saturday before 9.30 a.m. to-day. The Shamrock, owned by Ernie Grates of Detroit and the Iris, skippered by Harry Fletcher of Alpena, finished one-two in the racing division—43 minutes apart, although the Shamrock's time allowance would give her a greater advantage in corrected time, the basis on which the actual winner is determined.

The Apache, a 42 cutter owned by Wilfred Gmeiner of Detroit, finished ahead of the Iris—first of the Class B racing—cruising entries to cross the line.

An unidentified vessel which a United States coast guardsman said he believed was from the fleet ran aground last night on Thunder Bay Island. All hands were saved. Her bow was under water.

Jack Nash Wins Amateur Title

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 13 — (CP).—The Ontario amateur golf title went to London today after Sharp-shooting Jack Nash, displaying one of the smoothest performances of his career, repulsed the bid of Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro at the Brantford Golf and Country Club Saturday.

Farley, gunning for the Ontario amateur crowd to add to his Ontario open title, was defeated one up by Nash. The Toronto player made a desperate bid to come back after losing the first three holes but never moved ahead of the Londoner and only once, on the 16th, was even with him.

Shorthand Course for Home Study

Practise for Promotion

Chances do come in business but only those who're ready can profit by them. A way to be ready is to learn a skill, shorthand, in your spare time.

Shorthand isn't difficult. You can learn it in simple home lessons. Then when an opportunity comes you're trained, ready to step in—with an advantage over unskilled workers.

In Pitman shorthand, you write symbols based on the sounds of words, instead of on their spelling. The word "pay," you learn, is a light slanting stroke followed by a heavy dot. "Say" is a light curve and a dot.

There aren't many sounds in the language, so you soon master the symbols. And for common phrases like "in order that . . . as soon as," you have abbreviated time-saving symbols, easy to learn.

Then for regular practise each day—with someone dictating to you, slowly at first. Before you know it you'll be taking real office-speed dictation.

Our 32-page booklet gives the essentials of the famous Pitman system in easy step-by-step lessons. Includes exercises; abbreviated symbols for words and phrases; pointers on acquiring speed, accuracy. Can serve as a foundation for a business college course.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Self-Instruction in Shorthand." Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRAPPING THE UNWARY

NO WEAPON is more lethal than a "trap pass" when you are opposed to optimistic bidders. It requires will power sometimes to refrain from bidding a strong hand, but if you feel sure that doing so will cause your opponents to keep on bidding, and get away beyond their depth, it may pay heavy dividends. When they finally get the auction up to heights which their cards do not justify, then you crack it with a double.

North: ♠ A 10 ♥ A Q 10 9 8 4 ♦ A 10 8 ♣ Q 7

West: ♠ K Q 2 ♥ K 7 ♦ K 9 7 ♣ A J 8 5 2

East: ♠ 5 4 3 ♥ J 6 5 3 2 ♦ J 5 4 ♣ 4

South: ♠ J 9 8 7 6 ♥ None ♦ Q 6 3 2 ♣ K 10 9 3

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl	Pass	Pass
2 NT	Dbl

It calls upon anybody's self-control to pass that North hand, even if he knows the other pair as a bunch of persistent bidders. It also requires confidence in one's own partner, to be sure he will keep it open if East passes.

When West rebid at 2-Clubs, North passed again because he felt sure his partner would double or bid if East passed this time. His faith was rewarded when East himself kept it open with that call of 2-Hearts, which sounded like music to North's ears. He doubled this because he was willing to play against anything into which the opponents might flee. And of course he had no problem about doubling 2-No Trumps.

The spade 7 was led to the Q and A, and the 10 covered by the J was allowed to win, the 9 then knocking out the K. Sorely beset, East called the club 8, North playing low and South winning with the 9, to take two more spades, then lead the diamond 2 to the A. The club Q came back to the A, the diamond K won, then the club J lost to the K, and the 10 also scored. Declarer got the last two tricks, but had lost eight and was down three for a loss of 800 points, which could not have been scored except for North's trap passing.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ J 4 ♥ 9 5 ♦ Q 10 7 4 ♣ Q 10 5 4 2

West: ♠ 10 9 5 3 ♥ A 10 6 ♦ J 8 6 3 ♣ K 7

East: ♠ A K 6 2 ♥ Q 8 7 4 ♦ 2 ♣ 9 8 6 3

South: ♠ Q 8 7 ♥ K J 3 2 ♦ A K 9 5 ♣ A J

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the principle of leading which applies vitally to this deal if East bids both spades and hearts, and South winds up in 3-No Trumps?

A.A.'s Keep Them Up

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 13—(AP).—Twenty-one Japanese bombers, escorted by eight fighters, attacked the Allied outpost of Port Moresby, New Guinea, yesterday but were kept at high altitude by anti-aircraft fire which brought down two bombers, Allied Headquarters annouced today.

"The enemys bombing was scattered and wild and there was no damage or casualties," a communique said.

A third bomber was reported hit and when last seen was trailing smoke and rapidly losing altitude.

2,000 Orangemen Celebrate Battle Of Boyne In Havelock

Old Sol forgot his threat of rain and turned on all he had for about 2,000 men, women and children of the Orange Order, who paraded down streets decked with flags and Orange posters is Havelock, in their annual walk, Saturday. The village was jammed to overflowing with people who had come by train and car to take part in celebrating the 252nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, when William of Orange and his army defeated James II.

Those in charge said that the march was smaller this year because many of the members had enlisted or were working on vital war work and could not be present. Too, there the district taking place on both were a number of smaller walks in Saturday and Monday and this robbed them of many of their regular supporters.

To the familiar strains of the customary Orange music, the parade moved off from Havelock Park with T. H. Stevenson, County Master, at the head, accompanied by the customary white horse, Don Anderson, County Marshal. Two others riding in the parade were members of the Belmont L.O.L. 277, Gordon Stevenson, Master and Wilfred Buck, Deputy Master. The long winding parade which was ablaze with the color of the banners of the twenty-five lodges, their bands and the outfits worn by members of the L.O.B.A. with their contrasting red capes or red umbrellas, swung through the streets.

Directly following the County Master, came the No. 11 Havelock and Norwood platoon, B Sompany, Midland Reserve Regiment, under its officers Major E. G. Johnston, Havelock, Lt. R. W. Goheen, Havelock, Lt. B. Stevenson, Campbellford and Sgt. Major J. Thomas, Norwood, who aroused a tremendous enthusiasm in the crowd as they marched smartly along.

Several Bands.

Many of the lodges had their bands and three of the most out standing were the two kiltie bands in their bright tartans, from Havelock and Campbellford, and the fife and drum band of the Diamond L.O.L. No. 80, of Peterborough. The latter in their striking orange and blue uniforms made a smart appearance. Members of the L.O.B.A. and Juvenile Lodges did not have to take a back seat in the marching as they stepped effortlessly along.

After passing through most of the streets, the parade returned to Memorial Park, where a few of the Orange speakers were heard. Reeve E. W. Seeney, Havelock, gave the address of welcome in which he said that this was one of a series of events commemortting the Battle of the Boyne, and on behalf of the people of Havelock, he extended a very warm welcome and invited the guests to make the village their own.

E. F. Reid, P.G.M. of Ontario East, said that the Orange Order which had been going for 252 years was as much needed today as before, possibly more, because "we are surrounded by influences that demand the attention of members of the Orange Order and other patriots of the Dominion." What this country needs, he said, are men like Capt. George White (member for Hastings-Peterborough), men of vision and courage who will go ahead and play their part. Although the horizon today is dark, we pray that those who are leading the Empire will be given the fortitude to carry on."

Other speakers were Major Balfour, Kingston, H. B. Fetterly, P.G.M., Belleville, and Mrs. John Kinnard, of the Lady McGill, L.O.B.A. chaplain of the Havelock Lodge for seventeen years, and the Rev. E. Lemon, of Norwood, and the Rev. S. A. Kemp, Havelock.

77 Years a Member

Two of the oldest members of the Order were present. George Temple, of Peterborough, has been a member of the Orange Lodge, No. 848, for 77 years and A. J. Graham, Castleton, although a junior to Mr. Temple, has been a member for 53 years, and both men have rarely missed an occasion to be present.

The lodges taking part were as follows: Havelock L.O.L. No. 326; Lady McGill No. 471, Havelock; Wellington LO.L. No. 457, Douro; Imperial No. 321, Otonabee; Northern Light L.O.B.A. No. 381, Lakefield; Beresford Lodge No 383, Lakefield; Diamond Lodge No. 80, Peterborough; County Juvenile Lodge, Peterborough; Vimy Ridge L.O.B.A. No. 244, Peterborough; Star of Bethlehem L.O.B.A. No. 650, Peterborough; Duke of Manchester Lodge No. 50, Peterborough; Eastern Star L.O.B.A. No. 525, Peterborough; Campbellford Lodge No. 35; Percey Lodge No. 108, Warkworth; Roseneath Lodge No. 261; Codrington Lodge 1363; Polmont Lodge 1369; Sentinel Lodge No. 2322, Petherick's Corners; Coronation Lodge No. 34, Norwood; Belmont Lodge No. 277; Caledonia Lodge No. 281, North Dummer; Enniskillen Lodge No. 522; Hastings Lodge No. 558; Blairton Lodge No. 125; and Stanwood No. 1338.

Meals were served throughout the day in Havelock by women of the Havelock United church and the Knox Presbyterian church, and the celebration finished with a dance in the Orange Hall to the strains of a Havelock orchestra.

Ends in Peterborough

For Peterborough Lodges the day's doings ended with a parade up George street from the C.P.R. saation under the leadership of the Diamond L.O.L. No. 80 fife and drum band, with Frank Shaw directing, and the Peterborough Brass Band, under the direction of Ernie Victor. E. F. Reid, P.G.M. of Ontario East, Melville Holden, Deputy County Master of West Peterborough, Robert Ritchie, Associate Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Black Chapter of British America and J. A. Holden, Associate Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East, led the parade up George street which was lined by one of the biggest crowds to be seen in Peterborough at such a parade in a long time. The parade crossed to Water and up to Dublin street and then down George, turning off at Brock street to the Orange Hall.

MONTREAL, July 13 — (CP). — Motorists who disregard the 40 mile an hour speed limit on Quebec highways will lose their driver's license and gasoline ration book, Aurel Lacombe, deputy director of provincial highway traffic, said yesterday. All traffic officers have been instructed to impose the wartime speed limit.

U.S. Army Gives Special Training On How To Salvage, Repair Tanks In Combat

Work of tank maintenance crews in modern war cannot be overestimated, repair and return to service of a damaged tank being just as valuable—and often a lot quicker and more effective—than delivery of a new machine. Much of the credit for Rommel's Libyan success has been given to his salvage corps. This sequence of photos illustrates a phase in the training of an ordnance tank maintenance crew of the U. S. army's training centre at Aberdeen, Md. At LEFT, a medium tank is hopelessly bogged in a swampy hole at the bottom of a ravine, to all intents and purposes disabled. At CENTRE the mud-covered vehicle is being hauled up the steep, soggy bank ,and at RIGHT we see how it's done—strong cables attached to a motor driven winch on a salvage truck supplying the pulling power.

Munition Costs Near 5 Billion

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP). — Total value of contracts awarded and commitments made by the Munitions and Supply Department on Canadian, United Kingdom, and other account approached the $5,000,000,000 mark on June 30.

Preliminary figures for the period from July 14, 1939, to June 30 this year show a grand total of $4,877,063,532. Contracts placed on Canadian account totalled $2,453,698,533 including contracts for plants and plant extensions, general purchases and contracts totalling $36,350,004 awarded by the Transport Department's Civil Aviation Division for airport construction and land purchase under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

The Department said nearly 335,000 contracts have been placed on Canadian account by the Department and its predecessors, the Defence Purchasing and War Supply Boards, at an average value exceeding $7,300. Awarding of contracts reached the high-water mark in the quarter ended June 30 this year with a monthly average of 18,029 compared with 13,214 in the same period of 1941.

and then flows southeastward to the Don.

In the bitter fighting near Boguchar, a large group of German troops managed to pentrate the Russian defences for a considerable depth, but today's mid-day Soviet communique said the group had been "wiped out." Five German tanks were reported destroyed and 350 Germans killed.

The war bulletin described the fighting around Boguchar as a "heavy defensive engagement against advancing enemy forces."

The Germans have a long course to pursue before they can hope to cut off the Russians' land approaches to the Caucusus from the north, the Russians said. But the advance to Boguchar put them only 435 miles from Astrakhan, at the mouth of the Volga on the Caspian Sea. They already have cut the main Moscow-Rostov railway at Rossosh and are camped on the Don River at several places.

At Voronezh, the northern anchor of the 200-mile front now aflame, the Russians were reported holding doggedly and even counter attacking in some sectors against the tremendous weight of the reinforced German forces.

The Russians said violent fighting was in progress there, with the Liberal use of land mines taking a heavy toll of German tanks. Some points changed hands several times, a Russian communique said. Destruction of the regimental headquarters of a tank units in the German 9th tank division was reported.

15 Tanks, 900 Huns Less.

The New Russian lines at Boguchar likewise were under heavy attack, the communique reporting that 15 German tanks were burned in several spasms of fighting. Nine hundred German officers and men were reported killed.

Thousands of German troops fell under the guns of stubborn Russian defenders yesterday and 76 tanks and scores of airplanes were destroyed, official Soviet reports said. Front-line dispatches painted an almost incredible picture of exploding tanks, struggling masses of men, bitter hand-to-hand fighting and constant bursting of shells and bombs along the 200-mile line of death.

Despite the bitter resistance, the Army newspaper Red Star warned the Russian people that "in some places the situation is critical."

The Moscow News reiterated the Russian appeal for a second front and expressed bewilderment that such a front had not been established in the time since the British-Russian mutual asistance treaty was signed on May 26.

"This country....needs men who are content to fight and to work and to ask no reward save knowing they are doing Gods will," said Dean Harding.

Lt.-Col. T. A. Kidd of Kingston, Ont., Grand Master of the Orange Lodge for British North America, told a huge rally at Hamilton on Saturday that "to-day, our Government by its indecision, lack of courage and weakness in the face of a powerful enemy, is encouraging disunity and sowing seeds of disunion among the provinces."

In addition to the 34 Hamilton lodges, Oranget groups from the Counties of Brant, Haldimand, Wentworth, York, Lincoln, Welland, Norfolk and Middlesex took part.

Thousands of persons watched a huge parade at Lucknow. Thirty lodges took part in the walk and there were a number of fife and drum bands in the parade.

L. H. Saunders of Toronto, Past Grand Master for Ontario West, told the Lucknow gathering "What we need today is freedom of speech for true Canadians unity and 100 per cent co-operation in the Orange Order."

Thirty-five lodges from the southern part of Hastings County took part in the parade at Stirling. One of the leaders was 86-year-old Robert Eggleton, who has been a member of the Order 67 years. He has only missed one celebration in all those years, and declared he won't miss another, even if he has to be carried.

Five lodges of the North Kent L.O.L. held a picnic at Walpole's Island, near Wallaceburg, on Saturday in place of the annual walk. Chief John Caldwell of the Pottawattomie Tribe was chairman.

York County Orangemen gathered at Woodbridge on Saturday, where Gordon Graydon, Conservative member of Parlaiment for Peel County caled for total war on the part of the Canadian Government.

smaller than the 1,000-plane R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raids on Bremen, Cologne and Essen but, like them, it added a new problem to Germany's worries about air defence.

Flying no farther than to Danzig, planes could reach almost any city in Germany, strike into Poland almost to Warsaw, into Italy almost to Rome and hit targets in western slovakia, Hungary or Yugoslavia. By its stroke, the R.A.F. expunged Danzig from Germany's list of 'safe' cities The Germans had been making the most of its U-boat building facilities but now neither it nor other remote industrial centres are beyond the R.A.F.'s long arm. Danzig had been hit only once before, on the night of November 10, 1940.

Danzig was added to a growing list of targets of this spring and summer in hitting against Hitler's U-boat hatcheries. Others have been Bremen, one of the biggest, which has been bombed four times; Emden, Wilhelmshaven, Kiel, Rostock and Hamburg; and Stuttgart, where instruments are made for undersea navigation.

Bad weather over the continent prevented the R.A.F. from following up the Danzig assault with another raid on Germany last night enemy tank forays, but there was little activity on the southern flank.

Dispatches from the front indicated that infantry had played a major part in the fighting along the coast, with mechanized forces in a supporting role. The Australians carved out their gains at the bayonet point.

There was no indication that tanks had been heavily engaged at any point on the front thus far in the renewed battle, and it appeared that both Rommel and General Sir Claude Auchinleck were conserving their armored strength for a crucial moment.

Both the Axis and Allied air forces were engaged heavily, however, and British Headquarters said there were signs of increasing enemy aerial activity — indicating, perhaps, that Rommel had obtained much-needed plane reinforcements.

Eignt Axis planes — including three big Junkers 52 troop transports—were shot down in fierce dogfights over the lines on Saturday, and three more were destroyed during enemy assaults upon Malta. Loss of three planes in those engagements was announced.

Destruction of the three Junkers transports—each capable of carrying 40 to 60 troops—brought to at least 15 the number of these planes shot down in two days. It appeared probable that some 600 Nazi troops had been destroyed with the transports, British sources said.

British and United States bombers also pounded Axis communication lines during the week-end, blasted at truck concentrations and raided the supply ports of Tobruk and Bengasi.

New Potatoes 60 Cents A Peck On Farm Market Saturday

Butter sold at 37 and 38 cents on the market Saturday, the average price for months, but some of the women from the country said their latest information quoted, butterfat at 41 and 32 cents. One woman supplying a group of customers said she received 41 cents because she considered that price to be fair and in line with other dairy produce values.

The farm produce market was brisk and strongly supported in demand. James Healey of Asphodel sold out at 10.30 o'clock and the gardeners of the district were kept busy handing out new potatoes, leafy vegetables, fruits and so on.

It was a typical mid-summer market.

Potatoes were 60 and 70 cents a peck. Some of the growers sold their stock at 40 cents the six-quart basket.

Herb Doig's prices included the following: carrots, beets and onions, 6 bunches for 25 cents; lettuce, 5c a head; peas in the pod, 6 quarts for 40c.

Shelled peas were 35 cents a quart and 20 cents a pint. Spinach seemed to be neglected or out of supply. At any rate it wasn't conspicuous. Fred Clifford asked 15c a peck for the leafy chard.

Asparagus was 3 bunches for 25c. Strawberries, looking like the lees of their crop, the tail-end of it, were 23c; or 2 boxes for 46c. They were pushed into the background by the later berries.

Red raspberries in the pint-sized boxes were 18 cents or two boxes for 35 cents. William Saltern of Dummer was lamenting about the husckleberry crop, at least as much as Bill can lament, and that's not so much. He says the crop is light, and the price of 25c a quart is something of a bargain compared with other fruits. He had some 11-quart baskets at $2.50 and will be in again next Saturday.

Six-quart baskets of cherries from the Bickle Orchards, Bowmanville, were 80c, and were all gone by 11 o'clock. Cauliflowers were 5, 10 and 15c.

Bernard McManus from the Lakefield district quoted new clover honey at 25c for pound bottles. Four-pound pails were 65 cents. That was the last season price all through the winter ,and it will not be surprising if the producers ask for a higher level than that before long. Mr. McManus said the clover crop is exceptionally good.

B. Isaac of Norham had black and white raspberries at 30 cents the box.

Eggs were 30 to 35c, and the extra-sizes were 37 to 42c. Spring chickens were 30 to 33c a pound and hens 28 to 30c. Gooseberries were 2 quart boxes for 25c. Bouquets of flowers sold at 25 and 50c. The delphiniums were attractive here and there about the Market Hall. Gaillardias, phlox and other flowers were noticed. George Benton quoted Regal lillies at 5c a bloom, and water hyacinths at 25c. He was also showing a bottle garden, but you have to see it to understand the idea.

Red currants were 10c a box, and white currants the same price. The feature of the market was the lively demand for the new vegetabels and fruits. People are probably becomang more "vitamin-conscious." By the way, did you read that magazine article about milk? It is in the new Cosmopolitan. W. G. Ovens ought to buy a copy for all his customers, and then sign on some more herds. For all accounts, however, there are no idle cows in this part of the country.

Return Corned Beef

OTTAWA, July 13—(CP). — Retailers who have in stock one case or more of corned beef must turn it in at once to a distributor, the Wartime Prices nd Trade Board orde ed Friday, and the distribution must hold it for disposition by the Board.

This instruction follows "freezing" June 9 of all corned beef stock "in view of the importance of this item in rations for the armed forces and the fact that imports from South America had encountered serious shipping difficulties," the Board said.

IMPERIAL POLICIES

"something to look forward to"

● Among the 8,000 who bought Imperial Life policies in 1941 are more than 1,000 men who realized the truth of the saying that "man is the architect of his own fortunes." They acted and—thanks to Imperial policies—they will be "their own boss" a few years from now.

Their policies will mature when they are 50 - 55 - 60 - 65 - and at various ages in between, then—a regular income for the rest of their days—time for hobby, play, or work, as they wish. Meanwhile their families or dependents are protected "whatever happens."

These 1,000 men now walk with a more buoyant step, for the burden of the future sits lightly on their shoulders. They, indeed, "have something to look forward to."

Vichy Snubs F.D.R. Plan For Warships

Warns U.K. Justified Moving The Ships Or Destroing Them

WASHINGTON, July 14—(AP).—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles disclosed today that the Vichy Government has rejected two proposals by President Roosevelt for the Egyptian war zone.

The seven warships involved were demilitarized, by agreement with British authorities shortly after the fall of France in 1940 ,and since then have remained in the British naval base at Alexandria.

President Roosevelt, Welles said, proposed to Vichy on July 3, that the warships be moved through the Suez Canal under the protective custody of the United States and sailed to an American port, or some neutral port, for internment until the end of the war.

The President pointed out to the Vichy Government that the warships at Alexandria were in a precarious position, always likely to be subject to attack, whereas if they were removed to another port far from the war zone they would be safeguarded and returned to France after the war.

Destruction Justified.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt warned Vichy that if this offer were rejected British authorities would be

Cardin Staying Out

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP).—Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former Minister of Public Works and Transport, reiterated today that there is "no change" in his attitude opposing the Government's amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act to permit overseas conscription by proclamation.

Mr. Cardin, however, put those reports to rest when he told The Canadian Press today:

"I have not been invited to return to the Cabinet; I do not intend to return; and my position is unchanged."

Hun Shifting Back Off Dutch Coast

Move Offices Inland; 3 Lines Of Guns, Widen Belgian Roads

LONDON, July 14.—(CP).—German occupation authorities were reported today to have put the Netherlands on an "invasion" footing and enforced new defence precautions in Belgium and Northern France.

A Netherlands Government spokesman said information had been received that many important German military offices at The Hague had been moved inland to Hilversum and other points closer to the German border following a tour of Holland by Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt

A Netherlander, who has just reached London from Holland said many Nazi families and high German Government officials have moved from coastal provinces to Drente and Oerijsul Provinces along the German frontier.

The escaped Netherlander said a large number of hostages had been seized in Belgium and Northern France on Von Rundstedt's orders. The German-controlled Netherlands radio announced yesterday that many more hostages had been seized in the Netherlands.

The Belgian Government said it had received word that the Germans had halted all construction work in Belgium except widening of paved roads over which motorized divisions could be rushed to the coast.

Equipment from dismounted Belgian defences in the north has been moved to coastal areas and three Nazi lines now extend about nine miles deep from the channel, a Belgian Government source said.

Despite the stern new Nazi measures, the Belgian spokesman said a steel mill had been blown up at Charleroi and that 1,000 tons of flax intended for German parachutes had been burned in Central Belgium.

Oil Field Scout

ANKARA, Turkey, July 14 (AP).—A German twin-engined medium bomber was disclosed last night to have made a forced landing at Trabzon, on Turkey's Black Sea coast, southwest of the Soviet Caucasian oil port of Batum.

The crew was interned.

The plane apparently had been on a reconnaissance flight over the Russian oil fields.

Huns Run Amok Slaughter 700 As Chief Slain

LONDON, July 14.— (CP) — A Yugoslav Government spokesman declared today 700 Croats had been killed in reprisals by the German Gestapo following assassinations of the Gestapo chief of Zagreb.

The spokesman said the Gestapo chief was a major helm and that he was killed by a hand grenade thrown into his car as he rode along the main street of Zagreb.

He declined to give the source of his information and said he could not state exactly when the killings occurred.

"The Gestapo guards ran amuck after the bombing," the Yugoslav spokesman said, "shooting at everyone moving on the street and hurling hand grenades through nearby windows.

"During the day the Germans rounded up almost all persons in the immediate neighborhood and shot them."

Loses His Truck In Salvage Push

SHARON, Conn., July 14—(AP).—Sharon's salvage committee is doing a good job of colecting scrap metal for the war effort, but in the opinion of Louis Levaux, a farmer, the committee is a little impetuous.

Devaux was returning from haying yesterday when his motor truck broke down. It was milking time, so he decided to leave the vehicle and return later to make repairs.

When he returned he discovered the truck had disappeared, and a hint from a resident sent him around to salvage headquarters. There Devaux discovered that salvage workers had scrapped the truck and turned it over to a junk dealer during the short interim. All the owner salvaged were four tires and the battery.

Nettled at first, Devaux decided it was a worthy cause and hopes that the Rationing Board will allow him to buy a new truck.

700 Shells Rained In Matruh Send Rommel 200 Miles Back To Tobruk For Supplies

Germans Rush Troops Aid Via Crete By Both Air And Sea Convoys, British Bomb Ports Into Mass Of Debris

CAIRO, July 14—(AP).—Axis armored forces have been repulsed in another eastward lunge on the Egyptian corridor battle front and the enemy has been hit heavily by the R.A.F. despite desert sandstorms, British headquarters announced today.

The enemy attacked with tanks and truck-borne infantry at the coastal end of the battle line west of El Alamein yesterday, a communique said, and contact was made also between opposing columns inland, on the southern end of the line, but there was no indication which side was on the offensive there.

As the land front flared back into action, Britain harried the Axis Mediterranean supply lines, trying with the great guns of her fleet and far-ranging bombers of the R.A.F. to choke off reinforcements for the enemy and whittle down his reserves of machines and supplies.

"Air activity was intensified in the battle area," said a joint communique of British headquarters and the R.A.F.

"Our fighters, fighter-bombers and light bombers attacked landing grounds in the El Daba area, a column of tanks and large concentrations of vehicles.

"All attacks were successful, some tanks being destroyed and at least six enemy aircraft were shot down in addition to others destroyed on the ground."

5 Down Over Malta

All these air operations, including a battle over Malta yesterday in which at least five enemy raiders were destroyed and others damaged, cost the R.A.F. only one plane.

One by one, Britain's air and sea arms picked off the ports behind Field Marshal Erwin Rommel from whence he might get more men and material to tip the balance on the deadlocked front and put his stalled drive on Alexandria back in motion.

When Matruh, the Axis' most advanced supply port barely 200 miles back, literally was knocked out by British naval planes and warships which flung 700 shells in the harbor, the Axis had to look 200 miles farther westward to Tobruk as the nearest point where any considerable supplies could be landed.

But Tobruk, itself an almost daily target for the R.A.F., next was singled out for a "bomb-a-minute" raid for three straight hours by Britain's heavy four-motored bombers.

A communique last night said direct hits were scored on ships in the port and on dock installations.

(Reports in Ankara, Turkey, said the Germans are rushing occupation troops from Greece and reserves from the Russian front to Rommel's aid from Greek ports to Tobruk, along with convoys of mechanized equipment.

(The R.A.F. announcement last Saturday that it had shot down 12 big Nazi transport planes over the Mediterranean indicated Axis reinforcements also were being flown to North Africa.)

Still farther back, British warships and submarines are combing the seas to intercept Axis convoys while Allied aircraft are pounding Bengasi, the enemy's main African base.

Naval aircraft, which started the wrecking job at Matruh in the predawn darkness Sunday, have been more active bombing Axis supply depots than ever before in the desert struggle.

Member Rapped Over Sinking Tip

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP). — The third official statement on the U-boat toll in Canada's great St. Lawrence Waterway has been placed on record with Navy Minister Macdonald's announcement in the House of Commons that three ships of the United Nations were torpedoed in the Gulf of St. Lawrence "about a week ago."

Mr. Macdonald gave few details in his statement to the House yesterday beyond the fact that casualties numbered four killed and four missing against 99 saved.

The Navy Minister said he felt "almost required" to make the announcement because J. S. Roy (Independent Gaspe, had broken the news with his statement in the House last Friday about the sinking of three vessels in a 14-ship convoy on July 5.

This premature report, Mr. Macdonald said in stressing the need of secrecy to keep the enemy guess-

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 14—(AP).—The diplomatic exchange ship Drottningholm is scheduled to sail tonight for Sweden carrying some German nationals on a final voyage.

The Swedish vessel under charter to the United States, made two exchange voyages between Lisbon and New York. After her arrival here two weeks ago the Government announced that Germany had refused to guarantee safe conduct for any more trips.

The ship will sail to Gothenburg, Sweden, where she will be returned to her Swedish owners.

Butter Subsidy To Involve 15 Million Cost

OTTAWA, July 14.—(CP).—Foods Administrator J. G. Taggart of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said about $15,000,000 is involved in the Government plan to subsidize production of butter by five cents a pound—only half the amount which would have been involved if the five cents additional had been permitted on the retail selling price.

Mr. Taggart spoke at a Dominion-provincial conference on butter production

If, instead of the subsidy, a retail price increase of five cents a pound had been permitted, it would have increased the cost-of-living index by one-half of one per cent. This probably would have been a determining factor in bringing the index up to a full point, causing an increase in the cost-of-living bonus.

The cost of a one-point increase in the cost-of-living index, said Mr. Taggart, has been estimated at $30,000,000.

Must Boost Output

The farm labor problem is one of organiaztion of the available manpower, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today at the opening session of a two-day Dominion-Provincial conference aimed at increasing creamery butter production.

All the labor available for agriculture now is on the farms, Mr. Gardiner told the meeting which was attended by provincial and federal agriculture officials and representatives of the dairy industry. With unemployment at its lowest point in history, there was no labor surplus in Canada.

Explaining the Government's position on the floods of requests that men be taken out of the army and placed on farms, Mr. Gardiner said the demands are so many and so varied that to release the men would mean a large proportion of the armed forces would be continually on the move.

He outlined Canada's food production program, and said the farmers of the Dominion have more than met every request from Great Britain for essential food products.

He asked the provincial officials

Moscow Sees Germans Out To Win Before 2nd Front Is Set Up

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 14 (AP)—Three powerful German columns, driving into the Don River bend toward Stalingrad on the Volga, gained further ground today south of Boguchar where the Red Army fell back fighting to prevent being flanked.

(Axis reports reaching London through Stockholm said the German drive had carried through Kazansk, 30 miles beyond Boguchar, and Migulinsk, 10 more miles southeast—to about 160 miles from Stalingrad.)

Stalingrad also was menaced by a second thrust eastward from Lisinchaosk, some 140 miles southwest of Boguchar.

Red Star said that along the whole Don front the Germans had thrown "great superiority in men and machines" into their offensve.

The Army organ, expresang the Russian desire for a second front, said:—

"The Germans want to defeat us before our Allies can land on the continent."

There was no specific information as to how far the Russians fell back south of Boguchar, but despatches said several kilometres.

On the East Don Bank

There seemed the possibility the Russians planned their next stand on the east bank of the Don, as at Voronezh, rather than risk entrapment on the west bank.

Even at Voronezh, however, the Russians said the Germans had effected a break through by pouring tremendous forces into a narrow salient.

After the one break-through, however, the Russian stand stiffened and defences held. From the north

Wreck Uses Gun Jap Scare On

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14 — (AP). — An eighty-three foot United States naval patrol boat ran aground early to-day on the Seal Rocks near the entrance to the Golden Gate, but the ships three officers and ten men were rescued by breeches buoy.

Navy Press Relations officer said an effort would be made to float the converted fishing boat at high tide to-day. He said it appeared the boat was merely beached and not "hung on a rock."

The boat, drifting helplessly toward the rocky shore, came out of the darkness with machine guns blazing and rockets flaring in an attempt to attract attention.

The rattle of guns and flashing of flares led man residents of the beach area to jump to the conclusion that a Jap landing party was attempting to storm the entrance of the Golden Gate.

One sentry at a nearby post declared "When that gun started firing and with those flares shooting off every which way I thought 'Oh, boy, this is it.' I ran to call the sergeant."

Europe's Biggest Inland Port Duisburg Pasted

LONDON, July 14.— (CP) — A strong force of bombers cut a new swath of fiery destruction last night across the Ruhr the frequently-bombed heart of Hitler's war-time heavy industry.

The British Air Ministry did not identify specific targets, but the German said bombs fell on Duisburg, greatest inland port in Europe.

Participating pilots said it was "a good medium-sized show" which left fires burning in a big industrial area..

Last night's asasult was the fourth this month upon Germany Proper. Duisburg itself, a city of 275,000 at the juncture of the Ruhr and the Rhine, had been raided 50 times before.

Many blast furnaces and metal plants are located there and the city also is an important coal centre.

The communique did not name the target of the attack, but an informed British source said bombs were aimed at heavy industries, blast furnaces, an electric power station, a rail junction, and a railroad bridge across the Rhine.

A spell of bad flying weather interrupted the R.A.F.'s attacks on Germany after the daylight raids on Danzig and Flensburg on Saturday. The last previous night raid by the R.A.F. was carried out against Wilhelmshaven on July 8.

Flying conditions still were not ideal last night, the informant said, but he added the loss of five planes was not proportionately large.

60,000 To Paris

LONDON, July 14—(CP).—The British Broadcasting Corporation reported yesterday that "news has been received in London that 60,000 German men, women and children, evacuated from Cologne, one of the 1,100-bomber tarpets of the R.A.F. have arrived in Paris."

List Newsmen In Section 15

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP). — Newspapermen have been listed under Section 15 of the National War Services Regulations. This section provides that from time to time the Minister may furnish to Selective Service Boards lists of industrial or servicing activities deemed essential to the successful prosecution of the war. An employer engaged in any activity so listed is termed a "war industry."

Newspapermen coming under the listing are defined as follows:

"Members of editorial staffs including editorial executives, reporters, technical men and artisans and other men whose services are essential to getting out newspapers, weeklies, monthlies and other publications."

In conection with the listing, War Service Minister Thorson said today:

"The listing of any activity under Section 15 does not mean automatic postponement of service for the persons engaged in that activity. On the listing of any activity under Section 15, the Board has power to entertain and deal with applications or postponement. Each case will be dealt with by the appropriate board on its merits and in the light of the facts surrounding the application for postponement."

Big Bridge Goes Up

LONDON, July 14—(CP). — The Stockholm radio said last night that the important Swinesbund bridge crossing the Norwegian frontier near Sparsborg had been damaged by an explosion on the Swedish side, and that saboteurs were responsible.

Swedish troops now are hunting f the saboteurs, the broadcast said.

R.A.F. Still Tops In Air—Tanks Assure Superiority

LONDON, July 14.—(CP)—Oliver Lyttelton, minister of state in charge of production, told the House of Commons in opening the debate on production today that Britain still maintains its "lead in the air, particularly in quality."

Mr. Lyellton said that in field artillery there is no reason "to be frightened of our equipment compared with the Germans."

The tanks now being produced he said, "have the necessary fire power for today's battles and new types designed to be made in the United States and this country give us reasonable assurance of that superiority which is required for victory."

Britain is not considering the manufacture of synthetic rubber at present, the production chief said because "there is no saving in shipping unless synthetic rubber is derived ultimately from coal ."

"Our policy is to concentrate on production of synthetic rubber in the United States," he said.

Mr. Lyttelton said an agreement had been reached whereby the United States would manufacture

French Eyes Are Dimon Bastille Day

Won't Sell Birthright Despite Laval—Vast Majority Still Pro-Ally

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

This is France's Bastille Day—an anniversary which in happier times, before the bloody hand of Hitlerism struck the nation down, was celebrated in commemoration of the French Revolution.

On this day 153 years ago the revolutionists stormed and pulled down the Bastille Prison which for centuries had stood as the monument of injustice and torture, and the destruction of this ancient chamber of horrors became the symbol of France's liberation from oppression. So Bastille Day was made the annual occasion of Thanksgiving of the blessing of liberty, equality and fraternity.

Before the coming of the Nazi beast all France, from the shining metropolis of Paris to the tiniest hamlet, was bravely decorated with the tri-color, and the population turned out en masse in Sunday best to worship at the shrine of liberty. There were grand parades, and joyous feasting, and when evening came young and old joined in dancing through the streets until dawn chased them home.

Paris, always gay and full of laughter, was at her best. The great parade was a spectacle which drew visitors from many countries.

But the days of rejoicing were wiped out two years ago.

Everywhere the Hun has left his mark of arrogance and brutality. Down in Vichy a fox-faced, swarthy visaged little man sits and schemes and tells his down-trodden people: "I desire Germany's victory."

But Laval the fox doesn't represent the citizens of France. Knowing the French people so well, and having watched the development of this situation carefully, I believe that the vast majority of them still are pro-Ally and anti-German.

The Spirit of France isn't dead, and French eyes will be dim with tears this Bastille Day. Irrespective of Laval's urging they won't sell their birthright for a mess of Nazi pottage.

Britons turned out in cheering thousands, breaking police lines, to join the Fighting French in a spontaneous celebration which enthusiastically reaffirmed the common cause of Britain and the De Gaullists.

The day's observances were capped with a colorful review at Wellington barracks where newly-organnized Fighting French Commandos, Alpine Chaseurs, French Naval, Air and Women's Auxiliary units saluted De Gauule.

Gen. De Gaulle and Rear-Admiral Philippe-Marie Auboyneau, his naval chief, pinned medals on 36 French war heroes.

Alcohol Main Rubber Tap

More From It Than Petroleum In '43 Says Nelson

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP) — The War Production Board expects to get more synthetic rubber from alcoholic sources than from petroleum in 1943, Charman Donald M. Nelson told a Senate agriculture subcommittee today.

Neson said facilities are available to produce in excess of the 200,000 tons of elastic which had been assigned to the alcohol process in a program estimated to produce 800,000 tons yearly.

"We will get more rubber from alcoholic sources in 1943 than from petroleum," he testified.

The W.P.B. chairman stated that despite speeded efforts to increase synthetic production pleasure automobile driving was cut for the war's duration as tires would be available only for military needs and essential civilian use.

Nelson presented new estimates showing he expected synthetic rubber production in 1943 to total 336,000 tons, with 1944 production about double that figure.

Synthetic rubber production this year will total only about 32,300 tons of all types," he said.

"We hope in 1944 to have enough rubber for necessary uses," Nelson commented.

Russian Lines Give Way At Voronezh

Hun Van Drives Deeper In South Don, 10,000 Die In 12 Days

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 14—(AP). — Red army troops gained the initiative over Nazi forces, including air-borne detachments, on the Kalinin front but have lost ground before overpowering numbers of the invaders both near Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, and in the Don River basin, the Russians said today.

German masses forced a breakthrough in a narrow sector of the Voronezh front and a third motorized infantry division was swung into the attacks across the Upper Don under the hammering of the Russian air force, dispatches said.

The Soviet information bureau reported setbacks in two other regions to the south, with the invaders advancing anew at the point of their deepest penetration of Russian soil—south of the town of Boguchar.

Boguchar is on the big bend of the Don 130 miles southeast of Voronezh and the report of combat south of that city implied a Nazi attempt to roll up the defenders against the river bank on the drive downstream toward the Caspian Sea.

Battles On Everywhere.

Battling upon the approaches of Voronezh was reported particularly fierce. Foot troops fired from rooftops, churches, shrubs, trees and ditches. Artillery batteries poured out shells from hill and wood positions.

A dispatch said many positions were captured, lost and recaptured. Soviet aviation appeared active in dive-bombing the Don River crossings west of the town, troops movements before Voronezh and the German rear.

At one place 70 trucks loaded with soldiers were destroyed. At another a military train was wrecked by dive-bombing.

Far removed from the southern fighting, Russians on the Kalinin front reported not only stopping attacks but throwing the Germans on the defensive. The battle area was described as "considerably reduced."

Cut Vital Highway

Soviet soldiers have driven the Germans from several villages on the Kalinin front and cut an important highway (perhaps a Rzhev-Staraya Russa routed), the Moscow radio said.

justified in ordering the French warships out of Alexandria through the Canal, and if they did not follow such orders British forces would be fully justified in destroying them.

This offer, however, was rejected by Chief of Government Pierre Laval.

On July 9 President Roosevelt made a second proposal. He suggested that the warships be withdrawn through the Suez Canal and proceed, under British and American guarantees of safe passage, to the French Caribbean possession, Martinique. There, he said, they could be immobilized for the duration of the war in the same way that French warships already at Martinique are being immobilized, with the assurance that they would be returned to France at the end of the war.

The President emphasized that he made this proposal because—whatever might be the developments in the African zone in the near future—the French warships there would be in danger of attack.

This proposal also was rejected, Welles asserted, the Vichy government insisting that the ships should proceed to a nearby French port. The French port suggested by President Roosevelt—Martinique's seaport Fort de France — is not near Vichy and not within easy reach of German and Italian forces.

In disclosing the two proposals and their rejection, Welles said the United States Government still hoped they would be reconsidered by Vichy. He said he was sure the French people would understand that the offers were made in the interest of France with a view to safeguarding French ships.

flank other Red army forces still holding the west bank of the Don northwest of Voronezh counter-attacked and drove back two new German tank divisions, the 9th and 11th.

Headquarters of the divisions were reported captured. A Hungarian cavalry detachment was wiped out and 99 tanks were destroyed, Russian dispatches said.

The seriousness of the situation, however, was clear.

Headlines at the top of the front pages of Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said:

"Fighters of the Red Army! Serious Danger Threatens Your Country. The Nation Appeals to You as Dear Sons to Make Ever Stronger Your Blows Upon the Onrushing Enemy."

Advance at Kalinin

On the war front northwest of Moscow the Russians announced their troops had gained the iniative over Nazi forces and airborn reinforcements on the Kalinin front.

The Soviet Information Bureau said a powerful German onslaught in the Rzhev area, 135 miles northwest of Moscow, forced an outnumbered Russian force to yield ground, but denied German claims of a victory in which 30,000 Russian troops were reported trapped.

The fighting, certainly not more than 150 miles from Moscow, was seen as a potential new threat to the Soviet capital.

The Russian account said the Germans launched an offensive July 2, and that both sides lost heavily in fighting through July 13. Total Russian casualties were placed at 7,000 killed and wounded and 5,000 missing.

"The Germans lost over 10,000 officers and men killed alone," the Soviet Information Bureau declared.

"It is impossible," the statement said, "to conceal the fact that the Germans daily lose on the Soviet-German front thousands upon thousands of men. This, despite the temporary successes of the German troops, gradually saps the Hitlerite war machine and prepares the ground for the defeat of Germany in this war."

Lakehurst School Has Qualified In Ontario Improvement Contest

The announcement a few days ago that S.S. No. 3, Harvey, Lakehurst, had won the provincial trophy for improvements to the premises during the year was inadvertently premature and incorrect. The school did win the local county award and thereby qualified for the provincial competition and the Carter prize, but the judging of the various county winners has not yet been completed.

John Clarke, lecturer for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, visited Lakehurst yesterday, was delighted with the improvements made to the school by the teacher and pupils, but declined comment as to comparison with other competing schools in the province. He left last night for Eastern Ontario counties.

With the approval and support of the trustees, the children and their teacher repaired and painted the fences, and the building, even to staining the shingles. They planted flowers and shrubs, and gathered stones of uniform size which they set in the lawn forming the name of the school, "S.S. No 3, Harvey," and then painted the stones white. One effect of this practical enterprise in aethetics has been noticed in the pride the children have recently acquired in keeping the school property in the condition they have developed. Every last scrap of paper has been picked up, and the grounds were in excellent condition when the holidays arrived.

Lakehurst school is in the inspectorate of R. F. Downey. The teacher is Stanley Cowling, whose wife assisted in some of the work.

East Durham Lodges Hold Church Parade

MILLBROOK, July 14—(ENS).—The East Durham Orange Lodges, approximately two hundred strong, paraded to St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday at 7.30 p.m., headed by the Por Hope bugle band, for their annual attendance at divine worship, the Black Knights, the "Daughters of Cavan" L.O.B.A., and the Juvenile organizations being all well represented in the large turnout.

The special music by the choir included the offertory anthem, O Worship the King (Semper), and a trio, Go Through the Gates, by Messrs. M. McDowell, W. H. Coombe, and Gordon Might; while the solo, When Jesus Came, by Maryaret Lang of Toronto, who also contributed a selection at the morning service, was especially enjoyed, and preceded the message of warm welcome to the visiting lodges conveyed by the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D.

For his lesson, Mr. Sisco read the story of the three hundred faithful men by whom Gideon triumphed over the Midianites, under Divine guidance, and in dealing with his theme. "In times like these," the speaker pointed out a similarity between coditions today and the struggle with a ruthless enemy, and those of the time of the Judges in Israel, when disunity had disrupted the nation, and a wandering from the worship of God led to softness, internal weakness and open sin." The need of unity today within our own country, a revival of spiritual living, and a religious inspirtation within the hearts of the people, are necessary to victory."

The parade was under the direction of the County L.O.L. Marshal, Brother James Arkless of Port Hope and the observance of the Twelfth was continued on Monday, at Millbrook, with a parade at 2.30 p.m., followed by a mass picinc at Rowland's Grove, King street east.

County officers present at the Sunday service included the Worshipful County Master, Brother J. Sanders, of Port Hope; and Past County Masters L. Zealand of Port Hope; William McBride of Port Hope; Hilden Johnston of Janetville, and J. H. Paul of Millbrook.

Fourth Canadian Vessel Has Near Call

AN EAST CANADIAN COAST CANADIAN PORT, July 14—(CP)—A Canadian ship well known to many Martimers narrowly escaped destruction during the U-boat attack which sank three ships in the St. Lawrence Gulf about a week ago, members of her crew said here to-day.

The ship had only recently been overhauled.

Men in her crew told how they waited in horrified suspense, feeling certain their ship would be next, after the other three vessels had been blasted under the surface by torpedoes.

One of the crewmen said he was sleeping on the deck awaiting his watch when the surprise attack came. The whole attack was carried out in less than seven minutes, he said, describing how his ship put on a burst of unaccustomed speed to get out of the danger zone.

"There was a terrible report—I thought it was us," he said, describing the explosion when the first ship was struck. "Not a sound came from her" as she went down

"There was another report on the other side of us and another steamer was gone,' he continued. I'll never forget how it felt, thinking we'd be next.'

After the first explosion, he said, 'they rang for full speed ahead and believe me they got it. Before long the vessel was ploughing along at more than fifteen knots, and she was turned for shore in a manoeuvre to escape the attacking U-boat.

An oiler, working in the engine-room at the time, said some of the ship's boilers were not cut in when the attack began, 'but it didn't take long for the firemen to bring the others up to full pressure.'

The ship's bearings, fitted only recently, ran hot as she was forced to the ultimate speed possible.

A crewman said he understood one of the ships destroyed in the attack had a woman with a babe-in-arms aboard. This ship sank very rapidly and it was believed the mother and child were lost.

13 Bicycles Are Held By Police

Chief Constable Sam Newhall stated today he was giving final notice to all people who own bicycles or parts of bicycles now at the police station to come into the station and claim their property or all will be sold to local dealers.

For months the bicycles, tires, rims, saddles, wheels, and even tool kits, have been accumulating in the basement store-room at the station, and a check-up this morning revealed 13 bicycles intact, and several others stored away which have been damaged in accidents and never claimed by the owners. There is also quite a collection of various types of carriers.

"If this keeps on we'll be able to supply them with everything from an eight-day clock," the Chief remarked this morning as he surveyed the pile of valuable tires, and bicycle frames.

Police have asked time and again for people who have lost bicycles or had them stolen to come into the station and claim their property, but perhaps the natural timidity of people to deal with the police have stopped many from doing so. Now bicycle parts are so scarce, the police have decided they should put this stuff back in circulation, and plan to clean out the store-room.

Inspector James F. Reid will be at the station every night this week, between 6 and 10 o'clock to see anyone who thinks they might own some of the bicycles or parts of them.

Seymour East Friends Honor Newlyweds

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14 (ENS)—Close to 125 friends and neighbors in Seymour East joined in honoring Dr. and Mrs. Donald Barnum at a social evening and miscellaneous shower held on Friday evening. Ottawa Adds To Budget Taxable List

Canada's Liquor Bill Of 250 Million Appals Mr. Hanson

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 14. — (CP) — Changes in budget resolutions providing for taxation of luggage, smoking accessories and desk accessories, and small candy packages, were announced in the House of Commons last night by Finance Minister Ilsley.

In the classifications covered the tax of 25 per cent paid by the purchaser is changed to a 35 per cent manufacturer's level tax, and the minister estimated revenue from it will be somewhat less than from the retail levy.

The 30 per cent candy tax is changed to provide that on packages costing five cents the tax will be one cent with 10 and 15 cent packages paying two and three cents respectively.

The changes approved by the House are effective for trading today as budget taxation provisions already are in force in many cases.

Navy Minister Macdonald announced that three United Nations ships were torpedoed in the Gulf of St. Lawrence about a week ago, with four members of the crews known to have been killed, four missing and 99 safely landed.

The House devoted Monday's sitting to budget resolutions and will continue this study today.

In committee it approved increases in the excise duty on liquor, malt, syrup, and Canadian raw leaf tobacco, announced by Mr. Ilsley in his budget speech June 23.

Japs Threatening 2 Chinese Ports

CHUNGKING, July 14—(AP).—Twin Japanese offensives on the China coast today imperilled two of the biggest ports remaining in Chinese hands, Wenchow in Southern Chekiang Province and Foochow in Fukien Province.

The threat to Wenchow, apparently the faster developing, resulted from a Japanese landing at Juian, across a peninsula 13 miles southwest of Wenchow, under the protective fire of 30 warships.

This put the port in a pincer between this force and another which captured Tsingtien, 22 miles to the northwest, in a push south eastward from Lishui.

(Domei, Japanese news and propaganda agency, claimed yesterday that Wenchow, which it called "an important secret Chinese supply base," had been captured.)

The invaders also have landed on Futuou Island, near Foorchow, but the Chinese said yesterday it was not yet possible to foretell what operations were impending in Fukien, which lies opposite Formosa, an important Japanese island troop centre and training ground.

From Cars to BATTLE WAGGONS

Canadian genius for mass production is now being applied with telling results to the output of motorized war equipment.

Production figures are already fantastic. Since the beginning of the war, Canada has produced and shipped to the battlefields of the world more than 250,000 military vehicles. Production is now at the rate of one unit every three minutes and is constantly mounting.

Canadian fighting men need 160 different types of motorized equipment. Canada is producing all of them.

One plant alone is turning out in a single day enough Universal Carriers to equip two battalions. Heavy tanks, with 25,000 parts, are in mass production and, at one plant, are coming off the assembly line at the rate of one every few hours.

This advertisement is published as a contribution to the general knowledge of our country's war effort and as an inspiration through the days ahead. For reasons of security complete figures are not available. The facts presented, however, are impressive evidence of the growing might of Canada's war machine.

Noted Painter's Son Visits Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING, July 14 — (ENS).—Interesting visitors to Gore's Landing this past week were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hayward of New York. Mr. Hayward is the youngest and only surviving child of the late Gerald Hayward, who was noted as one of the six world famous miniature painters. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hayward are buried in the family plot in St. George's Cemetery, Gore's Landing.

Mr. Hayward is an air raid warden in the apartment building in which he and his wife reside in New York and Mrs. Hayward is in charge of the floor in which their apartment is situated. In case of an air raid, she would be responsible for each family on that floor being evacuated.

As this apartment in which the Haywards live is 16 storeys high, the regulations in case of air raids instruct residents to immediately go to the "safe zone," that is between the fifth floor and the twelfth. Anything below the fifth floor is unsafe and anything above the twelfth floor is equally dangerous.

North Hastings Lodges Parade On Saturday

BANCROFT, July 14—(ENS). — The annual celebration of the Battle of the Boyne was held in Bancroft on Saturday, in which si L.O.L. Lodges and two L.O.B.A. Lodges of North Hastings township participated in the day's activities.

During the early morning the various lodges indulged in fife and drum music at the Orange Hall. A swim at the York River resulted in the following winners: 1st prize money of $2.50 going to Howard Goodkey of Toronto; 2nd prize of $2 won by Steddie Lumb of Bancroft, and 3rd prize of $1.50 going to Bill Haryett, also of Bancroft. A softball game was staged on the fair grounds between the Maple Leafs and Bancroft girls, the latter team losing the game to the visitors.

At 1.30 p.m. the parade formed on Madawaska Street, marching the length of Main Street and thence to the agricultural grounds, where the remainder of the program was held. The parade was led by the Hastings and Prince Edward military band from Belleville, followed by "A" Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, situated at Bancroft, under command of Captain D. F. Bleecker, and then followed the lodges. The salute at the grounds was taken by Major N. Broad of Madoc.

A very interesting afternoon's entertainment was staged by the army boys displaying physical exercise drills, foot drill, and field manouvers.

Later in the afternoon under a grove of pines the military band rendered several musical selections and speeches were given by Dr. H. Welsh, M.P.P., from Roslin; R. Arnott, M.P.P., of Belleville, and G. S. White, M.P., of Madoc.

A dance was held in the agricultural hall during the evening, music being supplied by J. Donaldson's orchestra from Maynooth.

The ladies of L.O.B.A. No. 702, Bancroft, operated a very efficient booth during the day at the grounds. Taggers for the True Blue Orphanage were busy throughout the day among the people.

In all the day was a great success and a very large gathering of people were in town for the day.

Electric Heaters Are Ruled Out

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14. — (ENS).—Hardly the weather to be discussing furnaces, but nevertheless the Water and Light Commission went into that problem at their meeting held here Monday night, and all because of a Hydro ruling which forbids the use of electrical units for heating purposes during the peak load anticipated from November to February. Since they took over the old Town Hall for their offices and administration building the staff has never had to contend with the coal and ash problem, having installed sufficient high voltage electric heaters to maintain an even temperature. Now, according to Manager P. C. Denyes, the commission will have to install a furnace as a means of supplying heat at least temporarily.

Mayor Long said that the water and light building was badly in need of re-painting on the outside. He felt the lack of paint was a poor advertisement for the commission.

"I think the landlord is very neglectful," Chairman Benor said, pointing out that the corporation owned the building and should pay the cost of such repairs. The problem was left with the manager.

1942 U.S. Harvest Looms Best In Two Decades

By FRANKLIN MULLIN,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

CHICAGO, July 14—(AP).—Wartime harvests in the United States this Summer may be their most valuable in more than two decades, grain trade statistics indicated today, even topping those of 1919.

A combination of good prices, high compared with some seasons, and prospective bumper crops will make this monetary return possible. Grain prices generally are near the highest levels since 1937, except for a brief period earlier this year, while the harvest may be a record. The third largest wheat crop is in prospect while the rye crop may be the biggest since 1935; oats, the largest since 1928 and barley the greatest on record.

Grain statisticians estimate the prospective domestic yield of the five major cereals—wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley—will be worth, based on present Chicago futures prices, close to $4,500,000,000, compared with about $4,100,000,00 last year. In several years of the last decade, the market valuation of these crops has fallen below $2,50,000,000.

Values Kept Up

Not all the grain produced is sold at market, but disposal otherwise normally enhances its value, statisticians explain. For example, the Government ever-normal granary program, to a large extent responsible for the present price level, is expected to keep much of the 1942 harvest off the market. By using this grain as collateral, farmers could obtain more for it than by marketing. Wheat loan rates range up to 15 cents a bushel in some cases above price.

The bulk of the corn, oats and barley crops never reach market but go into livestock feed, an operation which at present prices for hogs and other livestock, dairy products and eggs, should yield a profit, statisticians estimated.

The volume of these grains to be harvested will be the largest in recent years, totalling 5,296,000,000 bushels compared with 5,199,000,000 bushels last year. Statisticians estimate the value of the wheat crop at about $1,130,000,000, and corn at $2,365,000,000, compared with $1,100,000,000 and $2,100,000,00 respectively, last year.

The Apsley Road

We should like to call the attention of our readers to the matter of the Bancroft-Apsley Road, which received notice in our news columns last Saturday. The road is a part of the highway which is under construction between Peterborough and Pembroke and the greater part of the work on it has been completed. Some sections remain unfinished, however, and it is clear that during the present war road-building, important as it is, must wait upon more immediately pressing business. The obvious thing, therefore, is to get as much work done as possible on those parts of the road which most need it and to leave untouched those parts of the road which are already sufficiently serviceable. If this is done we shall have a reasonably good roadbed all the way along the highway. Of the Bancroft-Apsley section of the road, thirteen miles running into Bancroft is complete, and fourteen miles of road remain to be built to connect that town with Apsley.

It appears, however ,that the contractors who are building the road are moving south in such a way that they will miss Apsley village. This is neither a cheaper nor a better route for the road, and it will involve the construction of a bridge. It is the opinion of A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., that this re-routing of the highway is the work of someone who is seeking to advance the interest of the road-builder. This diversion of the road from Apsley will quite unnecessarily leave that village off the highway and will cost more money than its inclusion.

It is also clear that this southern part of the road is serviceable as it stands, whereas the northern fourteen miles has been left in an uprooted state and makes a bad stretch for motorists. Clearly the contractor should be instructed to finish that work before he tackles anything else and the matter of leaving Apsley off the highway should be investigated.

Alderman Swanston is looking into this matter, and it is possible that he has already brought it to the attention of the Hon. T. B. McQuesten. In the normal course of events the Minister of Highways leaves these matters to his subordinates, but if an expensive and unnecessary diversion of the highway is being made it would be well for him to look into the matter.

Everybody's business is apt to be nobody's business, and unless the people's representatives are constantly vigilant things are done which create needless expense and endless dispute and recrimination. It is fortunate that Lieutenant Elliott, though far away, heard of this ill-considered move to neglect Apsley and to build road where it was not needed while neglecting fourteen miles of very bad surface; his rapid action in putting the matter in the hands of Alderman Swanston should ensure that the matter is set right, and we may thank both men for nipping an unsound plan in the bud.

An Unjustified Prediction

We had not intended to make any comment upon the unjustified prediction of Representative Andrew I. May of the House Military Affairs Committee at Washington that the war would end "probably in 1942 and unquestionably in 1943" which he made in the presence of reporters last Thursday. But one or two of our contemporaries appear to have built some hopes upon this, and we should be reluctant to have our readers do the same.

Mr. May's position as Chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, sounds more impressive than it really is. Although he probably knows more about the conduct of the war than the average Congressman he is not a member of the inner councils of the U.S. forces, quite apart from those of the other United Nations. His prediction was based upon a military secret obtained since the recent reverses in Russia, he told the press. Now if a military secret was so little of a secret that it reached the ears of Mr. May it would certainly be known to many other important people in Washington, and the press would have had some inkling of it. Nothing has been hinted at so far which gives us any reason to suppose that the war will be brief or that victory is in sight.

People like Mr. May are the despair of governments. When the administration in the U.S. is doing everything in its power to rouse the country to a realization of its danger and to prepare it for a mighty struggle, Mr. May gives a Pollyanna interview to the press, hinting at a "military secret" which will turn the tables in a few months. Even if his fantastic prediction were based in fact it was surely indiscreet to make such an astonishing statement.

Perhaps Mr. May, like ourself, assumed that no one would pay any attention to him. How wrong we were! This continent is full of hopeful people, and many of them have snatched at this prediction because it is what they want to believe. There have been serious discussions as to whether the "military secret" can be a new and wonderful weapon of the Jules Verne variety, or perhaps reliable news of an uprising within Germany. The last war, they remember, came to an abrupt conclusion, and they consider that sufficient reason for assuming that this one will do the same.

Without the occult powers of Mr. May or the special knowledge which he undoubtedly possesses, we see nothing in the war situation to encourage hopes of an early victory. Germany, despite her losses in Russia, is still strong and is still taking the initiative in every important move in the war. And, if Germany were to collapse suddenly, Japan has still to be dealt with. We shall only do harm by encouraging hopes of a sudden change.

Paying The Lawyers

As a sidelight on the present hullabaloo about the Hong Kong Report it is interesting and instructive to consider the fees of the lawyers who appeared as counsel before the Royal Commission. One sent in a bill of $9,568; another's bill was $7,298; a third $4,084. Col. Drew, the fourth, will, we suspect, collect his fee out of the hide of the Government which charged him and then dropped the charge.

Everyone know that law is expensive. A lawyer's training is long and his days of poverty are many and bitter. But these bills seem very high. Did the lawyers charge by the day for their services? Or did they estimate the value of their services on the basis of the amount of heavy thinking they had to do? Ponderous indeed must the deliberations have been which ran up a total bill of $20,940. This is a matter which concerns us nearly, gently reader, for we are the people who will foot that bill, and at the moment we are being very careful of our money, are we not?

It was a former Attorney-General of the United States who said, "A lawyer starts life giving $500 worth of law for $5, and ends giving $5 worth for $500." And it does not appear that the lawyer mitigates his fee when he is serving poor people like ourselves.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Our new stamp issue, reports the Postmaster-General, has paid for itself. The stamp of success.

A racket in connection with selling second-hand cameras has been discovered. Or should we say "exposed?"

"Divorcees Liable to Call-Up" says a headline. Maybe they got that way because they were so liable to the call-down.

"What we need is iron-handed, two-fisted leadership," says Alfred M. Landon. Not the wooden-headed, two-faced kind.

The average longevity of Americans increased five and a half years during the last decade. But then, of course, ways of killing people have been bettered too.

Gladstone Murray, of the CBC, recently heard a short-wave broadcast from Rome which announced that he had been captured at Alaxandria by an Italian ship. That is the sort of experience which makes a man glance nervously in the mirror to see whether he is really there or not.

Hitler's "intuition" has yielded to the more pedestrian methods of Field Marshal von Brauchitsch, we hear; even a military leader has to know his job these days. The only career in which absolutely nothing in the way of special training or ability is required is that of a politician.

A Great Day In French History

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

NO Frenchman can forget that the fourteenth day of July is the anniversary of one of the most remarkable and successful exploits in the course of the French Revolution; it was on that day, in 1789, that a Parisian mob stormed and took the great state prison which was called the Bastile. This act was sufficient to give an impetus to the general unrest which had previously been lacking; having captured the strongest fortress in Paris the Revolutionaries felt that there was nothing which they could not do, and during the next four years they overthrew their monarchy, executed many of their aristocrats and supporters if the former regime, established their republic and set in motion a train of revolutionary ideas which have had a strong influence on world history ever since.

The French Revolution was not something which burst upon the country suddenly; it was the result of many decades of discontent with a monarchy which was in fact a despotism and which, in the eighteenth century, attempted to rule France in a manner which had been reactionary in the sixteenth. Agitation against the monarchy had been carried on by intellectuals at great personal risk for many years. The popular notion that the French Revolution was a revolt of peasants against unjust rulers is not wholly accurate; rather it was a revolt of the rising middle class in France, who demanded their place in the sun. The lot of the peasants was ameliorated by the Revolution, of course, but it was the middle class which benefited most directly and which supplied the inspiration and the leadership for the most important revolutionary acts.

WE must not imagine the French Revolution as four years of continuous and violent upheaval. Great numbers of people who lived in France at the time did not recognize the fact that a revolution was in progress. They knew that they lived in troubled times, but they did not guess at the extent of the changes which were taking place. Even so we failed to recognize the Sino-Japanese "incident" and the Spanish War as the beginnings of the present great conflict.

The Bastile was a thorn in the flesh of the French revolutionaries. This great prison squatted in the heart of Paris as a perpetual reminder of a regime under which a man might be imprisoned without trial and for an indeterminate period at the pleasure of any man who could secure a warrant for that purpose. These warrants, called "lettres de cachet," were easily obtained by persons who had friends or influence at court, and there were so many of them that it is not surprising that many prisoners who were taken to the Bastile were forgotten and remained there until they died.

THE Bastile itself possessed eight strong towers and a moat 120 yards wide; thirteen cannon were mounted on the walls. The finest military engineers in France believed it to be impregnable, but French military engineers were no more infallible then than they are today. Inside the fortress were many cells, some of which were tolerable and the majority of which were mere pigstys. They had no windows, were never cleaned, and were unheated; anyone who knows the bitter, damp cold of a Parisian winter will realize what this meant. The worst quarters of the Bastile were its dungeons, in which prisoners were kept in cages made of iron bars these measured eight feet by six, and many poor wretches spent ten or twenty years in them until death gave them release. Lovers of Dickens will remember the character of old Dr. Manet, in "The Tale of Two Cities," who lost his memory during his imprisonment in the Bastile; loss of memory was a comparatively easy fate; many prisoners lost their minds completely. Among the many famous men to see the inside of the Bastile was Voltaire, but he was lucky enough to be released.

When Louis XVI sensed that revolution was in the air he caused an army to surround Paris, and this so enraged the populace that they were ready for violent action. On the 13th of July a mob had succeeded in obtaining arms from one of the arsenals, with which they meant to defend themselves against the soldiery; but having arms they wanted to use them, and somehow the idea of storming the Bastile took hold of the imagination of the public on the morning of the fourteenth. A madder idea could scarcely have been conceived, but when the times are ripe for change even mad ideas thrive. Presenting themselves before the main gate of the fortress and demanded its surrender. The governor of the prison, de Launay, treacherously bade some of the crowd into the courtyard to treat with them, then drew up the drawbridge and destroyed them all. By so doing he brought about his own destruction; the crowd had three cannon, and they stormed his main gate until he was forced to surrender, whereupon he was killed, the prisoners were released, and a procession marched through Paris in triumph. It was a mighty victory for the revolutionary party and it was the first decisive stroke in the destruction of the old regime.

THE French have always celebrated Bastile Day in token of their love of liberty and their deliverance through their own efforts from an intolerable oppression. This year Bastile Day will not be celebrated publicly, but we may be sure that it is celebrated in the hearts of the French, and that they dream of a time soon to come when they shall free themselves from another hated oppression, through their own efforts once again. Let us think of them with special sympathy on this, the greatest day in their history as a republic.

Malnutrition

PROFESSOR Wassermann, of the German Medical Corps, has been sent to starving Greece to study the effects of malnutrition. It is significant that he is to bring back a report to Germany with recommendations which "it is hoped" will help the German civil medical services.

Implication is that the Nazis are beginning to be afraid of the effects of malnutrition on their own people now that even further ration cuts are threatened.—London Daily Sketch.

Hun May Cut Off Caucasus

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

WITH a widening Nazi wedge biting southeastward through Russian defenses toward the Caspian Sea and Lower Volga, complete isolation of the Caucasus from the rest of Russia within days or weeks is a grim possibility.

What is more, forbidding developments came far to the north where still another German offensive in the Rzhev area, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, pushed the Rusians back toward their capital.

Moscow's admission that Boguchar, just east of the Don and 140 miles southeast of Voronezh, has been lost defines the front in that sector. A similar announcement of Russian evacuation of Lisichansk on the Donets, 110 miles southwest of Boguchar, completes the picture.

It indicates that the direction of the gigantic Nazi offensive has definitely shifted now from eastward to southeastward. The probable objective is to throw Russian forces back behind the Don-Volga line clear to the Caspian Sea, thus completing the isolation of the Caucasus and its defenders.

PERILOUS PLIGHT

The Lisichansk-Bogucher southeastern face of the Nazi wedge corresponds exactly to the gateway between the Donets and the Don. The Moscow announcement that the Nazis have broken through the Red Army at Voronezh sharply intensifies the danger hovering over the Soviet forces standing before the Caucasus.

A Nazi push through the Donets-Don gateway to Stalingrad and the Lower Volga would cut them off completely. A vast Russian retreat on the south flank to avert a mass encirclement may already be in progress. That is the implication of Russian surrender of Lisichansk.

Just south of that Donetz town lies the industrial heart of the Lower Donetz Basin, with its web of railroads interconnecting such important cities as Slavyansk, Bakhmut, Lugansk and many lesser centres. With German forces coming down the Donets east of his lines in the Slavyansk sector, Marshal Timoshenko may already be withdrawing on a wide front south and west of Lisichansk. He has urgent need for shortening and straightening his line from Rostov northward across the Donets-Don gateway if his armies are not to be cut apart clear to the Volga.

RUSSIAN SECOND FRONT

The main Russian hope of averting a German break-through to the Don-Volga line, however, must lie in second-front possibilities, not Anglo-American, but Russian "second front" major operations from the north against the Orel-Voronezh flank of the German position. It is more than questionable that even an Anglo-American attempt to cross the English Channel to invade the Continent could develop in time to take pressure off the Russians in the Don-Donets area.

Moscow has said little of developments north and northwest of Voronezh. Berlin reports continuous but futile Russian attacks in that area. It seems clear, however, that despite the availability of a web of inside communication lines leading out south and southwestward from the Moscow hub, the Red Armies of the centre have not yet been able to muster strength for heavy counter blows at the north flank of the Nazi drive.

It is difficult to conceive of any other Russian move that could ease pressure on Timoshenko. Nazi reports from Occupied France, otherwise unsupported, tell of a German advance eastward along the coast of the Sea of Azov, aimed directly at Rostov. If that has not yet developed, it is to be expected as is a German thrust from the Crimea vea Kerch Strait to take Rostov and the Lower Don line in the rear before retreating Russian forces even reach it.

That the grand strategy involved in the Nazi attack is aimed at establishing a front along the Don and Lower Volga to the Caspian Sea, thus amputating the Caucasus for subsequent conquest, now seems virtually certain.

All In The Family

PASSING raspberries to Japs soon grows tiresome. Contempt for them is so deeply ingrained that expressing it is a sort of superfluity. For the continental Europeans who have gone cuckoo over charlatans we are acquiring a similar feeling. But the good old British—ah, there's the outlet!

So one reason why British defeats are so irritating is that we feel that we have to lay off the limeys to keep up our reputation as good sports.

The sight of a battered old champ who has gone a dozen tough rounds and is waiting for the gong to come up for more calls for no pity because the kind to be pitied would long since have thrown in the towel. But it is a sight that takes all the joy out of normal family quarrels. —Chicago Daily News.

"It's a rotten night for you to be on duty here."

"Best job I've ever had in my life!" replied the "special" cheerfully.

"How's that " asked the inspector, in surprise.

"It's like this. I haven't had a night out for twenty years till I took it on. Now I'm out here for four hours one night a week—but my missus thinks I'm on duty every night!"

Sail Ship Revival

WAR emergencies have not resulted in a sensational resumption of the horse-and-buggy facility, but that does not prove that there will not be a return to the sailboat in trade between the United States and its neighbors below the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea.

Sailing vessels in the southern waters as small as 600 or 1,200 tons are looking for business and reported to be getting it, due to the unavailability of modern ocean-going carriers.

Owners of these ships are asking virtually double ordinary rates and other fees are in proportion. An insurance rate of 10 per cent.-

Gadget

AMONG the new gadgets is one designed for war etiquet and known as a "sugar flask," reports Cedric Adams in the Minneapolis Star-Journal. It's a plastic tube about four inches long, in green, red or black, has a screw top and is about as big around as your thumb. It holds three teaspoons of sugar and the idea is that you prove to your friends you don't want to mooch their sugar, so you take your own with you. The flask is designed for pocket or purse.—Windsor Star.

Young Airwomen Had Happy Life While At School

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 14 — No airwoman stays at the Royal Canadian Air Force Techincal Training School here more than six weeks. The powers that be say that's because the courses end then —but an observer might think the girls are moved to prevent them becoming softies.

For life is cosy and merry at T.T.S. On stations the airwomen sleep 68 to a block in large, barnlike barracks buildings. At T.T.S. they sleep two girls to a snug airy bedroom. They use double-decker iron beds, but that is about the only resemblance to barracks life.

"Barracks" for the 200 trainees here are the top two floors for the red brick officiers' mess building. From the outside it looks like an exclusive hotel, complete with sun decks. Inside, the girls share quite a bit of this luxury.

Their bedrooms are bright and airy. They have Loyalist maple chests of drawers and plenty of table space, useful for hard-working girls who are cramming in knowledge as embryo clerks, accountants, and equipment and hospital assistants.

Luxurious Bathrooms

It's a wonder any girl gets her teeth brushed in time for breakafst in the golden luxury of the bathrooms. There are the row on row of wash basins found in any barracks, but the walls are yellow tile and there are many large, clear mirrors. There are plenty of baths and showers, too.

Just because the airwomen have given up their private lives to help win the war they don't let their war work stop there. Take salvage collecting, for instance. The girls at T.T.S. save everything that passes through their hands—toothpaste tubes, cardboard boxes ,tinfoil, cigarette boxes, newspaper, magazines, jars, cosmetic holders.

And one day a week you can find Corporal Cathrine Robertson of Toronto in a tiny ante-room of the barracks almst inundated with salvage. Cpl. Robertson was an ardent salvage collector before she enlisted, and now she's taken upon herself the collecting for T.T.S. She's put gainly decorated salvage boxes all through the barracks' corridors and she herself gathers up the material and sorts it. The airwomen send about eight large cartons each week to the St. Thomas Red Cross.

Question— We had the smoothest vanilla ice cream I have ever tasted at a famous hotel we stopped at when on our holidays last month—and to make it almost unbelievably delicious they poured over it a rich black cherry sauce. Now if I could produce a sauce like that to pour over my own homemade ice cream I think I could make my husband's eyes pop. Mary Moore, could you help me on this poser? Thanks again,

JACKIE'S MOTHER.

Answer—Black Cherry Sauce is not such a mystery. I am glad to be able to produce it.

Black Cherry Sauce (for ice cream cottage pudding, etc.)

One-half pound black cherries, measured after washing and pitting. ¼ cup orange juice, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ cup water, ½ teaspoon butter, 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Mix the cornstarch with the orange juice, stir until paste is formed, then add the water, and butter and cook jn top of double boiler until cornstarch has lost its raw taste—about 15 or 20 minutes. Add cherries and corn syrup and let cook over boiling water just long enough to make cherries limp but not mushy—about 15 minutes, with very little stirring. Serve either hot or cold on cottage pudding or on rich vanilla ice cream.

We hope this pleases both you and your husband.

Question: My daughter and her boy friend say they love club sandwiches and try to tell me how they get them at the corner drug store. I feel that I should know better than any soda fountain jerker how to make a sandwich and want your version of a Club Sandwich, because my daughter thinks your recipes are great.

JUST A COOK FOR SIX.

Answer: Thanks for the plug. I hope the young folks are satisfied.

Club Sandwich

Toast three slices of bread—you will have to decide yourself whether it is to be white or brown. Butter them and cover 1 slice with crisp lettuce, letting it come beyond the edge. Arrange sliced white chicken meat or veal or pork on top, spread with mayonnaise and cover with second slice of toast. Spread top with mayonnaise, lay slices of crisp bacon on, cover this with either sliced tomato or cucumber. (I am sure the soda fountain version always has tomato), and cover with a third slice. Garnish with gherkin and olive on tooth pick. Cut in triangles and serve while toast is still warm.

IT'S A WOMAN'S JOB TO BE LOYAL TO HER SOLDIER BOY Wives and Sweethearts Should Forego Causing Men Worry Over Their Integrity

Dear Miss Dix.—I have been in the army air force for two years, and I want to ask you to impress upon the girls we left behind us the importance of keeping up the morale of the boys at the front by being loyal to them.

We have a life and death job that the whole nation is depending on our doing. We have left our wives and sweethearts behind us to do our bit in protecting our country and defending the freedom that we believe is more precious than life itself. Why can't these wives and sweethearts, whom the boys of the army and navy are risking their lives for, realize that it is just as important for them to be loyal to their men as it is for the men on the fighting line to be loyal to the Allied cause?

Why can't the women understand that they have as big a job at home, in keeping their men cheered up and free from worries and jealousies, as the men have in keeping themselves fit to fight?

Time and again I have seen fellows go to pieces when they got letters telling that their wives were stepping out with other men, or the girls they were engaged to were going to marry some chap at home. It not only broke down their morale, but that of a lot of other boys who wondered if the same things was happening to them.

Please try to make our loved ones understand that it is their duty to stick to that soldier or sailor who is doing his all for his country, at least until the war is over, as much as it is his duty to protect them with his life.—An Eagle.

Answer.—I commend this letter to the attention of all the women who are bubbling over with patriotism in these days. If they have a husband or a sweetheart at the front, the best war work they can do is to keep him bucked up by the knowledge that they are true to him; that they are proud of him, and that they are waiting for him to come back. And that they are waiting alone.

Certainly when a man is risking his life to protect his country, it doesn't seem much of a sacrifice for a woman to give up a few dates for him. He has given up his job, his profession, the success that was almost within his reach to try to keep for the woman he loves the kind of life he wants his wife and his children to enjoy. It is an act of self-abnegation whose cost you cannot estimate in money, or weigh in words, and all that the women at home can do ,to repay this great debt to the men at the front, is in doing everything possible to make them happy and keep from them everything that would worry them.

So while it may be dull to sit at home of an evening instead of going dancing with some lad; while you may miss the parties and the good times you have been accustomed to, make your small sacrifices by giving up your gaieties for the duration and putting in the time in writing your Tom, Dick or Harry a cheerful letter. Even if you have found out you didn't love Billy as much as you thought you did, or if the new boy you have met looks better to you than Sam did, don't tell him now.

Don't Start Gossip Rolling

And don't do anything that will give other people a chance to tell him when he is perhaps starting out on the flight from which he will never return, or going into a battle where your letter, with its bad news, made him welcome the bullet that pierced his heart. And if you are a wife, watch your step. Be as discreet as Caesar's wife. Don't add to your husband's sorrows by letting him even wonder if you are being faithful to him.

No matter what you do after the war is over, be loyal to the boys while it is going on.

A Non-Talkative Husband

Dear Miss Dix: What can you do with a husband who won't talk? We have been married 14 months and he might just as well be a dummy for all the conversation I get out of him. The minute he comes in the house he grabs his paper and turns on the radio and passes into the silence. He reads all the time he eats his dinner and doesn't answer me when I ask him a question. If I start to tell him anything, he walks away or turns the radio on louder.

He says he is happy and likes to have me about, but he is a perfect stranger to me and I can't get acquainted with him. What shall I do about it? MRS. L. F.

ANSWER: You can get blood out of a turnip as easily as you can conversation out of man who doesn't like to talk, so you will either have to reconcile yourself to living with a stuffed shirt, or trade him off for a human phonograph.

A Woman Needs Bolstering Conversation

Stevenson rated being a good gossip as one of the most desirable characteristics of a wife. The same thing goes for a man. The domestic woman's life is mainly passed in solitude in her own house, where she has nobody to talk to all day but the baby or the cat, neither of whom are very affording companions, and when night comes she is simply slopping over with things she wants to say.

But she can't say them to a husband who freezes up her confidences by just grunting. She cant' tell him about what she said to the butcher and the butcher said to her, or about the juicy scandal about the Jones boy getting drunk, or the Smith girl not coming home until four o'clock in the morning, for all he says is "uh huh." And, more than that, she wants him to tell her about what happened at the office and the funny stories he has heard, and if he keeps them bottled up in himself she misses entirely the companionship for which she married.

But how come you didn't find out that your husband was a non-talker before you married him? Surely he must have gabbled then. Or did it take love to make him eloquent? And when you said "yes," he automatically thought that the subject was closed for all time.

Wife Domination

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think of a man who is so dominated by his wife that he didn't even send a greeting card to his 69-year-old mother on Mother's Day? The wife happens to be peeved with the mother over something that was her own fault. S.L.

ANSWER: I think a man who lets his wife separate him from a good mother is so weak and craven and spinless that he doesn't deserve to be called a man at all. You could despise him if you didn't pity him because you know how he suffers under his wife's tyrannies.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 15

Determined, direct and aggressive advance upon objectives and programs of major importance is encouraged by the concentrated influence of astral forces holding sway on this day. New projects should be pushed with vigor. Well-organized plans and practical constructive tactics may attract the attention and capital of powerful interests or promotors. In such cooperation it would be well to be alert to petty duplicities, or peculiar plots, but the energies and faculties are vividly alert.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to a year of high pressure especially in putting over important and greatly desired programs. This may be done with strenuous and aggressive attack, as the mental faculties and physical forces are well stimulated to powerful and decisive action. Major programs with practical and constructive foundations should be carefully planned and boldly presented to gain cooperation from promotional bodies. Slight trickery, subtleties or subterfuges should be guarded against.

A child born on this day should be bold, energetic, skillful and practical, with excellent mental as well as physical abilities. It may make its success by determination and sheer force.

HOLLYWOOD DINER

Green crepe, very dark and rich, makes this divided skirt home dinner dress. A draped halter, slit but also draped over the back, and sleeves attached only at the shoulder, make the bodice. The ensembled coat is a briefie of scarlet wide-wale cotton corduroy. A wig-like snood uses baby wooden blocks strung on cords.

THIS model is one of those which top screen fashion designers brought on to the manufacturers of New York. Many is the cinema-sure model which will take the place of Paris designs in the midseason and fall collections you'll soon see in your own shops.

This is a very California design, but whether that nice state realizes it or not . . . we've got sun, in summer anyway, in a lot of other states, so this is a good "at home" costume for summer dinner anywhere. Also it's fine week-end luggage stuff, to pack along to somebody else's home for informal evenings.

This Week's Wartime Recipe

Contributed by Our Readers.

A doctor's wife sent this to us — she prefers to be called Doctor's Wife on this page—and she said it was the only way she could get her two sons to eat the liver they needed. She started out by making it of white bread, then changed to whole wheat and decided that altogether it was packed with nutrition.

French Toast Liver Sandwich.

(Contributed by a Doctor's Wife.)

Make sandwiches of ¼ to ⅜ inch thick slices of whole wheat bread, using cooked pork liver which has been run through the finest knife of your meat grinder as a spread. It needs seasoning with a little pepper, quite a bit of salt, a little grated onion or onion juice, and a bit of the stock in which it was boiled. Some adults will like the addition of Worcestershire Sauce. Spread the liver paste about ¼ inch thick between the slices. Press them together firmly and remove crusts or not, just as you wish. Dip in egg mixture made by beating together 2 eggs very well (for 4 complete sandwiches), then adding 1½ cups milk and ½ teaspoon each salt and sugar. Let each sandwich soak long enough on both sides that bread soaks almost through. Fry quickly in hot butter or cooking oil. The sugar in the egg mixture makes them brown quickly. Serve on hot platter garnished with broiled and crumbed red or green tomatoes, and pass grape or currant jelly at the table.

Thanks, Doctor's Wife. More of this kind of stuff would be very welcome.

King's Favored Runner Finishes Sixth In Derby

This is the field for the English derby as it rolled into the home stretch with the grandstand and the finishing line just ahead. "Big Game," the King's good runner, was the favorite but ran a disappointing race, finishing sixth. He is third from the left in this picture. The winner was "Watling Street," owned by Lord Derby.

Clever Putting Features KawarthaGames

The Wednesday afernoon golfers at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club seem far more determined to win golf balls than do the week-end crowd. Ken Currie was the man to look up to on Wednesday, coming home with a net of one under par 34. Second was Ed Riley with a net of 34½. Other ball winners were C. Selkirk and L. Browne with nets of 35 and 35½.

Sunday's activities were pretty well taken up with the President and Kawatha Cup matches. In the president's cup Archie Hood went down to the keep putting of Eddie Barry. Al. Heckman and Stan Adamson had the closest match of the day, Al managed to hole out one up on strokes. Bert Jopling and Harley Weir had a close conest, too; Bert manager to come through one up on the last hole.

Lionel Brwne found the going a little to stiff in his match with Fraser Dunfield. Fraser even at his worst is still a hard man to eat.

Stan Whiddon and Earl Asker had to play 36 holes to find a winner. They both played lovely golf but the little giant was too much for Earl and he lost 3 up and 2 to go.

Kawartha Cup

In the Kawartha Cup, Harry McCougan after wrapping his handy eight iron around a stump in the eighth rough; lost out to Tommy Cook, 3 and 2.

Adam Sands and Harold Rutherford are another twosome who waited until the last green to decide a winner. Adam lost his way to the green to lose the match and vowed then and there he would leave the ranks of the south paws and buy a set of right handed clubs.

Ken Wood had too much on the ball when he got near the green to suit Jim Betts, so Jim lost 5 and 4.

In the ladies' section at Kawartha, Mrs. C. Shaw was the winner in the first round of the Spring Trophy.

Mrs. Victor Gallon was the winner in the ladies' Thursday afternoon field day, with a gross of 99 for 18 holes.

League Leaders Win 15-9 Over The Cubs

St. Peter's came back into their winning pace last night at Memorial Park, winning over the Cubs by a score of 15 to 9. The Saints lost two last week but they made it known they weren't to be held back.

Gordon went the stretch for the winners, allowing 14 hits, walked four and fanned two. Leonard, his opponent on the mound, allowed ten hits, walked two and struck out two, while Brady, who took over in the fifth, was notched for four walked one and gave out no free tickets.

Conroy led the parade for the Saints' by chalking up three singles and a four-bagger. Tompkins and Gordon followed close with a pair of singles and a homer apiece. Rev. Father Wolff was next with a single and a pair of deuces.

Leading the losers were Sullivan with a pair of doubles and a single, and Brady with three one-baggers. Caccavella came through with a single and a deuce, and Leonard singled twice.

Heffernan pulled off a swell catch of a long fly in left centre field and Sullivan supported him well. The teams:

Whirly's Trainer Sees Apache Horse To Beat

BOSTON, July 14—(AP).—Mighty Whirlaway, who has sound reasons to dislike New England—he was beaten soundly in his only start hereabouts by War Relic last September—appeared pleased with the Suffolk Downs oval as he frolicked yesterday to keep himself fit for Wednesday's $50,000-added Massachusetts Handicap.

Despite Whirly's display of spirit, Ben Jones, this trainer, does not expect his great 4-year-old to have an easy task passing Seabiscuit's all-time. earnings of $437,730 by dragging down the winner's share of this section's richest stake.

Mr. Wright wants this race more than any other event Whirlaway has attempted with the exception of the Kentucky Derby," Jones said. But it is going to be very difficult to get it. Attention beat us last year in the Arlington and Tola Rose was too much for us in the Butler.

I have the greatest respect for Apache since he burned up Empire last Saturday under 114 pounds. Attention will be dangerous with 122, but I rankly think that Apache, with 107, is the horse to beat."

Jones, realizing that no late-running horse has won the Massachusetts, has indicated he will have Jockey Georgie Woolf get Whirly away with and stay as close as possible to Apache and Attention until he hits the home stretch, where Mr. Big" generally takes off to do his flying.

Notables Trailed

In the past such outstanding kings of the turf as Discovery, War Admiral and Challedon have attempted and failed to do that against rivals with tremendous early speed. Woolf probably recalls his inability to get Challedon going early enough against Eibht Thirty here two years ago.

The arrival of Apache may mean that a total of eight will start against Whirlaway, certain to be an odds-on favorite, despite his top weight of 130.

The Circle S Ranch's Hysterical and Greentree's Swing and Sway, both in with 113, are also regarded as certain starters, along with John L. Sullivan's Transfigure, which drew 112, and Emerson Woodward's Irish-bred Rounders, which has won carrying 134, but only will be called upon to tote 106.

Another eligible to go postward as Whirlaway shoots at Seabiscuit's record is the speedy Blueberry Pie, which can come in with the lightest burden of 104 pounds.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

TORONTO, July 14.—(CP)—It would be too bad if Max'e Berger should up and admit that Pte. Al Lust beat him squarely in that considerbaly windblow welter fight in Calgary. Such an admission would absolutely ruing the flow of equally-windblown account of the great struggle, and that would be disastrous.

For instance, it has leaked out somehow that Berger actually wasn't hurt so much by Lust's punching in that decisive final round. He went down, all right, but he would have been able to get up again if all Lust's pals hadn't streamed into the ring, hoisted Lust on their shoulders, then danced with joy all over Maxie. By the time the gendarmes cleared the ring, Berger was beaten right into the canvas. It took his handlers eight minutes to find him and two to bring him to, adding up correctly to the 10-minute snooze recorded in the public prints.

From another source, it turns out that Lust's punching didn't even put Maxie on his back, much less keep him there. It was the heat, and the altitude. This explanatipn is given by Mr. Slitkin, of Slitkin and Slotkin, Berger's managerial partners.

Slitkin accompanied Maxie Slotkin remaining in Montreal to do his moaning among friends. Slotkin agreed heartily with his partner's explanation. He assured Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson of the unadulterated truth of Slitkin's diagnosis, too his leave thusly: "As soon as my podner returns we will be at it again, hammer and tongues, explaining how this altitude got the best of our Maxie. We will then challenge this Lust to fight Maxie, somewhere else, where aint's no such thing as altitude."

Early Lead Is Run Up By The Winners

Juveniles gave the Royals a run for their money in a City League tilt on Monday evening but bowed to defeat 12 to 7, in a game that saw some sloppy fielding, heavy hitting and wild pitching.

Royals elected Akers to do the hurling, and he moved along nicely until the seventh when he retired to the field and was replaced by Fraser on the mound. Fraser retired the side in order, but got into trouble in the eighth, when Leether, first man up, singled. White got on on a fielder's choice, and Leether beat the throw to second. Jones walked loading the bases, but Greatrix and Detlor fanned. Then Carpenter drew a walk scoring a run, Millen did the same, and Crowe blasted a hard hit ball into right field for three bases, scoring as many runs. The rally died when the next batter fanned. Fraser squared away in the ninth and ended the game in good style. In his three innings he struck out six, walked four and was touched for one hit. Akers fanned six, passed three, and was nicked for five bingles.

Crowe toiled throughout the nine innings in the torrid temperature for the losers, and he deserved much better support than was given as his cronies made seven miscues. He sent 2 down swinging, walked three and was touched for sixteen hits, one a home run by E. Holmes with two on bases in the third. McNabb had a double and single, and Pryde smashed out a two bagger and two singles.

Leether for the losers was top batter with a double and a pair of singles and Carpenter also cracked out a two bagger. The best fielding performance was given by Carpenter in centre, and he made a beautiful catch of Fraser's hard centre field drive in the seventh. The teams—

Royals—McNabb ss, Hawkes 3b, Gatfield lf, Don Holmes lf; Parnall c; Pryde cf, Giardino 2b; Holland 1b, Niziol 1b, Akers p, E. Holmes rf, Fraser p.

Juveniles—Anderson ss, Millen ss, Crowe p, Gray rf, Wellwood rf, Leether c, White 3b, Jones 2b, Greatrix lf, Detlor 1b, Carpenter cf.

Where Your Salvage Goes — Paper

The housewife who gathers waste paper and phones her local salvage committee is doing a war job. Canada needs 200,000,000 pounds this year. One wastepaper factory makes 13 products that enter into munitions of war.

Salvaged paper is baled and shipped to sorting plants. Books and magazines go to the armed forces. Scrap paper is here being dumped into a boiling vat to be repulped. Every 100 pounds means 90 pounds of new paper products.

Picked up on revolving woollen blankets, pulp from reclaimed paper runs over dozens of rollers in a 150-foot long machine. Above this workman's head runs a continuous strip of remade paper on its way to war use.

What started out as an old newspaper ends up as a tube slipped over a shell to protect it in shipment to a war theatre. Carloads of waste paper are needed to make gun wads and cartons for food, shells, medicine, bullets.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

As has been the case nearly every night the scheduled games are played, there have been plenty of good games — games that would make the head lines in any sport column, and last night was no exception. But time and space will not permit us to elaborate on them all, so for to-day we confine our remarks to one game.

It is doubtful if ever the spectators will witness such an exciting finish as they did Monday evening. It was in the Chesler-Long game. We'll skip a lot of the game and dwell on the 18th and 19th ends. When the boys began playing the last end, or what is generally known as the last end, but this time it turned out to be second last; Chesler was three up and the score stood 15-12. The 18th end was all in favor of Long until Jimmy Cullen played just a little too heavy and moved the 'kitty' right over and in front of one of the opponents' bowls. Chesler missed with his first shot, played short. Long missed with his first. Chesler followed suite with his second but Long with his second and last bowl played ell up, ide and handsome, hit a bowl away out in front and to one sile and slipped over and knocked out one bowl and then another and when peace had been restored he was lying three shots—with the game all tied up. Score 15-15.

Now for the pay-off. Leo Martin led off with a dandy close to the 'kitty.' Bob Herman played one equally as well, removed Martins bowl and stayed shot himself. Martin again came through with a peach of a shot and removed Herman's bowl and now Martin's bowl is shot again. Herman played another good shot but just went past by about one foot. Gibbs, playing second for Long, drew in shot No. 2 and at this stage of the end the crowd began to close in on the greens waiting for the kill. Frank Kelcey played both bowls a little heavy. Jimmy Cullen with his first bowl played short. Joe Detcher came down the greens, well up, and removed one of Long's shots but his own bowl went on through. Jimmy Cullen with his second bowl played too good, he placed it right even with the kitty to make Long two shots, but it also was an ideal target to shoot at. Long played his first bowl short and wide, but not handsome. Chesler played up, but just a shade narrow Long with his second bowl repeated his effort of the first bowl, and Chesler with his last bowl played a dandy. He came on down the green and on and on and finally wicked off Jimmy Cullen's bowl to pick up the 'kitty' and carry it back to three other bowls. Final score, Chesler 19, Long 15.

Chesler's boys are still the only rink in the club that has not been defeated, and there must be a reason.

Please don't hold this against us, but a sweet young lassie says to us the other evening: 'Mr. Martin, we always thought that F and G meant fish and game.' Then came the dawn.

Lombardi Climbs For Snatch At Bat Laurels

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP). — With an 18-point gain, Ernie Lombardi, Boston Braves' big catcher, moved back into the thick of the battle for the National League batting championship.

While Lombardi was boosting his average to .333, Brooklyn's two pacesetters, Pete Reiser and Joe Meddick, fell off slightly. Reiser dropped down five points, but clung to the lead with an average of .356. Medwick lost only one point and ended the week with a .343 percentage.

Three of last week's first ten dropped out of the select group as Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburg first baseman, Walker Cooper, St. Louis catcher, and Lou Novikoff, the Cubs' mad Russian moved up. They shoved out Brooklyn's Dixie Walker, Cincinnati's rookie outfielder, Max Marshall, and Chicago's Bill Nicholson.

Trailing the three leaders, the top ten included: Stan Musial, St. Louis, .308; Fletcher, 304; W. Cooper, .303; Mickey Owen, Brooklyn, .302; Johnny Mize, New York, .298; Ray Lamanno, Cincinnati, .298; and Novikoff, .291.

The only changes among the leaders in the other departments saw Medwick displace Mize in total hits and Reiser as the No. 1 man in hitting doubles. Medwick pounded out nine hits during the week to boost his total of 97, while Mize had to be content with four and second place with 95. Medwick also connected with one double to run his total to 23, one more than Stan Hack of Chicago, Eddie Joost of Cincinnati, Reiser and Walker Cooper.

Manager Mel Ott of the Giants retained his leadership in total runs with 60, a gain of two, while Mize drove in four runs for a total of 67 tallies sent across the plate. Enos Slaughter of the Cards got two triples and ended the week still in first place with nine, while Mize added a homer to hold down the top spot with 15.

Leonard Merullo, rookie Chicago infielder, moved into a first place tie with Eddie Miller of Chicago and Reiser in stolen bases, each having pilfered ten.

Ring Depression Sees Only Eight Shifts

NEW YORK, July 14—(AP). — The National Boxing Association issued its quarterly ranking of fighters today and the recent depression in the ring usiness left the list with the fewest changes in years.

All the champions went through the three-month period without an upset, and the groups of logical contenders in the eight weight divisions saw only eight shifts.

Chief among these found Lee Savold, the belting bartender from Des Moines, moving up to join Billy Conn and Bob Pastor among the contenders for Joe Louis' heavyweight bauble fllowing his victory over Lou Nova. No Canadians were on the list.

The rankings:—

Heavyweight. — Champion, Joe Louis, Detroit and U.S. Army; logical contenders, Billy Conn, Pittsburg and U.S. Army; Bob Pastor, New York; Lee Savold, Des Moines, Ia.

Light-heavyweights — Champion, Gus Lesnevich, Cliffside, N.J.; and U.S. Coast Guard; contenders, Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland; Billy Soose, Farrell, Pa., and U.S. Navy; Booker Beckwith, Gary, Ind.; Ezzard Charles, Columbus, Ohio.

This is another Royal Canadian Army Service Corps type of vehicle—a six-wheel cab-over-engine style of Stores Transport.

Like the 3-to-4 ton truck, this type is used for general transport work, including the moving of supplies and equipment. It also may be used for the carrying of troops.

As with the smaller type, the body is covered with a canvas top.

Senators Blank Cleveland In 7-0 Struggle

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League has just suffered another chill in the region of its pennant race.

New York Yankees beat down Detroit Tigers again yesterday 4-3 and Washington Senators surprisingly shut out Cleveland Indians 7-0 in a night game.

These results, coming as they did on the heels of Boston Red Sox' double somersault before St. Louis Brown Sunday, placed an emphatic damper on whatever rivals were rash enough to think the world champions were collapsing.

All season long Detroit has been the most troublesome of the Yanks' opponents and tne Tigers were tough to handle yesterday even though Lefty Gomze held them to four hits and fanned seven while going the route for the second time this year.

It was an odd game, but the Yanks won it and moved five full games in front of the idle Red Sox.

Indians Jolted.

The Indians, who had won four straight and 11 of their last 14 (excluding a tie), meanwhile suffered a rude jolt at Washington and saw their third-place distance from leaders swell to seven games.

Young Walter Masterson was the No. 1 boy for the Senators, holding Cleveland to three scattered singles while his team mates belted three pitchers for 10 hits. Only the fact that the Indians' stalwart infield reeled off four double plays kept the Senators from making their conquest even more complete.

In the only other game played Philadelphia Athletics nosed out Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 11 innings. Phil Marchildon allowed Chicago just eight hits and he started the winning rally in the 11th with a single after two were out.

The only game scheduled in the National League, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, was postponed.

Some Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 14—(CP).—The boys who gather at the pubs and talk of such things over a mild and bitter are pretty worried as to the shortage of sports equipment. Continuance of some games is threatened.

Golf balls—there just isn't the rubber to make new ones — are so scarce players are almost afraid to use them lest they lose them. Steel clubs haven't been made for more than a year; production of tennis racquets has been discontinued.

Football clubs, oo, are concerned, not only over the supply of clothing and boots but over footballs. Production of the balls, ucounted in millions before the war, fell to about 100,000 last season when most clubs made a ball do two matches — instead of just one as in pre-war years.

Britain's biggest track and field program of the year is scheduled to dig up the turf at Epsom July 25 and at least one anadian—Sub-Lt. Johnny Loaring of the Royal Canadian Navy—is entered.

Loaring, Canadian Olympic timber-topper from Windsor, Ont., will race in the 440-yard run and the 120-yard hurdles.

Other stars include Sydney Wooderson, former world record holder for the mile, whose chief opposition is expected to come from Doug. Wilson, a kid who beat him once, and Lieut. J. C. Stothard, who won the event for Cambridge against Oxford in 1935

Eileen Jordan and Joyce Dean, 19-year-old munition workers, left the factory when the whistle blew, set a new English record for the women's 25-mile tandem cycle race, and finished off the even ıg with a tankard of brew. The new record of 59 minutes 27 seconds is nearly two minutes better than the old.

Epsom police and national fire services are thinking of tossing a coin to decide cricket supremacy. In three games there's been but one run difference between them.

PATENT LEATHER OUT

LONDON—(CP).—Once current short supplies are sold, Britain's shoe dealers will have no more patent leather shoes to offer customers, as this enamel-treated leather was imported from Germany and France.

Burge Rips Out 21st Homer Royals Win 5-2

By The Associated Press

Les Burge, towering first baseman for Montreal Royals, apparently has been reading the reports which have indicated that approximately 50 per cent of the persons in the sands at recent Montreal games have been major league scouts.

The six-foot ,two-inch bomber, ticketed as one of the International League's better players this season, slammed his 21st home run of the season last night as the Royals trimmed Rochester 5-2 in the only league game played.

Burge came to Brooklyn Dodgers from the Atlanta Crackers last Fall, the National League champions giving a five-figure cheque for the 25-year-old infielder who had set the runs-batted-in pace for the Southern Association.

He couldn't dislodge Dolph Camilli, regular Dodger first man and the National League's most valuable player of 1941, in the Spring drills and, much to the regret of International League hurlers, was sent to Montreal for further seasoning.

With Camilli going his usual strong, silent way, scouts of other big league clubs have taken the opportunity of watching the youngster.

Fruits Tickle Soldier's Palate

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 13.—(CP). —Include some tinned fruit or tomato juice in your 'Bundles for Britain' whether for service or civilian personnel—and the parcel will be one of the most welcome every received.

Wartime British food restrictions, practically banning import of fresh fruit, have deprived Britons of such breakfast delicacies as oranges and grapefruit. And nothing can take their place.

Besides the fruit juices, there are many other food gifts which rationed Britons would appreciate but fruit should get priority. This statement is based on more than a year's experience in trying to get along without it.

Last summer in England, some of us Canadians tried stewing rhubarb and drinking the juice—but it didn't work very well. For a while, we could depend on tinned apple juice—until the grocers supply was exhausted.

Unless Britain has changed since this writer left in March, dehydrated onions also will be appreciated. Perhaps this year's onion crop will go farther to satisfy the demand than last season—but be safe and include some.

Tinned meat always is welcome because, of course, fresh meat is rationed and tined meat can be obtained from shop only by surrendering 'point' ration coupons.

Cheese would be enjoyed by any Canadian and the parcel also should include some peanuts, candy, egg substitute, coffet and butter.

Above all, don't exceed the five-pound limit, including packing, for civilians, or your parcel will be confiscated by the British customs authorities. That statement comes from the bitter experience of losing two that way a year ago.

phone extensions, travel fares, cigarette papers and tubes, packaged cigarettes, manufactured tobacco, playing cards, wines, furs, and danse halls, cabarets and similar places of entertainment also were approved by the committee.

Operation of the 25 per cent purchase tax on a number of items, including clothes and watches, and also articles of jewelry costing more than 50 cents each, will be simplified by the placing of stamps on the recapitulation of sales of taxed items by the retailer. This stamped recapitulation will be open for inspection by revenue officials.

Mr. Ilsley agreed that the purchase tax had represented a "headache," apart from the three classifications covered by his amendment, it was not being applied at the manufacturer's level as this would mean a heavy mark-up in some lines and would lead to injustice as between those who had large stocks of goods and those who had little on hand.

Dircussion of increased liquor taxes led to suggestions from several members that the Dominion Government Act to bring about a reduction of the nation's liquor bill

Mr. Ilsley answered these suggestions by citing the example of Nova Scotia which has imposed strict control of liquor sales by forbidding beverage rooms and imposing short hours of liquor sale. But in spite of these controls liquor consumption was up. He questioned whether Federal regulations imposed on provincial regulations would be any more effective, although he agreed there was reason for concern over the country's increased liquor bill.

Urges Cut in Liquor Bill.

Conservative House Leader Hanson, who had urged Government action to reduce the liquor bill, expressed disappointment that the minister did not feel there was a responsibility on the Dominion to take action.

Mark Senn (Con. Haldimand) and Mr. Hanson expressed fear the increased tax on Canadian raw leaf tobacco, to be raised from 10 to 20 cents a pound under the budget resolution, would affect returns to the tobacco producer.

Mr. Ilsley said the tax on raw leaf tobacco did not apply on the leaf sold manufacturers but to that sold consumers. He would reconsider the tax if it were found any part of the increase came out of the primary producer.

Mr. Hanson said the 25 per cent purchase tax operated in favor of stores dealing in cheap merchandise while regular jewellery firms would have their business killed. He favored applying the tax generally at the manufacturer's level.

Mr. Ilsley said general application at the manufacturer's level would deal unfairly as between the stores with large stocks on hand and those with little, in that the man with the large inventory at present would benefit. Application of the tax at the manufacturer's level was being made on items which were moving fast due to heavy buying.

In case of other articles on which the 25 per cent purchase tax applies, such as clocks, jewellery decorative glassware, and china not used for food, the retailer will place a stamp on the bill to the amount of tax, cancel it, and present it to the customer.

J. R. MacNicol (Con., Toronto-Davenport) said small merchants had said they were being put out of business. Mr. Ilsley said that in 1941 the volume of goods sold by retail stores was 25 per cent. greater than before the war and the dollar value was about 50 per cent. greater.

A 250 Million Bill.

The discussion of liquor traffic was brought on by the Conservative House leader, Hon. R. B. Hanson, who said the drink bill for Canada in 1942 was expected to reach $250,000,000, a figur which appalled him.

Many members supported Mr. Hanson's argument that the Federal Government hould give some leadership to the provinces in meeting this problem.

The Revenue Minister, Hon. C. W. Gibson, entered the argument briefly to assure the committee that liquor corporations were not being permitted to pay dividends or redeem bonds out of excess profits, or to spend unreasonable sums in liquor advertising

Mr. Hanson said the Minister (Mr. Ilsley) had taken the stand previously, and correctly, that the liquor traffic was under provincial control. But Mr. Hanson added it was more a "provincial monopoly" than a provincial responsibility.

National prohibition was an impossibility unless it had "the overwhelming support of the public" and such support was not apparent.

But the Federal government could impose the highest possible taxes on spirits and would be justified in doing so at a time when the nation was "straining every effort it can to raise money for prosecution of the war."

Plan to Reduce It

He proposed also that the Federal government confer with the provinces with a view to working out a plan for curtailing liquor consumption.

Ross Macdonald (Lib.-Brantford City), said he believed far too much liquor was being consumed and too much industrial effort going into its manufacture but he did not know what could be done about it.

Under prohibition in Ontario some years ago he said bootleggers flourished, illicit sale increased and boys and girls carried liquor flasks to dances and other assembies.

Karl Homuth (Con. Waterloo South) said he favored raising the tax on liquor provided it was not raised so high that alcohol would flow across from the United States as in past years. He said the House had heard "several temperance lectures" which had nothing to do with the budget. If any private member wished to debate that question from the moral standpoint, it should be done by resolution. The budget was concerned with the raising of revenue and not with the morals of the people.

If the tax was raised too high there would at once be a flood of smuggled liquor entering Canada from across the United States border.

Permit US Units In Canada Now

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP). — An order-in-council providing authority for the stationing of units of the United States armed forces in Canada was published in the Canada Gazette.

The order, dated June 26, says that "with the consent of the Canadian government, the government of the United Sates of America has stationed and will station units of its armed forces in Canada and it is necessary, as an interim measure, to make immediate provision therefor.'

As a result, the provisions of the foreign forces order, 1941, were made applicable to forces of the United States.

Presumably stationing of United States army engineers in the northwes in connection with construction of the highway to Alaska brought the matter to a head but under the order stationing of American units anywhere in the Dominion is permissible.

Details were scant, but a subsequent communique said a Soviet fighting force on the Kalinin front had killed more than 2,000 Germans and destroyed more than 54 tanks in six days, while Nazi attacks in another sector cost the invaders 12 tanks and 700 dead.

"The Germans dispatched airborne troops to the vicinity of point 'G'," it said. "Many of them were shot before landing. The rest were wiped out on the ground."

Furious fighting in the Rzhev direction assumed proportions that might mean another German bid to try to reach the capital, Russian reports indicated.

Loss of ground near Rzhev had been announced by Soviet authorities, but more than 10,000 Germans were declared to have died there in 12 days.

Gravely-phrased communiques reported a series of reverses for Red army men at the hands of superior invasion forces striking toward Volga Valley industrial centres and Caucasus oil fields, a Nazi breakthrough in the Voronezh area and withdrawals to the south.

Costing Thousands Daily

Nevertheless, it was declared that Hitler was losing thousands of men daily, and this, "independent of any temporary success of the German forces, is gradually undermining Hitler's war machine and preparing the ground for Germany's defeat."

(Berlin's radio claimed in a propaganda broadcast that "catastrophe has broken on the armies of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko and the pursuit of beaten Soviet troops is continuing on a broad front."

(London newspapers again urged a continental invasion. The Daily Herald declared that "if we fail to open a second front soon enough, because of under-organization and indecision or sheer low spirits, the price of our ineptitude may be no more freedom—anywhere—forever.")

A special announcement of the Soviet Information Bureau said Germany had paid a heavy toll in material and manpower for gains —unspecified in extent—during the action southwest of Rzhev, Upper Volga port at which a Nazi garrison was pocketed during the winter campaign.

10,000 Against 7,000

The information bureau declared the Nazi death list alone totalled more than 10,000, against Russian casualties of 7,000 killed and wounded and 5,000 missing in fighting July 2-13 which developed from a German attempt to 'encircle our troops by flank attacks and cut their communications with the rear.'

Numerical superiority of the tank-led Germans eventually forced the Russians to withdraw, it was said. Most of the 5,000 missing Red army mtn were declared to have formed guerilla bands.

(The German High Command claimed earlier that 30,000 Russians had been captured in an encirclement southwest of Rzhev and that several Soviet divisions were 'under annihilation.' It was not brought out whether the action restored direct communications between Rzhev and Nazi-held Vyazma, on the Moscow-Smolensk highway 70 miles to the south).

Announcement of a breakthrough at Voronezh, in the Valley of the Upper Don 300 miles south of Moscow, was a significant development on the southern front.

"'During July,' it was announced at midnight, 'our troops fought fierce battles against the German Fascist troops who broke through the front in the district of Voronezh. The situation remains grave. Our tanks, infantry units and artillery are repelling enemy attacks.

4 Scrap Rubber Firms Clean Up

WASHINGTON, July 14(AP).—Elliot E. Simpson, counsel for a House of Representatives sub-committee investigating the rubber situation, charges that "four large scrap rubber firms have reaped enormous profits from the country's scrap rubber drive."

Simpson, in a statement released yesterday, said:

"The four companies which have been appointed as the sole rubber reserve 'agents' are H. Meuhlstein and Company, Inc., A. Schulman, Inc., Nat E. Berzen, Inc., and the Loewenthal Company. All four have branches extending from coast to coast, and all four are due to obtain tremendous profits from this deal."

The Rubber Reserve Corporation is a government subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Simpson said the four companies he named "are being granted 'commissions' of $1.50 on every ton of scrap rubber which is collected for the rubber reserve, whether or not they were instrumental in collecting the scrap. On top of that, they are paid a considerable sum for sorting the scrap once its in their warehouses. But the greatest bonanza of all will come after the scrap is sorted, after which items as crepe soles —worth $462 a ton—are separated from run-of-the-mill grades."

Improved Tanks

London, July 14 (CP).

THE Russians and Germans are both using new types of tanks on the Don front and Great Britain is putting a new model through tests, the Daily Herald reported to-day.

The new Russian tank weighs 40 tons and is equipped with a pro-shaped shield in front to deflect shells, the Herald said, quoting the Vichy news agency. The paper quoted the Italian newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma as saying Hitler is using a new egg shaped tank, also constructed to deflect shells Its high clearance enables it to get through snow and mud.

Britain tested a new tank during the week-end, but declined to give specifications or permit phographs. Workers who produced the tank watched the first trials.

HOTTEST DAY THIS YEAR

Monday's high of 91, was five degrees above former maximum this year.

DIFFERENT.

The latest style for girls follows a somewhat eastern trend, judging by one girl's appearance on George street Monday afternoon. Around her ankle was a slender silver chain with an oblong disk facing the front of her foot, giving her a most unusual appearance.

BACK AGAIN

It is said that the styles run in cycles and there may be something to it, for the good old gingham sunbonnet is making a reappearance not only in the country, but around the city as well. The girls have discovered that some of Granma's ideas had something to them after all particularly now since cosmetics might be rationed in the not too-distant future.

JOIN THE BATTERY

Recruits continue to join the 4th (R) Field Battery R.C.A., as camp training approaches. Recent additions include: J. F. Daley, V. J. Dineen, O. B. Curtis, S. A. Curtis, J. R. Shadgett, and A. W. Watkins. Two more were taken on the headquarters staff of the 43rd Regiment: J. J. Peel, to be sergeant, and K. T. Tilley, son of R.Q.M.S. Tilley of the local Training Centre.

HEAT DRIVES THEM.

Many of those who have a little spare time in the afternoons have bee spending it on the different parks througrout the city, trying to find a little shade and coolness since the mercury started climbing. Most of them are just content to sit motionless and allow the breeze to fan them into a state a few degrees cooler anyway.

JEWELRY STOLEN.

Petty thieving has begun again at Inverlea Park. Shirley Fitzsimmons, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Fitzsimmons, 121 Alberta Street, was swimming Monday afternoon, and while in the water she left a gold ring and wrist watch in a purse wrapped up in her shoes on the shore. When she came out of the water, she found she was minus her jewelry.

MARRIES OVERSEAS

Leo (Red) Feeley, who enlisted early in the war in the Royal Canadian Engineers, has married a girl in England, and the Feeley family in this city received a piece of the wedding cake this week. This morning Hosannah Feeley, the third and last brother in the family, enlisted with the Ordnance Corps, and Geoffrey Feely is with the Rangers, but is now station at the local Training Centre.

A 24 POUNDER.

Clarence McIlmoyle of Lakefield, out casting off Crowe's Landing Sunday morning with Reid Kennedy of Pittsburg, landed a nice twenty-four pounder. The muskie 45 inches long, took a Creek Chub pikie minnow. Previous summers Clarence spent the season guiding, but this year is employed at the C.G.E. Last year he and his parties landed over 70 of the big fighters. Sunday afternoon he and his pal hooked a second muskie, on a smaller scale, going only about 8 pounds.

HONORS IN MUSIC.

At the recent examinations held by the Toronto Conservatory of Music at St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, Miss Jean Butler, daughter of Cecil Butler of Hespeler, passed the third-year work with first-class honors.

CARS DAMAGED.

A car driven by Bert Churchill, 96 Aylmer street, was struck by a car driven by Victor Dinsdale, 289½ George street, as Churchill was crossing Charlotte street at Reid. Churchill was driving south, and Dinsdale's car was proceeding in an easterly direction. Both cars were damaged.

TO ATTEND CAMP

The summer camp for the local reserve units starts on July 19 and runs to August 2, and more than 300 all ranks of the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion, will attend. At the same time the artillery camp will be in progress and 75 men all ranks from the 4th Field Battery, will also go to this session of intensive training.

SIX TURN OUT.

Six men turned out for the first afternoon training periol at the Armouries last Thursday and spent the time from three to five hearing a lecture on the Lewis gun. These afternoon training perods wil be held every Tuesday and Thursday during the summer for the convenience of men who cannot attend evening training periods. Robert J. Burnside, 502 Romaine and Richarl W. J. Ducker, 374 McDonnel, are the latest recruits in the Rangers.

4 Double Yolkers

WILLIAMSBURG, Ont., June 14.—(CP).—Mrs. Herbert Loucks of this district recently killed a white Leghorn hen for a family dinner. When dressing the bird she discovered four double-yolked eggs, complete with shell and ready to be laid, on a normal-sized shell egg and one smaller egg. Several also were in the process of forming.

Travelling Eskimo

MONCTON, N.B., July 14.—(CP)—Warren Morris, 27, an Eskimo from Goose Bay, Labrador, has been doing a lot of travelling for a fellow with a game leg. Last winter he received hospital treatment here for a leg fracture. Now he is again a patient in the same hospital, getting further treatment for the same injury. He made both trips from Labrador to Moncton by plane.

ENCOURAGE MINERS

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 14, 1917—Dr. Georg Micaelis succeeded von Bethmann-Hollweg as German chancellor. King George V and Queen Mary returned to England after 10-day visit to the armies in France. Russians repulsed Austrians west of Kalisch and captured Novicka.

Rangers Enjoy Many Privileges

Battalion Orders of the 1st Battalion Prince of Wales Rangers now stationed on the West Coast reveal that every consideration is being given the men in the matter of recreation, leaves and religion.

One item in the orders indicates that all ranks of the regiment are at liberty to patronize the Elk's Club in Prince George where there is a recreation room, billiard room, writing room, etc. It was also announced that the parish priest at Prince George would be at the camp to hear confessions one afternoon and evening, and mass was celebrated for the Catholics in the Headquarters Hut, while Divine Service for Protestants took place in another hut.

The boys apparently are getting a taste of the wild and woolly west, for another item in orders states that all members of the regiment wishing to attend the rodeo, should get in touch with an officer who was detailed to make all arrangements.

The following promotions are listed: L/Cpl. H. Gray and L/Cpl. W. E. Brioux and L/Cpl. J. D. Grose are to be acting corporals Ptes. S. C. Howard and L. T. Vitarelli are. promtoed to the rank of lance corporal.

Notable Artist To Broadcast For War Victims

A rare opportunity to hear an outstanding artist of premiere importance in his own field of artistic achievement has presented itself to this community and district covered within hearing distance of Radio Station CHEX, through the kindness of Ernest Nichol, noted Concert Whistler, who has offered his services to broadcast a program from this station on this Wednesday from 9.05 to 9.45 p.m. in the interests of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

When one considers the achievements of Mr. Nichol, whose work is of international renown, it would not be out of the way to forecast a huge radio audience for the occasion.

Moving picture fans will perhaps recall his work in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which is only one of his many appearances in film work, for he has a long list in this field to his credit.

As guest artist he has appeared in many countries, having taken part in symphony orchestra concerts in London, Berlin, Vienna, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia ad other important centres besides the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra, and has been associated with Fritz Kreisler and Madame Schuman Heinke and other first ranking artists in programs of the highest order.

Through the medium of his art, Mr. Nichol is appealing to all within the hearing of this outstanding program that he will render, that they will give of their means to help those who are in the front line of attack in Britain, and have suffered loss through attacks from the air. Donations may be telephoned in to 4643 or 4644, and a volunteer helper from the Peterborough Women's Service Corps will call in person to collect the money and issue a temporary receipt, which will be followed by the official receipt from the secretary's office.

For the convenience of those in outlying portions of the City, donations may be left at McMahon's Store at Crawford's Grove, Bert McLeod's Drug Store, 55 Park street N., Grant Miller's Drug Store, 364 Charlotte street, Finn's Drug Store, 647 George street, Stanley Bogue's Drug Store, Cor. George and Romaine streets, and Borland's Drug Store, 91 Hunter street East.

All will be officially acknowledged in the daily column for the fund, and no matter how small or large, will be gratefully received on behalf of the people of Britain, and every cent of it will go to the Lord Mayor of London for the National Air Raid Distress Fund.

Flower Holders Net $24

From an original idea to help the fund by William Naish of the Hood and Cummings Motors, the sum of $24.30 is listed today for the fund. Mr. Naish himself made a considerable number of flower holders for use in decorating graves, and with the assistance of M. Isaac Harrison at the greenhouse at Little Lake cemetery, and the staff at the office, a large number of these were sold to the fore mentioned value. There are still a few available for this purpose, and they can be procured from Mr. Harrison at the greenhouse, J. Pirie of the Monumental Works at 71 Crescent street also assisted in this good work.

The Honor Bound Sunday School Class of the George Street United church, with Mrs. E. S. Kingdon as teacher, have on a number of occasions given assistance to the fund, and once again they are heard from with a contribution of $4.25, which represents a straight collection among class members and speaks of a continued interest in the welfare of those less fortunate than themselves in Britain.

Green Aphis Is At Work On Soft Maple

An old man well past the allotted span of three score and ten watched leaves falling form a tree down on Prince street a few days ago, and forecast dire things for the world. The fact that green leaves were fluttering down to the ground, in July instead of October was to him a forerunner of great tragedy, a catastrophe of staggering proportions was hurtling down on us.

Investigation of this unnatural phenomenon reveals there is a simple explanation for the condition. It is the work of a little green insect, that has a list of aliases as long as your arm. It is known as the aphis, the aphides, the green aphis, plant louse, green fly or just plain "blight." It's a particular brute too for it only lunches on the sofe maples, or perhaps for variety will snack off a birch.

R. H. Parsons, city engineer, states the pest is more prominent this year than ever before and that hardly a soft maple tree in the city limits has escaped. Many birch trees have also been hit. The way Mr. Green-Fly eats is to shove his long needle-like mouth into a leaf and suck the sugar sap. When he has satisfied his hunger, he crawls around to the other side of the leaf and has a sleep while the sap continues to flow from the puncture giving the surface of the leaf a varnished appearance. After a few meals by the voracious little insect, the leaf gives up hope, dies, and falls to the ground. This cluttering up nice summer lawns and frightening people who have over-active imaginations.

The ordinary syraps are not much good in combatting the past, authorities say, but nicotine will do the trick. Unfortunately nicotine is much too expensive to use in quantities necessary to kill the blight on all the maples affected.

Dry Hot Weather

The only sure cure is to sit back and wait for a few days of dry hot weather. That will curb the spread and if the hot dry weather lasts long enough will kill off the pests for the rest of the year.

The green aphis does not injure the tree permanently for another set of leaves forms as soon as the dead ones drop off. But the itsects are a nuisance because the dead leaves are sticky and it isn't long before the pedestrian has snowshoes of scalloped maple leaves. And moreover it is an awful headache for the man who keep his lawn clean.

Down on Prince street, the residents claim that an oil substance has been dropping off the trees, and they discovered the trees were infested with grubs and worms. which are threatening to destroy the foliage. Similarly trees near Dr. O'Brien's, at Alderman James Dutton's and at R. H. Parsons' home have all been hit. There are several varieties of these aphis, some are green, some red and others white, but they all belong to the same destructive family.

Anyway, there goes another prophecy up the flue, and despite the falling leaves, all is well for awhile at least.

Split On Relief

WINNIPEG, July 14—(CP). — Hon. Errick F. Willis, Manitoba Minister of Public Works, announced today that the Provincial Government will spit 50-50 with municipalities on cost of relief for unemployable males and females up too the age of 70. Previous regulations provided payment to women up to 60 years of age and to men up to 65.

Killed By a Kick

FREDERICTON, July 14.—(CP)—Raymond F. Goodine, 36, was killed instantly today when a horse kicked him below the heart. He had roped one of several young western horses at the stockyards here and wa spulling it toward him when the colt suddenly wheeled and lashed out with both hind feet.

Red Cross Needs Workers For New Orders

At the present time the local branch of the Red Cross is working short-handed to fill emergency orders for British civilians in Great Britain, Mrs. R. Turner, president, said today.

Besides having their regular quota to handle, these extra emergency orders are there, and with so many people away on their holidays, there are just a faithful few who appear regularly, with no thought of receiving any credit or praise Women who would like to do their bit are cordially welcomed to come and spend some time in the afternoon from 2 to 5, and Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9.

The situation is grave as the National Red Cross gets its requests from the British Government and it in turn pass them on to the different provincial organizations who alocate them to the local branches, according to how many workers they have and the size of the place.

Within a month there must be thirty 4-year-old outfits consisting of shorts, blazers and blouses, as well as thirty 12-year-old outfits of longs, blouses and coats. Also wanted are thirty girls' 16-year-old outfits and thirty women's, composed of slacks and shirts.

There has been a particularly urgent appeal for hospital dressings for overseas, to an amount numbering more than 3,000. This must be done in ten days. An emergency call for 80 donnage bags and 60 men's work shirts to be done in two weeks has just been completed.

The church groups affiliated with the Red Cross are doing a fine job, Mrs. Turner said. Also a week ago the women living in the wartime houses on Park Hill road got together and organized a branch and are doing splendid work on 400 diapers.

In the regular quota there are knitted suits for boys and knitted dresses for girls to be done by September for overseas. They also need pullovers for children 6 years and girls 10 years Any and all assistance will be most welcome, and the Red Cross rooms will not be able to close all summer so that the women can come at any time to help.

"This work is not a job where there will be a lot of praise given from the public and there will be no one standing in the limelight," Mrs. Turner said. "But it is one of the most vitally necessary jobs of the whole war effort and it cannot be stressed too much."

Contract Is Let For Incinerator

Contract for the building of the superstructure of the new incinerator was let by the Property Committee of the council Monday afternoon to the J. K. Sheehy Construction Company for $11,731. Only one bid was received for this work which includes the main building with wiring and plumbing and the most of the ramp except the grading.

The committee has not yet disposed of the tar roofing of the car barns on King Street, the bus headquarters owned by the city. A month or more ago the committee received two bids, one of them from Fred Doughty for $150, substantially less than the alternative.

Several members of the committee expressed themselves in favor of accepting the higher tender because they said they were uncertain of the ability of Mr. Doughty to carry out the contract at the lower figure. It was finally decided to leave the decision to the chairman of the committee, Alderman Swanston, who said today that he should reach some conclusion this week.

Big Island Blaze

PICTON, Ont., July 14.—(CP).—Five buildings and their contents, owned by G. C. Sprague at Big Island, were destroyed by fire of unknown origin yesterday. The loss totalled $6,000. The blaze broke out in a workshop.

Combatting The Underseas Menace

A stirring action photo made aboard a United States coast-guard patrol cutter as its locator device "made contact" with a submarine suspect. A seaman at the stern is prepared to release a lethal depth charge as another stands by the machine-gun should the underseas craft elect to surface and fight it out with her deck gun.

Post Mortem Is Ordered In Miller Death

An echo of the car accident on Highway No. 2 last Septemer in which a car driven by Chief Constable D. C. Draper of Toronto and a car driven by Burton O. Miller of Peterborough were damaged was heard in this city today.

Burton O. Miller died on Monday of partial paralysis in his 52nd year. Today Attorney General Gordon Conant reported he would ask Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. along with Provincial Police to report on the death of Mr. Miller. Mr. Conant also directed that a post-morten be conducted immediately by Dr. C. B. Waite of the Department of Health Laboratory.

At the time of the accident last September, Mr. Miller received head and chest injuries, and it is presumed in this city that the Attorney-General wishes to ascertain whether or not these injuries were a contributing factor to Mr. Miller's death this week. So far there is no intimation that such is the case but the post mortem examination may indicate otherwise.

Their many local friends here extend congratulations to these two gentlemen, who are climbing the ladder of railroad achievement.

Wartime Houses To Erect 125 More Homes

The Eastwood Construction Company has been awarded the contract for another block of 125 temporary houses to be erected on what is generally known as the race track property in North Monaghan. It is located in the flat area generally between the two highways, 28 and 7, and west of High Street. After the Exhibition Park was pre-empted by the military authorities for a training camp, a group of local horsemen rented this property to the southwest of the city and graded a track as exercise grounds for their harness horses.

H. S. Longhurst, manager of the houses, said the commission had authorized several months ago the building of 250 houses, but the undertaking had been delayed when the company decided to build 125 houses on the Hatton property.

"I have applications for 100 houses on my list right now," Mr. Longhurst told the Examiner today, "and the likelihood is that the 125 houses on the Hatton place will be all gone as soon as they are completed."

Apart from the staff house now advancing to completion on Monaghan Road at Wolfe Street, the number of houses constructed by the Federal Government's subsidiary will total 557 when the "race track" block is completed.

The first community was 82 at Burnham's Point, 225 at Jackson Park, 125 on the Hatton farm, and now 125 more. It is expected that most of the Hatton houses will be ready for occupation by the middle of September or the first of October.

Teach Nurses New Treatment

Continuing the age-old war on poliomyelitis, better known as infantile paralysis, the Ontario Government has now launched a program whereby a new treatment is made available to all sufferers from this disease free of Charge. The treatment, known as the "Sister Kenny" treatment, is comparatively new, but many medical authorities blieve in its efficacy, and while the Ontario Government is making the treatment available, it is by no means compulsory.

This is the time of year when polio cases may be expected, and to launch this new program medical men from all Ontario centres where there is an isolation hospital met in conference at Toronto a short time ago. At that time, the local medical officer of health, Dr. D. B. Avison, learned that Peterborough would be the first centre to have a class of nurses taught this new course of treatment. Miss Elizabeth Wright, superintendent of the Isolation Hospital, was given a course in Toronto in this work, free of charge, and she will assist Miss Margaret Blackwood of the Hamilton General Hospital in training a group of nurses from the two general hospitals this week.

The course starts on Thursday of this week, and it is notable that Peterborough has been the first urban centre outside of Toronto and Hamilton to have this course made available.

This week in his regular newspaper chat with Examiner readers, Dr. Avison will describe the new treatment and give a lot of interesting information about the dread disease of polio.

Urgent Call Is Made For Farm Help

Volunteer harvest help is only a trickle said G. A. Gillespie this morning in appreciation of the city men who have responded to the current rural need.

"We have two on hand for today and four for Wednesday if they are needed," he added.

Most of the hay crop has been gathered up, but there are still fields that are a challenge to husbandry. And the grain crop is just about ready for the binders. Mr. Gillespie and F. C. Paterson have been assigning help with the intention of affording relief where it is most neded, but the pool of labor has been far too shallow for farm needs.

The voluntary system and individualism operate in meeting this problem in much the same way as in other fields of effort. If twenty or twenty-five men were available daily for the next few weeks the calls for farmers who need help could be responded to immediately and without having to quest around for some men willing to pinch-hit in this season of abnormal emergency.

Citizens Urged Water Lawns During The Day

Ross Dobbin reported today that water pumpage through the city mains soared on Monday as the mercury climbed and local citizens tried to cool themselves and their homes, by sprinkling lawns, gardens and verandahs.

Normal pumpage is three and a half million gallons but on Monday the meters recorded that five and three quarter million gallons were required to meet the demand. The peak hour is at 7:30 in the evening, and Mr. Dobbin states he would much rather if people would water their lawns during the day, and then shut off the lawn sprinklers and hose between seven and eight in the evening. He has no objection to allowing the sprinkler to run during the daylight hours, nor even late at night, but peak pressure periods at the waterworks plant is what he wishes to avoid.

This week the 18-inch water main carrying more water into the city waterworks system will be tied into the system at the corner of Hunter and Bethune streets. This auxiliary line to the existing network will give needed pressure in the west end of the city, where the Western Clock Company plant and the St. Joseph's Hospital often suffer from lack of water pressure.

Ban On Kibitzers

LOS ANGELES, uly 14—(AP).—The Park Commission finally agreed with the suffering public that there ought to be a law. The commission issued a new order forbidding adults and children from congregating near or peeping over the shoulders of card players in city parks. Park attendants were ordered to enforce the kibitzer ban.

Exercises Banish a Matronly Chin

Young Throatline For Young Hat

Are salesgirls showing you matronly hats ALREADY? Then do something about that chin line!

Nothing labels you "old" so positively as a double chin — but the lovely young throat that's achieved with exercises can make a woman who IS middle-aged look years younger!

These special chin and neck exercises bring prompt results if you do them at least once or twice a day.

Here's one exercise: (1) Turn your head sharply to the right, until your chin is over right shoulder. (2) Keep your chin over your shoulder and tilt head backward slowly, lifting face toward ceiling.

(3) Lower head slowly. Now repeat entire exercise five times. After this, turn your head to the left and repeat. A rest — then repeat, 20 times altogether.

There are as safe and easy exercises for a bulgy waistline, for spreading hips, too. Or perhaps you have some other figure fault you'd like to correct.

Our 32-page booklet illustrates and explains exercises for waistline, hips and legs; for bust, arms, shoulders, neck and posture. Also gives exercises to correct foot troubles, constipation, nervous tension; and a general exercise routine.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Best Exercises for Health and Beauty." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

GUESSES CAN BE COSTLY

THERE ARE two very good reasons for usually leading your partner's suit against the opponent's No Trump game contract. The first, and obvious one, is that it may result in taking some tricks in a department in which you know your side is well fixed, especially if you have a fair holding yourself in the suit. But the second may be more important still. Leading his suit saves you from a guess which may be disastrous. You may pick the very suit which will build up the needed tricks for the declarer. Hence it is well to have some very good reason before you decide to lead another suit.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dbl
Pass	2 ♣	2 ♥	2 NT
Pass	3 NT

Just notice what was done to a contract bid that way at one table of a duplicate tournament. West led the 3 of his partner's spade suit to the K, and the 2 came back to the Q. South took his club A and led the J, West winning and two more spade tricks following, then the heart A, setting it.

It was beaten by the same lead at another table, where East won the first spade and switched to the heart 4, South playing low and the 10 winning for West, who then scored the heart A and led the 6 to give South two heart tricks. Even this could not give South nine tricks without having to lose a club to the K, whereupon another spade set him.

Nobody made that contract except the declarer who was favored by West making a "smart" lead of the diamond 3. That enabled South to take a loser in clubs while he still had every suit stopped. He won the diamond lead with the A, laid down the club A and led the J to the K. Now it made no difference what West did. Besides that club trick, all his side could get was two tricks in spades and one in hearts. As soon as South got the lead, the remainder of nine tricks were ready to run.

Hint Register Of Jobless Women Shortly

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP).—Selective Service Director Elliott M. Little had a word of praise and assurance to-day for Canadian women in war industry—and a promise that many more women shortly will reach the production lines.

Announcing a national registration of unemployed females 'within a few weeks, Mr. Little said in a service club (Rotary) address:

"Much of the increase in our industrial employment in the coming months must consist of women, women doing jobs which industrialists thought could only be done by men.

The young employable women of this country have proven their worth and ability amply by the way they have carried out the tasks they have assumed in industry."

But splendid as the response had been, more and more women would have to be sought and guided into necessary work. This entry into industry would, he assured, be regulated to avoid dislocation in home and community. A day nursery scheme for children of war workers was under way in Ontario and Quebec and other provisions would be made.

No Second Trial

DETROIT, July 14. — (AP). — Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle today denied a motion for a second trial for German-born Max Stephan convicted on July 2 of treason against the United States.

In arguing that the Government had presented proof showing only that Stephan had aided Hans Peter Krug, an escaped German flying officer as an individual.

Judge Tuttle had warned the jury they must find the defendant had helped the German government through Krug, and not just Krug himself.

Watch Your Coupons When Mailing Gift Packages

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 13.—(CP)—Canadians may include rationed foods in gift parcels mailed to civilians and servicemen in the United Kingdom, a spokesman for the post office department announced, but certain restrictions on such parcels must be observed.

A spokesman for the Maritime Prices and Trade Board said gifts of rationed foods—tea, coffee and sugar—may be mailed as long as they come out of the amount allowed to individual consumers in Canada.

In other words, you may send one-half pound of sugar to brother Tom in the Canadian army in Britain, or to cousin Bill or Aunt Ada living in Britain if you want to get along with that much less yourself.

Parcel sizes are limited. Gift parcels for civilians must not exceed five pounds in weight, or contain more than two pounds of any one kind of food. But the two-pound limit does not appy to clothing.

These parcels must be "unsolicited," the post office said. That is, they must not have been sent as the result of some prior communication sent to the donor by the recipient.

You can send cigarets to civilians if you wish, but they are costly to the person who gets them, because of import duty collected.

Weight Rectrictions

The limit in weight of parcels for Canadian servicemen in Britain is 11 pounds. The civilian restriction of two pounds weight for any one food does not apply. Canadians serving in the Royal Air Force also are entitled to receive such parcels.

Postal officials said servicemen's parcels should be addressed to the recipients' units.

Parcels up to 11 pounds also can be sent to Canadians serving in British units, provided they are addressed in care of Canadian Auxiliary Services, 6 Dilke St., Chelsea, London, S.W. 3, England.

Postal officials emphasized that postal regulations prohibit sending matches or other inflammable substances through the mail. They said that persons who mailed matches or lighter fluid overseas were endangering Canadian lives, ships and vital munitions because such parcel might catch fire in handling.

They added that in frequent cases fresh fruits and vegetables mailed overseas had arrived in damaged condition because of careless packing. Foods like oranges, apples and grapes should not be mailed unless packed strongly in boxes. The same applies to jam and other articles in glass containers. Sometimes the containers broke and spoiled the whole contents of the parcel.

Permission Is Granted For Open Air Services

NORWOOD, July 14 — (ENS). — The July meeting of the Norwood Mnuicipal Council was held in the Council Chamber, with Reeve Rork Ferguson in the chair and Councillors Lochhead, Bitten and Rogers present.

Correspondence received from the Municipal Board, county clerk, and Municipality of Fenelon Falls, and the I.O.D.E. was read and on motion by Councillors Bitten and Rogers, was ordered to be filed.

Moved by Councillors Bitten and Rogers that the street commissioner be authorized to secure a licence for his trailer in order to be able to use it for light street work.

Rev. Mr. Price and Rev. Mr. Ferns appeared before Council asking permission to hold open-air services on the streets on Saturday evenings.

Moved by Councillors Bitten and Rogers, that the required permission be granted with the understanding that the constable be consulted as to a suitable location in the interest of suitability and the public safety.

Women's Service Corps Expanding

OTTAWA, July 14 — (CP). — Branches of the Canadian Women's Voluntary Services (Ontario division) outside of Toronto will form the nucleus of community organizations promoted by the Women's Voluntary Services Division of the National War Services Department, it was announced today.

These organizations will be called "Women's Voluntary Services Centres" and "will develop across Canada as the needs of each community may determine," War Services Minister Thorson said in a statement.

A new agreement has been reached concerning branches of the C.W.V.S. (Ontario division) outside Toronto, but the situation in Toronto itself has not been ironed out yet, the statement said.

"It has been agreed that the problem should be worked out in and by Toronto itself," the statement said. "This is in accordance with the department's concept of community solidarity and responsibility."

Some weeks ago the War Services Department notified the C.W.V.S. (Ontario division) that it could not continue to operate under its original name because of the possibility of confusion with the newly-formed Women's Voluntary Services Division of the department. The agreement announced today was reached through efforts to overcome the difficulty.

Prairie Farms Are Shy On Storage

WINNIPEG, July 14 — (CP). — Present crop prospects on Canadian praries are so good western farmers will have to erect additional storage on their farms for more than 200,000,000 bushels of grain, 'even allowing for heavy deterioration between now and harvest,5 Western Retail Lumbermen's Association said in a statement issued to-day

The statement said farmers face a serious shortage of lumber supplies for grain storage and barns to house 'the steadily increasing livestock population,' and estimated lumber requirements for grain storage alone at more than 200,000,000 feet.

"The situation is extremely critical, and prompt measures will have to be taken to ensure supplies of lumber to properly store the west's grain and livestock which are making, and cas continue to make, such an important contribution to Canada's war effort,' the statement said.

Suggest Murray Expenses Be Reaudited

OTTAWA, July 14—(CP).—Harry Baldwin, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation treasurer, suggested to the House of Commons Radio committee today that expense vouchers of Gladstne Murray, CBC general manager, be again submitted to the Auditor-General for reaudit.

Mr. Baldwin, referring to a comment made by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. house leader, of 'dereliction of duty" by the treasurer, said he thought the statement should either be proven or withdrawn.

Mr. Coldwell said "without further evidence the words I have used may have been too strong." He still thought insufficient inquiry had been made into a payment of $1,003 to Mr. Murray for vouchers marked as covering intelligence service.

Dr. J. J. McCann (Lib., Renfrew South), committee chairman who previously referred to the voucher as "bad business practice," said he had "nothing to withdraw and might have something to add."

Mr. Baldwin said he had no memory of an occasion on which E. A. Pickering, former assistant to Mr. Murray, had given evidence in which he had said Mr. Murray had withdrawan vouchers totalling about $1,000 when his living allowance was restored and per diem travelling allowance increased. There was some difficulty in the cocounting of Mr. Murray's expense accounts covering times when he was travelling and particulularly during a trip to England.

The accounts which were being questioned amounted to only 1-20th of one per cent of the $20,000,000 administered by the general manager for the CBC during the past six years. If the voucher had been marked "Public Relations" there would be no question of them.

Costly Business.

The general manager could not have obtained the present standard of broadcasting for Canada and established the relations the CBC enjoyed with the United States radio chains, the British Broadcasting Corporation, and the Government of Mexico without "havxing had to make extra expenses which obviously and properly should not be disclosed in detail."

Dr. McCann said the submission of the accounts for reaudit would delay the matter until after the committee had completed its sessions. He added that if the suggestion were made for that purpose it would not receive the approval of the committee.

Mr. Baldwin said the practice which the board complained of — lack of detail of actual expenditure —had been discontinued in April, 1941. He said no limit had been placed in the by-laws on the expense accounts of the executives and he knew of no objection the board had ever made to Mr. Murray's accounts. It was "perfectly obvious" that the board had no desire that the treasurer should require specific details of the general manager's expenses.

"Why not be frank about this?" Mr. Baldwin asked. "The only question is whether the general manager of the CBC spent some $10,000 in six years under circumstances that amounted to doing anything wrong.

"I contend he didn't. The Board of Governors was perhaps not sufficiently definite. I think a very wrong impression of this is getting out."

If every official were required to produce detailed papers for every expenditure he made to a committee or an inquiring body, it would be a 'sorry state of affairs."

They Fixed The Oil

CAIRO, July 14 — (AP). — The Germans did not take long to solve the riddle of fish oil in desert wells.

Rather than destroy wells in their withdrawal, since they could be quickly dug again, British forces poured in fish oil to make unpalatable the few water spots in the desert.

But they found on regaining the territory in the El Alamein sector that the Germans had quickly re-established the wells with a special apparatus for extracting the fish oil.

Canuck Experts Teach English Nursery School Tactics

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., July 14. — (CP).—Five women experts in child psychology, under the direction of Dr. W. E. Blatz of Toronto, have come from Canada to train British girls for work in nursery schools.

Advance guard of a larger body of teachers and social workers who will come to Britain, these young women, who carry a crest marked "Canadian Children's Service" on the sleeve of their neat blue uniforms, began work July 1 at a Birmingham school specially equipped for them.

They are Dorothy Millichamp, Margaret Fletcher, Mary McFarlane and Ann Harris of Toronto, and Mary Wright of Strathroy, Ont. They comprise the entire staff of the Institute for Child Study, University of Toronto, of which Dr. Blatz is a director.

For the next six months 40 girls will take courses of from three to six weeks from the Canadian experts with a view to teaching them to become assistants to trained nursery teachers. It is estimated that 300 girls will pass through the school.

The model school contains many of the features of the Dionne quintuplets' nursery, including a "one-way screen" which will enable students to watch children at play without being seen.

Training methods doubtless will match those used on the Quints, for Dr. Blatz was entrusted by the Canadian Government with the psychological education of the Dionne children from the time they were 12 months old.

This will be used by branches of the Institute in the fruit-growing district where jam is being prepared for the armed forces.

Lines Refuse To Open For Rommel's Tanks Or Infantry

By HARRY CROCKETT,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY AT EL ALAMEIN, July 14—(Delayed)—(AP). — The Germans tried all day yesterday to crack the Australians on the northern from here, and when the Aussies didn't crack they tried to break through the South African positions. They lost many infantrymen and at least one tank and now they are back where they started

The Germans attacked just before dusk on a front three miles south and southwest of El Alamein station.

The Germans had tried all day to wear down the Australians on the northern front, and had withdrawn.

As one Australia tankman put it, "We gave them too much sharp steel."

The Germans obviously decided they wanted no further part of the Aussies and planned to crack through the South Africans, but they found the South Africans play just as rough.

During the afternoon some tanks attacked the South African positions in an apparent attempt to

Inquiry Ordered In Midland Fire

TORONTO, July 18 —(CP)— An immediate investigation into the $500,000 fire which destroyed two naval vessels and large buildings at the Midland Boat Works last night was ordered today by Attorney-general Conant of Ontario.

Mr. Conant said stories from Midland authorities about the fire's origin suggested suspicion of "foul play" but he would not admit that sabotage is charged.

Inspector J. A. Grant of the Ontario Fire Marshal'so ffice and Inspector E. D. L. Hammond of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police are proceeding at once to Midland to institute inquiries and have been ordered to submit preliminary reports to the Attorney-General within 48 hours. Meantime, Provincial authorities are conferring with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Ottawa authorities to learn what they know of the fire.

When the reports are submitted, Mr. Conant will determine whether to hold a public inquiry under the Fire Marshal's Act.

Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader and Provincial Legislature member for Simcoe East in which Midland is located, is proceeding to Midland to aid in any way possible.

Tires By End Of '43

WASHINGTON, July 15—(AP).—W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), said today the petroleum industry had developed two new methods of producing synthetic rubber which may provide by the end of next year 34,000,000 more automobile tires than had been expected. Farish told a House sub-committee that the new rubber methods may provide 200,000 tons of synthetic rubber in addition to the 800,000 tons already planned under the Government's rubber program. Tires from this additional rubber, Farish said, would go toward meeting essential civilian transportation needs.

US Navy Ambush Got Japs In Midway Scrap

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP).—Japan's invasion armada ran into an American ambush in the Battle of Midway, official reports showed today.

A communique last night gave the first detailed account of the battle and a supplemental report told how a naval force lay in ambush and struck hard with carrier planes when army and navy shorebased attacks had slowed the enemy fleet.

Size of the armada Japan sent to assault Midway in hopeful prelude to conquest of Hawaii was announced for the first time—80 ships. Official records gave this result of the battle:

Japanese losses—20 ships sunk or damaged ,including four aircraft carriers sunk and three battleships hit; 275 planes destroyed, and 4,800 men killed or drowned.

American losses—The 19,900-ton aircraft carrier Yorktown put out of action, the destroyer Hammann sunk, an undisclosed number of planes destroyed, and 92 officers and 216 men lost. Loss of the destroyer and damage to an aircraft carrier had been reported previously, but this was the first time their names were given.

The immediate result of the battle was that the safety of the vital Hawaiian area, the Canadian-American west coasts and the Panama Canal were at least temporarily secured.

Real Acts of Heroism

The navy issued in detail its first story of the 'superb acts of devotion' mentioned by Prime Minister Churchill in Parliament July 2, when he told for the first time that 'from some successful attacks on Japanese carriers only one (American) aircraft returned out of 10.'

At 9 a.m. Midway time, June 3, navy patrol planes found an enemy cruiser and transport force in five huge columns about 700 miles west of Midway.

New Anti-Sub Devices To Save Ships

Bullitt Claims R.A.F. Raids On Lairs To Show Results Soon

LONDON July 15 — (CP). — Improved United States anti-submarine methods plus "definitely good results" from R.A.F. bombardment of Nazi submarine bases and factories are expected to cut shipping losses in North American waters, an R.A.F. commentator said to-day.

United States Army Air Force officers are participating in conferences on targets for the R.A.F. offensive which in time will be swelled by American bombers.

William C. Bullitt, special assistant to Nevy Secretary Frank Knox, arrived here to-day and it is understood he will confer with Admiralty shipping officials on the best means of fighting submarines.

The R.A.F. is hammering at submarines in all stages of production and is continuing "large-scale attacks on German war industry" as ordered by the Cabinet.

Bomber Crackup Kills 4 Fliers

MONTREAL, July 15 — (CP). — Four or five members of the crew of a Royal Air Force Ferry Command Hudson aircraft were killed today when their plane crashed and burned between Ste. Genevieve and Cartierville, near Montreal.

All the men in the plane were killed. Four bodies have been found and it is believed another is in the wreckage. Names of the victims are being withheld until next of kin have been notified.

The plane was on a training flight and the cause of the crash has not been determined.

The R.A.F.F.C. made the following statement:

"The Royal Air Force Ferry Command regrets to announce that a Hudson aircraft on a training flight crashed and was burned at about 11 a.m. this morning between Cartierville and Ste. Genevieve. All the occupants were killed. The number and names of those in the plane are being withheld until they can be confirmed and the next of kin notified. The cause of the crash is unknown."

While the R.A.F.F.C. did not announce the number of victims, it was learned that there were at least four men in the plane, and probably five.

Licking The Wounds

LONDON, July 15 — (CP). —The main Japanese fleet probably is concentrating "in Japanese home waters" in the North Pacific as a result of the Coral Sea and Midway battles of May and June official circles said today.

The Japanese probably will keep their big ships there until they have "consolidated" their positions after the aircraft carrier losses they have suffered. these circles said.

Munition, Tank Gun Volume Now Assured

LONDON, July 15.— (CP).— Sir Andrew Duncan, Minister of Supply, assured the House of Commons of a 'growing sufficiency' of munitions to-day in a speech which climaxed the second and final day of debate on war production.

"We at last have reached the stage when the total volume of our own efforts does not raise any serious point of doubt, and with the combined resources of America and ourselves we are assured of a growing sufficiency," he saaid.

Of guns, he added:

"I do not think there ever has been any question that we have kept ahead. To-day the army have more six-pounder anti-tank guns than they had two-pounders a year ago."

The recently-improved Valentine and Matilda tanks, he continued, 'have given excellent service in Russia and Libya, and now that we have established quantity in tanks and in experience, we can establish quality.'

The Conservative Sir Patrick Hannon, replying in debate to what he called 'stupid, ill-informed' criticism of war workers, said 'the output per human unit in this country in war production is the highest in the world.'

EXTRA!

ISTANBULY, Turkey—(AP). — Extensive movements of German and Italian troops, motor transport and war supplies from Greek ports, chiefly Salonika, into Italy's Dodecanese Islands have been observed during the last month, according to reports which Allied observers here believe reliable. About six divisions have been reported moved into the Italian Islands close to Turkey's Western short and only 300 mile from Britain's East Mediterranean stronghold of Cyprus.

C.N.R. Station And 9 Homes Also Destroyed In Blaze That Causes $500,000 Loss

Gale Fans Embers Over Much Of Town Igniting Houses 12 Blocks Off, Fight Saves Major Shipbuilding Plant

MIDLAND, Ont., July 15—(CP).—Swept out of control by a near-gale, fire last night destroyed two naval vessels and large buildings at the Midland boat works, as well as the Canadian National Railways station and nine houses, causing damage estimated at more than $500,000.

Firemen prevented the flames from spreading to the plant of the Midland Shipbuilding Company, where naval vessels are under construction but even after the main fire had been put out, fire departments and volunteers were putting ou dozens of incipient blazc caused by sparks.

Boy volunteers wno swarmed over th roofs of C.N.R. freight sheds and put out sparks with two garden hoses, were credited with saving the buildings. Flame destroyed a number of pleasure boat moored at the dock of this Georgian Ba port and consumed a large ice house as well as numerous smaller buildings.

T. M. McCullough, general manager of the ey Harbor Navigation Company, said the fire started at 6.15 p.m. in an old portion of the Midland boat works plant, used by the navigation company on war contracts He said t e seat of the blaze might have been an old engine in the boiler-room.

2 Ships Worth $190,000 Each

Flames quickly spread to the main plant buildings and, fanned by a high wind, roared through two naval vessels, each valued at $190,000 when fully equipped. Within half an hour the buildings and boats had been destroyed and the fire continued to spread unchecked.

The Midland Fire Department, unable to handle the blaze, put in calls to departments at Barrie, Orillia and Penetanguishene, Elavale and Coldwater. Hundreds of volunteers aided these departments.

As sparks soared through the air hundreds of householders climbed on the roofs of their homes to put out small fires. Small fires were reported as far away as the Martyr's Shrine, two miles east of here.

Flames for a time threatened the plant of the Midland Shipbuilding Company, the largest inland shipyard on the continent, but huge quantities of water poured on buildings by a pumper prevented the fire from starting there.

The C.N.R. station, directly back of the waterfront, quickly went up in flames and burning embers set fire to scores of houses many as far away as 12 blocks from the main blaze

Dozens of families in Dollar Town an old residential district adjoining the waterfront, moved their belongings out of their homes Five houses were destroyed in this district and more than three others half a mile inland.

Main Water Line Down

The flames were brought under control by 9 o'clock but water was still being poured into smoldering ruins after midnight.

Special constables had to be appointed to keep thousands of persons from danger zones. At the height of the excitement, Orville Hawke, 16, was seriously injured when thrown 30 feet through the air after a car struck his bicycle.

Officials said firemen were handicapped because one of the principal water mains on Fourth street was still under repair after breaking down several days ago.

Quantities of fire hose was destroyed by flames when firemen moved close to blazing buildings in an effot to check the baze. Flames spread to Queen street and destroyed a power line supplying the Midland Shipbuilding Company.

Fire destroyed valuable tools and equipment at the Midland Boat Works, where approximately 100 men were employed. They had left the plant before the fire was discovered.

The loss at the boat works was estimated at between $350,000 and $400,000. The D. S. Pratt Coal Company's loss was $15,000 and the Canadian National Railway's loss was $10,000. Loss to homes was estimted at $18,000.

Nothing About Japan

TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcasts), July 15.—(AP). — Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo, speaking at Osaka to-day, declared that the Soviet Government had assured Japan that Russias new treaty of alliance with Britain and her agreement with the United States contain no provisions regarding Japan.

Relations between Japan and the Soviet Union continue to be regulated by their 1941 treaty of neutrality, the foreign minister declared.

New Italian Menace

LONDON, July 15—(CP) —Official circles said today the Italians possibly have completed the 35,000-ton battleship Roma, on which work was started June 12, 1940, but it is doubtful that a sister-ship, the Impero, is in commission.

A Stockholm dispatch said both vessels have joined the Italian Mediterranean fleet The British circles said this report might have been planted by the Germans.

Soviet Pressure Growing For 2nd Front

By Drew MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 15.—(AP).— Soviet Russia was reported by qualified London sources to-day to be pressing anew for the prompt opening of a second Allied European land front to divert the Nazi armies pounding at the gates of the vital Caucasus.

These sources, who insisted on anonymity, pointed out the eventual peril that Japan might open a second front in Siberia to distract the harried Red army if the Nazis can set the stage for it.

A smashing victory for the Germans in the battle for the Caucasian approaches, they predicted, would be followed by a Japanese attack on Siberian Russia. Japan is said to have massed at least 24 divisions —about 360,000 men—in Manchukuo with air reinforcements from home.

August and September are the best months for campaigning in Siberia,(according to these sources. They noted there are no signs of large-scale Japanese activity else-

WARDHA, India, July 14 (Delayed)—(AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi supplemented the new All-India Congress party resolution demanding Britain's withdrawal from the rule of India, with the emphatic declaration today that there can be no further negotiation.

To reporters sitting cross-legged before him at his school colony five miles from this cotton and farming town, Gandhi conceded that violence might result from the resolutions.

The resolution must be ratified by the All-India Congress committee, which has been called to meet at Bombay, August 8. Never in the history of the party has an important decision of the 15-man working committee been over-ruled by the 350 members of the General

Report Nazis 6 Miles Off City Of Rostov

Week Costs Hun 35,000 Whole Division Wiped Out In Day

MOSCOW, July 15—(CP).— The Germans, stopped by a last-ditch defence at the outskirts of Voronezh, attempted to encircle the city but were repulsed on the north and hurled back on the south to the point where they crossed the Don River, Russian dispatches reported to-day.

The Russians said that a break-through accomplished by large numbers of fresh German troops and hundreds of tanks supported by a heavy artillery barrage had carried the invaders almost to the edge of the town before they were checked by the spirited Russian stand.

The dispatches did not give the location of the break-through, but it was indiocated it occurred at the western approaches to Voronezh.

The Russians said that in forcing the Nazis back they recaptured a small railroad crossing and in another sector applied such strong pressure that the Germans fell back across a small bridge and destroyed it.

Whole Division Vanishes.

The fighting was described as reaching the height of its fury with German losses so terrific the Geramn 3rd Motorized Infantry divisions, which appeared in the battle line only yesterday, was reported depleted and replaced by the new 168th Motorized Division after a single day of combat.

(German troops were reported in a Reuters news agency dispatch from Stockholm—unconfirmed in other quarters—to have crashed through Mius River defences at Pokrovsk, north of Nazi-held Taganrog, and driven to within 6 miles of Rostov, the Don River port which they invested last Fall, but failed to hold.

Invasion gains in the Voronezh area were declared to have cost Germany more than 35,000 men, killed and wounded, in 10 days, and the Soviet Informtation Bureau tacitly brought up again the issue of establishment of a second front in Western Europe by indicating German forces there are being weakened.

"The Germans are being forced to bring up reserves hurriedly from the rear to take the place of their units which have been put out of action,' a communique said. Seveal divisions which arrived from France and Belgium only a few days ago' have been observed."

"In another sector, several enemy attacks were beaten off. Soviet artillery and anti-tank guns set fire

Ickes Bolsters French Hopes—Laval In Tough Spot Over Warship Issue

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Pierre (I-desire-Germany's-victory) Laval, pro-Hitler Chief of the French Government at Vichy, would appear to have manoeuvred himself into an uncomfortable position by his uncompromising attitude towards President Roosevelt in the matter of the nine French warships at Alexandria, Egypt.

The President had made two proposals to Laval for the removal of the warships from this threatened naval base to a safe haven.

The French sailors were to be repatriated immediately and the ships were to be returned to France after the war. It was a friendly offer, uite as beneficial to France as to the rest of the Allies.

But the Fuehrer's chore-boy rejected the suggestions and countered with the absurd request the ships be delivered to a French port in the Mediterranean. This, of course, would keep these valuable fighting machines within possible Nazi grasp. That Laval was acting under German influence is obvious, and it may easily be that he had orders direct from Hitler.

With the second rejection, Mr Roosevelt informed Laval that in his view Britain would be warranted in destroying the French ships to keep them from falling into Axis hands. Naturally Britian will pursue exactly that course, unless she adopts the alternative of removing the ships through the Suez canal to a safe place.

In view of these circumstances one wonders whether it was by pure coincidence that the United States Secretary of the Interior, Harold Ickes, held out the hand of friendship to the French people yesterday in a speech on the occasion of Frances Bastile Day. Mr Ickes was emphatic in his remarks, especially when he declared that 'Hitler's French puppets and stooges, traitors all, have good cause to fear the vengeance of outraged French patriots on the day of victory.' Ickes declared that 'France's calvary will come to an end—and sooner than the assassins think'

Incidentally that expression 'sooner tahn the assassins think' has brought me a telegram from a newspaper which is wondering whether it is a piece of the same cloth given the other day by Representative Andrew May, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee. Mr. May predicted that the war would end 'probably in 1942 and unquestionably in 1943.' He said the information on which he based this prediction was 'a military secret.'

Well, I don't know what Mr. Ickes had in mind and wouldn't want to speculate. However, most

$70 For Nude Bathing Party

St. Thomas Scandal Involves 3 Married Women

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 15 —(CP). — Two men were fined $10, and costs, after pleading guilty to a charge of "an indecent act" laid under the Criminal Code in County Police Court before Magistrate E. Donald Smith yesterday after the court heard a constable describe a mixed nude swimming party in which three married women and three men participated.

In addition, one of the men paid $10 and costs, for having beer in a place other than his residence and the other five paid fines of $10, and costs, for consuming beer illegally.

Only prosecution witness, Provincial Constable Stuart Hutchison, told of witnessing the scene in a pond at nearby Union on July 3. Following a complaint received at police headquarters, Constable Hutchison Cpl. Frank G. Kelly, and Michael McNamara, Port Stanley Police Chief, visited the spot.

Magistrate smith told the six at the end of the hearing that they had oeen subjected to the censure of the citizens of St. Thomas "because these facts have gone through the channels of public gosip and have been enlarged upon each time they have been re-told." He added: "If you have any sense of decency you will be terribly humiliated by these proceedings."

Hint Gas Attacks For Canada

Air Raids May Use It On Civilians, Big Docks

OTTAWA, July 15.—(CP). — Gas warfare in Canada is a possibility that cannot be disregarded says the first of a series of nine manuals on defence against gas issued by the Dominion Government.

This booklet, dealing with organization of decontamination services, was written by Dr. I. M. Rabinowitch of Montreal under the direction of Dr. R. J. Manion, director of civil air raid precautions.

"The dangers of gas attacks in Canada are from aircraft, either in the form of bombs or spray," the manual says. "The greatest risk is probably from the use of mustard and similar gases in conjunction with high explosive bombs. . . .

"Material damage will be produced by the high explosives and the mustard gas, whether used as a spray or in bombs, will increase the tasks of fire fighting, rescue work and clearing of debris and render them more hazardous."

Dr. Rabinowitch says gas may be used on civilian populations directly against personnel to produce casualties, to contaminate large areas such as dockyards, to harass firefighters and rescue workers and interfere with their work and to harass civilian population in an effort to lower morale.

Radio Program Tonight For War Victims

Tonight at 9.05 and continuing until 9.45, a program all too seldom heard, will be given over Radio Station CHEX by Ernest Nickel, Concert Whistler whose mastery of his art places him in the forefront as a performer who has delighted audiences in almost every country in the world. Mr. Nickel has offered his services to help the people of Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, another example of the common bonds which bind the Allied Nations, since he comes from south of the International border, being on a holiday visit to these parts, and is staying near Buckhorn.

This is a rare opportunity for people of this district to hear an outstanding concert artist who has performed in London, Berlin, Vienna, New York and many other centres of culture.

Through the medium of his art, Mr. Nickel will appeal to all to give and continue giving aid to the people of Britain in their struggle to preserve the liberty of all men, and facilities have been arranged whereby donations may be telephoned in to Numbers 4643 and 4644, and a member of the Peterborough Women's Voluntary Service Corps in the persons of either Mrs. R. Arnott, the Misses B. Lytle, M. Patterson, M. Weir, E. Bromley or Mrs. J. Elliott will call for it, and give a temporary receipt which will be followed by an official receipt from the secretary's office. Donations may also be mailed in to the secretary of the fund at headquarters in the Examiner Office, and all will be promptly acknowledged and gratefully received. The fund management wishes to express its appreciation of this effort of Mr. Nickel to help the pepleof Britain and trusts that the response will be such as to give him every satisfaction in every way.

Today's receipts include further additional $2.00 from Jack Smith in connection with the opening of his beautiful gardens to public view which makes a total of $27.26 which he realized for the fund from this one effort, which incidentally is a continuance of work for the fund which goes back to the early days of its operations.

Two personal donations are noted. One from Master Joel Moldaver of $5.00, being the fourth such donation to come from the same source, and that of Mrs. A. J. Hall for $2.66 being at least a similar repeat.

Two box collections are reported. Miss Minnie Williams, fund representative at Havelock turning in $1.45, and the regular monthly collection of the penny box at the Bell Telephone Office produced a little more this month with the figure standing at $1.90, as against $1.60 in the previous month.

The little tots of the Primary Class of Bridgenorth United Church under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Robinson are once again heard from with $2.00 to give a helping hand, and three public school age children in the southend, Buddy Neary who has a brother serving in the Navy, and Joan and Helen Dalgleish add another $1.61 from a small booth they had at 436 George Street, south last Saturday. Buddy Neary wants to continue his good work, and will again be heard from at a later date.

Asked whether he expected Britain to "come to terms," Gandhi repulied, "they are human beings and I am never in despair of the possibility of human being making an upward growth."

It was stated the resolution does not intend that Britons be banished physically from Indian territory, that the United Nations be handclapped in fighting the Axis or that the way be paved for aggression against India.

Gandhi said that the movement led by him and backed by the Congress, would be "a mass movement of the widest possible scale," but that he was not courting imprisonment—"that is too soft."

After a grant of independence, Gandhi declared, "all things are possible....If Britain withdraws in perfect good will the change will be effected without the slightest disturbance. Wise men will come together, incredible as it may seem, to form a creditable government.

where on the Pacific front now.

Whatever the pros and cons, public sympathy for the reported renewed pleading of Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky was demonstrated in mass meetings during the week-end at Glasgow and Liverpool which demanded both a new front and all aid for Russia.

Claim R.A.F. Action Too Light.

Soviet strategists, whose names may not be mentioned, say they are not satisfied that the British air offensive, hampered lately by bad weather is a heavy enough threat to divert German troops from the Eastern Front.

On the other hand, military sources here do not believe the situation in Southern Russia has reached a point where an attempted invasion of the Continent is essential to save Russia's armies from being overrun.

That does not mean they do not see "very grave possibilities" in the present Russian situation.

The condition of the Red Air Force after more than a year of constant fighting is worrying experts here who said they believed the effect of heavy German air reinforcements already was being felt on the battlefront.

The offensive training of a vast army in these Isles, meanwhile, is progressing favorably, according to military sources who emphasize the Allied need not only for heavy shipping but for barges and tank lighters for landing operations.

"All preparations for opening a second front are under way and the objective is a front which will be permanent, not only a large hit-and-run raid," said one informant, who would not allow his name to be used.

Allied training already has simulated invasion situations, with the troops assaulting the British coast from the sea, and such manoeuvres ultimately will be carried out on a vast scale.

Bathing, Fishing Were Prohibited In Original Lord's Day Act

Bathing, fishing, the playing of ball, football and skittles and the holding of public political meetings were all prohibited by the Lord's Day Act originally passed in 1845, City Solicitor Huycke informed the city council at a recent meeting.

Reference to this statute arose out of an anticipatory request from the Ministerial Association suggesting that an application might be made to the council to permit Sunday baseball in Peterborough, and urging that the council continue the ban on such games. The council's considered reply was to the effect that it had no authority in regard to breaches of the Lord's Day Act.

Mr. Huycke's review of the ordinance acquired special interest in its historic background and its broad intent. He quoted from the original act passed by the legislative assembly of Upper Canada the following clauses:

"1. It is not lawful for any merchant, tradesman, artificer, mechanic, workman, laborer or other person whatsoever, on the Lord's Day to sell or publicly show forth, or expose, or offer for sale, or to purchase any goods, chattels, or other personal property, or any real estate whatsoever, or to do or exercise any worldly labor, business or work of his ordinary calling (conveying travellers or Her Majesty's mail, by land or by water, selling drugs and medicines and other works of charity, only excepted.)

"2. It is not lawful for any person on that day to hold, convene, or attend any public political meeting, or to tipple, or to allow tippling in any inn, tavern, grocery or house of public entertainment, or to revel or publicly exhibit himself in a state of intoxication, or to brawl or use profane language in the public streets or open air, so as to create any riot or disturbance, or annoyance to Her Majesty's peaceable subjects.

"3. It is not lawful on that day to play at skittles, ball, football, racket, or any other noisy game, or to gamble with dice or otherwise, or to run races on foot, or on horseback, or in carriages, or in vehicles of any sort.

"4. Except in defence of his property, from any wolf or other ravenous beast or a bird of prey, it is not lawful for any person on that day to go out hunting or shooting, or in quest of, or to take, kill or destroy, any deer or other game, or any wild animal, or any wild fowl or bird, or to use any dog, gun, rifle or other engine, net or trap, for the above mentioned purpose."

"5. It is not lawful for any person on that day to go out fishing or to take, kill or destroy any fish, or to use any gun, fishing rod, net or other engine for that purpose.

"6. It is not lawful for any person on that day to bathe in any exposed situation in any water within the limits of any incorporated city or town, or within view of any place of public worship, or private residences.

"8. All sales and purchases, and all contracts and agreements for sale or purchase, of any real or personal property whatsoever, made by any person or persons on the Lord's Day shall be null and void."

The continuing existence of the legislation was assumed from Confederation and subsequently continued by the legislature of Ontario.

In 1897 the Legislature sought to extend the labor restrictions to agricultural workers, specifically to farmers. An amendment at that time prohibited Sunday excursions by steamboats and railways having for their only or principal object the carriage of Sunday passengers for amusement or pleasure only. It prohibited a street car company or tramway company or any electric railway company, except where it was necessary for the purpose of keeping the track clear of snow and ice or any other acts of necessity or charity, to run cars or trams on the Lord's Day.

This section was not to apply to companies which had before April 1, 1897, regularly run railway cars on Sunday, nor should it apply to ny company which had by its charter or special act the right or authority to run cars on Sunday, nor to the Toronto Railway Company to run cars on Sunday if and when sanctioned by the vote of the electors.

Mr. Huycke said this amendment was taken to the Privy Council by the Hamilton Street Railway, and in 1903 the 1897 act was held to be ultra vires and invalid. Lord Halsbury, Chancellor, held that this act tended to encroach upon criminal law which exclusively was within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament. The result of this decision was that the law regarding Sunday observance remained as it stood at Confederation, July 1, 1867, and amendments after that date were quashed.

The decision of the Privy Council, Mr. Huycke said, came as a surprise because the provincial act had gone unchallenged for forty years. The Dominion Parliament, therefore, passed a Lord's Day Act in 1906 of which Section 6 reads:

"It shall not be lawful for any person, on the Lord's Day, except as provided in any provincial Act or law or hereater in force, to engage in any public game or contest for gain, or for any prize of reward, or to be present thereat, or to provide, engage in, or be present at any performance or public meeting, elsewhere than in a church, at which any fee is charged, directly or indirectly..."

Section 15 provides that "nothing herein shall be construed to repeal or in any way to affect any provisions of any Act or law relating in any way to the observance of the Lord's Day in force in any province of Canada when this act comes into force."

The pre-Confederation Upper Canada Act is stricter than the Dominion Act. By virtue of the British North America Act, 1867, the Ontario Legislature cannot repeal or vary the old Upper Canada Act. Only the Dominion Parliament has this power, and it has by Section 15 expressly left in the old Upper Canada Act of 1845, Parliament will never repeal it.

Section 15 provides that "no action or prosecution for a violation of this Act shall be commended without the leave of the Attorney-General for the province in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, nor after the expiration of sixty days from the time of the commission of the alleged offence."

U.S. Navy Ambush

Simultaneously, a Japanese battle force of cruisers and battleships was coming in from the northwest Army fortresses, bombers and navy patrol planes damaged a cruiser, a transport and probably sank and damaged other vessels in an immediate attack.

Early the next day four army planes attacked two Japanese carriers and probably made a torpedo hit on one. Two of these planes were lost. Six marine planes attacked and probably got one torpedo hit on an enemy ship. Five of these planes were lost.

Sixteen marine dive bombers scored three hits on a carrier, probably the Soryu. Only half of those planes returned. Eleven marine dive bombers reported two hits on a battleship. Sixteen army heavy bombers made three hits on carriers.

Down 40 Jap Attackers.

Meanwhile Midway was attacked by Japanese carrier-based bombers. Outnumbered marine fighters and anti-aircraft guns shot down 40 enemy planes.

Damage to shore installations was serious but not disabling.

By mid-morning the enemy had suffered only about 10 ships damaged, and the American command expected continued attack. But the Japanese changed course unobserved and both forces began to retire.

By that time American carriers in ambush rushed full steam to attack.

The enemy was sighted and was attacked by planes. One squadron scored several hits and shot down some Japanese fighters before it was wiped out. Then American carrier planes arrived in force. The Navy described the ensuing fight as "such an aerial circus as never before had been witnessed so far at sea."

As a result of the ambush the Japanese carriers Kaga Akagi and Soryu were severely damaged and set on fire. Two battleships were hit, one of them left burning fiercely, and one destroyer was hit and believed sunk.

Knock Yorktown Out

Planes from the then undamaged carrier Hiryu attacked the Yorktown and her escort. Four bombers of 18 made three hits on the ship. The rest were destroyed. A torpedo plane attack followed and although 12 to 15 planes in this wave were shot down they put the Yorktown out of action.

Meanwhile the Yorktown's planes had found the Hiryu, hit her repeatedly and left her blazing. She sank the next day. Moreover, two enemy battleships were pounded heavily by these American planes and a heavy cruiser was severely damaged.

About the same time, a United States submarine torpedoed the smoking Soryu, which later exploded and finally sank that night. At sunset army bombers scored three hits on the damaged Akagi, one hit on an unidentified large ship, one hit on a cruiser which was left burning, and one or more on a destroyer which was believed sunk.

The Kaga and the Akagi and the Soyu sank during the night.

Despite unfavorable flying weather to the northwest, where the remnants of the crippled enemy force were retiring, Fortress bombers made contact and hit a damaged cruiser early June 5. Another Army bomber force hit a heavy cruiser. About noon, Marine Corps aircraft also scored a cruiser hit.

Army heavy bombers scored three direct hits on a heavy cruiser. One of these planes was lost and a second forced down about 15 miles off the islands but all but one member of the crew were rescued.

One June 6, carrier aircraft picked up two groups of enemy vessels, including cruisers and destroyers. The cruisers Mikuma and Mogami suffered two bomb hits each and a destroyer was sunk that afternoon and the Mogami went down later. Another enemy cruiser and a destroyer were hit.

It was in this action that the destroyer Hammann was sunk—the victim of a submarine torpedo.

Chinese Prepare Attacks To Tie Vast Jap Armies

CHUNGKING, July 15—(AP). — The Chinese announced today the loss of Wenchow, seaport in southern Chekiang province, but a spokesman pledged that with increasing air support the Chinese army will intensify its counter-attacks and immobilize more Japanese troops in China than ever before.

"We will not allow Japan to transfer a single soldier out of this country to other areas," he said.

A communique confirmed the Japanese capture of Wenchow Saturday midnight, but the spokesman said this did not mean that Chinese forces had been trapped on the eastern side of the arm which the Japanese now have extended across Chekiang Province from Hangchow to Wenchow.

The Japanese line in many places consists of thinly-manned garrisons between which Chinese forces are able to cross with comparative impunity, the spokesman said, while in Kiangsi, the next province to the west, the Japanese drive fanning out from Linchwan has "completely collapsed."

The Chinese communique said 3,000 Japanese who moved southward from Patuchen in eastern Kiangsi had suffered heavy losses and retreated, and the spokesman said all Japanese attacks had been stopped east of the Yuhua mountains.

Retreating Week Now

The Japanese have been in retreat since July 11, and fighting now is centred around Linchwan, he said.

The spokesman said if the Allies could win back some of the Japanese positions in the southwest Pacific this summer "the psychological as well as the material blow to Japan would be tremendous."

He asserted a counter-offensive against Japan would help Russia just as a second front in Western Europe would, because it would "help reduce the menace to Russia, which Japan is ready to attack."

The Allies "must always take some risk even if we are not quite ready," said the spokesman, warning that a sustained defensive policy only inspired the enemy to further offensive.

In addition to loss of Wenchow, the spokesman said Juian, a port 12 miles southwest of Wenchow, fell to the Japanese Sunday.

occupy the machine-gunners while the German infantry removed mines from the field in front of the defences. But these efforts were unsuccessful and many German infantrymen were killed.

Near sundown, the German tanks which had withdrawn from the Australian front, regrouped and approached the South African positions under cover of heavy gunfire. They were followed by infantry.

Huns Leave Many Behind.

Then the Australians, who were highly praised by the South Africans, came into the picture with tremendous concentrated shellfire, which accounted for at least one tank and dispersed the rest. Machine-gunners and South African infantry drove off the attackers, who left many dead on the battlefield.

Again the R.A.F. played a major part in the fighting, destroying some Axis tanks and sending its medium bombers back "in force" against Tobruk last night, the bulletin said.

While the heavy clash of ground forces occurred in the north, on the coastal end of the line, patrols and columns fought minor actions further inland in the central and suthern sectors of the front between the Mediterranean and the Qattara depression some 70 miles west of Alexandria.

The communique did not indicate the outcome of any of these engagements, but said the R.A.F. still was dealing the Axis heavy blows to their hard-to-replace mechanized and armored equipment.

"Our light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters made large-scale attacks on enemy forces," said the general headquarters R.A.F. bulletin.

"Direct hits were scored on tanks and troop-carrying vehicles.

"In one attack on a convoy of 15, made up of armored cars, transport vehicles and one tank, all but one of the vehicles were destroyed.

"Other tanks were destroyed in further attacks during the day and at least four enemy aircraft were shot down by our fighters.

"Last night our medium bombers attacked Tobruk in force, starting a row of red fires which later merged into one big fire."

In all these air thrusts, including defensive patrols over Malta in which three enemy raiders were shot down, the R.A.F. lost three planes, one of whose pilots landed safely.

Pass Steeper Excess Profits Tax

C.C.F. Suggests Cash Returned Used For Rehabilitation

By JAMES McCOOK, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP).—Government conditions on the return of excess profits tax refunds after the war were urged in the House of Commons last night.

C.C.F. members, supported by the New Democracy group and a sprinkling of Conservatives, urged that the Government should see the money returned was used for rehabilitation and not for dividends or bonuses, but an amendment moved by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. house leader, was defeated by 60 to 16 in committee of the whole.

The amendment, moved as budget resolutions covering the excess profits tax were under review, provided the refundable portion of the tax should be used for rehabilitation of the industry, provision of employment or other service acceptable to the governor-in-council.

The budget resolution introduced by Finance Minister Ilsley provided that all corporate profits will be taked at least 40 per cent, and when profits are increased more than 16 2/3 of the standard prewar profits, the whole of this excess is taken under the 100 per cent excess profits rate, with the 20 per cent refund provision operative.

70 Per Cent of Standard Profits

"It seems to be thought that 26 per cent of the excess over 100 per cent is returnable," said Mr. Ilsley. "It is only 20 per cent of the excess over 116.66 per cent....It will be seen that as 40 per cent of any profits are taken and 100 per cent over 116.66 per cent, the most any company has left is 70 per cent of its standard profits."

Mr. Isley said there might be conditions during the first year or part of the second year after the war which would make it economically injurious to repay the money to

Keene Picnic Held At Oval

KEENE, July 15 — (ENS). — The Sunday School picnic of the Keene and Bethel United Churches was held at Nichols Oval on July 14, which was an ideal day for this annual event. Owing to the war conditions and harvest the attendance was not as large as on former years, but there were many present to enjoy the social time and take part in he games and races. Softball game was played after which a lengthy program of races and sports was entered into with the usual zest, with Ernest Fife, Miss Mary Miller, Allan Borland, and Rev. George Murray in charge. Angus Adamson, and William Patterson looked after the refreshment booth. The list of races was as follows:

Boys and girls, under 6, 9, 12 and 15 years young ladies' and young men's races, married ladies' and married men's races, scrambled shoe race, relay race, three-legged race, kicking the shoe contest, hop, step and jump, one-minute race, and partners' race. The contest which all took an active part in was the picnic supper, with a variety of salads sandwiches, pies, cakes, etc., and Nicholls Oval tea. Did it taste good—ask one of the men from Bethel. It was a tired but happy crowd that wended its way home—thanks to the folks who provided those ideal picnic grounds.

Raps Selling Car With Poor Tires

WHITBY, July 15.—(Special).—Strong condemnation of unscrupulous used car dealers who sell automobiles unfit to run to munitions workers needing low-priced transportation was voiced yesterday by Crown Attorney Allin F. Annis, in connection with a charge of theft against Arthur Keith, 21, of Englehart, who has been employed in a munitions plant here.

Keith was remanded in custody to await sentence, by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs, after he had admitted his guilt on five separate charges of stealing tires and gasoline from cars of fellow war-workers, and using them on his own car.

Crown Attorney Annis said: "Almost every car going to a munitions plant is loaded with war workers. These thefts have hindered and inconvenienced the workers. The only plausible excuse is the condition of the tires on the accused's own car, which he had purchased just a few weeks previously. Any garage which sells a car with tires in the condition Keith's were should be made a drastic example."

Crisis In Beef Almost Over Claims Packer

TORONTO, July 15.— Although predicting beef will be more scarce in Toronto this week than ever before, James S. McLean, president of Canada Packers Limited, last night declared "This is the tail-end of the crisis in the beef situation."

New policies instituted Monday by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will have the effect of easing the beef shortage and the situation will improve after this week, Mr. McLean asserted.

Reasons for his optimistic outlook were:

1. Absence of any beef scarcity in the country.
2. A lowering of the ceiling price, enabling civilian needs to compete with the military market.
3. Resumption of business by drovers, who stopped buying for a brief period because of the confused situation.

Mr. McLean could not produce a similar bright picture regarding the pork situation which, he said, would probably remain a scarce commodity until war's end. Exports to Great Britain under Government contract have cut deeply into pork products remaining for Canadian consumption, he asserted.

"The sale of beef to the military authorities had been a big factor in keeping up the price and causing a shortage for civilian needs," said Mr. McLean. "Under the new arrangement of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the military contracts have brought to the ceiling level which has been set at 16¾ cents per pound.

"This is a long step down, because at one time, prices paid to farmers to fill military contracts were a full cent above the ceiling of 19¾ cents,' Mr. McLean continued "Two weeks ago the prices started to come down and last week it dropped to 18¼ cents. The final price set is at 16¾ cents."

Packing plants had lost money on beef bought above the ceiling price, Mr McLean asserted.

"The reaction to bringing down the price has been bewiledring to the farmer," he stated. "He had been selling all along at a price above the ceiling, and I don't bame him for doing that because those were the prices offered him. However, the new price is still a good one for beef.

"Last week drovers bought cattle at higher prices than they could sell them for," saiad Mr McLean. "This caused them to lose money and they stopped operating. The extreme shortage of this week is caused by this fact. However, they are operating again and the situation will soon be back to normal. There is plenty of beef in the country and conditions will soon be relieved."

Face-Lifting Job

COBOURG, July 15—(ENS). — The Bank of Toronto, Cobourg, got a new surface on its stone exterior yesterday, when workmen doused it with hoses which shot, under strong air pressure, a mixture of silica and water over the stone work. Every bit of dirt, which has been accumulating for several years, was removed by the process and the walls looked spic and span today. There are many buildings on the main street which could do well with similar treatment.

Well Known Orangeman Dies In Seymour

CAMPBELLFORD, July 15 (ENS). —Son of one of the pioneer Scottish families that settled in Seymour township well over a century ago, Robert J. Cleugh died at the family home on the 8th Concession Sunday, July 12. An Orangeman for nearly forty years, Mr. Cleugh was a Past Master of the Sentinel Lodge L.O.L. 2322, Pethericks and two years ago at the age of seventy was made a life member. Though he spent most of his life in the township where he was born 73 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cleugh, the deceased lived for about ten years in the city of Belleville, where he worked with the McLaughlin Motor Company. It was while there that he also became a member of the Moira Lodge No. 11, A.F. & A.M.

Though he had been in failing health for the past seven years, it was not till a week ago when he was seized by a stroke that his death became imminent. Predeceased by his wife, the former Sarah Jane Wilson of Seymour township, two years ago, Mr. Cleugh is survived by one son William S. Cleugh, of Seymour, and one brother Edward of Norwalk, California. The funeral service was conducted under auspices of the Orange Order on Tuesday afternoon, and was in charge of Rev. J. O. Ralston of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford. Following the service at the residence, interment was made at Burn Brae Cemetery.

Toronto Finding Big Boom In Farm Property

TORONTO, July 15.—"How far is it to the railroad?" That's the question that prospective purchasers of farm properties ask before any other, according to C. R. Purcell, whose business in farm homes is one of the largest in Canada. Small farms near Toronto, and served by the railroads, are in great demand, Mr. Purcell said yesterday.

"City workers are buying properties from which they can commute," he added. "There are two reasons for this. For one thing, they want a secure investment. And for another, some of them have had difficulty in securing homes in the city that would meet their needs. Of course, there are additional reasons for this increasing demand for country homes. Many of our clients have been ordered by their doctors to live in the open air, and many others are intending to retire. But I would say that a considerable number of recent purchasers are now commuting daily, judging by their inquiries about the availability of train service."

Railway officials confirmed the supposition that there had been an increased number of passengers travelling by the "commuters' trains," but said that actual figures are banned from publication.

T. S. H. Giles, another realtor dealing extensively in farm homes, declared that this class of business had doubled over last year's volume. "Most of our sales have been west of Toronto," he said. "There is no doubt about the increased demand for properties priced between three and four thousand dollars. I attribute this to investment and residential considerations—about fifty-fifty."

Maybe man is getting the urge to till the ground again, or maybe he wants to get away from it all, or perhaps he just can't find any place else to live that suits him.

Talks In Tavern Spy Lands In Net

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP). — The arrest on espionage charges of a 35-year-old former American Coast Guardsman who was born in Germany was announced Tuesday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The defendant was named by P. E. Forworth, assistant F.B.I. director, as Washington Glendale Spiegelberg, who was arrested last Sunday at Hempstead, Long Island, N.Y. The F.B.I. said he had in his possession eighteen plans, diagrams, drawings or blueprints of essential parts of the B-24 bomber manufactured by the Ford Motor Company.

Foxworth aid Spiegelberg was arrested on the tip of an army corporal, who overheard him discussing the plans in a Hempstead tavern.

Spiegelberg, a native of Berlin, was arraigned Tuesday in Brooklyn before United States Commissioner Martin C. Epstein, and was held under $25,000 bail.

The Government agents said he formerly worked for the Donnelly Engineering Corporation, Detroit, which has designed machinery for Ford bomber construction. The charge against Spiegelberg involves a section of the espionage laws relating to the theft of documents relating to national defence.

The F.B.I. said Spiegelberg was a fisherman, miner and sailor in Alaska from 1929 to 1935 and at one time applied unsuccessfully for a pilot's license which would permit him to take ships in the waters adjoining the Aleutian Islands.

In yesterday's issue of the Toronto Globe and Mail there appeared a large advertisement the content of which was an open letter to the Hon. J. E. Michaud, M.P., Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee on the Defence of Canada Regulations, and to the other members of that Committee. In the interests of national unity for a greater war effort the 298 signatories of this letter ask that those portions of the Regulations be removed or amended which provide for the outlawing of institutions and the internment of individuals who have anti-fascist records; they also urge that steps be taken to release all labor and anti-fascist persons who are now interned, and the energetic and immediate prosecution of all pro-fascist elements in the country.

Men and women of liberal sympathies have long recognized that the Defence of Canada Regulations provide opportunities for extremely arbitrary action; it is certainly a curious democracy which permits people to be interned upon the evidence of the secret police and kept in confinement while their trials are deferred indefinitely. It is to investigate the nature of the Regulations that the Committee under Mr. Michaud is now sitting.

The open letter with its 298 signatories would command more sympathetic respect if it did not bear an unfortunate resememblance to the manifesto of the late unlamented Committee For Total War, which also emanated from Toronto and which was rapidly branded as the work of a pressure-group. There is nothing in the advertisement which says who is behind this movement or who has paid for the newspaper space; most people will want to know these things before they sign the letter and send it to Mr. Michaud, which is what the advertisement advises them to do. Pressure-groups, however sincere, indicate by their actions a lack of faith in parliamentary procedure; if Mr. Michaud is a capable and just Minister of the Crown he does not need to be goaded to do the right thing by such a letter as this. The 298 Canadian citizens who have signed this letter are engaged in the popular sport of nagging the Government, a procedure which has never worked in any democratic country.

The signatures are interesting. They belong to prominent clergymen, professors, publicists and labor organizers, with a handful of artists and legislators; they constitute an impressive but strangely motley crew. Toronto, understandably, has more signatories than any other place, but there are several from Montreal, Windsor, Hamilton and a few points in the West. Many readers will know of people whose names might have appeared in the list, which do not do so. But nothing shows who went to the considerable trouble of collecting these signatures; the public is therefore at liberty to form whatever opinion seems best to it.

The city of Toronto has always been eager to supply this country with the leadership which we sometimes need so badly and the rebuffs which it has received in the past have not lessened its ardor. But with things at Ottawa as ticklish as they are now we are doubtful if this high-pressure method will be at all effective; its anonymity, despite the impressive show of names, is against it. This is a pity, for we feel that the Defence of Canada Regulations badly need pruning; but when Mr. Michaud begins to prune he will want to know whose hand it is which offers him the shears.

Impending Manpower Crisis

Mr. Elliott M. Little, the director of National Selective Service, tells us that in the next five months 250,000 men and women will be needed for war industry and the three branches of the armed service. We expect that Mr. Little will get his 250,000 people for he is an efficient and resourceful public servant, but we should like some assurance that the Government itself is taking a wise and comprehensive view of the crisis in manpower which is already visible in this country. We have a small population and it is essential that our armed forces, our war industry, and our civilian life should be so balanced that we are able to do our utmost in this war without a breakdown. Armed forces are useless unless they can be adequately equipped and there can be no war effort if the economic life of the country is imperilled.

Because we are a large country geographically we cannot raise a giant army; we simply have not the population. We must strive to have the best manned and best-equipped army possible for our population, with an adequate and well-organized war industry behind it. This demands a more thoughtful treatment of manpower than we have yet seen and unless the problem is faced soon we shall have a troublesome tangle on our hands. It has been suggested for some time that the establishment of a war cabinet might avert this and other difficulties which seem imminent, and we should be happy to see some step taken in this direction.

Tinhorn Caesar

It was Shakespeare who remarked that it was excellent to have a giant's strength but tyrannous to use it like a giant; this general observation might be drawn to the attention of Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians. But Mr. Petrillo has shown before this that tyranny is very much in his line, and he is quite prepared to use it in his dealings with the outside, or non-musicianly, world. His latest move has been to inform manufacturers of gramophone records that the 140,000 members of his organization will not make "records, electrical transcriptions or any other form of electrical reproduction of music," after July 31. This is a part of Mr. Petrillo's campaign to force radio stations, soda fountains, bars and restaurants to employ union musicians instead of using gramophones or juke boxes. Employment of musicians is not satisfactory to Mr. Petrillo now and he estimates that eight or nine thousand musicians could be employed in places which now use mechanical music of one sort or another.

Mr. Petrillo is surely an optimist. Few places which now have mechanical music could or would afford the union wage of a single piano player. His action will simply mean that many places which now have juke boxes will be without them, and we cannot be induced to weep on that score. But we deeply resent the power to cut off a continent's musical rations which rests in the hands of Mr. Petrillo. What about the people who collect gramophone records and the innumerable students who study them? Is Caesar Petrillo to say what they shall have? Are we to have no more recordings of great music because Petrillo's men are forbidden to appear in the recording-room with Toscanini? Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed that he hath grown so great?

It is not pleasant to see an art so rigorously controlled by a union leader. Mr. Petrillo is not primarily concerned with music; any man who toots a horn or slaps a double bass in the most mediocre dance band is as important to him as the concert master of a world-famous symphony orchestra. In music, as in other fields, men of exceptional ability, either as players of popular or more serious music, have no difficulty in getting work, but Mr. Petrillo wants to provide a living for those whose talents do not command one in the present market. It is nothing to him that this lowers the standard of musical performance and appreciation throughout the continent. It was Henry George, in Progress and Poverty, who first pointed out the tyrannous power of unions; Caesar Petrillo seems determined to provide new justification for this charge. He is attempting to gag one of the Muses.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Rommel's troops, says a contemporary, retire but get no rest.

About 5,000 matches are lighted every second in the U.S.; 4,000 after 4,000 lighters have refused to work.

We hear of an epidemic of bicycle stealing. Perhaps a few of those machines which "almost went by themselves" have finally succeeded in doing it.

It's the spirit of a man that counts! Listen to this tale told by the editor of the Dunnville Chronicle: "A Brigadier of Territorials once boasted to Prime Minister Churchill, 'I'm 68, and I can do anything my men can; I don't drink, don't smoke, always take care of myself; I'm 100 per cent. fit!' To this the Prime Minister replied, 'I am also 68; but I do smoke, do drink, never take care of myself—and I am 200 per cent. fit!' " There is a lesson in this for all of us; no amount of looking after yourself will do you any good if you were nothing much to begin with.

Facing Inflation Facts

(An editorial discussing U.S. economics from the New York Times)

THE great essential of a war economy is sacrifice. The menace is inflation. The two are bound together, yet distinct. As a nation, to escape sacrifice is impossible; to succumb to inflation, unforgivable. Whether or not we are to have inflation depends entirely upon whether we meet intelligently and courageously the inescapable demands of wartime sacrifice.

A war economy means doing without. It means working harder for longer hours, yet not having many of the things for which we ordinarily work. It means doing without new automobiles, new tires, new radios, new plumbing, washing machines and a hundred other luxuries, semi-luxuries and necessities that are part of our daily lives. It means less sugar, less canned goods, a shortage of gasoline, a shortage of fuel oil, a shortage of transportation. It means paying more and getting less in the things we eat and wear and use. It means, in short, a general reduction in the American standard of living.

This is a matter of goods and services. It has nothing to do with money. This year we, as a nation, will have more money to spend than ever before in our history. But no amount of money will give us a single extra ounce of rubber, a single grain of sugar or a single drop of oil. All that this extra money does is introduce the problem of inflation—the bidding up of prices when people have more money to spend than they have goods to buy. To attempt to maintain the standard of living of the nation is an illusion. Any attempt to maintain the standard of living of a particular group can only result in still further lowering the standard of living peacetime principles and the principles of war. of every one else.

It is this situation that results in a fundamental inconsistency between certain normal peacetime principles and the principles of war. There is an irreconcilable conflict getween the demands for sacrifice of a wartime economy and the demands of organized labor, on the one hand, for cost of living wage increases, and of farmers, on the other, for parity prices. The peacetime objectives of labor to improve, or even to maintain, its living standard, becomes in wartime a demand to be exempted from the common sacrifice. The peacetime objective of the farmer to obtain "parity prices" means the same thing. In the case of labor this proposition is fairly clear. In the case of the farmer it needs spelling out.

The concept of "parity" is a standard of living concept. It means, according to the law, those prices for farm products which will yield the farmer the same purchasing power in terms of everything he buys that he enjoyed in a specific past period, usually the five years prior to the first World War. This means not merely that the farmer is entitled to be guaranteed a living standard equal to his pre-war standard, but a much better one, equal to that of a particularly favorable period thirty years ago — a standard he has not enjoyed in recent decades. More than that, the parity idea embraces not merely rises rises in the cost of things the farmer buys, but rises in the costs of transportation and the burden of interest and taxes too. Whereas labor, to do it justice, asks primarily for wage increases to cover rises in the cost of living and prepares to pay its increased taxes out of its own pocket, the farmer's parity demand seeks to maintain a higher living standard than before even in the face of higher taxes.

It is impossible to believe simultaneously in the principle of equality of wartime sacrifice and in either the "principles of parity" or the principle of wage increases to cover rises in the cost of living. Yet we have labor leaders pleading for an increase of $1 a day for the workers in "Little Steel" in order to cover the latest rise in living costs. We have a War Labor Board panel which concedes that the wages of the steel workers are already far above the national average; concedes that, including their last pay rise in April, 1941, these wages have kept pace with living costs; but nevertheless argues that another increase would not be inflationary. We have members of Congress and of the Administration itself declaring that the "principle of parity" is a fixed, immutable part of our national policy, immune to the demands of war.

All this means simply that as a nation we have not yet had the courage and intelligence to face the disagreeable facts of war. Congress has shown it does not want to face them. Many farm and labor leaders have refused to face them. The Administration has been brave in talk but pusilanimous in action. Until we face this conflict between peacetime "principles" and wartime needs we shall go on, as we are now going, losing the battle of inflation. Inflation, in the last analysis, is the ruthless process whereby sacrifice is imposed inequitably upon a people who have lacked the unity, the courage and intelligence to impose that sacrifice equitably upon themselves. Concerning sacrifice we have no choice. Concerning inflation we are masters of our fate, if we decide to be.

Unconsidered Trifles

A young candidate for the navy was being examined by a board of admirals. One of the questions fired at him was: "What kind of animals eat grass?"

No reply.

"Surely you can answer a simple question like that," snapped one of the admirals. "Now, then, what kind of animals eat grass?"

"Oh, animals," said the candidate, in obvious relief, "I thought you said 'admirals'."

It was a dramatic moment in the play when, with fiery denunciation, the hard-hearted father was about to thrust his erring daughter out of the house for ever.

"What can I do? Where can I go," sobbed the girl.

There was a tense silence. Then, admit the sobs, rose the shrill voice of a woman in the gallery, "Never mind, luv. You come 'ome with me!"

Hitler After Moscow or Caucasus?

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE Nazi war juggernaut has rolled another long stride down the Don to bring Stalingrad on the Lower Volga as close to investment as is Moscow.

In the Rzhev area, where the Germans are already astride the Upper Volga 135 miles from Moscow, a Nazi dent is admitted by the Russians. Down the Don, the foe has pushed on beyond Boguchar to within 160 miles of Stalingrad and the Lower Volga. He is almost in sight of a success that would split Red Armies of the Southern Ukraine and Caucasus from their comrades to the north and east.

Short of a miraculous Russian resurgence in the south or a successful Russian flanking effort from the Moscow central front, there seems small prospect that Marshal Timoshenko can avoid being driven behind the Don-Volga line. Russian official bulletins as well as press accounts make no effort to conceal the seriousness of his plight

Even escape behind the Don-Volga line for Russian troops in the Don-Donet basin and west of Rostov in a sweeping general retreat must be regarded as problematical while the Nazi push southeastward down both rivers goes on unchecked.

Which way the Nazi war machine will turn if it reaches its indicated first goal along the Don-Volga line to knife Russia apart to the Caspian seacoast, isolating the Caucasus, is still a matter of conjecture. It would seem to depend upon which is Hitler's most urgent need—to reach oil soon to replenish diminishing reserves, or to shorten his lines in the east to conserve manpower for meeting an Anglo-American attack from the west.

If it is oil that is Hitler's most pressing problem, as many observers believe, the tide of battle in Russia must inevitably roll on southward toward the Caucasus. If it is manpower to guard all the vast territories he has won against gathering Anglo-American strength, the front in Russia well might shift northward to the Moscow target once the Don-Volga line was established in the south.

Thrown back behind the Volga all the way from the Valdai Hills northwest of Moscow, where the river rises, to Astrakhan on the Caspian, where it empties in the sea, Russian armies could do little more than harass the invader. The Nazis could proceed at leisure behind such an Eastern line to the capture of the Caucasus and its oil treasures.

The Volga and an extension of line from its Valdai springs to the Baltic would represent a tremendous length of front to guard, however. The Volga is the longest river in Europe. It runs 2,400 miles from its Valdai Plateau sources to its Caspian outlet, sweeping a vast curving line far eastward of Moscow before it turns south.

Extend that front another 400 miles to the Baltic in the Leningrad vicinity and Hitler would be undertaking to hold a virtual 3,000-mile line in the east which would outmatch his 2,000-mile front in the west. That seems to forbid his aiming at sweeping the Russian resistance back behind the Volga for its whole length.

The short line across Russia from the Baltic to the Caspian, however, run from Leningrad through or east of Moscow to Astrakhan It is an airline distance of perhaps 1,500 miles. Many observers believe it is on the short line that Hitler hopes to stand if he fails to smash Russian armies in the field before winter.

An Empty Envelope

From CHATHAM NEWS

AN interesting missive came to the editor's desk recently. It was a sealed envelope labelled "On His Majesty's Service", and a notation at th left bottom corner intimated that it came from the office of the Director of Public Information, in Otawa, Canada. It was opened with feelings of interest and anxiety. Surely here was something which should be passed on to the public as quickly as possible. It is a common thing to receive letters from the censors telling us what we must not publish. This envelope would tell us what we can present our readers. But it didn't. The envelope was empty.

What's the idea?

Did the clerk in charge of mailing letters at Ottawa forget to insert the message intended for us?

Did the Director of Information take this means of impressing upon us that there is nothing to report, and that he has nothing for us to publish?

Was it just a sort of dodge, to see that the postal employees handle enough envelopes in order that they may earn their money?

Or was it merely a demonstration to prove that the people of Ottawa, in spite of the paper shortage, are determined to keep on using envelopes and reams of paper, to make sure that their yearly allotment of stationery is exhausted before the new supply is received?

Most of the printed material which comes from Government sources in Ottawa is of little value to newspapers, or anyone else. Printing bills could be cut down materially without affecting the public welfare; and the saving could well be devoted to war activities, with considerable benefit to the taxpayers.

One of Il Duce's Many Lies

IN an interview with Mussolini, Prince Starhemberg, then Vice-Chancellor of Austria, asked: "Can we Austrians definitely count upon you not to come to an agreement with Berlin at the expense of Austria? And not to yield to Berlin on the Austrian question?" Il Duce replied: "You know my feeling toward Austria. I have shown it not only in words but in deeds. This feeling has not changed and will not change. I will not give up Austria. I cannot give her up. You may count upon that definitely. My friendship for Austria is based on the material interest which Italy has in Austria's maintenance. Therefore, as long as I am directing Italy's policy the survival of Austria will be an integral part of this policy. But every politician in Italy must prevent Greater Germany from having a common frontier with Italy. For that would prove to be Italy's worst hour."—Prince Starhemberg in Harper's (New York).

Epitaph For a Murderer

THE epitaph found for Heydrich by the London Evening Standard is considered by Czechoslovak circles there to be most suitable. The Evening Standard simply quoted from Shakespeare's "King Richard III"—"The bloody dog is dead."—From new flashes from Czechoslovaki (Chicago).

Italians Are Really With Us

FOR most Italians, Italy is now just part of the hinterland of a German southeastern front, drawn upon for men, arms and supplies like other conquered and vassal countries; still in the war, but no longer as a partner. They expect us to break up that front; and, of all consequences of this, their main interest lies in the question of how soon thereafter the Germans will be driven over the Alps. Whether they help us in either of these tasks will depend upon our moral influence as well as our military strength. Indifference to the major issues, even in the climax of the war, was to be expected in a country whose dictator has lost or given away every card he held for war or peace.—Karl Walter in The Fortnightly (London).

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

THERE were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter said unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. . . . As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread. . . .

Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? know that it was the Lord. Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs.

He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord: tho uknowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.—John xxi, 2-4, 9, 12-17.

A Radiant Nazi?

ADOLF Hitler's praise of the late Reinhard Heydrich as "one of the best Nazis" and Heinrich Himmler's characterization of him as "a great and radiant personality" will doubtless be accorded the lasting remembrance they deserve by enemies of the Axis. The funeral tributes employed by two unspeakable butchers to describe a third, who finally reaped the vengeance his horrible crimes cried out for, tag for all time what the Nazis mean by "best," "great" and "radiant." In life, "Der Henker"—the hangman—was the way the Germans themselves described Heydrich.

Oil and Hitler's Need

IN 1918 Marshal Foch started successive trial offensives at many points of the Western front in order to harass the weary Germans, to force them to make troop movement, and eventually to break through at the weakest points. When Hitler is obliged to shift his air and panzer armadas from east to west, from north to south, at a rate dictated by the initiative of the Allies, then the oil shortage will become a dangerous factor. The farther the fighting front is from the oil production centres, the more difficult will become the oil situation of the Axis. Taking this into consideration, the North African and Arctic war becomes more important as a campaign of movement over vast distances in spite of the fact that, compared with the Russian campaign as a whole, only small numbers of troops and material are engaged. —Frederick Phillip Hellin in The Atlantic [illegible]

Kills 4, Hurts 8 Oil Firm Blast

WAYNESVILLE, N.C., July 15.—(AP). — A thunderous explosion early today at the distributing plant of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey killed at least four persons. Eight others were removed to hospital where their condition was described as serious.

The plant and two nearly houses were destroyed and three other houses were damaged.

The detonation was heard for miles around and giant tongues of flame licked at the sky in a brilliant pyrotechnic display.

J. L. Stringfield, chief of police in this little mountain town, said the explosion occurred while a large gasoline transport was unloading. He said indications were that a leak in the hose touched off the blast, igniting some 40,000 gallons of gasoline.

R. S. Andrew Cardwell and her two children were burned to death in their home adjacent to the plant, and an unidentified oil transport trunck driver was missing.

Among the injured were W. L. Hardin, manager of the plant and Fire Chief L. L. Kerly.

Japs Finish Arc Across Chekiang

CHUNGKING, July 15—(AP). — The Japanese have completed an arc across coastal Chekiang Province from Hangchow on the north to Wenchow on the south, the Chinese high command indicated today, but it said the Chinese in their counter-attack in Kiangsi Province directly to the west had pushed the enemy back to the outskirts of Linchwan.

The Chinese communique said the Japanese had reached the environs of Wenchow on Saturday night. (The Japanese announced the port's capture Saturday.

In Kiangsi, Chinese dispatches said that the Japanese who had fanned out westward from Linchwan now were being pursued back into the city by three converging columns of Chinese. The Japanese force was estimated by a Chinese spokesman last week to number 30,000.

A Japanese attack on Ihwang, which has changed hands twice already, and now is held by the Chinese, was repulsed after a pitched battle lasting 12 days, the Chinese said. The town is 35 miles south of Linchwan.

Belleville Doctors Travel North To Conduct Special Clinics

BONARLAW, July 15—(ENS). — The following interesting letter has been received from Fred D. Peake of the Toronto Public School staff, who accompanied Dr. J. A. Faulkner and Dr. J. Chant of Belleville on a trip to Whitney and Wilberforce, Ontario. He writes as follows:

"Few of the citizens of Hastings County know and realize the splendid work being carried out by our former Minister of Health, Dr. Faulkner. As chairman of Old-age Pensions and Mothers' Allowance Commission our distinguished Hastings doctor is performing a valuable service, giving each and every needy pensioner assistance where justified, and at the same time coming to the assistance of the widows and children when help is required. Most people do not understand that Dr. Faulkner, when on a holiday, chooses to work and assist the needy children in our fair north country where less productive land but a splendid type of boy and girl needs medical attention, particularly in the removal of tonsils and adenoids.

"In doing this noble charity work our local Hastings County doctors have volunteered to help. I spent a very interesting and educational day at Whitney on July 6. During the day Dr. J. Chant, the well-known specialist of Belleville, removed tonsils and adenoids from 28 children. He was ably assisted by Dr. Faulkner, Dr. Anderson of Bancroft, and Dr. Nickle of Madoc. Everything was organized in a most creditable manner by the nurses at the Red Cross Hospital at Whitney, and under the careful supervision of Dr. Faulkner, who worked strenuously with the other doctors from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Every patient was examined by Dr Faulkner before the anaesthetic. It is worthy of note that although many difficult cases were handled not one patient was neglected in any way during the day. Local residents assisted in making patients comfortable and helped to carry them to a conveyance when they could be removed to their homes in safety. Dr. Chant and Dr. Faulkner conducted a similar deed of kindness and service at Wilberforce on July 8.

Drive Through Park.

After the strenuous day at Whitney most of Dr. Faulkner's party took a 20-mile drive through Algonquin Park. It was our good luck to see four deer close to our car. One fawn gave us an excellent opportunity to study its habits and alertness. Another buck sprang from the roadside and narrowly escaped our front bumper, giving us all a thrill. We all felt refreshed after the drive.

"We think this is a very noble, charitable and thoughtful service, as well as a great sacrifice from the doctors concerned. The community has been given a chance to raise strong and healthy children who will develop into good Canadian citizens instead of going through life under the handicap of having their valuable bodies filled with poisons from abnormal tonsils and adenoids.

The minimum charge for this service given on this one day would be $1,400.

"Let us hope the day is not far distant when the Provincial Government will give this work their serious consideration and a travelling clinic be established under some capable doctor. We cannot afford to forget that our children are our most valuable asset and a strong, intelligent and active race of Canadian boys and girls is necessary to make Canada safe for democracy."

Do What Your Doctor Does If Child Is Listless

Because the tongue is the upper end of the stomach and bowels, it is usually the first thing a doctor looks at when he examines a sick child. He knows that a coated tongue and bad breath is a danger signal — a warning of an upset condition below, which may lead to real illness.

Don't you take chances — look at your child's tongue and check the breath every day! And at the first sign of bad odor on the breath or a coated tongue, give Children's Own Tablets. Small, pleasant-tasting tablets made especially for youngsters from runabout age to 15 years, they are wonderfully effective in helping to clean out harmful wastes and sweeten sour, upset stomachs. No drastic weakening flush-out action like many old-fashioned laxatives have.

Fighting Free French Rededicate To Liberty Cause On Bastille Day

LONDON, July 15—(CP). — The Free French followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, hardened by two years of exile from their Nazi-stricken homeland, celebrated Bastille Day today under a new name, the "Fighting French," and rededicated themselves to the expulsion of the Germans from France and the restoration of "liberty, equality and fraternity."

The new official name of the movement, accepted by the British Foreign Office is La France Combattante—Fighting France.

For the third time, Frenchmen in occupied France spent the national holiday in the grip of the German secret police and the German army.

All celebration of Bastille Day in occupied France was banned Even the flying of flags and the wearing of emblems was prohibited by the Germans.

But Frenchmen, who could get near a radio last night, heard Gen. De Gaulle in London say that "France is making ready for the day when the entire nation will rise to drive out and punish the enemy."

(President Roosevelt said in a message from Washington: "On this anniversary which has so deep a significance to every lover of democracy, I express the hope that the people of France may soon again enjoy the blessings of liberty, equality and fraternity.")

In Britain, Frenchmen training for the day of liberation planned small celebrations and Gen. De Gaulle arranged to decorate members of his fighting forces at a London ceremony.

ELECTRICS DEFEAT LEAGUE-LEADING GENERALS BY 12-10 SCORE

Telephone, Wire Radio Service Taboo For Track

NEWARK, N.J., July 15—(AP). —Installation of telegraph, telephone or radio facilities at the New Garden State Racing Association Track near Camden has been banned by the War Production Board, an official of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company said yesterday.

Gerard Mullin, manager of the General Accounts of the Company, said application for erection of the wires to the track has been made, but turned down by the W.P.B.

Mullin said there were only two public telephones at the track. Permission to install these was granted because of their need in case of an accident or catastrophe, he added.

The track is scheduled to open for racing on Saturday.

In Washington War Production officials said that denial of communications service to the new track was based on an amendment last April to orders limiting the use of scarce and critical materials by the telephone industry.

Non-Essential.

Under the amendment, telephone companies are forbidden to add to exchange equipment and exchange lines except to furnish service for "persons engaged in direct defence, or charged with responsibility for public health, welfare, or security."

Race tracks do not fall within the list of eligible customers, officials said.

At the track official said eight miles of wire were needed in addition to 1,500 feet of underground lead cable to handle both Morse and regular teletype printer wires.

"The press box is completed and ready to serve scores of Eastern racing writers," one official commented.

More than 200 horses already have been installed at the tracks new stables for the opening.

When plans for the track were announced, some residents of the neighborhood objected and took their complaint to the State Supreme Court which denied them surcease. Rev. Carl McIntire, Collingswood Presbyterian minister led his congregation in prayers for rain in an effort to halt the track's completion before the June 6 deadline which W.P.B. had set for non-essential building. Mr. McIntire on Sunday asked President Roosevelt to intervene because he said works projects administration workers had been engaged on some of the buildings. This brought a reply yesterday from State W.P.A. Administrator Edward M. Hamilton that all W.P.A. construction on the track had been done as a part of a community health and sanitation project. W.P.A. has the matter under investigation.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Today is the annual tournament for men's doubles. Up until 10.30 o'clock last night 29 pairs had entered. It looks like a full-house.

Our ladies are moving up to Lindsay this afternoon to play in an open tournament sponsored by the ladies of the Lindsay club. We expect, as in former years, our club will supply 75 per cent. of the entry—and we also expect that the draw will read, Peterborough vs. Peterborough, all down the line.

According to the scores handed in last night there were some good bowling and some not so good—but it was a night's fun anyway.

F. Dearborn and C. Giroux are now tied for the leadership of group No. 2.

Seabiscuit's all-time high money-winning record for race horses, $437,730, may be surpassed today (Wednesday) at Suffolk Downs race track for Whirlaway. Howard champion's total, piled up by winning 33 races in his career, now ended. Whirly, winner of the Kentucky Derby last year and many of the other big races, is expected to win today despite the fact he's top-weighted at 130 pounds for the mile and one-eighth distance.

Some Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 15—(CP).—It's green grass and a life of ease for Owen Tudor from here in. Victor in the Derby last year and the Gold Cup a few weeks ago, the course specialist has been retired to stud.

The pony is regarded as a Newmarket course specialist because a racer successful in wartime classics must be just that.

A news item from Gothenburg, Sweden, says that Cpl. Sidney Wooderson's world record for the mile run was beaten by the Swedish swift, Gunnar Haegg, in the time of four minutes, 6 2/10 seconds. That's 2/10 second better than the Briton's time.

Until the new mark has been ratified by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, Wooderson's record will stand. Last year Haegg was credited with breaking Jack Lovelock's world record for the 1,500 metres by a similar margin in the time for three minutes 46 6/10 seconds. That time has yet to be ratified.

Haegg, it is hoped, will travel to England this summer of formal talks concerning a proposed visit of a Swedish athletic team to London this summer bear fruit.

Reductions in the annual subscriptions of first and second division clubs resulted in the Scottish Football League losing approximately $820 on the year, it was stated at the annual meeting. The new season starts August 8. . .The Scottish Ice Hockey Association turned over $710 to the R.A.F. Benevolent Fund from a recent charity hockey tour.

Where Your Salvage Goes

Rags

The old trunk in the garret disgorges a wealth of material for the salvage campaign. Outmoded and worn out clothing, sweaters and sox all can be converted to war use. Cotton, linen, rayon rags are all required in large quantities.

Julia Vermanska, expert rag sorter who has many relatives being cruelly treated in occupied Europe, plays a part in the war effort by dividing salvaged rags into dozens of classifications according to quality, content and color.

Reclaimed wool is torn by picking machines into a fluff. It is carded and respun into yarn. This not only releases virgin wool for essential purposes, but a portion can be used in weaving army blankets, shown being loomed here.

The intricate tools of Canada's war industry need tons of cotton rags for oiling delicate parts. They are also used to pack aircraft engines for shipment. Shortage is shown by the fact that last year $4,000,000 of rags were imported.

Husky Generals Suffer First Setback

Electrics, girls 'softball team, from the textile department of the C.G.E. Company, gave the dope bucket a hefty kick on Tuesday evening when they downed the league leading Generals, their sister team from the big plant on Park street. It was a rather see-saw, loosely played game, but the Electrics came out on top 12 to 10 when Umpire in Chief Max Board called the game midway through the seventh, thus reverting the score back to the end of the sixth, the last completed innings.

This is the first time since the league schedule got underway this season, that the husky Generals have met defeat and it was all the more galling when it came from the Porcelain squad.

Only a small crowd of fans wathed the tussle an dshivered as a cool west wind whipped across the river into the grandstand. The majority were pulling for the winners, who made it a fight all the way, but a few irate fans protested loudly when decision of the umpire ended the game.

M. Larmer went the route on the mound for the Electrics and sent five batters down swinging. She walked five and was nicked for 15 hits. On the other hand, the winners were only able to garner four hits from the Generals but with clever base running and a flock of free passed it was enough to tuck away a win. McCarthy, who started for the Generals, walked 11, and fanned four, allowing three hits. B. MacDowell took over in the fifth and she walked one and fanned one. She permitted just one safety.

The teams:

Electrics — M. Hunter,, 2b; S. Milburn, 2b; M. McIlwain, cf; R. Milburn, lf; T. Batley, rf; R. Masters, c; M. Larmer p; M. Killinbeck, 3b; E. MacKenzie, 1b.

Seven To Shade And Whirly's The Money King

By BILL KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON, July 15.—(AP)—Whirlaway may give the horse laugh to the so-wealthy Seabiscuit if he can change his stride and break near the top today in the $50,000-added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

The four-year-old son of the English Derby-winning Blenheim II needs only $27,244 to equal the record earnings of $437,730 that Seabiscuit piled up during his six years of campaigning.

And he can get it today if he can outfoot seven rivals, of apparently much earlier "lick," to the wire for the $44,850 winner's share of the richest purse of the current season for handicap horses.

The long-tailed Whirly, owned by the wealthy Warren Wright, the Kentucky and Chicago horsebreeder, happens to be a stretch runner of great fame. But all the previous Massachusetts'—seven in all—have been gained by thoroughbreds that possesed the ability of breaking fast from the box and maintaining their advantage to the wire.

In this renewal, Whirly is going to tangle with some real speed. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons has Apache, latest challenger to three-year-old honors. Whirly is packing the top weight of 130 pounds, and Sunny Jim's baby is lugging only 107.

If Apache does not crowd Whirly, it could be Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention, or likely, Emerson Woodward's New England favorite, Rounders, and then again there is a slight chance that the early-breaking Transfigure, owned by Texan John L. Sullivan, may last and burst home to take all.

Olsen Allows 11 But Cubs Blank Giants 3-0

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The secret of successful pitching sometimes seems to be luck as much as skill.

Take yesterday in the National League . . . Ray Starr, the lean spellbinder of Cincinnati, pitched three-hit ball and was beaten 2-1 by the pitiful Phils because two outfielders collided under a fly hit by the pitcher and the ball fell for a home run.

On the other hand Vern Osen, Chicago Cubs' southpaw, was pummeled for 11 hits by New York Giants and not only escaped with his sixth straight victory but scored a shutout, 3-0.

Starr's misfortune came in the fifth inning just after his slugging teammates had given him a 1-0 lead of Frank (Rube) Melton.

This resulted in Starr being charged with his fifth defeat against a dozen victories and cost Cincinnati a full game's distance against Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals, both of whom won.

At Chicago the Giants got men on base in every inning and made hits in the first eight, but they never were quite able to break through Olsen for a run. The Cubs made three less hits off two New York pitchers, but Lou Novikoff singled home two tallies in the fifth and the Cubs scored in the eighth on two singles—one of the scratchy sort.

It was Olsen's sixth straight success and also his sixth of the season. He lost four straight before he started to win.

Cooper Out Again

At St. Louis Mort Cooper had luck of a different sort. He was batted out of the box for the third time in succession, but the Cardinals rallied spectacularly to beat Boston Braves 7-5 in 11 innings and wipe out what would have been Cooper's fifth setback.

Brooklyn punished Pittsburg Pirates 5-1 with Whitlow Wyatt pitching three-hit ball for his 10th triumph of the year in a night game that drew 21,254 fans at Pittsburg.

Wyatt's path was made easy when Billy Herman doubled with the bases loaded in the first inning for three runs.

In the American League New York Yankees downed Detroit Tigers 3-0 on the two-hit hurling of Rookie Hank Borowy and extended their first-place margin to six games as Boston Red Sox absorbed another 3-2 beating by St. Louis Browns.

BOSTON July 15 — (AP). — Ben Jones, who ought to know, says Apache's the hoss Whirlaway has to beat to-day to pick up the Massachusetts marbles.....Weight and all, we'll string along with Mr. Bitail....The Yanks have chalked up 112 double plays....It's just as those National Leaguers said— the only way to get a hit through that infield is to shoot it out of an ack-ack gun.

Success System:

Lefty Gomez has won two straight since his brand new son arrived.... So El Goofy figures a family of six or seven would ensure his staying with the Yanks for ever.

Leo Durocher has barred baseball writers from the Dodgers' dressing-room....And the writers are leaving their gas masks home now.

Incidentally, American League players tell you if Ted Williams has any weakness, it's against knuckle-ball elbowing....That came pretty close to being a punch-tossing party in the Empire City jocks room the other day when a couple of "name" riders wanted to work out on a youngster they accused of rough riding....Eddie Arcaro's willing to bet Shut Out knocks off Alsab, Valdina Orphan, Apache, or Old Man Mose in the Arlington clasic...... The way Chicago fans are rooting for Lou Novikoff don't be surprised if they run him for mayor out there ....Is that okay, Mr. Kelly?

Safe In A Cloud Of Dust

In this cloud of dust may be seen Hitchcock, of the Tigers, scoring on "Flit" Cramer's single to left field in the first inning. Charlie Keller, Yanks' left fielder's throw to Catcher Bill Dickey was too late to nab the rapid Tiger infielder. This action took place in the first game of two between the Tigers of Detroit and the Yanks of New York at the New York stadium.

Henley To Sport Fine Talent Despite The War

ST CATHARINES, Ont., July 15.—(CP).—War has thinned the ranks of Canada's oarsmen, who have sent as many representatives to the armed forces as any other sport, but the Royal Canadian Henley will carry on here next week to keep the sport alive until the hundreds of scullers and oarsmen in uniform return.

The three-day meeting, starting July 23, will represent the 60th anniversary of rowing in the Dominion and the famous old clubs that helped it prosper will be on hand Added features are expected to include a race between crews from Toronto, Hamilton and London Naval Training Centres and championship events of the Canadian Canoe Association's western division.

All Canadian rowing clubs have turned to high school oarsmen for the nucleus of their 1942 representatives but the famed colors of Toronto Argonauts, Hamilton's Leander Club, St. Catharines Royals, Ottawa and Brockville will be seen. In addition, Buffalo Westsides, Detroit, Wyandotte and Ecorse, Mich., will be represented.

Actual details of the entries won't be known until Friday night when the draw is announced in Toronto.

It is pretty definite however, that Theo Dubois will defend his senior singles title. Now stationed in Ottawa, he will wear the Capital Club's red-and-blue colors.

Some Opposition

So far, Dubois' opposition will include Thain Simon of Brockville, 1941 junior champion, who played last season with Brantford's junior hockey team, and Harvey Hutcheon of St. Catharines, victor in the 1941 Association intermediate singles. Hamilton Leander may enter Claude Saunders or Cec. Liddell, if the club decides to separate the 1941 heavy doubles entry.

Henley officials have been asked to include the four championship events of the Canadian Canoe Association, western division, whose regatta has been abandoned for the duration. These include singles, pairs, fours and war canoe.

Providing authorities approve, there will be a whale boat race, also July 25, between crews from H.M.C.S. York (Toronto), H.M.C.S. Star (Hamilton) and H.M.C.S. Provost (London) This race would be for the naval championship of interior Canada.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 15.—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Golf Association currently is flooding the mails with brochures telling our brothers-in-arms from across the great unfortified boundary how to visit Canada with having to walk home. Each United States entrant in the Canadian Open, if a motorist, is entitled to 16 gallons of gasoline during his visit.

The visitors are advised to enter Canada with full tanks (hope the use of that term doesn't confuse anyone—it's gasoline we mean) to supplement their rationed supply. Of course, the R.C.G.A. probably wouldn't beat its breast with undue despair should a couple of the big drive and putt men become stranded. We could use a few of those guys on our courses, if only for the scenic value.

Despite the importance of the foregoing, the tournament is still won by the best golfer, not by the one who uses least gasoline. Ben Hogan said he will enter, but the word hasn't been confirmed officially yet. Among the visiting potentates sure to be here (Toronto Mississauga, August 6-7-8) are Gene Sarazen, Harry Cooper, Jug McSpaden, Dick Metz, Jimmy Demaret, Joe Kirkwood, Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, Tony Penna.

There also will be most of the top-flight Canadian professionals, because the Open's $3,500 in prizes (to the winner: $1,000 and the Seagram Gold Cup) looks good in these days of fewer lessons, plumetting equipment sales. Best Canadian bet probably will be Bob Gray or Glen Brydson of Toronto or Vancouver's Ken Black, unless he really meant that retirement announcement a few weeks ago.

Mississaugua is a tough course. The Open has been played there (about 14 miles west of downtown Toronto) twice before and although there have been 15 72-hole aggregate scores under 280 since 1919, none was scored at Mississauga. The club's only other claim to fame in its previous years as host to the Open is that it had two of the most bitter playoffs in the event's history. Walter Hagen won one in 1931, Sam Snead the other in 1938.

Incidentally

The Cohos are runnning on the Pacific Coast and B.C. fishermen are filling the air various with wails and tales of great prowess...Vancouver also is full of Prairie horses, so the second meeting at Hastings Park may be more successful than the first...Shortage of Dobbins was one of the several pieces of grief in the opening meet...

Incidentally:

Veteran Emil Sporri seems likely to retain his reputation as king of the half-mile tracks this summer. He had 13 firsts during the first week of racing at Vancouver's Hastings Park, which is plenty of wins for one week in any league...Mike Genthon pitched a nohitter for St. Boniface Native Sons in a Winnipeg district softball game, but the opposish—Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club—got two runs on four errors...Ken Lindsay, Vancouver's poker-fisted bantam, has taken his first job...It's in a coast shipyards ...A couple of good tenis players doffed uniforms to split a charity match in Ottawa...Lieut. Bob Murray R.C.O.C., and Cpl. Don McDiarmid R.C.A.F. were the principals...There may be something new in the Canadian Henley this year—a whaler race by navy men and a war-canoe exhibition...The paddlers haven't a major competition of their own this year and must be lonesome.

ONE SWIMMER ENOUGH

CAIRO—(CP). — Pilot and air gunner of a Beaufighter shot down in the Mediterranean 20 miles from land, had a dinghy, but no paddle. The gunner couldn't swim, so the pilot swam behind the dinghy and pushed it ashore.

Byrne Pitches Bears To 5-2 Win On Orioles

By The Associated Press

Many baseball fans are under the impression that lefthanded pitchers are eccentric, but if there is anything eccentric about Tommie Byrne of Newark Bears, it is a secret to the other clubs of the International League.

Byrne's only fault seems to be sudden flurries of wildness.

With the help of Frank Kelleher, who hit his 20th and 21st homers of the campaign, and Aaron Robinson, who walloped his 14th, Byrne defeated Baltimore Orioles, 5-2, last night. He turned in a four-hit job but sisued six walks, three of them coming in the first inning. He pitched scoreless ball, however, after the second frame.

It was Byrne's 11th victory against two defeats so far this season.

Ken Jungels of Jersey City Giants outpitched Ewell Blackwell of Syracuse Chiefs, but the Chiefs won 2-1 in 10 innings.

An error by Catcher Floyd Beal in the sixth inning allowed the Chiefs to tie the Jerseys, who had scored their lone run in the same frame.

Jungels was hit by a line drive off the bat of Jack Juelich in the 10th and seemed to lose his effectiveness. He then gave up a scratch hit and a walk to load the bases and walked Hank Sauer to force in the deciding tally.

Rochester Red Wings defeated Montreal Royals, 4-3, behind the five-hit pitching of Max Surkont in the only other game played.

Les Burge drove in all three Montreal runs with two doubles while Erv Dusak, Gene Lillard, and Harry Davis paced the little Cardinal's nine-hit attack on three Montreal hurlers with two hits each. Surkont struck out seven in turning in his seventh triumph of the year.

ChargeDominion Making Troops "Untouchables"

OTTAWA, July 15 — (ENS). — Canada is placing its soldiers, sailors and airmen in the "category of the Untouchables" by refusing to allow them to receive the same honors and decorations granted to the members of other Empire forces, Wing Cmdr. A. C. H. MacLean told the special House of Commons Committee on Honors and Decorations yesterday.

A Royal Air Force officer whose term of service on loan to the Royal Canadian Air Force is up, Wing Cmdr. MaceLan said he proposed to speak frankly and express his personal opinions as an R.A.F. officer, as well as the official views of the R.C.A.F.

"My thought is you are voluntarily putting Canadian boys in the category of the untouchables, as if they were in India,' he said. "It is shameful."

He was one of three officers representing the three armed services who appeared before the committee to-day. Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, Adjutant-General, representing the Army, said he would like to see present discriminations removed. The Army was in a different and an unsatisfactory position in regard to decorations as compared with other Empire Armies.

In Favor of Change.

Paymaster Cmdr. R. A. Pennington, Secretary of the Naval Board, said that body would welcome the removal of discriminations now existing among the Canadian and other Empire Navies due to Canada's ban on titles and orders of chivalry.

Wing Cmdr. MacLean said he knew about the Battle of Britain in which Canada's No. 1 fighter squadron fought in a group with an R.A.F. and a Polish squadron. The three knocked down 110 German planes in 11 days and the Canadians did their share. The pilots received decorations such as the D.S.O. and the D.F.C.

An order came out for recommendations for awards to the ground crew but those awards were to be the British Empire Medal. The R.A.F. men and the Poles got theirs, but the Canadians got none.

"I tell you the Canadian Government got no marks on that station," he said. "There were very bitter feelings among the R.A.F. chaps. They felt these grand Canadian boys were being discriminated against."

Wing Cmdr. MacLean said there are many men in the Air Force who served in Canada in the last war and did not get overseas, through no fault of their own. They were again serving without much hope of getting oveaseas. They did not get the General Service Medal in the last war. They should get something for service in Canada in both wars.

'It's the right of every soldier, sailor and airman to get a medal,' he said. 'Every one wants a medal and if you say he don't you just don't know what you are talking about.'

Follow the U.S. Path

The United States gave out medals before a war was won. Canada waited until the war was over. He thought Canada should follow the United States' example.

Knowing the feeling in the Royal Air Force, and the pride that force took in its 'younger brother,' the R.C.A.F. Wing Commander Mac Lean said he welcomed tre chance to state his views. He had jumped at a chance to do something in connection with awards on coming to Canada and had taken the liberty of deisgning a ribbon for men who served in Canada without going overseas.

'Why shouldh't Breadner (Air (Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of Air Staff) get a K.C.M.G.?' he asked. 'His opposite number got it two years ago.'

The pilot was not the be-all and the end-all of the air force. It took 10 to 15 men to put a plane in the air. The ground crews deserved recognition. The training activties carried on in Canada deserved 80 per cent of the credit for all the Royal Air Force had been able to accomplish and and the men engaged in these activities deserved recognition, even if they never left Canada.

Gen. Letson said the Canadian is 'in a different and unsatisfactory' position, compared with the other armies of the British commonwealth, in regard to decorations.

Conservative House Leader Hanson said the Government should not unduly withhold return of the money to the companies as it would represent an important factor in rehabilitation. He noted that two years was the maximum period for which the Government could withhold repayment.

The house spent the day in committee of the whole, approving budget resolutions covering new taxation on candy, succession duty levies, the excess profits tax, and a two per cent tax on insurance premiums, the latter replacing a levy formerly imposed by the provinces. A start was made on customs tariff adjustments, and this study contin[illegible] today.

When the [illegible]se opened, Prime Minister [illegible]nzie King announced a conference between party leaders in the chamber had set an objective of adjourning the session by the end of next week.

All Day Sessions Next Week

Evening sittings will be held tonight and Friday night and the House also will sit Saturday, with morning, afternoon and evening sittings next week.

Mr. King also told the House he hoped to be able to announce appointment of a minister to Russia before the end of the session.

Labor Minister Mitchell, answering a question by Mr. Hanson, announced the establishment of a five-man commission to investigate the Pacific Coast shipbuilding industry.

In dscussion of the budget resolutions Mr. Ilsley told Hon. Grote Stirling (Con. Yale), that while the Government looked on the refundable portion of the company's money, it did not take the final step of making interest payable on it. There was no particular rule indicating that interest should be paid.

There were difficulties in the way of attaching conditions to the return of the money.

The refunding provisions gave companies an incentive to carry on in the most prudent and economical way.

Interest was being paid on money returned to the individual taxpayer as it was not excess profits. Money taken from companies in excess profits was presumably made out of the war and the Government morally, had ever right to take all of it and keep it.

H. R. Jackman (Con. Toronto-Rosedale) said the government was was not entitled to take all of this profit. A company which was earning the same amount as it did prior to the war was taxed 40 per cent rather than 18 per cent because of the excess profits tax. If it was earningless than it earned in pre-war years, it was still taxed 40 per cent.

Mr. Ilsley said he had perhaps gone too far in saying the Government was morally entitled to the whole excess, but it had a right to appropriate the part which was war-profits.

"Property Of The People"

Mr. Coldwell said he was sorry to hear the government had considered restrictions on the return of money to companies after the war and had decided to take no action. Excess profits were made out of the distress of the nation and should never be considered as an asset of a company, corporation or individual. They should be the property of the Canadian people.

J. W. Noseworthy (C.C.F. York South) said workers' wages were frozen and their income tax increased. They apeared to be given no incentive to produce.

Mr. Ilsley said the incentive to produce was required even in wartime, and the incentive for workers was overtime pay and promotions which would enlarge their income.

Mr Coldwell said he would favor imposing a limit on profits for all of, say, four per cent.

Arthur Roebuck (Lib. Toronto-Trinity) said he would support a limit on profits as suggested by Mr. Coldwell, although not at the same figure.

But Mr. Roebuck said he could not support the Coldwell amendment as he opposed government interference with business.

Mr. Coldwell said: "In my opinnion the day has gone for good when business can do what it likes."

Answering Howard Green (Con Vancouver South), Mr. Isley said that mines abandoned for more than 10 years had started again were originally regarded as new mines. Mr. Green had said that income tax concessions for firms developing required mineral resources should apply to old as well as new mines.

Mr. Isley defended the application of new candy taxation to the one-cent items after members had said children should be able to buy candy at the old rate. The minister said candy would still be sold and there would be no great hardship if children had to pay three cents for two sticks instead of one cent for one.

to six enemy tanks."

Soviet soldiers defending the big bend country south of Boguchar, on the Don 130 miles south of Voronezh, after a series of withdrawals eastward 150 miles or so from the Kharkov sector, were reported to have stopped a regiment of Nazi infantry and wiped out more than 700 of its effectives.

(A spearhead striking down the Donets River has reached Voroshilovgrad, 170 miles southeast of Kharkov and 100 miles north of Rostov, the dispatch said.)

The Soviet Information Bureau noted particularly violent fighting yesterday in the area of Voronezh, 300 miles south of Moscow, and to the south of Boguchar, which lies on the curve of the Don 130 miles south of Voronezh.

Escaping Nazi Traps

A fresh withdrawal was announced in one sector of the zone south of Bougchar in the face of a threatened encirclement.

"With a flanking blow," the Information Bureau said, "our tankists cut off and annihiliated the enemy force which had moved ahead. The Hitlerites lost 17 tanks and over 900 officers and men. Only after the enemy had sent reserves into the action did our men retire to a new defence line."

Vast tank battles developed.

Some German armored divisions already have lost one-third of their tanks in the drive toward the Volga and the Caspian Sea and 104 of the track-treaded fighting machines were wrecked by the Russians in a day, part of them by ramming, the Tass News Agency said.

In addition to more than 35,000 casualties in 10 days in the Voronezh area, the Germans were declared by a Soviet communique, to have suffered the loss of such material as 241 anti-tank and field guns, 157 tanks, 115 trucks and 230 munitions carts.

Operations of the Red Air Force Monday accounted for 64 German tanks, 165 trucks, five guns, an ammunition dump, a fuel depot and two railway trains.

Spasmodic action was indicated on the Kalinin front, northwest of Moscow. Red army troops "broke into the outskirts of a populated place" in a counter attack after the repulse of a tanked German thrust, the Soviet Information Bureau said.

"Soviet artillery and anti-tank riflemen destroyed 12 German tanks," it was announced. "The enemy infantry suffered heavy losses."

Leningrad front fighters were reported to have destroyed numerous Nazi guns and an ammunition dump and killed more than 400 Germans in three days of fighting.

Red artillerymen disabled three tanks and wiped out some 300 Germans in another area, a communique said.

Sunfish Dooms Big Pickerel

GORE'S LANDING, July 15. — (ENS). — Biting off more than it could chew was the cause of a large pickerel weighing 5½ pounds being caught on Thursday afternoon last week.

Wallowing around the top of the water near the dock at Capt. Wilbert Harris' camp grounds, the pickerel was easily landed by Mr. Sharpes of Toronto, who was returning from an afternoon's fishing. Slipping an oar under the fish Mr. Sharples brought it to the side of the boat and lifted it in. Wedged into the pickerel's mouth was a large sunfish which was slowly choking it to death.

Several instances of fish in Rice Lake Choking on smaller fish becoming lodged in the throat have been reported since the pickerel incident. Mr William Herald of Gore's Landing once caught a muskie weighing over 20 pounds which was dying from attempting to swallow a wide-mouthed bass about 12 inches long.

Another visitor, Bill Watkins, was walking along the Gore's Landing pier and noticed a large 'lunge feebly swimming along the top of the water close to the dock. He reached down and was able to catch the fish with his hands. The muskie weighed 17 pounds and had a pickerel 15 inches long stuck in its throat.

HomeTownNews From Overseas

"Pictorial Home Town News" for the men overseas is a projected enterprise of the National Film Board which will include Peterborough in its filming. Mayor Hamilton arranged Tuesday night with Alderman Glover and Arthur Cauley of the Capitol Theatre to plan a local chapter in preparation of the visit of the cameramen toward the end of this month.

The idea contemplate the taking of every day Canadian life under wartime conditions, and will include main street scenes especially of the relatives of overseas men on apparent shopping tours; gatherings of overseas units, auxiliaries, children of men overseas shown in "supervised playgrounds."

These are suggestions of what the film should convey to the men in the camps overseas as a means of keeping them in pictorial touch with their home towns. The camera men are leaving Toronto July 18 working easterly.

Quints' Present Pleases Queen

LONDON, July 15.—(CP).— One of the proudest possessions of Queen Ellabeth is a seven times autographed pictorial diary of the Dionne quintuplets.

Col. C. L. Nelligan, principal Roman Catholic chaplain of the Canadian forces, brought the book from Canada and presented it to the Queen personally. Her Majesty, he said, was 'very pleased with it.'

The book contains 36 pictures of the Quints. Some show the children at school, others at play. One is of one of the girls making her first cake, with more dough on her face than in the cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and each of the Quints autographed the book, the girls printing their names and messages to the King and Queen, such as "Homages a Leur Maejstes'—'home to their Majesties.

The presentation was meant to be nothing more than a formal handing over of the book, but when the Queen heard what the neatly wrapped parcel contained, she insisted that it be opened on the spot and looked at it from cover to cover there and then.

"She was most interested and asked him many questions about the children," Col. Nelligan said. "She said the princesses would be anxious to see all the pictures."

The Quints met Their Majesties during the royal visit to Canada in 1939.

City Been Free Of Disease M.O.H. Reports

Peterborough has had relative freedom from communicable diseases for the first six months of this year, with the exception of the mumps epidemic, now ended, Dr. D. B. Avison, M.O.H., reported to the Board of Health Tuesday night. "Queen Mary Isolation Hospital is now practically empty."

Classes in first aid have been taught by Dr. Avison each Wednesday night for C.D.C. volunteers in the medical services. Several other classes taught by other doctors have completed their work and taken their examinations.

Special immunization clinics have been arranged for July and August. They will be held twice weekly in the Queen Mary and Immaculate Conception schools. Miss G. Conley, Public Health Nurse, reported that the Board's nurses had made a house to house canvass in the Park Hill Road and Burnham's Point communities chiefly for the purpose of explaining the immunization plan and to invite parents to attend at the two school centres. As an immediate result of these visits several pre-natal cases were referred to the Victorian Order of Nurses and several infant welfare visits made.

The following is quoted from Dr. Avison's report for June: "Circumstances developed which made it unwise to go through with the arrangements for the use of the School Nurses this summer. As soon as this became evident, feelers were put out to try to locate a nurse to do this work, but for some time without success. Finally, we learned that Miss Madonna Hurtubise of Peterborough, who has just completed her course in Public Health Nursing, was available. Time did not allow of delay in coming to a decision, so, after consultation with Alderman Dutton, chairman of the Board, she was engaged for two months at $100 a month."

Dr. Avison's previous explanation of the abandoning of the arrangement with the Board of Education for the services of their nurses, Miss Jory and Miss Deyell, was to the effect that Miss Deyell had volunteered for war nursing services, and he was of the opinion that she might be called at any time.

"My personal relations with Miss Jory and Miss Deyell have always been most cordial," Dr. Avison remarked.

A letter from the Board of Education enclosing the report of the health committee of that body received considerable attention, especially its assertion "in view of the evident mis-statement in Dr. Avison's report for May, 1942, pertaining to skin tests for T.B." followed by the complete text of the Board of Education's resolution regarding the examination of teachers as a precaution against T.B. Dr. Avison commented that he had examined the teachers of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, and the teachers of the Public Schools were examined by Dr. Robert Nott, M.O.H. for the Board of Education.

"It seems to me they are trying to disparage me or the Board of Health," Dr. Avison said. In regard to a 'little slip," Dr. Avison said the Board of Education appeared to be straining at a gnat.

"I think their health work has been well done, but I think they should notify us of what they do," the M.O.H. added. "We supply them with complete reports of what we do."

Correspondence and minutes were reviewed by the members, and Mayor Hamilton said he could not understand what the Board of Education were taking exception to. It was suggested that probably the best course was simply to receive the letter from the Board of Health. That proposal was finally embodied in a resolution by Alderman Sullivan, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, and the secretary was instructed to write the Board of Education enquiring whether they wished "to be supplied with the monthly reports of this Board."

"We have tried to co-operate with them by furnishing them with copies of the reports of our meetings showing what we are doing," said Alderman Dutton, "and we feel there should be a reciprocal spirit of co-operation on their part."

Farm Home Burned In North Monaghan

The farm home of Wilbert Succee, two miles west of Jackson Park, on the Smith-Monaghan boundary, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night.

Information from the country today said the house was a frame building, and that the cause of the fire could not be determined. It was discovered about 9 o'clock, while the men were working in the fields. Some of the neighbors did not become aware of the fire until the dusk fell and the reflection was seen in the countryside.

Most of the furniture was saved by men of the neighborhood, but the building was a complete loss. It was also said that this was the old T. D. Young homestead.

The young folks of the family were some distance from the house fixing a fence, and the only person indoors was Mr. Succee's housekeeper.

Blood Donor Clinic Grim Reminder That Civilians Must Fight Too

Peterborough was added to the chain of Canadian cities with modern blood donor clinics on Tuesday when Mayor Hamilton officially opened the new clinic at the corner of Water and Brock Streets, one block north of the Post Office. Many citizens turned out to inspect the new quarters. At TOP LEFT, Russel T. Kelly, advertising executive of Hamilton, is shown chatting with Mrs. Sheldon L. Smoke. At TOP CENTRE, Mayor Hamilton, John R. Marshall and Mrs. Reg. Turner, Red Cross president, are examining a blood container, which is being shown by Mrs. Gordon S. Matthews, who is standing on the right. At TOP RIGHT, Mrs. Walter Jones (left) and Mrs. Maurice Pringle, both registered nurses, are shown in one of the spotless white cubicles, where the donors give their blood. At LOWER LEFT, Sid. Goldstone, Harold G. Fitzgerald, and Herbert Jamison are shown learning of the blood donor process from Mrs. W. H. Perry, R.N. A group of people are shown resting in the well-furnished rest room used for the purpose of giving comfortable accommodation to blood donors who are given refreshment after donating blood. The group, from LEFT to RIGHT, are: Mrs. E. W. Watson, Mrs. O. H. McConkey, Annabelle McConkey, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, regent of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E.; Mrs. C. M. Scott, 2nd vice-regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E., and Dr. D. B. Avison, medical officer of health, who has his back to the camera.

New Blood Donors Clinic Is Officially Opened To The Public

Peterborough came to the forefront as the twenty-sixth Blood Donors Clinic of the Dominion was opened by Mayor James Hamilton before a crowd thronging the Clinic rooms on an inspection tour, Tuesday afternoon.

"I am glad to see that Peterborough is joining the other cities of the Dominion," Mayor Hamilton said. "Quite probably there will soon be fierce fighting 'over there' and another hundred thousand men soon to join the fighting forces, blood transfusions are going to be needed in a good many cases after they have gone into action, and the blood for these tranfusions must come from you citizens."

He extended his congratulations to the Red Cross for the magnificent job they had done on the Clinic even though the building they had to use was somewhat of a disappointment, and said that the citizens of Peterborough could be proud of the completed effort. The Mayor said he felt that all would receive a blessing from this undertaking, not only those who were receiving but those who were giving. It was pointed out that this was very definitely connected with the welfare of the soldiers serving overseas.

Well known advertising man from Hamilton, Russell Kelly, who is chairman of the Ontario Division of the Blood Donors Committee, stressed the importance of the work and pointed out how little Canadians are doing in comparison with the English people and that it was not a sacrifice but a privilege and pleasure to lend assistance in this manner.

Mrs. R. Turner, president of the local Red Cross, welcomed the visitors and expressed her appreciation for all their support.

Alderman James Dutton in a brief speech paid a generous tribute to the local Red Cross organization. While emphasizing the great need that exists for such a project he tied in with his talk the idea that a visible reminder of the Red Cross work, s[illegible] as this Clinic, always brought greater co-operation and results.

Not A Hospital

Citizens going through the building marvelled at its compactness and gleaming appearance, as they passed through the donors' cubicles, with their attractive white-clad nurses, and the utility, blood typing and kitchen rooms. Everything in the cubicles has been arranged with a view to the donor's comfort and for the efficiency of the doctor and nurse. It has been emphasized that the Clinic atmosphere is not to be that of a hospital, because there are no sick people, and if they feel like shouting, it is all right with those in authority. The transfusion is a subject that will not be discussed unless the donor requests special information, instead the otmosphere will be more that of a social get-to-gether.

Too much cannot be said about the choice of breakfast for the donor. The Red Corss had various stages of the serum on exhibition, and it showed the serum that turned cloudy and was therefore valueless because the donor had had fats for breakfast. The regular serum, with the red corpuscles removed, is a golden brown color, and the appearance of the dried serum resembles lumps of light brown sugar. Only the blood clotting is handled in this Clinic, and the new drying process takes place at the Connaught Laboratories in Toronto, from where it is shipped overseas by the Red Cross.

All the speakers emphasized the urgent need for donors which has increased a good deal in the last little while. The whole Dominion is asked to produce 4,500 donors a week, and of this number the Ontario quota is 3,000. Peterborough is expected to have 100 donors a week, and the Clinic will handle 50 a morning every Monday and Wednesday. Recently 23,000 bottles alone were sent to one place in the British Isles for use of the navy, and it is very vital that this city treble the number of donors on record at the present time.

For years citizens have nobly supported the Red Cross and of the $30,000 allocated to the Red Cross Society by the Red Cross and Community Fund Committee this year, $20,000 of this amount has been turned over to the National Committee for war work.

Visitors Welcomed

Visitors were welcomed at the door by a reception committee composed of Miss Emma Morrow, Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Messrs. Clare Collins, T. A. Mackay, R. M. Glover and Dr. D. B. Avison. The committee at night had as its members, Dr. C. B. Waite, Judge Sheldon Smoke, Capt. Douglas Loomis, Dr. R. S. Chenoweth, Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick, H. A. Cranfield and Harry Thompson.

The Clinic was fully staffed with volunteer nurses and workers who have done and are doing so much the venture a success. Besides the technician, Mrs. R. Taylor, the nine nurses present were Mrs. Frank Hughes, Mrs. R. McIntyre, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Maurice Pringle, Mrs. Roy White, and Mrs. W. H. Perry, all stationed in the donors cubicles. Two others, Mrs. Gordon Matthews and Mrs. J. Sharp staffed the Utility room. This committee is under the convenorship of Mrs. H. M. Yelland. Mrs. Fred Revoy, who substituted during the afternoon for Mrs. Donald Hill, was in charge of the Blood Typing and Cutting room.

The other workers were: Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald and Mrs. C. B. Muir recording secretaries, who presided at the desk in the waiting room, afternoon and evening, so that anyone caring to register for donor service could do so. The rest rooms were in charge of Mrs. G. S. Cameron and Miss Helen Munro. The preparation of food was under the direction of Miss Mary Elliott and Mrs. S. L. Smoke, representing the church groups of the city. The "service of food committee" under the convenorship of Mrs. Fred Hooper and Mrs. W. R. Blackwell was represented by Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Regent of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., and Mrs. C. M. Scott of the 57th Chapter I.O.D.E. The transportation committee is headed by Mrs. C. G. Graham and Mrs. O. A. DeGraw. The Medical Service head is Dr. C. B. Waite and the secretary of the Blood Donors Committee and a vice president of the local Red Cross is Mrs. C. J. Ray.

Representative From Toronto

Another visitor was Norman Knight of Toronto, who as assistant to Dr. W. S. Caldwell, head of the Provincial Blood Donors organization, represented him at the opening. Mr. Knight is soon to take over work of Dominion-wide range and Dr. Caldwell will continue in his present post.

Two more surprised men would have been harder to find than Dr. D. B. Avison and Norman Knight when they met. The two had met before in Tientsen, China, when Dr. Avison was doing medical work in Korea and Norman Knight, who has spent 20 years in China, was business manager and assistant superintendent of the Weihwei General Hospital in Honan Province in interior China. Mr. Knight returned to Canada in April 1941, and was due to return to his post in June, 1942, but because of the lack of transportation he will be forced to remain in Canada for the duration and so he has accepted the new post for which he has had considerable medical experience as a background.

The women of the Red Cross Branch have laboured long and faithfully in an effort to help the country in a desperately needed war work, and now have done their part, the people of Peterborough have an opportunity to contribute their share.

Normally, more than half the sugar produced in Austria is exported.

Man Charged As 3rd Offender

Charles Fleetwood, of Peterborough, was charged in city court on Wednesday morning as a third offender under the Liquor Control Act, but pleaded not guilty. He admitted the second offence, but told the court he could not recall the instance last September when he was convicted of being intoxicated. At the request of the police he was remanded in custody until Thursday morning to allow the police time to produce the records.

Fleetwood was arrested by police in the parking lot at the rear of the C.D.S. building last Saturday evening, when it is alleged he was in an intoxicated condition.

Soldier Charged

James Anderson, serving with the Royal Canadian Artillery at Camp Petawawa, was charged with selling whiskey and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to two months in jail.

According to the evidence given by Sgt. Major McKenna of the Peterborough Training Centre, Anderson had three bottles of whiskey at the C.P.R. station on Tuesday morning when a train with soldiers aboard was standing at the station. McKenna saw Anderson pass a bottle of whiskey through one of the windows, and when he questioned Anderson, the latter showed a permit indicating purchase of three bottles of whiskey. The soldier then, just had two in his possession. He was placed under arrest by Sgt. Samis of the camp provost staff and placed in jail at the police station.

"I have no alternative except to sentence you to two months in jail on this charge, and if there is to be any leniency shown it will have to be arranged by the military authorities," Magistrate Gee stated.

OBITUARY

MRS. FANNIE HUFFMAN

The funeral service for the late Mrs. Fannie Huffman was held on Tuesday from her late residence, 526 Sherbrooke street.

Mrs. Huffman, the former Fannie Hamilton, was born in Danbury, Conn., but has been a resident of Peterborough for nearly 80 years. Her husband, the late Christopher Huffman, predeceased her by 19 years.

She leaves to mourn her passing two daughters, Ethel and Hazel Huffman, and two sons, Frank and Albert, all of Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. John Speer, of Toronto, and Mrs. Sarah A. Moore, of Peterborough, and one brother, Frank Hamilton, of Montreal.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. William McDonald, former pastor of Knox United Church, of which Mrs. Huffman was an active and faithful member.

Pallbearers included Messers Frank Huffman, Albert Huffman, George Huffman, Sheldon Huffman, Charles Huffman and Chris. Huffman.

Interment was made in the family plot in Little Lake Cemetery.

North Monaghan Planning Curfew Bylaw

North Monaghan council is considering the adoption of a curfew regulation, especially for the suburban section of the township.

It is understood that a bylaw is being drafted, conforming with the general law and it is expected to be ready for the next meeting of the council. One of its advocates is Police Constable Bruce Menzies who has told the council that some of the ministers of the city have been urging the passing of a bylaw to keep the younger girls and boys off the streets at night.

Details of the curfew hour such as 9:30 or 10 p.m. and the age limit of the children for whom the bylaw is planned as a protective measure have not yet been decided.

Pastures Are In Need Of Rain

Farm women and girls in Carleton county are "helping out as never before in haying operations, according to the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "A large number of city boys have been placed and some city men willing to give all or part of their holidays in helping have also been placed."

Victoria reports three-fifths of the hay crop harvested. "Pastures are becoming dryer and the flow of milk is decreasing. Some men working at the arsenal and others on part time have been placed on farms to assist with haying and the grain harvest."

The crop of Peterborough hay is good and is being handled fairly satisfactorily, although labor is scarce. Some fall wheat is ready to cut, but corn has not been growing well.

Indications of the early potato crop in Ontario county point to a heavy yield.

Wheat cutting is under way in York. Lambs are going to the market in Prince Edward. The canning of raspberries has begun. A few fields of wheat and rye have been cut.

Grenville sheep breeders seem to be intent on increasing their flocks. Farmers pooling their labor are doing a fine job in the hay fields, and are being helped by women.

Leeds reports all crops in excellent condition. The flow of milk is declining although it is still above normal.

Corn is making slow growth in Lennox-Addington but early potatoes are a good crop.

A Roof Climber

MINNEAPOLIS, Kas., July 15. —(AP).—Mr. and Mrs. William Eldringhoff took a second look at their barn roof. Sure enough, there was a calf up there, astride the ridgepole, bellowing loudly. They guessed an electrical storm frightened him and he climbed over several connecting sheds to reach his precarious perch.

"Relieves Distress From" Monthly FEMALE WEAKNESS

And Helps Build Up Red Blood!

Thousands upon thousands of women and girls who suffer from functional monthly disturbances—headache, backache, cramps, distress of "irregularities", nervous, tired, blue, weak feelings—have obtained most gratifying relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets (with added iron).

Pinkham's Tablets not only relieve such distress, they also help build up resistance against it. They help build up red blood! Made in Canada.

Slip Regulation Ends Ruffles

No more ruffles on petticoats! They've been caught in the war machine.

A Wartime Prices and Trade Board order has simplified women's slips. It rules that ruffles or frills at the bottom of slips are prohibited, and also the use of cloth over cloth panels, commonly known as shadow-proof panels.

Slips, (like all clothing), are items to be bought with care and treated wel in these days of shrunken budgets. In future they may not be elegant and frilly but they always will be important.

In buying a slip that will give good wear both material and tailoring must be watched. For wear with summer sheers the heavy taffetas, broadcloths and other slip of good weight are adequate and do not need the double panel. Rayon and cotton make good slips if the material is closely woven and not full of starchy filler. Cotton, to be satisfactory, should be preshrunk and color fast.

One important detail in good tailoring is generous, firm seams, closely stitched. French seams are best. Rayons are stronger with all seams cut on the bias; there is no pull on the threads. Other details to watch for are material reinforcements where straps are sewed on and pinked or bound edges at hem, top and under the arms. Any shortening should be done from the bottom, not by pulling up the straps.

Rayon needs careful laundering—mild soapsuds, no rubbing, lukewarm water, and a moderate iron. White cotton is easily washed—hot water, mild soapsuds, thorough rinsing and drying in the sunlight. Colored cottons may 'run' so should be washed and dried quickly.

Phyllis Morris Is Bride Of Norman Thompson

COBOURG, July 15.—(ENS). — A pretty wedding took place this afternoon in St. Peters Anglican church when Phyllis Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Moris of Cobourg, became the bride of Mr. Norman Charles Thompson of Cobourg, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Thompson of Toronto. The groom is second stewart on car ferry Ontario No. 2. The service was performed by Rev. R. L. Seaborn. The church was decorated with lilies and baskets of hydrangea.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon and heart-shaped hat. Her flowers were American Beauty roses. She was attended by Miss Mary Shier of Cobourg, who wore a blue chiffon, floor-length gown, heart-sraped hat, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay. The best man was Mr. Murray Maxwell, Cobourg, radio operator on car ferry Ontario, No. 1. The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. Martin.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received in a rust-coloured silk dress with white accessories. About thirty guests from Cobourg were present. After the reception they left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara, the bride wearing a figured blue silk dress with white accessories. On their return they will reside in Cobourg.

Try Bottle Top In Scaling Fish

The thrill of catching a fish is often dampede by the thought of scaling to follow. This chore can be relieved of a lot of its unpleasantness if performed with a curry comb of the circular variety. Or you can make a fine little scaler with no outlay by tacking a few rows of used metal bottle tops, rough edges out, on a bit of board. Put a band of leather or canvas on the other side into which to slip the hand. As with a knife, start from the tail and work towards the head.

Victory Recipes Are Planned For Canadians' Health

Capricious summer appetites are too often a headache for the meal-planner of the family. Make fresh fruits and vegetables in season solve the problem by serving them in unexpected forms.

Chilled fruit cup in sparkling glasses gives a party air to the simplest meal. There's deliciously cool color in cucumbers or green peppers stuffed with cheese to say nothing of the nutriment. Tomato or mixed vegetable juice cocktail will give an edge to the most finicky appetite.

Consumers Section, Department of Agriculture, recommends the following fruit combinations:

Cantaloupe filled with red raspberries.

Melon slices with cherries and a squeeze of lemon juice.

Pear, peach and apple cubes.

Grape juice with ginger ale.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

1 quart tomato juice
¾ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix, chill and serve ice cold.

Vegetable Juice Cocktail

Beet, tomato and celery juices with a few drops of onion juice added.

Stuffed cucumber—Score length-soft cream cheese, sprinkle with dash of paprika, and serve with garnish of water cress or parsley.

Stuffed cucumber—Score lengthwise with prongs of fork, stuff with cheese. This gives the slices a fluted edge.

Stuffed Green Pepper—Stuff with cottage cheese, chill and cut in rings.

Corsetless Women Contribute 60 Tons Of Steel To Victory

A New York paper reports that suburbanites now have two figures—one for the morning and one for the afternoon. In order to save their girdles housewives no longer wear them to do their morning work, but put them on to look smart in the afternoon.

Reduction in the amount of rubber available for foundation garments was announced in Canada last winter with the warning that the girls would have to bulge for Britain. Now steel reduction is going to make matters worse.

Members of the younger set who thought that corsets went out with Godey's Lady's Book may be surprised to learn that 60 tons of steel, which normally went into the making of these female suits of armour, are now being diverted to airplane and war vehicle manufacturers. This means that thousands of Canadian women keep their figures through benefit of steel as well as rubberized fabric. Women who are on the list of stylish stouts will soon have no choice but to diet and exercise in the hope of ironing out their figures.

Glass Containers Must Be Salvaged

Thrifty housewives will welcome the order of Wartime Prices and Trade Board making it an offence wilfully to destroy or throw away bottles or any other containers made of glass.

The new order deals primarily with wine and distillers' bottles which are to be routed back to their original source for re-use. Additional orders regulating the collection and sale of pharmaceutical bottles, food bottles and brewers' bottles are expected shortly.

In addition to broken bottles, glass companies are now prepared to use a certain proportion of what is known as "flat cullet" (window glass, plate glass, etc.), which was previously not saleable.

Tins are being discontinued for many lines of food products and bottles will be urgently required to replace these containers.

All bottles and glass may be disposed of through local salvage committees or savage dealers. Tops should accompany bottles and containers when possible. Sorting and packing in boxes will facilitate the work of the committee and help to get these articles back in circulation.

Rally Postponed For War Workers

The rally which was to have been held at the Collegiate on Friday evening in connection with the demand for women to do war work at the C.G.E. has been postponed until later date. It will be held after a survey has been made to ascertain the requirements. Although married women have been taken on for war work at the Genelco and the C.G.E., up to now preference has been given to single girls.

At present plans are going ahead to provide facilities at the Collegiate for the training of 20 girls and women a week for this special work.

Married 63 Years, Marches In Parade

Mr. and Mrs. John Vansickle, of Vansickle, north-east of Havelock, celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary at Havelock on Saturday, July 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Vansickle were married at Blairton on July 12, 1879. Mr. Vansickle, who has been an Orangeman for about 50 years, marched in the Orange parade on Saturday in Havelock with the Norwood lodge. Up until this spring both had enjoyed the best of health, and Mrs. Vansickle, who was ill for a couple of months in the spring, is now up and around and is doing her own housework again. Mr. Vansickle still helps with the usual farm labor, and on June 24 he put up 105 good coils of hay, besides doing some raking and tedding.

All Havelock joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Vansickle many more anniversaries.

Frequent Washings Help Save Curtains

Smoke and grime are hard on curtains. Frequent washing will not only preserve the fabric but will eliminate harsh cleaning methods. Lukewarm water and neutral soap are safe than hot water and strong soap. Bleaches and lye are hard on fabrics and should not be used.

Women who make their own curtains can help the war effort by eliminating frills and sticking to the simplest styles—straight—hanging tailored curtains that stop at the window sill. Remember that cotton for civilian use is going to be less plentiful since so much is required for war purposes, and labor and raw material will be increasingly scarce.

Jacket Dresses Are "Out"

Print frocks are a summer stand-by for women across the continent. Although dresses made with matching jackets, like the one pictured at LEFT, have been prohibited for the duration of the war under the clothing simplification orders of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the two-piece model at RIGHT will continue to be made. By giving up jacket frocks, two yards of material is saved in each model.

Wartime Shoes May Still Be Gay Color

Women can still be not only well shod, but gaily shod in this third year of the war. Since the first of July, Wartime Prices and Trade Board restrictions have been imposed on shoe manufacturers, but shoes can still be made in "town" brown, golden tobacco, turf tan, blue, Kona red which means wine, black and white.

BRITISH-RUSSAIN PAPER

LONDON—(CP). — The British Ministry of Information has arranged to publish in Kuibyshev, a weekly eight-page newspaper to keep the Russians informed about Britain's war effort. It title is Britanskyi Soyuznik (The British Ally) and is edited in London then radioed complete with pictures to Kuibyshev to be translated into Russian.

When Cooking Fish Should Test Heat

If fish is fried (baking, broiling or boiling is preferable from a digestion standpoint), deep fat frying gives best results. To test for heat, drop in an inch-cube of day-old bread. When this brown in 60 seconds the fat is at right temperature for uncooked fish. For cooked fish, as in croquettes, allow 40 seconds for bread to brown. In cooking allow 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish.

UNKNOWN CHILD VICTIM

BATH, England—(CP).—The coffin bears only a number. It contains ahe body of a two-year-old girl injured fatally in a Nazi bombing raid here. No one has claimed her and perhaps her parents were killed too. Rev. H. K. Hudson suggested the child be buried in some ruined church as "the unknown child victim."

Lakefield Council Holds Tax Rate To 39 Mill Levy For Ensuing Year

LAKEFIELD, July 15—(ENS).—What with election date some six months off and a war on, Village Fathers on Monday night buckled down to the tax rate fixing business, and despite a loss in revenue and an additional call by the school boards held the levy to the same rate as last year—39 mills.

Major loss to the village was the cut in Hydro assessment of some $9,300, equal to about a mill and a half in taxes. The Public School Board's raise of over $600 handed to their teachers tacked another mill that had to be covered up some place on the list.

One bright feature of the general setup in the municipality is the debenure balance of only $2,840.44 outstanding for the road which will be cleared off in four years.

Fire Chief Allan H. Clark appeared regarding his annual trip to the firemen's convention, to be held this year at Kitchener, where experts from the United States and Great Britain will speak on conditions there.

Councillors considered the chief's work merited the expenditure, and on motion of Graham and Charlton a grant of $40 was voted.

Question of fixing the curling portion of the rink was brought up by Councillor G. H. Charlton, but the quotation of $1 a yard for removal of the muck was deemed excessive.

Cuncillor Fred Lawrence was of the opinion the job could be done profitably at 25 cents a yard. Councillors Graham and Millar were of the same mind, but the problem was to find someone willing to tackle the job—the farmers being tied up with haying and fall wheat cutting and all other available teams around the village too busy.

Reeve Tanner figured the $1 tender would run the job into extra on the taxes, and with the council working so close to the line it couldn't be tackled this year.

"Well," said Councillor Charlton, "it's a grand chance gone to get some free fill for the job, but it it is going to boost the taxes it had better be let go this year."

And so it seem the curlers will have to allow for the bumps in the ice next winter—or try some cheaper remedy.

More Work on The Park

Some $400 has been spent on nepheline and labor on fixing the park waterfront and some grading is yet to be done before the proper slop to the water is obtained. Estimates covered some further moderate expenditure on this work which in the end will add much to the park. Considerable of this outlay is covered by revenue from campers in the summer, fees last year running over $400, with the Point's popularity growing each years as its visitors pass the word around.

Matter of the bylaw legalizing the Thursday half holiday for the town's merchants in the months of June, July and August was finally passed after a delay of a month.

Monday, August 3, was designated Civic Holiday and the necessary act passed on motion of Councillors Lawrence and Millar.

Saving of over a mill looms for next year whether it is a saving in the end or not, in the fact that no road oil will likely be available, the last according to reports for the duration having been applied during the past month.

Figures as prepared by Clerk Harry T. Hill were subject of considerable debate, and the tax rate struck for the year.

Fliers Revive Pilot In Time To Save Bomber

TIMMINS, July 15—In a letter to his father, O. H. Demers, of Preston East Dome Mines, Flight Sergeant Roland Demers, formerly of Timmins, gives a graphic description of a raid over enemy territory in which the pilot of the plane was knocked unconscious by a piece of flak and revived only in time to bring the aircraft out of a screaming dive.

Flight Sergeant Demers, who has been serving with the R.C.A.F. in England for more than a year, has several times been mentioned in despatches in connection with raids over Germany and France. His description of the latest exploit in which he has taken part follows:

"Our squadron has raided this place the three previous nights and was going back the fourth time. I went over on the second night and was named to take part in the fourth flight.

"By all reports the place was getting hotter and hotter all the time, so we were expecting quite a reception. Finally we started off and were shot up pretty badly crossing the enemy coast. About ten minutes later we saw another of our aircraft shot down in flames over the same spot. When we still were sixty or seventy miles from the target we could see the flak going up. It really looked beautiful, all different colors. It reminded me of the fire works display at the exhibition. We finally arriver there and dropped our bombs. It was then that the enemy opened up and the barrages were terrific.

"A piece of flak nicked my nose and another bit into the parachute on which I was sitting. The pilot was hit in the face and knocked unconscious, the plane spinning into a dive toward earth.

"The navigator and I worked on the pilot while the plane was screaming downwards, and finally succeeded in reviving him. He pulled the bomber out O.K.

"We gained our height again and dawn still found us over enemy territory. We were the target of more enemy guns which knocked out our starboard motor. We managed to escape by losing height from 11,000 feet down to 4,000. But to make matters pretty bad, the motor caught fire when we were still 200 miles from the English coast.

"We put it out and found that we were just 3,000 feet above the sea. The captain told me to send out an S.O.S. which I did. The rest of the crew set about throwing out everything they could spare to lighten the ship while I brought it in on radio.

"We really did not expect to make our coast, so they had the air-sea rescue service waiting for us in case we came down in the water. Luckily, we managed to keep our height with the one good engine, losing only 1,500 feet.

"Anyway, we crashed at an airdrome near the coast because our undercarriage was unserviceable. Fortunately nobody was hurt. This was nothing new to me, however, for I've crashed twice in three trips. I'm getting used to it.

WOMEN ALLERGIC TO TRUTH WHEN FACTS CONCERN THEMSELVES.

Refusal To See Themselves As Others See Them Accounts For Poor Taste In Dress.

Most women are allergic to the truth. It is not that they have any deep, dark secrets that they wish to conceal. It is just a constitutional informity that makes them shudder away from looking a cold, hard fact in the face. They have to glamorize everything and see it as they want to see it, not as it is.

Especially is this true as regards themselves, and it is what gets them into so much trouble. In her secret soul every woman knows that no matter to whom else she tells tarradiddles she should not lie to herself. She knows she should tell herself the truth, no matter how much it hurts, but she cannot summon up the nerve to do it. From the cradle to the grave she plays the game of make-believe, and there is no one else in the world she befools so completely as she does herself.

No woman, for instance, ever tells herself the truth about how she looks. In spite of being confronted with her reflection in mirrors wherever she turns, she never sees herself as anything short of glamorous. If she is fat, she pictures herself as only pleasingly plump, and thanks Heaven she isn't obese, as some other woman is. If she is a living skeleton, she gloats over her slenderness. She she has a saleratus bisuit complexion, she is sure she is the understudy of some dark, sultry senorita. And when she paints her face and dyes her hair, she is perfectly certain that not even an F.B.I could penetrate her disguise of age masquerading as youth.

That women deceive themselves about their looks is the explanation of the war so many of them dress. The torture chamber couldn't get the woman whose lower extremities look like a leg of prime beef, or something excavated from the bone yard, into slacks and shorts if she had the remotest idea of how she looks. But she hasn't. She never doubts that her legs are duplicates of Marlene Dietrich's.

Women's inability to tell the truth about their age has passed from a joke into a legend. But the reason they lie about their birthdays is not so much with intent to mislead others as to conceal from themselves the unpleasant fact that they are growing older. As long as they remain a permanent thirty-nine—and I knew one woman who stayed that way so long that her son was only four years younger than she said she was—they feel that they are still young and life is worth living.

Love Blinds Women To Facts.

The pitiful side, however, of woman's fatal faculty of lying to themselves comes in when dealing with their love problems. If a woman loves a man, she simply refuses to accept the fact that he does uot care for her. He may neglect her, flout her, insult her, run around with other women, without in the least shaking her belief that he loves her. All the evidence is against it, but such an adept is she in deceiving herself she goes on believing what she wants to believe.

Thousands of women are old maids because they have befooled themselves into thinking they saw the love light in the eyes of men who never had the slightest gleam for them. The wives of thousands of philanderers eat out their hearts, year after year, waitng for unfaithful husbands to return to them because they lack the mental honesty to admit that their marriages are all washed up; that their husbands no longer love them, if they ever did, and that, anyway, they are heels who are not worth wasting a tear over.

But the tragic part of women's ability to deceive themselves comes when they see all of their children as swans and refuse to recognize that there is an ngly duckling among them. Many a child loses its chance to have some mental or physical defect corrected because

Durham Lodges Have Big Day At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, July 15—(ENS).—The popular saying "It always warms up for the Twelfth of July" celebration, was well exemplified by the mercury hitting a new high for the present season when it rose to almost ninety degrees on Monday, the day on which the Orange Order of East Durham held its parade and mass picnic at Millbrook.

Crowds from all over the district began gathering shortly after the noon hour, the visiting lodges falling in at the school grounds for the parade, which was scheduled for 2.30 p.m., the area covered being the full length of King Street as far as the C.N.R. station, and back again to Rowland's grove, at the extreme east end. A large streamer over the gateway, bearing the word "Welcome," marked the point of entrance to the picnic grounds.

Heading the parade was William Dixon, a Past County Master from Bewdley, 73 years of age, and connected with the Orange Order for over fifty years; following in cars were some of the county officers, the Eastern Star L.O.B.A. from Peterborough; the Millbrook L.O.B A. "Daughters of Cavan," who looked and marched especially well, their costumes being all of white, hats, dresses, gloves and shoes; the Fallis Line Juvenile Lodges came next, the many young folk giving promise of plenty of recruits to carry on the traditions of Orangeism in the years ahead; next in line was Purple Hill Lodge from Elizabethville; then Rice Lake L.O.L. from Bewdley; Fallis Line Senior; Fraserville L.O.L. marched with Rev. M. Rowland carrying the open Bible in the front ranks; Maple Leaf Lodge from South Monaghan, and the Carmel organization completed a very creditable parade. Practically every Lodge had its own fife and drum band, the music, banners and regalia adding color and interest and occasionally bringing a round of applause from the onlookers.

Younger Men In Army.

It was noticeable, both at the large parade to church on Sunday evening, and again on Monday, that the ranks of the younger men were thinned on account of enlistments, and engagement in war work, the 'teen age and the members of riper years being decidedly in the majority.

A Union Jack of generous size marked the truck from which the speakers addressed the gathering, after arrival at the grove. Past County Master James H. Paul acting as chairman. One of the oldest members on the grounds was Mrs. William Elmer, 79, connected with the local ladies' lodge, and anxious to have marched in the parade, the extreme heat making this inadvisable; Mrs. Elmer did, however, join the "walk" on Sunday evening for the annual church attendance.

The speakers included the County Master, Brother J. Sanders, of Port Hope, who delivered a stirring message, emphasizing the loyalty of Durham county through over a century of Orangeism, the Cavan Blazers having a high place on the honor roll of pioneer service for the Order; the absolute need of the work of the Orange Order throughout Canada, and the annual observance of the Twelfth throughout the years past, and for the present and future as well: the need also of a Protestant party, meaning a union of those of all political creeds, to rule the country, unity conserving strength, aiding in the perpetuation of the finest ideals, and preventing domination by any one province over the others.

The fine war record of the L.O.L. was mentioned, including $1,000,000 contributed by the 3,000 Lodges across Canada, with enlistments reaching a high figure; vigilance for the future was urged, as the County Master closed his appeal, pointing out that "this country, this province, this county have been made richer in every way by the life and work of men and women of the Orange Order."

Rev. Mr. Chevis, the new rector of Cavan parish, was the next speaker, making a most favorable impression upon the listeners, as he urged "Protestantism in action; we have the truth; but to win men and women to our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, we must follow His example, 'Who went about doing good,' putting practical service in our daily living as the ideal to be followed."

The concluding speaker was Bro. H. W. Smith of Lindsay, Grand Master for Ontario East of the Royal Black Preceptory, who also stressed unity throughout Canada, and a definite campaign to obtain more members for the Order; urging that the older men return in active service to the ranks, filling the places of the younger ones enlisted, and at war work in the factories

The National Anthem, followed by an impromptu sports program, with the picnic supper, and a lavish patronage for the two booths, one on the grounds, and the other at the town hall square, completed a successful day's list of proceedings.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Thursday, July 16

A moderately active and successfuly day is forecast from the prevailing planetary interventions. While there may be advancement, preferment and favors from superiors, employers and those in authority, yet there may be a slight hurt or opposition from an elder. Public, community or freternal support may be confidently sought, and the social angle is well stimulated for pleasant contacts. This may be particularly effective in domestic, artistic and sentimental relations and functions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an active, prosperous and happy year in all their relations and contacts. Superiors and those in power should be gracious and ready to confer benefits or promotion. Public, group and community affiliations are particularly responsive and encouraged, with writings gaining favorable acknowledgement. However the accent is on the social, domestic or romantic associations of life, with probably much merrymaking, parties and celebrations of engagements or marriages. All literary and artistic pursuits should flourish and give gratification.

A child born on this day should have strong social and domestic inclinations, being friendly, sympathetic and hospitable. It may have excellent artistic and intellectual abilities, assuring it a happy and successful career.

County-Wide United Effort Is Being Planned In War Finance

That every person in the county of Peterborough shall have a full realization of their financial duty to the war needs of our Government and shall be included in a county-wide united effort faithfully to carry out this duty, is the immediate task of the National War Finance Committee for the county.

"How can our committee state the problem so that you and every other citizen will understand and appreciate its grave importance?" is a question asked, and the answer is: "By press and radio you are being asked to buy more War Savings Stamps or to invest in more Victory Bonds." Perhaps you think you and the county and the country have been doing a pretty fair job. The plain truth of the matter is that the citizens of this country are now subscribing only half enough to meet the increasing burden of this war. Here are the facts as given by the Peterborough County chairman, V. M. Eastwood, of War Finance Committee:

The income of the wage-earning population has expanded over one and a half billion dollars, due directly or indirectly to war activities. Some 75 per cent. of the national income reaches those earning less than $2,500.00 a year. Wage-earners comprises a group of two million four hundred thousand, whose aggregate income exceeds three billion dollars, or about $250,000,000 a month. From this source we are now getting approximately $13,000,000 per month, through the sale of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, or only 5.2 per cent. of the payroll. The needs of the Government can only be met if a substantially higher percentage, probably 10 per cent., can be achieved.

This objective of 10 per cent. of the payroll may be low, it is certainly the minimum even in the light of the new budget. This new budget emphasizes the need for less spending on goods and for more saving. I quote from a letter signed by Mr. Ilsley, Minister of Finance: "Let me emphasize that the new compulsory savings provision of the budget does not in any way take the place of voluntary savings. Indeed, if the Government is to find the money required, the level of voluntary savings must not only be maintained but must be increased." The exemptions in regard to compulsory saving for insurance and mortgage payments are a relief to those having these responsibilities and may greatly reduce the amount the Government may expect to retain and by so doing transfer purchasing power from now until after the war.

I urge that you consider the budget as an indication of the seriousness of this war and not only continue to the full the purchase of stamps and certificates, but to increase these purchases substantially at the cost of real and denying sacrifice.

This committee must also plan to reach all other sources of income in as systematic a plan of saving as in the case of the wage-earner. Business and professional men and women, salaried officials, those in receipt of investment income and all others, must be thoroughly canvased if we are to obtain maximum results.

It is impressed upon our committee that the work of the National War Finance Committee has an essential importance of an economic character in addition to the money raised in dollars and cents. We must now emphasize the need for the reduction of civilian consumption of every article that is not an essential and this means that our work is complimentary too, and of equal importance with that of the Wartime Prices and Control Board.

The three important tools for mobilizing the war effort on the economic home front are taxation, controls and savings. Taxation can only partially accomplish our task. Controls in the form of rationing and other restrictions are now being employed in emergencies and the gap between national income and national expenditure, or to express it differently, the gap between the increased income in the form of wages and salaries and the decreased amount of goods available must be closed by the increased savings of the people. It is a plain fact that this increased purchasing power is so much larger than the goods and services available that unless every citizen in a conscientious and faithful manner reduces his or her purchases to the absolute minimum requirements, the financial policy of the Government in regard to price control cannot possibly be successful.

The War Finance Committee of the county of Peterborough will place before the people of this county carefully worked out plans in regard to increasing, week by week, the amount of money to be made available on this, the home front, to our Government for its war purposes.

The full co-operation is asked of every citizen in regard to the plans that have been worked out as they apply in his or her case. Will you give the utmost support to the members and representatives of the committee?

Only One Remembered

WINNIPEG, July 15.—(CP)—A survey here showed that apparently only one person at the Legislative buildings remembered July 15 as Manitoba's 72nd birthday. That was Ben Lyndon, First Great War veteran, who began work as a legislative building guard on July 15, 1920—50th anniversary of Manitoba's entry to Confederation—when the buildings were opened.

Dog Continues Hunt

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 15.—(CP)—Skippy, a mongrel dog, is still searching for his young master, two-year-old Victor Smillie, who was drowned in Lily Lake a week ago. The disconsolate dog trots out to the lake at various times and plunges into the water in continued search for the child.

LADIES GROUP CONSERVE TEA AND COFFEE

Try Different Drink at Meeting

Neither coffee nor tea were served, as is the usual custom, at the quarterly meeting of the local Ladies Aid, but an excellent beverage was used, and the guests commented upon its delicious flavor. The president explained that the ban on tea and coffee was in deference to the request of the Government. Expressing satisfaction at the success of the experiment, the chairman said Postum,—the beverage used,—had taken less sugar than would have been used for tea and coffee. It had cost less than either tea or coffee and so was a saving to the treasury, as well as a saving on tea, coffee, sugar.

Whether it's a meeting of a society or a meal in your own home, Postum provides the easy way to conserve tea and coffee. Grand, heartening flavor—economical—so easy to make.

You must have Sunlight's "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" for those extra-dirty parts

IT'S true of every family's wash that the garments in it are worse soiled in some parts than others. The general "all over" soiling, naturally, is easy to remove—any good soap will do it. But for those extra dirty parts where the dirt is rubbed right into the fabric you need Sunlight's "extra-soapiness".

Because of Sunlight's wonderful "extra-soapiness" you can get right at the dirt. No hard rubbing—just a touch leaves a thin film of Sunlight in contact with the dirt—and this thin film is sufficient to loosen every speck of grime and leave the garment spotlessly fresh and clean.

Once you've tried the Sunlight method you'll want to use it always—for laundry and household cleaning. Sunlight is all-pure soap—safe for everything you wash, mild and gentle to your hands, too.

You can't do without SUNLIGHT SOAP. A LEVER PRODUCT

Mother wouldn't admit that little Johnny had bowlegs, or that the reason Mary couldn't walk was because there was something the matter with her spine, or that there was some reason why Tommy was slow in learning to talk.

And many a man has ended his days in the electric chair because his mother lied to others about his outgrowing the brutality and temper, and lack of discipline that she had cultivated in him in childhood.

Benjamin Franklin said that 'honesty is the best policy.' So is facing the truth. But of all people in the world we should never lie to, that one is ourself.

Blood Clinic Lesson To All

A lesson in team work and efficiency has been given to the civilian war service workers by the members of the local Red Cross branches, and non-members who put over the new blood donors' Clinic at the corner of Water and Brock Streets in record time. An amazing change has been brought about by the workmen and the Clinic is just about ready to start operating. One of the main sparkplugs in the venture was Alderman R. M. Glover, who acted as supervisor of the renovating, and served as middle man between the contractors and the Red Cross officials, thus bringing about a smooth working arrangement that aided materially in getting the work done in record time.

The layout of the several departments of the Blood Donor Clinic was the work of Mrs. Charles J. Ray secretary. She had made herself conversant with the requirements of such a Clinic from the standpoint of comfort and convenience for the blood donors and facilities for epexditiously and satisactorily carrying out the work by the staff.

John T. Hornsby, architect, made the blueprints and was especially helpful in supervising the work.

The general contractor for the remodelling was the J. K. Sheehy Construction Company. Heating and plumbing, Regan & Shaughnessey; electric wiring and fixtures, Miller Powell Company; tinsmithing, Harry Hutchinson; brick work, Fred Tuggey; painting inside of the Clinic, Smith Brothers; painting, equipment, Harold Coleman; painting outside building, Coleman Brothers. The electrical equipment for the kitchen is the gift of the Canadian General Electric Company. The office equipment, including a typewriter for the secretary's office and for the doctor's examination room is the gift of the War Salvage Committee. All the other furnishings for rest rooms, waiting room, kitchen, etc., were purchased in the city.

As a blood donor Clinic is something very new in this part of the province, all who visit the Clinic will see all the appointments necessary to carry out this very special and necessary part of the war program.

Fortune-Telling Exciting and Easy

"Crystal" Gazing Charms Beau

Aha! Prediction follows fascinating prediction as you read your beau's fortune in the magic "crystal"!

True, the crystal's REALLY an inverted fishbowl and you don't actually see things in the bowl. You just have learned the meaning of a few real crystal-gazing symbols. But, knowing them, what an exciting fortune you spin!

"I see flowers," you begin mysteriously. Flowers mean a wedding bouquet (are you the girl in the case?) and the star is the rising star of his ambition.

A telephone's a sign of good news—and splendid, significant that the telephone and star appear together.

Easy to keep up the patter, entertain on date or party! And easy, too, to read cards or tea leaves like a real Romany gipsy. Will your wish come true? Yes, says the Nine of Hearts; yes, says three tea leaves in a row!

Our 32-page booklet describes gipsy fortune-telling methods, lists meaning of every card in the deck and 85 tea-leaf symbols. Also tells how to read the "crystal," tell fortunes with dominoes, dice. Has horoscope for each month.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Fun With Fortune-Telling." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

HANDS NOT MACHINES

BRIDGE HANDS do not play themselves. A declarer who looks over his own and the dummy, and then thinks he can tell you exactly the number of tricks he will take, may be right part of the time. But unless he takes into account the way he is going to play the cards and the way the defenders are going to play theirs, his calculations may be upset out of all proportion to what he considers the maximum or minimum possibilities.

South reckoned that his hand would take six tricks in spades, losing to the A and K, and consequently that his pre-emptive bid would be down four tricks if he found nothing in his partner's hand. If, however, he took one trick there, he would be down only three, a good sacrifice against the probable vulnerable game of the opponents. If his partner could not take any tricks, he reckoned, then the opponents could make a slam, and he would be willing to be set four tricks to prevent it.

After West led the heart 3, and he saw the A in dummy, he figured that this would cut his loss to only down three tricks. He went farther and decided that, if West had led from the K, he could cut the loss to down only two by trying the finesse. So he made the effort. After the K won that, East peeled off three clubs and led a fourth. South ruffed, West overruffed, and the defenders also got two high spades plus the diamond A, for a total of eight tricks, setting the contract five tricks, a total of 900 points.

Nosing out in frant of a merchant convoy to Britain, consisting of 30 or 40 vessels, this destroyer is the senior ship of an all-Canadian escort. "In the eyes of the Ship," as the forward lookout post is known in naval parlance, the lookout watches the dull grey ocean. Conscription To See Most Men Liable Already In The Canadian Army

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Pres Staff Writer

OTTAWA, uly 15—(CP).—Possibility was seen in informed quarters today that if and when the government move to impose conscription for service overseas, most Canadians liable to be conscripted already will be in the army. Exceptions to this are those men who are not yet old enough for army service but who will probably reach service age before the end of the war.

An amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act, now before parliament, will empower the government to impose conscription for service overseas at any time by proclamation. Prime Minister MacKenzie King told the House of Commons a week ago that if it was decided to take this step, he would seek a vote of confidence by the House in the administration.

The action of the government last week in making single men up to 40 years of age liable to compulsory service is construed by authorities as an indication the Compulsory Service Law is scraping the bottom of the heap of eligible men for the army.

The latest proclamation also makes men aged 20 liable for service where formerly the minimum age for compulsory call was 21. The national registration of 1940 showed about 116,000 single men who now would be in the 36 to 40 age group and 101,000 who now would be 20.

60 P.C. Medically Unfit.

Just how many of these men are still available for service can not be estimated. Some have enlisted voluntarily, some have died. On the basis of experience probably 60 per cent of the 35-40 men will be found medically unfit and perhaps 40 per cent of the 20-year-olds.

That leaves about 100,000 men physically fit in the two groups. Of these a considerable number will be farmers, automatically entitled to postponement of call, key workers in industry entitled to postponement on application and sole supports of families or otherwise entitled to posponement on compassionate grounds.

The August requisition of men for the Army by the compulsory call route is for 25,000 men. Thus the new age classes now liable cannot be expected to provide more than enough for four monthly calls at that rate.

If more men are to be called it is believed the authorities will have to consider one or all of the following courses: Rescinding the order which freezes farmers on the land, making married men liable to service, reviewing and cancelling postponements granted to men in the age classes already called, calling men in medical categories lower than "A," calling men aged more than 40.

Acording to information now available none of these courses offer any prospect of a large number of men.

After that, presumably the forces would have to look to an annual crop of about 100,000 youths who turn 20 each year for reinforcements.

The men now being called into service are not liable to serve outside of Canada. But should compulsory service for overseas be placed in effect it is probable it would apply to a larger number of men in the forces now that men outside and likely to be called in.

Outside Builder Gets New Pants On F.D.R. Order

WASHINGTON, July 15. — M. R. Wolfkeil of San Pedro, Cal., flashed a distress signal direct to President Roosevelt for a pair of pants.

Wolfkeil who displaces slightly less tonnage than some of the battleships he has helped to build, is hard to suit and cloak. The shipyard worker's problem was manifold. His old overalls had reached the stage where another tear would make him look like what he termed a "California Mahatma Ghandi." But there are clothing priorities these days, and Wolfkeil is a shade overweight—386 pounds.

When things got pretty desperate he despatched this appeal to Mr. Roosevelt:

"Voted for you three times. Asked no favors. Need favor now. Need overalls badly. I am slightly oversize—386 pounds. Very busy building ships California shipyard. Do not wish to become California Mahatma Ghandi. Please instruct Leon Henderson to send me priority for cloth and set price ceiling for pants. Rush. Need for pants is urgent."

The President turned the telegram over to the War Production Board, which requested measurements and got them as follows: ".. Fifty-nine inches around superstructure (chest); 57 inches around midship (waist); 32 inches from centre of gravity to keel (inseam length of pants)."

Wolfkeil added: "You ask if I need work clothes; brother, I sure do. I am pretty well air-conditioned at the present time, and what I need is a new work outfit. I don't care if the pants have cuffs. All I care is that my pants have a front and a back in them, and no holes in the stern sheets."

Wolfkeil is not only going to get a pair of pants, but an army twill short to match plus a pair of dungaree overalls.

Total yardage—twelve.

Rubber Holdup Irking Senator

WASHINGTON, July 15—(AP).—An oil company official's testimony that he was unable to gain Government approval of a fast way to produce synthetic rubber drew a quick statement yesterday from Senator Guy Gillette (Dem., Ia.), that "either inexcusable carelessness and lack of action or a very reprehensible purpose "had blocked development of certain processes.

"In view of the situation in the country today," Gillette said at a Senate Agricultural subcommittee hearing, "I think it is little short of criminal, the futility, if not the purposeful hampering, that is existing in some of our Government agencies.

"We're rapidly reaching the point where forebearance ceases to be a virtue."

Arthur E. Pew, vice-president of the Sun Oil Company, testified that the Rubber Seserve Company had rejected the Houdry process to make a synthetic rubber from butne a natural gas or a by-product of aviation gasoline — on the ground it wis insufficiently developed.

He said the process had been worked out jointly by the Sun Oil and the Houdry Process Corporation of Wilmington, Del., of which he is vice-president.

Earlier, Eugene E. J. Hudry, president of the Houdry Corporation, and Clarence E. Thayer, a diretcor, expressed the opinin that alcohol offered greater and more positive assurance of success as a raw material than did the program currently approved by Rubber Reserve based on butylene as the charging stock.

G. K. Fraser Presses For Action On Army Medals

OTTAWA, July 15 (CP)—Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, Adjutant-General, told the special House of Commons Committee on Honors and Decorations today the Canadian Army is "in a different and unsatsifactory" position, compared with the other armies of the British Commonwealth, in regard to decorations.

One disadvantage was that there were no decorations available for senior officers who performed outstanding service. This put these officers at a disadvantage compared with officers of the other dominions.

It was also unsatisfactory that the army had no decoration for junior ranks in the army corresponding to the Air Force Cross and the Air Force Medal.

Gordon K. Fraser (Con., Peterborough West), said soldiers were like players on a football team. Their aim was to win the game, but if there were honors or colors going when the game ended they were glad to get them.

"Do you think it would help the morale of the army if they had decorations?" ask Mr. Fraser.

"Definitely," said Gen. Letson.

"Then it is up to this committee to do something about it," said Mr. Fraser.

P. E. Wright (C.C.F., Melfort) said all honors and all decorations in the army should be available to all ranks.

Gen. Letson said the important decorations—those for valor, such as the Victoria Cross—are open to all ranks, but he did not think it workable to make all decorations open to all ranks.

Shipment Is Made By Red Cross To Prisoners

HAVELOCK, July 15—(ENS). — In the latest Red Cross news bulletin to hand, it is noted that the S.S. Gripsholme, which sailed from New York on June 18, had 23,000 cubic feet of space available for food, drugs, etc., for prisoners and internees in Japan, and of this space, 12,000 cubic feet was allocated to the Canadian Red Cross Society, and the value of goods shipped amounted to $61,173. The shipment comprised 105 cases drugs, 9 cases dehydrated vegetables, 2 cases hot choloclate powder, 4 cases powdered milk, 4 cases arrowroot biscuits, 4 cases concentrated orange juice, 3 cases beef extract, 1 case spies, 6 cases (sweaters, night dresses, boots, pyjamas, lothing), a total of 2,743 pieces, 21 cases cigarettes, 9 cases tobacco, and included was 23,824 risoner-of-war parcels. The sum of $1,000 has been set aside for the purchase of insuline for special cases in Europe, will be sent to the International Red Cross at Geneva.

The Women's Institutes across Canada have undertaken to make 150 tons of jam, and the Government gives special permits for the purchase of extra sugar.

An urgent appeal has been made for any good eyeglass frames, these are to be sent to the Ontario Division headquarters, as they are badly needed in Britain.

There was the usual attendance at the Red Cross meeting on Monday afternoon, when the president, Mrs. H. Roche presided. One quilt was completed and three quilts were bound. A large amount of wool was given out for the knitting quota. The treasurer reported that the boxes around two for the British Bomb Victims' Fund had been collected, and a cheque would be issued for the full amount. A circular is to be received shortly.

Desert Battle See Saws At Tel El Eisa

Hun Gain Few Yards Take Station Big Guns In Duel

By HARRY CROCKETT,
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY AT EL ALAMEIN, July 15—(Delayed)—(AP).—Paced by the usual wave of dive bombers, Field Marshal Edwin Rommel's tanks, which led a force of at least 500 infantrymen, smashed against Australian defenders of the Tel El Eisa railroad station Tuesday night and succeeded in occupying it.

Wednesday the battle still was going on after a night of the most spectacular artillery fire yet seen in the current phase of the desert war.

All Tuesday afternoon the exchange of shell-fire was continuous as German forces gradually disengaged from the South Africans to the south and moved north against the Australians holding the railroad and the Tel El Eiso ridge.

As the evening wore on, with the setting sun shining in their eyes, the Australians stopped push after push, smashing at the Nazi infantry with rifles and bayonets, and taking a heavy toll of the armored forces. Artillery from the South African positions to the south also exacted a toll.

The German tanks finally reached the station, which is of itself an unimportant spot, but were unable to push any farther.

By 9 p.m. the Australian, South African and British artillery and

Hun Raiders Gun Midlands Town

LONDON, July 16.—(CP).—German raiders attacking in the East Midlands this morning machine-gunned men and women going to work and bombed one town, causing fires and some property damage.

Informed British said bad flying weather over the continent kept the R.A.F. from raiding Germany last night for the second night in succession.

Two hundred fighters yesterday and early last night, however, made ground-hugging attacks along 200 miles of the French coast, blazing with machine guns and cannon at troops, freight cars, a gas works, wireless stations and anti-aircraft batteries.

In another sweep, British fighters sank a small enemy coaster off the Netherlands coast last night.

Four British planes are missing, the Air Ministry said, while three German fighters were destroyed.

Rangers March On Parade To Choir Of Over Twenty Voices

Peterborough's own Prince of Wales Rangers have something unique in Canadian army life. ABOVE is seen their 30-voice choir which provides music for regimental marching instead of the traditional band. Modelled on the lines of the Cossack choirs, the men take their key from a fanfare of bugles, and then sing marching songs in four-part harmony while drums pound out the beat. The choir pictured is under the direction of Paul Willison, auxiliary officer of the Salvation Army Branch of the Auxiliary Services.

Hun Drawn From Coast To Russia Not Garrison Units

LONDON, July 16. — (CP).— A British military commentator confirmed to-day Russian reports that German divisions recently withdrawn from occupied France had arrived on the eastern front, but he said there had been no reduction in the regular Nazi garrison holding western Europe against invasion.

"The Germans form and train a division in France and then send them to whatever front is required," the commentator declared, adding that the troops sent to Russia were from this category only.

He said the German garrison forces in France are 'not spearhead troops, but are good soldiers nevertheless.'

British promptness to emphasize the strength of the German garrison, plus other indications, led informed British observers to conclude that the western powers are not in a position to open up a second front on the continent this summer.

An informed British source said large-scale exercises in which the Canadian army is engaged are 'evidence that we are preparing for invasion.' bue he declared he did not believe that 'invasion was possible in time to relieve present pressure on the Russian armies.'

'It is evident,' he said,' that the Germans are throwing their entire weight into the present offensive with the intention not merely of reaching the Caucasus oil fields but of defeating Russia in the field before a British-American invasion can be launched.'

The possibility of a series of large-scale Allied raids on the continent was discounted by this source, who said that only a large-scale invasion could force Germany to shift enough troops to the west to help Russia.

Allied diplomatic quarters gave indications of being perturbed at enthusiastic stories in the Soviet press concerning an imminent invasion of the continent.

Observers believed it probable that Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador in Moscow, had been instructed to form the Soviet government that this does not represent the true position.

Nazi Europe Infant Deaths Up 40 pc

LONDON, July 16—(CP)— A 40-per-cent. rise in infant mortality over normal in Nazi-occupied Europe was reported today by the British Famine Relief Committee, a fact-finding organization of churchmen.

Here is a country-by-country resume of its reports.

Belgium:

"A special survey with respect to children attending school indicates that 63 per cent. get no or scarcely any breakfast, 33.5 per cent. get an inadequate noon meal and 56 per cent. get insufficient supper."

It put the general death rate for adults and children so far this year at 21.5 per 1,000—compared with a normal 13.

France:

The committee quoted a Quaker report describing children with "distended stomaches and thin, spindly legs" and said the mortality rate in unoccupied France has risen 45 per cent. It cited the report of a French physician that the mortality of children up to nine years old in Nazi-occupied Paris has increased by 29 per cent.

Food Cut Three-Quarters.

Poland:

Instead of a daily 2,400 calories necessary to maintain a healthy existence, food rations allowed to Poles provides them with no more than 680 calories and allowances for Jews yicided only 400. Citing bread as a typical example of food discrimination, the committee report said Germans get a weekly allowance of 4½ pounds, Poles 2¼, and Jews 1.

Mr. King Refuses To Table It As Rap At Chief Justice, Rouses Furore In House

Fraud Upon Canadians Unless Facts Bared Drew States In Reply

TORONTO, July 16 — (CP). — Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, in a statement last night commenting on Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement and explanatory statement that Col. Drew's letter criticizing the report of the Hong Kong Royal Commission would not be tabled in the House of Commons, said "it would be a fraud upon the people of Canada who have paid for this inquiry and for whose benefit it was held, if they were denied the acts on the wholly unsupported and utterly unfounded statement that disclosure of the truth would help the enemy."

Col. Drew's statement said:

This is just another meaningless pantomime. It is clear now that the Government will resort to any device to hide the truth. Last week it was a letter from Mr. McCarthy of Toronto. This week it is a letter from Mr. Campbell of Montreal. All this talk of secrecy is nothing but a holow sham. An inquiry is secret or it is not.

It would be a fantastic proposition that a commissioner acting under the Inquiries Act could create his own adjustable terms of secrecy in such a way as to make it possible for him to publish extensive passages of evidence and exhibits, as was done in this case, and then draw the veil of secrecy over the remaining evidence, denying to those who know the facts the opportunity to inform the public that the evidence as a whole does not support the findings which he has made. Of course I have a copy of my argument, and it is very fortunate, indeed, that I have.

The People Who Must Be Satisfied.

This was an inquiry conducted for th people of Canada whose sons are bearing arms for our defence, it was an inquiry into matters of the utmost public concern. It is not enough for the commissioner to say that he is satisfied. It is for the people of Canada to be satisfied that those who show'd themselves incapable of handling this small force will not still be in positions of responsibility when the time comes to move hundreds of thousands of Canadians into the field of battle.

The contents of my letter were placed in the possession of the four party leaders of the House of Commons so that the truth might be known. That was my right and that was my duty.

Ralston Gives Member Tip On Its Use, Many Copies Around

OTTAWA, July 16.—(CP). — The debate on the Hong Kong Commission report probably will come up in the House of Commons next week and one prominent opposition member said today he proposed to make the material contained in the letter of Lt.-Col. George Drew to Prime Minister Mackenzie King criticising the report the basis of his speech in that debate.

The Prime Minister last night refused to table the letter on the ground that tabling would be a violation of the order of secrecy under which the inquiry was conducted. However, Defence Minister Ralston, who joined in last night's discussion, expressed the view the information contained in the letter might be used in the debate.

"I am sure," he said, "that letter is in the hands of a great many members and I am sure they can use the arguments which are put forward to their heart's content and make them their own. But I do suggest that the Government is taking the only course it can take in not tabling the communication which in itself would be a direct breach of the conditions imposed by the British Government and a direct breach of conditions imposed by the commissioner at the time he opened the inquiry."

It was learned today that a number of copies of the letter were made in the Parliament Buildings for use of private members. Thus, many will be able to study it before the debate.

OTTAWA, July 16—(CP).— Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night withheld from disclosure in the House of Commons a 32-page letter from Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, criticising the Hong Kong Commission report.

He told the House that:

1. That it was a violation of the undertaking to keep secret certain information obtained from the British government.

2. That is contained imputations of Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff upon the integrity and judgment who sat as a Royal Commissioner conducting the Hong Kong inqufry

LONDON, July 1—(CP).—British bombers raided Germany in daylight this afternoon, it was announced authoritatively.

Shipyards Jump Warship Output Tenfold

LONDON, July 16.—(CP). — How British and Dominion shipyards have increased British destroyer production tenfold and have added to the British fleet more than 500 warships of all classes since the war began was revealed last night by H. C. Ferraby, BBC naval commentator. This means that new British warships have rolled into the water on an average of one every other day since the war started.

Ferraby said that of these ships, some 100 were ordered or under construction when war broke out. The others are new, and many have included radical changes in design and building which have resulted from lessons learned in the early stages of the war.

"In one class of warships alone: destroyers, of which we're told we can't ever have enough, British and Dominion shipyards have already delivered no less than 160 in the last 30 months. That's a tenfold increase over peacetime figures, and a fact which the men of these British and Dominion shipyards can well be proud of.

"But that is only part of the story," he continued. "On top of this tenfold increase in destroyer production, the yards have been able to turn out 190 corvettes—a type of ship on which construction was just starting in 1939. Corvettes have been delivered at a rate of nearly seven a month, a large share of the credit for this being due the Canadians.

"This a part of Britain's all-out

Reds Smash Ring At Voronezh As Don Basin Slips

By EDDIE GIMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 16.—(AP)—Two German salients were driven within 175 miles of Stalingrad on the Volga today while at Voronezzh Red Army counter attacks were said to have smashed a Nazi encirclement arm north of the city and repelled Axis advance forces from its outlying streets.

The deepest Txis penetrations into the big bend of the Don River, where it curves close to the Volga, were at German-Won Boguchar, 130 miles southeast of Voronezh, and southeast of Millerovo where the new Russian stand presumably is along the Kalitvia River, 125 miles northeast of Rostov.

The danger to Stalingrad, guardian of the lower Volga, and Rostov, rail gate to the Caucasus, grew hourly with a large part of the important Don River Basin in the hands of the invaders.

Russian dispatches said the most critical situation of the war had developed there in the vast treeless steppe—a plain barren of natural obstacles and perfect for tank operations.

There were indications the fierce upsurge of fighting was spreading over more hundreds of miles of the battlefront. Dispatches from the Bryansk area, 200 miles southwest of Moscow and 230 miles northwest of Voronezh, said a "more serious struggle" was impending.

RCAF Too Good Save Crash Boats

LONDON, July 16.—(CP Cable)—An R.C.A.F. Spitfire squadron fought a furious 25-minute action over the English Channel yesterday with superior numbers of the vaunted Focke-Wulf 190s. One of the enemy machines was destroyed and another probably destroyed.

The Canadians, commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Bob Morrow of Toronto, were off duty when air-sea rescue craft at work eight miles off the French coast near Le Touquet asked for protection. The squadron volunteered for the job.

After they located the boats and were circling about them, the Spitfires were atacked by the fast, new Nazi planes.

Fire Threatens East Truro

Wind Fans Sparks From Woodworking Factory

TRURO, N.S., July 16.—(CP)—Fire today broke out in a large warehouse at the rear of Spencer Brothers, woodworking plant and every piece of firefighting equipment in the town was called out to fight the blaze.

A brisk breeze was fanning the flames which were blazing high above the building almost an hour after the fire was first reported. Dense smoke rose with the flames.

Telegraph lines running parallel with the tracks were burnt out by the fire and communication with New Brunswick and the west was disrupted.

The flames spread from the warehouse to an adjoining shaving mill owned by Spencer Bros. The fire was the biggest Truro has suffered in years.

Roof watchers were stationed on nearby stores to prevent sparks from setting fire to those buildings and military police were called on to assist town police in directing traffic away from the blaze.

At 2 p.m. A.D.T., the fire appeared to be threatening the east section of the town and residents of one street near the plant had already moved furniture out on their lawns. The plant had already move furniture out on their lawns. Residents on another street, running parallel to the railway tracks on the other side of the plant also were taking property out of their homes.

Timoshenko Saving Reserves for a Coup

Nazis Now Far Ahead Of Supply Lines May Find Disaster Facing Them

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Bad as the Russian military position is—and the danger of a Nazi breakthrough on the southern front is grave—we have here a paradoxical case in which the great gains Hitler is making, coupled with their cost in blood and material, are likely to contribute heavily to his undoing, provided the Allies can create a diversion by establishing that second front.

The Nazi leader's success depends upon blitzkrieg, that is, upon his ability to smash the Red army in the crucial approaches to the Caucasus in a short time. This is so for two reasons:

First, the Nazi lines of communication already are badly extended, and the further the invaders drive the more confused will become their already seriously complicated transport problem.

Second, the supreme effort Hitler is making for a quick killing is costing so many of his best troops, and wrecking so much equipment, that he cannot indefinitely stand the strain. He will have to slow down and in the not distant future he will be fit game for a smashing Russian counter-offensive.

The Nazi chief now is far in advance of the supply lines which he established during the winter, and he is up among the Russian wide-gauge railways over which the narrower gauge German trains couldn't run, even if the roads still were serviceable, but the Fuehrer's troubles go back further than that.

Louis Lochner, Associated Press Chief of Bureau in Berlin, who now is home after five months internment in Germany, has disclosed that Hitler allowed the railway transportation of the country to go to pot because he was banking on the great military highways he was building. Well, the highways would have been grand if the Fuehrer had won the war over-night as he expected, but he didn't.

Now Hitler's home transport is in a bad way and is rapidly growing worse. Thus he hasn't even proper facilities to start his supplies out of Germany for the front, to say nothing of handling them in Russia.

We are told that Marshal Timoshenko hasn't yet been forced to call on great reserves which are being held for a counter-blow. If the Russians are able to throw a weight of fresh troops against Hitler when he is deep in Soviet territory, tired and hampered by disrupted communications, they may be able to inflict a disaster on him. It is reported that this is the strategic line the Muscovites have been pursuing.

"They Killed Our Ortiz"

Pro-Allied Throng Fights Police At Funeral

BUENOS AIRES, July 16.—(AP).—Strong police guards fought and repulsed citizens who sought to join the funeral cortege of former president Roberto Ortiz in front of Buenos Aires cathedral to-day, but the crowd braved a rainstorm to turn the occasion into a fevent pro-Democratic demonstration.

As the procession formed and the coffin was placed on a gun carriage, about 500 persons surged forward with the evident intention of joining the procession for the man whose death removed one of the hopes of democratic forces in this country.

Police repelled them in a series of fist fights, and the procession got under ay while the crowd followed, shouting, 'Ortiz,' and 'Viva La Democracia.'

Ortiz died yesterday, three weeks after he had resigned the presidency because of ill health, leaving office without having realized his ambition of assuring Argentina's allegiance to democratic ideals.

The crowd to-day, growing steadily as the funeral cortege moved along the streets, cheered for democracy and shouted, 'we loved him,' and 'they killed him.'

Reds Vacate Boguchar In Big Bend

Nazis Gain In South But Make Little Headway In Centre

By EDDY GILMORE.

Moscow, July 16.—(AP). — Two significant German gains within the big bend of the Don emphasized the offensive threat against Stalingrad, Rostov and the Caucasus to-day and the see-saw battle of Voronezh was reported 'developing with increased ferocity.'

Hungarian troops, heavily supported by tanks, struck at the junction of the Don and Vorones rivers southwest of Voronezh, but the Russians were reported still holding the city.

A German vanguard entered one street but was driven out by Red army men who captured 160 prisoners and destroyed the staff headquarters of a Nazi division, said a dispatch to Pravda, communist party newspaper.

Boguchar and Millerovo have fallen, finally abandoned by outnumbered Red army troops after bitter combat, the Soviet information bureau announced.

Soviet forces engaged the invaders overnight in the area of Voronezh and to the southeast of Millerovo, it said, and in another sector 'pressed back the enemy to some extent, killing about 350 Germans and destroying five tanks.'

'Staff documents, two tanks and a number of prisoners' were reported taken in this engagement, developed by one of a series of Red army counter attacks.

Soviet soldiers struck also on the central front after repulsing three enemy attacks and captured a Nazi fortified position, wiping out about 1,000 Germans, the information bureau said.

Kalinin front defenders were reported to have held firmly against a number of German thrusts.

Russian reports from the Millerovo area indicated a Red army withdrawal of 15 miles or more to the Kalitvia river, a minor tributary of the Donets river, which in turn flows into the Don.

Another 25,000 Miles.

Multiple thrusts since June 28 appeared to have given Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's southern command essential control over most of an additional 25,000 square miles of Russian soil, a block extending 130 miles or so eastward from the Kursk-Kharkov zone.

(The Berlin radio claimed German forces had captured 118,6689 Russians in the Kursk-Voronezh fighting of the last two weeks and Nazi

House Debates Shipping Losses

LONDON, July 16.—(CP).— The Houte of Commons went into secret session to-day to discuss war shipping losses after the government declined to reconsider its refusal to authorize a public debate.

A suggestion of Leslie Hore-Belisha, National Liberal member and former war secretary, that the government hold an open session was paried by Sir Staffod Cripps, Lord Privy Seal.

"The government are anxious to avail themselves of this opportunity of having a discussion with the members of parliament which could not arise if the session were held in public,' Sir Stafford said.

Sir Stafford announced that no summary of the debate would be published, but that members might communicate to their constituents the general impression created on their minds.'

Midnight Patrol Spots Saboteur Trio On Beach

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP) — A quick-witted Coast Guardsman, stumbling through the fog, discovered the nocturnal landing of Nazi saboteurs from a submarine on the beach at Amagansett, Long Island, it was disclosed officially yesterday, and started them down the path to their life-or-death trial now under way.

Vice-Admiral R. R. Waesche, Coast Guard commandant, promoted the Guardsman John C. Cullen, 21, to coxswain last night, and commended him for his alertness in spotting the Nazi saboteurs.

As this story was unfolded, the Military Commission trying the eight Nazis announced that it had devoted the afternoon to hearing "a very long statement which had been made by one of the accused to the F.B.I." The prisoner who made the statement was not identified, but there has been speculation that George John Dasch, one of the defendants, helped the government prepare its case.

The Office of War Information made public the Coast Guard's part in the case, explaining that the details come from the official files of the Coast Guard, that the information was assembled before the start of the trial, and that its disclosure "does not violate the rules of secrecy" imposed by the Military Commission.

Cullen had left his station for a midnight patrol six miles east along the lonely beach in the foggy night and had covered but 300 yards when he saw three men—one in civilian clothes on the shore and two in bathing suits, knee deep in the water.

"What's the trouble?" Cullen called.

No answer.

"Who are you?" Cullen called again.

Still no answer.

Couple of Fishermen

Cullen reached for a flashlight. The man on shore apparently thought Cullen reached for a gun, for he spoke:

"Wait a minute, are you Coast Guard?"

"Yes," said Cullen, "Who are you?"

"A couple of fishermen from Southampton who have run aground," was the reply.

"Come up to the station and wait for daybreak," said Cullen, as the weather worsened and the fog thickened.

"Wait a minute," said the man, "you don't know what's going on. How old are you? Have you a father and a mother? I wouldn't want to have to kill you."

Cullen, apparently realizing the hopelessness of tackling three men at once, played for time.

"What's in the bag, clams?" he asked, as one of the Germans in the water came up through the fog dragging a bag. Cullen knew there were no clams for miles around.

"Yes, that's right," said the first man. Then, sensing guillibility, he offered Cullen $100 to "forget the whole thing."

"I don't want it," said Cullen.

"Then take $300," said the man.

"OK," replied Cullen, thinking fast.

"Now look me in the eyes,' the man ordered.

Cullen later reported a fear that he was going to be hypnotized, but the man merely asked whether Cullen would recognize him if he saw him again.

"No," said Cullen.

Short-Changed $40.

Cullen moved away in the fog, then raced to the Coast Guard station and reported to his superior, and the search was on, not to be ended until the Federal Bureau of Investigation had rounded up the four who landed near Amagansett and four others who landed from a U-boat on the Florida coast. Soldiers and sailors joined in the hunt that night.

One of the guardsmen reported that through a rift in the fog he saw a long, thin object ,about seventy feet long, about 150 feet off shore—probably the submarine. Cullen also heard the sound of powerful Diesel engines.

When Cullen turned in the bribe money, he found that the saboteur had short-changed him $40 on the promised $300.

Few Weeks On Syntona Made Big Difference To This Lady

Stomach Felt Better After First Few Doses. Continued Treatment Brought Relief From Dizzy Spells and Muscular Paint. Nerves Are Calmed; Sleeps Better and Whole System Feels Improved.

"Because of the grand results I got by taking a short treatment of Syntona, I will be only too glad to recommend this fine medicine," said Mrs. Josephine Peterson, 38 Stinson Street, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"In the last two years I suffered terribly with my stomach. Although my appetite was poor, at times I would get a craving for something to eat, particularly at night. Then, if I ate anything, my stomach became so upset that I couldn't keep the food down. There would be a sour, burning feeling in my stomach and I would get so bloated with gas that I would feel short of breath. I often felt dizzy and nauseated. More recently, pains developed in my arms and limbs and I felt constantly tired out and nervous.

"Right from the first few doses of Syntona my stomach felt better, and as I continued with it I soon got so I could eat regular meals without all that stomach distress. Then the pains left my arms and limbs and my nerves became relaxed so I could sleep better.

MRS. JOSEPHINE PETERSON

I am subject to attacks of bronchial asthma, so I suffer greatly when my system becomes run down. But I have found Syntona a great tonic and I intend to keep it constantly on hand."

Sytona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from pure herbal extracts that aid in the proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and in ridding the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter.

Go to Elliotts Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out hoy Syntona can help you, too. (Advt.)

British Shove Rommel Centre Back

Axis Regain Ground Along Coast In 2-Day Assault

CAIRO, July 16 — (AP).— Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis forces are giving ground on the central front west of El Alamein today, but British Headquarters said the Germans achieved some gains in the coastal zone and have "partially succeeded" in re-establishing themselves at Tel El Eisa.

As the result of an attack launched before dawn yesterday, British troops pushed forward in the central sector to secure objectives at the western end of a ridge south of El Alamein, a communiqe said.

"Prisoners were taken, but their numbers are not known," the bulletin added.

The assault apparently was launched to relieve the pressure on Australian forces holding recently-won positions at Tel El Eisa—the "Hill of Jesus"—and evidently was at least partly successful, for the communique announced that troops continued to hold high ground in that area.

Enemy forces which succeeded in occupying positions at Tel El Eisa on Tuesday night were heavily bombarded all day yesterday by the British artillery and planes and a number of Axis tanks were knocked out of action the bulletin reported.

British air squadrons attacked the enemy "in force" and scored hits on aircraft on the ground, gun positions, motor trucks and a headquarters in the battle area.

Bengazi, Tobruk Get It.

Wide-ranging R.A.F. bombers also struck heavily last night at the important Axis supply bases at Bengasi and Tobruk, far west of the fighting zone, headquarters declared.

"Enemy bombing increased a little but out intercepting fighters shot down seven enemy aircraft and damaged others," the communique said.

The Australians who are holding the northern end of the line occupied Tel El Eisa last Saturday after a two-day 10-mile advance from El Alamein.

Rommels forces have been attacking steadily in the coastal zone since dusk on Tuesday.

The Australians previously had repulsed daylight assaults Sunday and Monday.

Minor engagements involving roving patrols were reported on other sectors of the 35-mile front.

Front-line dispatches made it evident that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British Commander in Chief,

Some Heated Action

"It was probably the longest continued action Spitfires have fought with Focke-Wulf 190s," he said. "There was no let-up for one moment. When we came out all the boys were wringing wet with perspiration but were tickled pink. They certainly did a job."

Flt.-Lt. D. G. Malloy of Toronto, former instructor at Uplands, Ottawa, said the Canadians were practically on deck when the FW's suddenly broke the cloud above."

"They kept diving at us in twos and fours without pause," he added. "There were at least 16 and possibly more but we got plenty of good squirts at them. I saw one crash into the sea and am inclined to think we got another."

He recalled seeing a Nazi aircraft skiming through the water like a motorboat when he was able for one moment to cast a quick glance at the water. A few moments later, when he looked again, only foamy wake was visible.

The Commander and other fliers slapped the back of Flt. Sgt. J. Hughes of Dauphin, Man., for his brilliant flying performance when his fighter caught fire barely 100 feet from the water.

Hughes pulled up the Spitfire's nose quickly undid his safety belt and squirmed from the cockpit. His parachute immediately billowed out and he floated to the water, where he was promptly picked up by the rescue vessels.

Flt. Lt. Brownie Trask of Yarmouth, N.S. also counted 16 Nazis at one stage as they attempted to break the Spitfires' defensive circle around the boats, which were escorted the 35 miles to England.

So many of the dozen Canadians got their cannon on the Nazis during the engagement that all of them will share in the destruction of the one enemy destroyed and the one probable unless cameras prove an individual credit.

Flt. Sgt. N. A. Keene of White Rock, B.C., drew smoke from a third enemy. Sgt. G. C. McGraw of Kirkland Lake, Ont. brought back souvenirs of the flight—bullet holes in the wing of his plane.

"I used to think I had a good squadron, now I know," Morrow said. "As the fight wore on, the Germans lost their initial enthusiasm. They never succeeded in breaking our circle and finally buzzed off."

One Launch Lost

LONDON, July 16 — (CP) — A launch used to rescue airmen from the English Channel was sunk yesterday by German fighter planes which attacked a flotilla of the small boats off the coast of France, the Admiralty and Air Ministry announced tonight.

Other boats were damaged, two men were killed and several were wounded, but the boats succeeded in rescuing two R.A.F. men from the sea.

One German plane was shot down and another was damaged by gunfire from the boats, a communique added while two more were shot down and others damaged by fighters. Two planes were lost.

Wants 2nd Spitfire

Police Inspector James F. Reid of the Peterborough Police Force, treasurer of the Canadian Police Spitfire Fund, stated that only $3,000 more is needed to buy another aeroplane to replace the Police Spitfire plane, "The Flying Policeman" shot down over France this week. There has been $19,134.03 contributed to date, and the plane will cost $22,350

Brown Trout Betters 8 Pounds

Adam Sands, the Izaak Walton of the City Council, has regained his laurels in the realm of Brown Trout fishing, beating the new record set up about a month ago by Aircraftsman Armstrong when he caught a 7½ pound trout in the Millbrook stream.

The latest catch reported by Alderman Sands, and viewed by an Examiner reporter is a beautiful brown trout weighing 8 pounds 9 ounces, and it was caught in Shanty Lake up near Bancroft on live minnows. This catch also smashed an unofficial record for brown trout said to have been held by an American who caught a brown one weighing 8 pounds in Eagle Lake, near Catchacoma three years ago.

This catch is further proof that the trout in Peterborough district lakes are fast approaching Canadian record proportions, and if they continue to grow at the same rate as in recent years local fishermen should be able to snare the Canadian title. At the present time the record is held by W. H. Burnett, who caught a brown trout weighing 12 pounds 5 ounces on July 17, 1938, in Lake Edith, Alberta. This fish was caught on light tackle but as brown trout have been living in Western Canada waters for many years, it is not unusual that the Prairie Province waters should hold the title at the present time.

Last year Alderman Sands won the Peterborough Examiner Lucky Strike fishing contest prize in the Brown Trout Division with a trout weighing 6¼ pounds. The year before that he also took top laurels with a 5½ pound fish, but this year while he has set himself a comfortable lead, the season is a long way from being over, and his record may be toppled.

The fishing party included Alderman and Mrs. Sands and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Selkirk. They just caught four brown trout, but the big one made up for the small number and the party enjoyed a first-class outing.

and the new Axis bulge to the southeast were given. It was the first word from the Bryansk sector in 10 days.

At Voronezh, key to the German twin threat to the road to the Volga and the way south into the Caucasus, German troops were hurling tank reinforcements across the Don into the battle area and rushing up anti-tank batteries to meet the Red Army's armored counter assaults.

Dispatches from the battlefront northwest of Moscow for the first time mentioned fighting east of Rzhe, which is 130 miles from the Soviet capital. Operations in that area earlier had been described as southwest of the city.

Forces of German automatic riflemen were said to have wedged into Russian positions, but were reported repulsed after a two-hour battle.

The dispatches said German pressure continued, but was not on the scale of an offensive.

Police Spitfire Fighter Lost In Battle

Gloom settled down on police stations all across Canada this week, from the modern metropolitan stations of the big cities to the remote R.C.M.P. detachments in the west and Yukon, when it was announced that the police Spitfire fighter plane, had been shot down in combat over Occupied France and the pilot killed in action.

This gleaming, speedy fighter plane was purchased through the efforts of the policemen all over Canada who working under the direction of the Dominion Police Chief's Association gathered $22,350 and purchased the plane from the British government. In tribute to the fine spirit of cooperation shown by policemen all across Canada, a former member of the R.C.M.P., Pilot-Officer F. J. Hoben of Ottawa and Windsor, now serving with the R.C.A.F. in Britain was selected to fly the plane.

Money Sent to Britain

The money was forwarded to Sir Philip Game, Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police in London, England, who had instructions not to hand over the money until a fighter plane, brand new, and loaded with ammunition was run out on the tarmac for his inspection. The Government Department in charge of airplane production went a step further for they named the plane "The Canadian Policeman" and chose the Canadian officer to fly it. Hoben at that time was in the Bomber Command and he had to take a special course to qualify as a Spitfire pilot.

The airplane has proved worthy in that it took part in numerous raids across the Channel, battling the Nazi war birds wherever they could be found, and doing its part in providing protection for the big bombers. With the competent ex-policeman at the controls, it was hoped the Spitfire might wear out before it met disaster, but the fortunes of war proved otherwise, and Hoben was officially posted as killed in action this week.

Since the First Canadian Police Spitfire Fund reached the desired total, the police departments across the country did not stop, but continued to send contributions in to Police Inspector James F. Reid of the Peterborough City Police Force, treasurer of the Fund. To date the magnificent sum of $19,134.03 has been collected towards the purchase of a second fighting machine, and this means that just slightly over $3,000 more will put another Police Spitfire in the air against the Germans.

Response Been Generous

Inspector Reid said today, that the response to the Police Spitfire Fund has been magnificent, and he has received donations from as far distant as the Northwest Territories and even from South Africa. The police force in the City of Peterborough have more than done their share in making the total climb and from the proceeds of their dance and draw they netted $526.67. Since that time several citizens have made individual contributions, and many more would have done so had they known more about the fund.

At this time the Police are anxious to complete the quota, and while there is bound to be a ready response from police forces all across the land, local citizens who wish to have a part in starting this second fighter flying can do so by turning their contributions in to Inspector James F. Reid at the Peterborough Police Station.

anti-tank guns had stopped the tank attack completely, destroying at least seven machines.

A Few Yards

The entire German forward movement was only a matter of yards.

The manoeuvre by which the Germans attacked resulted in two Aussie companies being cut off. But these bayonet-swinging veterans sliced their way through to the north.

Through the night there were constant patrol encounters and much hand to hand fighting.

A few Germans were captured and these were found not to be of front line quality. Some anti-aircraft gunners and light artillerymen were being used as infantrymen, and British officers considered this a good sign.

In the early hours this morning one of the heaviest dive-bombing attacks of the campaign started against the most northwesterly point held by the Australians, about 10 miles beyond El Alamein.

One veteran of the siege of Tobruk declared, 'Tobruk was beautiful compared to this morning; I never saw so many bombs at one time.'

The Germans used 36 to 40 dive bombers in that single attack.

war effort about which little is said," Mr. Ferraby said. "Hitherto information concerning ship-building has been kept secret to all but a handful of people.

"We've heard quite a bit about the output of military equipment, and astronomical figures about the manufacture of small arms and ammunition, of airplane parts and planes, and about tanks and mechanized transport—but the men in the shipyards have quietly toiled on and have rarely been remembered by the public.

"You don't produce 500 new fighting ships in 30 months by wasting time."

Better Than 1917-18

Pointing out that in 1917 and 1918 British shipyards turned out 2,500,000 tons of new merchant ships, in addition to warships, Ferraby said Britain's current merchant ship production must be at least comparable with this, and that the First Lord of the Admiralty indicated in a recent speech that it was even better.

"Another aspect of shipyard work that we don't talk about at all is the repairs to damaged ships. There's been a lot of this, and they've been made in record time." ?

He said that the 500 warships which have been added to the British fleet have, unfortunately, not been net gains. Since start of the war the British Navy has lost 17 cruisers, 78 destroyers, 38 submarines five capital ships and four aircraft carriers.

"But, it is pretty clear that the efforts of the men in the shipyards has more than filled the gap caused by these losses."

Indicating that all these production facts were already known to the enemy, although the British people had not yet seen such a tabulation of them, Mr. Ferraby said his figures came from a compilation he had made of published names of new ships. He indicated that the names of a number of new ships have probably not yet been cleared for publication. His figures do not include production of mine-sweepers, motor-torpedo boats, and motor gun-boats.

Ilsley Vetoes National Currency Idea

Tax Charges Benefit Married Women To Keep Them Working

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 16.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley in the House of Commons last night flatly rejected the proposal of Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) that the government should issue $1,200,000,000 in national currency to assist in war financing and lessen the interest burden.

The minister said he would rather resign than accept such a proposal.

Mr. Slaght's suggestions drew applause from the New Democracy group which supports social credit principles and several Liberals also thumped their desks in approval.

Mr. Slaght spoke in the continued debate on budget resolutions covering income tax changes which will impose heavier imposts on the Canadian taxpayer.

Mr. Ilsley announced an amendment providing that a married woman earning more than $660 a year will be treated as "single" taxpayer while her husband will be treated as a married taxpayer. This is designed to encourage married women to continue working.

After several members had protested against income tax being levied against commissioned officers in the forces who are serving in Canada, Mr. Ilsley said he would introduce an amendment which would have the effect of ironing out discriminations. Members claimed the effect of proposed taxation would be that a warrant officer, not liable to income tax, would be paid as much as a major.

The House will continue today with its study of budget resolutions.

Wreck The Price Ceiling

Mr. Ilsley said he regretted the speech of Mr. Slaght on his currency issue proposals and he believed it would do a "great deal of damage."

"If we put in circulation $1,000,000,000 of new money it would blow the price ceiling to kingdom come

War Prospects Held Graver

LONDON, July 16—(CP Cable).—Leslie Hore-Belisha told an audience last night the war "situation and prospects are graver than at any period during the war," and "certainly worse than at the time of the battle of Britain."

The former War Secretary, a consistent House of Commons critic of the war direction, was speaking at the Allied Services' Club.

He added:

"What a tragic commentary it is on our lost opportunities to reflect that while Russia is being pressed back across the Don there is no action on land which we can take to relieve that pressure. Plainly something has been wrong and is wrong in our methods.

"Unless we drastically eradicate our shortcomings of organization and personnel, the same causes will continue until it is too late to avoid disaster."

Charge 3 Sales Engineers Made $646,701 In 6 Mos.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(CP)—Chairman Carl Vinson of the House of Representatives naval committee maintained yesterday that three "sales engineers" had an "inside track" at the Navy Department which helped them obtain war contracts for manufacturers and a profit of $646,701 for themselves during the first six months of this year.

"You three men, sitting here in Washington," Vinson told the trio during the hearing, "are getting $1150 each a day, every day for the first six months of this year, including Sunday, while boys are dying at Bataan and Corregidor and on the Lexington."

His assertion came during examination of A. P. Shirley, a one-time United States army major, and F. B. Olcott and F. C. Nichols, both former civilian employees of the United States Navy. The three are partners in a firm which secures contracts for manufacturers throughout the country on a commission basis.

Representatives of the justice department and the army and navy sat in as Thomas Hinkel, committee counsel, opened a committee inquiry by saying that it was directed toward disclosing the activities and profits of the "so-called five per cent representatives and agents" of manufacturers handling war work.

Hinkel said also that he would show that:

1. Horace Ward, "an individual who acts for his principals on a contingent fee basis, generally in the amount of five per cent," had received a total net income of almost $376,000 for the eighteen-month period ending June 30.

2. The firm of William Schirmgeour and Sons, who furnish "so-called engineering services in addition to their sales activity," had received over $200,000 on naval contracts alone since 1939.

3. John J. Orr, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy and a former employee of the Federal Housing administration, had received over $50,000 since January, 1941.

Shirley denied that he had picked Olcott and Nichols because of their contract with ranking naval officials and manufacturers dealing with the department, and declared he had chosen them because of their engineering ability.

Mitchell Urges Japs For Farms

OTTAWA, July 16 — (CP). — Labor Minister Mitchell told a Dominion-Provincial butter conference here yesterday that he believes the Japanese being moved from British Columbia could be used to relieve Canada's farm labor shortage.

It is false economy to have the Japanese working only on roads or to intern them, Mr. Mitchell told the conference which is being attended by Federal and Provincial agriculture officials and representatives of dairy farm organizations.

To use the Japanese on farms appeared to the Labor Department to be a more constructive policy. The proposal was that Japanese families be taken on the farms so they would live under conditions as near as possible to the Canadian way of life.

They would be paid the prevailing rate of wages in the district in which they were employed.

Big Red Cross Garden Party Is Top Ranking Social Event

PORT HOPE, July 16 (ENS) — Penryn Park, Victoria street, the beautiful home of Mrs. A. B. Scholtz, was the setting for a successful garden fete yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Red Cross.

As the guests approached through the avenue of stately trees they were first met by Mrs. Moore, Mrs. McKechnie and Miss Helen Smart, who graciously permitted them to make their first contribution to the worthy cause by way of an entrance fee. Continuing on they were made welcome by the hostess Mrs. Schultz, the president, Mrs. Wotherspoon, and the convener, Mrs. D. H. Chisholm.

Convening a miscellaneous table were Mrs. Roper, Mrs. E. H. Briden and Mrs. Passey. Here one could choose a beautiful bouquet of regal lillies, delphiniums, roses or many other lovely blooms, or decide to take home a basket of garden fresh home grown vegetables at quite reasonable prices. For the Red Cross worker there were lovely bags for sale, lage enough to carry several pieces of work. For those who could afford to let their minds wander to the less useful articles, there were pictures, trinket boxes and many other lovely things which made it hard for one to choose. For the very young lady there were lovely sets of doll's clothes and for one a little older there was offered sweaters. Here too, one who liked to take a chance on winning something, could buy tickets on several different things including a beautifully dressed baby doll and an angel cake that would be a joy to any one to win.

Variety of Prizes

At the fish pond, where Mrs. F. Buckley and Mrs. J. L. Black presided, one could make sure of either a 5c or 10c fish and either price offered good value. Draping this booth were the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes.

At the ice cream stand Miss K. Brayley made all welcome, if one still happened to be in possession of a nickle.

For fifteen cents Mrs. Wynn and Miss Dorothy Grant would see that one enjoyed a game of tennis. After this for a further consideration of fifteen cents Mrs. McDerment and Miss D. McElroy offered a cooling refreshing swim in the tank.

For those who wished less strenuous entertainment Mrs. J. A. V. Fraser had prepared tables where one could enjoy a game of bridge.

Under the direction of Mrs. Bryant two plays had been prepared. The first "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," a Mexican love story provided some very amusing moments and the parts were well taken by Betty Lou Thompson, Arnold Baxter, Connie Scott, Helen Diamond and Grace Kemlo. The second one, a two-act play entitled "The Tenth Word," contrasted the thought and education of four young ladies in the year 1812 and those in the year 1942, and was well portrayed by Betty Lou Thompson, Betty McLaughlin, Beth Thompson, Connie Scott and Dorothy Dodd. Both these plays were much enjoyed and great praise is due both the players and their teacher.

Beautiful Grounds

From the spacious veranda and the terrace where the tea was served one looked out over the evergreen studded valley to see the blue waters of Lake Ontario in the distance. With the sunny summer sky overhead and the British Flag and the Stars and Stripes fluttering from twin flag poles on the terrace, this was a spot where one was apt to linger, especially since the social committee served such a delicious luncheon. In the dining room from a table covered with a lovely lace cloth and centered with a white bowl filled with red, white and blue flowers, Mrs. Foote, Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. M. C. Wotherspoon and Mrs. J. T. George poured tea. Those helping with the tea room were Mrs. McKechnie, Mrs. Hozack, Mrs. McGillis, Mrs. McDerment, Miss Dorothy McElroy, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Rupert Clark, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Hugh, Mrs. Thurber, Mrs. Book, Mrs. R. Wilson, Mrs Ditheridge, Mrs. Whitbread, Mrs. C. Wood, Mrs. Baxter, Misses Julia Bridger, Patricia Chisholm, Joyce Crisall, Alice Kingshultz, Patricia Durand, Nancy Hume, C. Marshall, Helen Smart and Elizabeth Shay.

After tea there was still the lovely flower garden to see and as one came away they carried with them the thought that the afternoon had been one of the most pleasant of the summer. We are glad too, to know that the Local Branch of the Red Cross was some two hundred dollars better off from the afternoon's work.

Port Hope Woman Visits Roseneath WMS

ROSENEATH, July 16—(ENS).—Speaking on the subject, "The Eternal Things," and defining democracy, not as a form of government, but as a form of life, based on four princip' of religion, morals, social obligations, respect, and sanctity of home, Mrs. J. B. Reynolds of Port Hope, guest speaker at the annual afternoon tea of the W.M.S. on Tuesday afternoon, urged that it never will be forgotten that religion is not a part of life, but all of life That all of life's work means nothing, without a practical showing of Jesus in our lives, that each individual is a trustee unto himself, and no proberty is so easily sqandered, or so valuable, were points developed by the speaker.

Mrs. D Brisbin, first vice-president, presided and introduced Mrs. Reynolds.

Fraser Reveals Beer Salesmen Canvass Hotels

OTTAWA, July 16—(CP).— The methods of men attempting to sell liquor or beer to new customers were explained in the House of Commons yesterday by G. K. Fraser (Con., Peterborough West), who asked who was responsible "for the runners or agents of the breweries and distilleries."

Mr. Fraser raised his question during debate on Budget resolutions when increased taxation on liquor was being reviewed.

"Every session since 1940 I have had men come to my room in the hotel and ask if Mr. So and So was in," he said. "When I replied 'No' they would say they wanted to sell a case of such and such a brand of beer and wondered if I did not want a case.

"The same thing with liquor. They would intimate they had an order from this fictitious man and then try to sell me a few bottles.

"I have had this happen here as well as in Toronto and Hamilton, although I have not bought any yet."

Three Injured On Highway West Of Cobourg

COBOURG, July 16.—(ENS).—Three people were injured yesterday afternoon in the first motor car collision here for some time. The accident occurred on the provincial highway about 5 miles west of Cobourg, on a straight piece of road. According to Provincial Constable David Adair of Cobourg, who investigated, a car driven by John Hovenac of Montreal, was heading west and collided head-on with one driven by John Logan of Toronto. Police stated that Hovenac was about to pass another car at the time and was unable to get back on his own side of the highway to avoid a collision with the Logan car.

Miss Lucienne Montgraim of Montreal, who was a passenger in the Hovenac car, was cut about the face and was taken to Port Hope Hospital. The other passenger in the same car, who was a cousin of the driver and with the same name, escaped injury. Mr. Logan was taken to Cobourg and attended by Dr. Fred Blackwell. He received a couple of fractured ribs and his wife broke a small bone in her foot.

Later police laid a charge of reckless driving aganst Hovenac and he will appear in court this afternoon.

Britain's Educational Revolution

A remarkable amount is written these days about the educational revolution which is in progress in Britain, and which is expected to have far-reaching effects in the post-war world. A general evening-up is expected, so that all children have a chance to receive an adequate minimum education and so that the rich do not have an advantage over the poor in this direction.

Unfortunately much of what is written both here and in the U.S. on this matter neglects the important fact that this revolution has been going on for sixty years and more; at both Oxford and Cambridge there are scores of scholarships and bursaries which enable young men of straightened means to enjoy the advantages of the great universities. The only condition is that the poor men must be clever enough to win these awards; the only advantage which the rich possess is the doubtful one of being able to send their children, stupid or clever, to institutions of learning.

It must also be remembered that education in Britain does not mean quite the same thing as it does here or in the U.S. The young Briton, poor or rich, who has been given an education has a far wider background of learning and culture than is the case here. We educate millions superficially and scrappily; they educate thousands deeply and thoroughly. In Britain education still means primarily a grounding in the humanities; here it is very apt to mean training for a particular trade or profession.

If Britain adopts a more widespread scheme of education we may possibly see a decline in the standard of that education, but we doubt if the decline will be a serious one. If the doors of Eton, Harrow, Winchester and Rugby were opened only to the cleverest boys there is little reason to fear a drop in their standards; it is only when a country tries to educate everyone in the same way, rich and poor, clever and stupid, that superficiality and mediocrity result.

Class distinctions, we hear, are on the decline in Britain. We are inclined to applaud this if it means that everyone is going to be as well-mannered, as considerate, and as free of middle-class prejudice as the aristocracy are popularly supposed to be; if it merely means that henceforth everyone will behave like the proletariat we think it a pity, for that would merely be change without progress. The fact that Britain's proletariat has shown itself to be the salt of the earth is no reason for copying its bad habits. Therefore in this matter of Britain's educational revolution we must reserve our judgment. If it genuinely brings the best education to the cleverest boys, regardless of income, we are all for it; but if it merely means watering the present education so that everyone may have a sip of it we deplore it and predict that it will soon be abandoned.

We Lose a Battle

We have, it appears, lost our battle to prevent American trucking interests from hauling freight in bond over the highways of Southern Ontario. Two newspapers in the district principally affected—the St. Thomas Times-Journal and the Windsor Star—have put up a strong fight against the granting of this privilege, and the Hon. C. D. Howe has opposed it vigorously in the face of a good deal of abuse from the American interests involved, but it seems that Canada will be forced to give way in the matter. This is not a time to show ourselves churlish toward our allies in the U.S., but it cannot be denied that this trucking question has been, and will be in the future, a source of irritation.

There appears to be no good reason why the war goods which are to be trucked through the Niagara Peninsula could not be shipped on the three railways, one of which is an American line, which serves that district. The effect of this trucking of bonded goods, on the contrary, will be to reduce employment for Canadian railroad men in this district, without the country being any better off in any other way. Indeed, these trucks are using the public highways with vehicles of the type most likely to spoil the roadbed, but they are paying no tax for the upkeep of these roads, whereas the railroads, which must submit to this competition, are taxpayers. It is also a fact that these American trucks will be using tires and gasoline in long hauls of a kind which are denied to our own trucking companies; the fact that they are American has little to do with the case, for at present the conservation of rubber and gasoline concern Canada and the U.S. equally. And finally, although this trucking system might be endured as a war measure, there is strong feeling that, once this business of hauling goods through Canada has begun, it will be impossible to end it; a privilege, once granted to a common carter, is never relinquished without a struggle.

A further point, and an important one, is this: Only recently it has come to light that 28 American trucking firms have been partially in the pay of the Axis, and there has been a story in circulation of a scheme to blow up the Detroit-Windsor tunnel by means of a transport loaded with explosives. The trucking firms have now, it appears, purged themselves of the Axis agents whom they employed, but we wish we could be more certain of this. Let us hope that this trucking privilege may be prevented from becoming more of an abuse than is necessary in wartime, and that it may be cancelled after the war without a bitter struggle.

Penny Candies

Although we may sometimes doubt whether our Parliamentarians have a grasp of large issues they give us ample proof of their masterly command of small ones. The discussion of the tax on penny candies which took place on Tuesday when the Commons met in committee on the Budget resolutions is a case in point. What ineffable tenderness, what understanding of the joys and sorrows of childhood our legislators showed in thrashing out this matter! Who would ever think that they were used to voting large sums of money for governmental purposes? Who would ever think that they acquiesced in the payment of $20,000 of our money to three lawyers who assisted in the preparation of the Hong Kong Report? But of course the $20,000 came from adults, and parliamentarians care little for adults; it takes the weeping of a child, deprived of a penny lollipop, to pierce the pure clear air of Parliament Hill and fall like a tocsin on the ears of our elected representatives.

Like Mr. Ilsley, we cannot get worked up about this matter. The impost on penny sweets will bring us about $500,000 of the $7,000,000 candy tax. We need the money. It is a pity if the children have to have less candy than usual, but we do not think it will do them harm. Indeed, it may do them good. In this restriction on penny candies dentists will see the silver lining, even as they feel a twinge of regret for the lost gold filling.

Wachet Auf

Time hangs heavy on the hands of Germany's clock-makers; indeed, they might be said to have more time than they know what to do with. They can get no supplies, and yet they are buried under heaps of clocks and watches which need repairing. As a result rationing is necessary in the execution of orders.

Alarm clocks belonging to railway, postal and armament workers are to be given preferential treatment; and soldiers home on leave are to be served ahead of other people. The rest of the population does not matter. Doubtless Hitler feels that, as they obviously have not known what time it was since 1933, there is no immediately hurry in their case.

Ornamental watches and mantel clocks must wait for the peace. The cuckoo-clock, that miracle of German ingenuity and bad taste, must remain silent until the hour of Hitler's defeat, when its characteristic cry may resound throughout the Reich with singular appropriateness.

Thanking Your Lucky Stars

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

On several previous occasions this column has said its say about astrology; the subject is interesting and pertinent because of the amazing revival of faith in that ancient belief which has taken place during the last twenty years. Whether or not it is a sign of a sick world, curiosity about the occult, ranging from the experiments at Duke University to the appearance of fortune-tellers in tea-rooms, has grown steadily in the period between the wars.

The interest which was evident in Britain before the war in the predictions of the astrologers who were attached to the large Sunday newspapers was amazing and pitiful. Few of the readers of their columns appeared to think that their favorites wrote what the public wanted to read, and would not have dared to predict anything in the nature of a national calamity. And so, until the actual invasion of Poland, the popular newspaper astrologers went on assuring their readers that there would be no war, that the dictators were due for "new and startling developments which were clearly shown in their horoscopes," and that the horoscope of Mr. Chamberlain contained omens of the greatest benefit to the nation and the world as a whole. The astrologers were full of lame excuses when war actually broke out, but they soon recovered their popularity. They wrote always in a vein of unbridled and chauvinistic optimism; as far as they were concerned the stars were all on the side of the British Empire.

The question is: Do these evidences of ineptitude invalidate the whole astrological system? A great many people scorn astrology, though they are prepared to swallow almost any claim which is made by a physicist or biologist; astrology is, at present, one of the less respectable forms of witchcraft. But the astrological magazines do a thriving business, and private astrologers in large cities have more clients than ever. In times of stress people turn to whatever thing seems to them to contain most reassurance. The desire to see into the future is deeply rooted in human nature and astrology attempts to satisfy it.

The cases for and against astrology are not clear-cut. There is no doubt whatever that there are a great number of charlatans who set up as astrologers who are wholly incapable of comprehending its complexities. Casting a horoscope is not an exceedingly difficult matter but it requires some mathematical skill and it is doubtful if a person of no more than average education could do it. And the confident predictions of some astrologers, pleasing as they may be to the simple-minded, are not in the tradition of the art. The most celebrated astrologers have always shown a marked reluctance to commit themselves to detailed predictions; they are content to indicate tendencies and probabilities, and it must be said that they have often done this with remarkable skill and success. Horoscopes of Napoleon, for instance, exist which were drawn early in his career and which predicted it accurately in outline; they are noticeably vague, however, about the exact means by which he would achieve success and the manner of his eventual fall. The most striking example of astrological caution, of course, is shown in the "centuries" of Nostradamus, which are so crabbed and obscure that they may mean almost anything. Perhaps that was the writer's intention; certainly many people have taken pains to discover predictions of events in his writings when those events were accomplished facts.

Valid or not, astrology has its attraction, like so much comparatively useless information. Its symbolism is pleasing. According to our time of birth we may partake of the character of the forceful, pioneering Aries, the strong and noble Taurus, the versatile Gemini, the tenacious Cancer, the masterful Leo, the cold and intellectual Virgo, the judicious Libra, the choleric Scorpio, the dreamer Sagittarius, the plodding Capricorn, the unselfish Aquarius or the dual-natural Pisces. The remarkable fact is that the types of personality which have been associated for centuries with these signs will be found in the majority of cases to fit the people who fall under them; it is this fact, which the writer has observed in a large number of cases, which disinclines him to dismiss astrology as mere superstition.

Indeed, it is doubtful if we are ever justified in condemning ancient beliefs as superstition; too often time shows that there is, underneath all the nonsense connected with them, a core of common sense which cannot be denied. It may be so with astrology; the more one learns about it the less inclined one is to cast it aside.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

The former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of al that Jesus began both to do and teach, until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen; to whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God: and, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me. For John truly baptized with water: but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.

When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.—Acts i, 1-9.

Timoshenko Saves His Armies

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

Diehard Red Army defense of the critical Voronezh north anchor of the Don front and an indicated deflection eastward of the southern claw of the Nazi clutch on the Donets lighten slightly the sombre cast of Russian war news.

There is an implication, at least, that Marshal Timoshenko has managed to withdraw his battered armies on the east, southeast and south faces of the huge German attack bulge without a serious rupture of his lines. If that is true, the tremendous German thrust still is contained. Yawning Nazi encirclement traps have been avoided. The Russian Army of the South still is a fighting entity although still in retreat.

An unconfirmed report of a new Nadi thrust eastward from Taganrog to within six miles of Rostov suggests that a broad Russian withdrawal below the Don-Donets Basin also may be in progress. With the southern prong of the German main attack spearing down the Donets to Lisichansk and reported to have pressed on southeastward to Voroshilovgrad, a Russian retreat on the coastal flank to escape entrapment has seemed inevitable.

Whether it means Russian surrender of the whole great eastward bend of the Don or an attempted stand short of that is not yet clear. The roughest terrain of the Don steppes lies north of Rostov and the lower Don. Just south of the Lisichansk-Voroshilovgrad sector also is good defensive ground. Timoshenko may hope to stand north of the Don and across the great bend of that river.

A stand behind the Don could halt the German effort to reach Stalingrad and the Volga to cut off the Caucasus completely. If the Don line could be held, there would still remain a fifty-mile-wide strip between the Don and Volga in Russian hands and a 250-mile span between Stalingrad and Astrakhan giving entry from the east to Russian reinforcements for the Don front and exit eastward for Caucasus oil cargoes.

It is obvious that Timoshenko must also brace himself for a German flanking attack on the Caucasus itself from the Crimea via Kerch Strait. It has been clearly on Hitler's war books since he recaptured Kerch Isthmus and finally broke Russian resistance at Sevastopol.

Furious and costly German assaults on the Voronezh anchor of the Russian Don line illustrate the German conception that it must be cracked either to protect the massive southern campaign, or as an essential pivot for renewal of the effort to capture Moscow. So far as can be discerned from either German or Russian reports it is only in the Voronezh region that the Don has been crossed. It seems the present German objective line, probably with the Lower Volga as its southern extension.

The Voronezh sector of the Don front is more powerfully bulwarked to the east than any other span of that long and rambling river. The Don is backed to the east by the Voronezh River, which rises to the northeast and flows into the Don some 30 miles south and slightly west of the city of that name. By both German and Russian accounts the most sanguinary fighting of the moment is taking place in that Don-Voronezh River triangle.

As long as it is held by Red armies, the danger of a Russian flanking attack from the north on the exposed Voronezh-Orel flank of the Nazi drive eastward to the Don must immobilize heavy German forces in that region.

London, July 16.—(CP).—A suggestion that members of Parliament fill their spare time by working in war factories didn't fall on deaf ears.

The Daily Express took no credit for the Maldon by-election success of Columnist William Hickey, or Tom Driberg to give him his right name, and, in fact, stated editorially that "we do not agree with Mr. Driberg's politics." . . . He's an Independent.

Hickey's surprise victory over the Government candidate and another Independent prompted the suggestion that it wasn't the Conservative-Communist coalition that beat the Socialist-Independent candidate in the recent Llandaff and Barry by-election, but the Cairo military spokesman whose optimistic reports of the Libyan situation coincided with the election campaign.

WAR DEBATE

There were some caustice remarks when the Commons discussed the Libyan defeat. Take, for instance, this brief exchange:

J. Dugdale (Labor, West Bromwich): "Is it not necessary to ask the Russian Government to send the best available general to Cairo in the shortest possible time?"

Earl Winterton (Con., Horsham): "Send him to this House!"

Sir George Hume, who poured oil on the troubled waters of the debate by jumping up and asking members to keep a sense of proportion, is so seldom heard in the Commons that his plea had a great effect.

The short stocky member for Greenwich carries his 76 years sturdily, and his long silvered hair does not imply any lack of vigor. He is the only member born in Russia, where his father many years ago served as a vice-consul in the Ukraine.

Apropos this debate.

A Personage of Westminster and his private secretary were discussing the parliamentary rebels.

"Who is this fellow Wendell Willkie?" asked the Personage.

The secretary looked blank. "Wendell Willkie?" he asked.

"Yes, this fellow who keeps attacking us in the House of Commons."

Light dawned upon the secretary.

"Ah," he said, "you mean Wardlaw-Milne."

N.B.: Sir John Wardlaw-Milne (Cons., Kidderminster) moved the motion of "no confidence" which forced the debate.

When Mr. Churchill returned from the United States one of the first persons with whom he went into conference was Brig. Harvie Watt, his parliamentary private secretary. Watt gave him a detailed picture of parliamentary feeling to add to interim reports he received in Washington.

Before Mr. Churchill brought him to Westminster a year ago to succeed Brendan Bracken as P.P.S., Watt was on active service in command of an anti-aircraft battery. He became a brigadier two years ago at the age of 37. . . .

The German Ministry of Information, according to reports reaching London, is exploiting a censored version of Lord Vansittart's book "Black Record" and giving it the widest possible circulation in Germany. An introduction attributed to Goebbels says the book indicates British plans in the event of German defeat and that the Germans must fight to the limit to obtain victory. . . .

During a Commons debate on family allowances Rhys Davies said he was the youngest of 11 children and his mother died at 34. He started something.

"I'm the youngest of 10," said James Griffiths. "I was one of --," put in George Griffiths. "And I was one of 15 and my father hadn't got a bean," said Sir Edward Campbell.

No one could improve on this score.

Letter To Editor

SHOOTING IN THE COUNTRY

Editor of Examiner,—

In reference to the incident which happened on the River road where some people got out of their car to investigate shooting and where one was injured, I wish to relate another incident and tell what happened when I immediately reported it in person at the police station. About a month ago, I was happening on route 28 between Lakefield and Peterborough to make a trip to Cobourg and return home between 1 o'clock and 6 p.m. As I reached about the place opposite to where the girl was shot over on the River road, I saw ahead of me a car parked on the highway, a youth on one side of the car and another right on the highway pointing a weapon in readiness to shoot. I had to honk the horn about 3 times, then just keep my finger on the horn to force him to stop aiming until I could pass. This seemed to disgust them. I, through the mirror, saw he aimed again immediately and shot just in front of another car.

Although pressed for time, I went to the city police station, telling the man in charge, "I am in a hurry, but stopped in to report that I saw two youths shooting on route 28 between Lakefield and Peterborough from the first hilltop after passing the Nassau corner going toward Lakefield. I have no time to give this to the proper authorities, for I am on a trip and pressed for time, but knew you could call them." That man in charge did not question me about the incident, but immediately wanted to know who I was, where I lived, and other questions about myself, instead of immediately calling the provincial to get them upon the scene while the shooting was going on. When, through disgust, I told him I had no time to go to that other police office or call them, he then said it was not the affairs of the city police. I told him I knew that in the beginning, but thought to save time they might co-operate with that department enough to at least report by phone immediately in the interest of the public. I left saying, "There was a loose screw some place, for according to that and another incident in my mind, the informant is questioned more about himself than the interest given concerning the incident in question." The man concluded by saying, "Oh, it is possibly just some young fellows target shooting."

Another one to whom I reported it said, "Oh, it is possibly some fellows target shooting and they generally know the range of their gun." In this case, if that had been given immediate action by the police force the shooting accident on the River road and others not heard about may not have occurred. There is a time, place and manner to use a gun or weapon, and those who use the road range for such purposes should be trained to know when, where and how to use weapons. The informant too often is the victim of humiliation and disgust and the culprits the ones getting off without trouble.

AN INTERESTED CITIZEN.

The Sunday school lesson had been upon the parable of the Prodigal Son. The teacher wished to impress upon the children the mean disposition of the elder brother who "would not go in." "Now," he said, "in the midst of all this rejoicing at the return of the prodigal there was one who was unhappy. While the others were bright and glad he was sad, and who was he?" "The fatted calf?" called out a small boy.

Two Sub Chasers Destroyed In Disastrous Midland Fire

Sweeping the waterfront of Midland, Ont., fire inflicted damage estimated at more than $500,000. Fanned by a high wind, the flames destroyed the main section of the Midland Boat Works, where two partially-completed naval vessels valued at $190,000 each were lost. The C.N.R. station, eight houses and a coal yard were also destroyed. Embers from the blaze threatened to fire the business district of the town, but prompt action by a large number of boys, who clambered on roofs and played garden hose on threatened buildings, saved the situation. The Midland Shipbuilding yards, one of the biggest in North America, were threatened until reinforcements from nearby towns arrived to aid the local fire-fighters.

50,000 Reserves On Crete For Rommel

ISTANBUL, July 16.—Turkish sources said yesterday that vast Axis reinforcements were going to North Africa by way of the Grecian ports and Crete, indicating that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has only stopped to rest and by no means has given up his plans for reaching the Middle East through Egypt.

.ccording to military reports, there are 50,000 troops in Crete, evenly dividec as to Italians and Germans, awaiting shipment by sea or air to Africa, and the number there has been fluctuating between 10,000 and 50,000 for months.

The troops on Crete are believed to have been formerly stationed in Yugoslavia and moved into Greece about three weeks ago, at which time reports were current in Ankara that two German motorized divisions and one Italian division had entered that country.

To make room for them on Crete, the Germans were reported to have transferred all Greek war prisoners elsewhere. It was estimated that about half of the troops would be sent to North Africa by air transport, the Germans having flown a number of Junkers cargo planes to Crete recently.

Peterborough Rural Schools

S.S. No. 8, CHANDOS

The first settlers in this section arrived from England and Ireland during the period from 1865 to 1875. Some of those who received grants of land from the Crown through the government agent, Duncan Anderson, at Apsley, were: Richard Regan, James Tanner, John Minorgue, Robert Hawkes, Batise O'Mell, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, Mr. Worseley, Robert Knox, Charles Simmons, James Young and William Beggs.

These early settlers sent their children over a blazed trail through the woods to the school of S.S. No. 1, Chandos, which was located near the Roman Catholic Church in the Irish settlement to the north, a distance of four or five miles. Education was not a pressing concern to these pioneers of the district who toiled long and hard to wrest a meagre living from the soil. Finally some of the settlers became interested in establishing a school in their own neighborhood, and in 1892 Union School Section No. 8, Chandos (Burleigh and Anstruther) was formed. Its area lies west of Loon Lake in Chandos, and the lots of the township of Anstruther east of Eel's Creek are included.

The old Worseley log house on Lot 7, Concession 10, owned by Robert Hawkes, was used as the school building for fourteen years at a rental of one dollar a year. Trustees of the first board were Robert Hawkes and David Woods and John Minorgue was secretary-treasurer.

All the school records were lost on February 11, 1936, when the home of Robert Tanner, who was then secretary, was destroyed by fire. The first teacher was Miss Emma Clegg, the present Mrs. A. Downing, postmistress at Apsley She taught on a permit immediately after passing her entrance examinations, at a salary of $15 a month; out of which she had to pay five dollars a month for board. Miss Maggie Scott was the second teacher. Then for some years Miss Agnes Campbell, later Mrs. Charles Hawkes, taught during the summer under Inspector J. Coyle Brown.

Others who served in the old school were Miss Mary Campbell, Mrs. Hawkes, Miss Jean Kilborne.

In 1906 the new frame school was built across the road from the log building which is still standing. The trustees were: Charles Tanner, Alphonso Kilborne, James Roberts and Robert Hawkes as secretary-treasurer. One acre of land was given to the board by George Beggs. The plans were drawn by Inspector Richard Les, and the construction work was done by Alex. McColl of Apsley for $470.

Teachers since then have included the following:

1906-09 Jean Kilborne, 1910 Marion Macpherson, 1911 Sybil Windsor, who walked from her home in the Tucker settlement about five miles every day. She crossed Eel's Creek at the High Falls.

912 Edna Graham, 1913-14 Arthur Musgrave, who was killed in France in the Great War.

1915 Marion Macpherson, 1916 Miss M. F. Hamilton, 1917 Mrs. Wm. Staples, 1918 Mrs. Harry Smith, 1919 Luella Hartwick

1920-22 Mrs. Agnes Hawkes, 1923 Miss Margaret Herr This year the daughters of the Empire presented the school with two pictures.

1924 Miss Gladys L. Brott, 1925-27 Miss Annie M. Howlett.

1926, Rev. C. A. G. Spence began to teach music in school and gave lessons on Wednesday afternoons. In 1927 the school year was extended to ten months. Grace Horie was the teacher.

1928-31, Vera G. Wagar at a salary of $800, 1931-32 Ruth H. Nelson, 1932-33 Mrs. Ernest Tanner, 1934-35 Lenore E. Burdick. On the death of Robert Tanner in 1936, Edwin P. H. Everett was appointed the fourth secretary Charles Tanner has been a trustee almost continuously for thirty years.

1936-39, Fred Ham; n. The trustees in 1937 were Charles Tanner, Philip Tanner and Martin Reddick. Ernest Tanner was appointed the first caretaker.

1938 Fred Hampton, 1939-40 Mr. Webb;; 1941 Mr. Wolgar

Dr. Bruce Wants Reason Behind Sifton Quitting

OTTAWA, July 16—(CP).—Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con., Toronto-Parkdale) yesterday place on the House of Commons order paper an inquiry as to whether the recent resignation of Victor Sifton, Master-General of the Ordnance, was "due to any difference of opinion between him and the Minister of Munitions and Supply (Hon. C. D. Howe)."

"If so,' 'asks Dr. Bruce, "did it have anything to do with the designs or production of tanks?"

In another query, Dr. Bruce asks whether the three types of armored fighting vehicles—"the scout car, the armored car and the reconnaisance car"—are in production and, if not, why not.

Dr. Bruce also asks whether there have been any defects in design or performance in the three vehicles and whether the average thickness of armor is the same as found on corresponding German armored fighting vehicles. He also seeks information on whether the fire power, armament, durability and repairability is equal to the Nazi machines.

Dr. Bruce asks if the factory producing the Valentine tank is at present shut down for changes of design, and whether the Ram tank is in full production.

"Is the armor on these vehicles sufficienty heavy to withstand guns?" he asks.

He also questions whether there are guns currently being produced in Canada which are equal to Germany's 88-millimetre gun.

Russians Still Plead For 2nd Front

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, July 16—(AP)—Advocates of a second land front in Europe to help Russia pressed firmly last night for quick action, while British sources reported definite, favorable progress in the battle against Nazi submarines which looms as an important factor in all second front considerations.

Qualified London sources who declined to permit use of their names said Russia is pleading again through her envoy, Ivan Maisky, for prompt help by a British-American expedition to Europe to take some of the tremendous Nazi pressure off the Red Army.

The Russians in Moscow indirectly presented a case for a second front with official reports that the Nazis, suffering huge losses in the battles in Southern Russia, had in the last few days hurriedly transferred several divisions from France and Belgium to the Russian front.

One argument advanced by second fronters here is that if the Germans can set the stage with victories in Southern Russia, the Japanese might attack in Siberia.

Japs Mass 24 Divisions

The Japanese were said to have gathered at least 24 divisions, some 360,000 men, in Manchukuo with air reinforcements from the home islands. It was pointed out also that August and September are the best months for campaigning in Siberia.

Public sympathy for Russian pleas for a second front was seen in week-end meetings at Glasgow and Liverpool, in which a new front and all aid for Russia were demanded.

While an R.A.F. commentator noted "definitely good results" in the American-British war upon Nazi submarines, Soviet strategists declared themselves not satisfied that the British air offensive against Europe is heavy enough to pull German troops from the Eastern Front.

But with all the talk of a second front, military sources here envisioned such an effort as a permanent, well-considered attempt requiring exhaustive preparation and not just a hit-run affair.

"All preparations for opening a second front are under way and the objective is a front which will be permanent, not only a large hit and run raid," one informant said. "The type of operation now being done by the Commandos will be part of any major invasion scheme."

Bullitt Reaches London

Meanwhile, William C. Bullitt, special assistant to United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox, arrived in London. It was understood he would talk with admiralty shipping officials on the best means of fighting submarines.

The R.A.F. commentator said British fliers are hammering at submarines in all stages of production and are keeping up "large scale attacks on German war industry."

The Bomber Command has attacked factories making submarine parts, submarine storage batteries, submarines under construction on slips, and submarine ports on the Atlantic. Other planes have mined waters where submarines carry out training operations.

On another factory which must be considered in second front talk — munitions—Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, Minister of Supply, said that Britain has a "growing sufficiency." His assurances climaxed the second and last day of debate in the House of Commons on war production.

FORTY-FOUR PAIRS COMPETE IN BOWLING DOUBLES TOURNAMENT

Packed Dodgers Planning Some Swaps

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP). —A new chapter was added to-day to the mystery of the Brooklyn Dodgers' extra player.

The Dodgers, as most people know by now, are touring the west with twenty-six players, one over the major league limit. Club officials explain that Pitcher Max Macon still is signed to a contract with Brooklyns Montreal farm, and he has not been used in a game, although the Dodgers announced last week-end he had been purchased and he sat on the bench in unifom at Pittsburg.

Yesterday morning Utility Infielder Alex Kampouris was ordered sent to Montreal to make room for Macon, but yesterday afternoon just before the game with the Cubs, President L. S. MacPhail telephoned a cancellation. This left the Dodgers still with twenty-six players, but Manager Leo Durocher avoided any trouble such as a formal protest of a Pittsburg game by not having Macon on the bench yesterday.

It was reported in club circles that the confusion surrounding Macon was caused by a pending deal which would bring Pitcher Buck Newsom from Washington in exchange for Outfielder Frenchy Bordagaray and a couple of pitchers, perhaps Newt Kimball and Les Webber.

The transaction was understood to have stalled because waivers must be obtained on all the players involved and Boston Braves refused to waive on Bordagaray. Some observers interpreted the reprieve for Kampouris as meaning that he might be included in the deal with the Senators, possibly as a substitute if waivers were not forthcoming on Bordagaray.

Where Your Salvage Goes

These enthusiastic youngsters are helping supply the call of Canadian war industry for an endless flow of salvaged metals. Every farmyard, every cellar in Canada has some piece of metal that can be converted into a war product.

Miles of salvaged copper wire have here been pressed into bricks to be remelted and sent to munitions plants. There the copper will be made into gun mountings, rifling rings for shells, fire control instruments or warship tubing.

Lead reclaimed from old car batteries, lead pipes, paper weights, is here being poured into moulds in a Montreal smelting plant. It will go to the war industry to help make planes, corvettes, shell carriers, shrapnel, bullets.

When the guns of a Spitfire blaze over the skies of Europe they spew out bullets made of copper-steel alloy. Cartridge cases are brass. Besides enormous quantities of steel scrap munition factories need every variety of metal salvage.

Soldiers Score 9-Run Lead In Early Innings

Soldiers' team from the Training Centre couldn't do anything wrong at Riverside Park on Wednesday evening when they tied into the Luckies in the Men's City Softball League to win handily 16 to 7. This decisive victory gives them sole possesion of second place in the league directly back of the Plazas, breaking a three-cornered tie for the second slot, which was held by Luckies, Soldiers, and Royals.

It was a nice game to watch, with heavy hitting and considerable spectacular fielding by players on both teams. The Soldiers lost no time getting a lead and their one earned run in the first was a homer by Fleming into deep left, that cleaned the bases of three players who had landed there through three free passes. Their rally was given a touch of frost in the second when the Luckies sparked by Maurice Caccavella staged a nice double lead whamming out a double, two singles and took two walks to add five tallies to their total.

Thompson, lanky first baseman, who was a new player for the Soldiers, held down the first sack and played a beautiful game. In the fourth he nailed a home run, whaling the ball to the edge of the knoll along the left field fence, and he added a double before the game was over. Besides his fine batting contribution, Thompson played a beautiul game at first, digging low throws out of the dirt, and spearing other throws high in the air. McKeraghan at second for the winners added another circuit blow to the collection in the sixth, and Kilfoyle had a double and single. McKeraghan was the top batter with his homer and three singles. Nicholls, former pro hockey player, who held down centre field for five innings, had two singles.

The heavy clouting was certainly not restricted to the Soldiers for the Luckies had a good share of it, but their long drives were for the most part whammed into the garden when the bases were empty. Jamieson collected two doubles, and Maurice Caccavella had a two-bagger and a pair of singles. Mowry poled out a double and a single, and Frank McCormick connected for a triple. Stewart tall centrefielder, was the fielding star of the game, making a one-hand catch of Fleming's drive into deep centre in the seventh. Stewart ran backwards, thn stuck up one hand to snare the hit.

Sero at short stop for the Soldiers played an enthusiastic game, covering plenty of territory to haul down high flies, and sizzling grounders with clock work regularity. In the infield of the Luckies' line-up, Courneya at third did a fine bit of fielding, and coupled it with a scorching throw to first that robbed the Soldiers of several safeties.

Frank McCormick started for the Luckies, but had a lot of trouble. He issued five walks, and was touched for five hits, retiring in the third with nobody out, four run in and a man on second. Moorhead finished the game. He was nicked for ten hits, walked two and fanned one.

Ken Fleming went the route for the Soldiers, handing over a speedy ball that was not easy to hit. He sent two down swinging and walked seven.

There was a freak double play in the fifth with the Soldiers at bat. Kilfoyle hit a high fly to deep short, with Anderson on first, and Caccavella went back for it only to have it bounce out of his hand into the waiting hand of Stewart, the centre fielder. Stewart whipped it over to first to catch Anderson trying to get back to the base.

Biggest Entry In Years Features Event

By HERB MARTIN

With an entry that far surpassed the fondest dream of any member of our club, the open tournament committee went into a huddle early yesterday afternoon and was forced to change all rules and regulations, alter their system of draw and practically change the entire set-up of the tournament.

Although it was advertised that only 32 pairs would be accepted, this too had to be discarded, so great was the support from our own club and from clubs of the surrounding district. It may not have been the largest doubles tournament we have had, but it certainly ranks well up with any other.

In opening the tournament Chairman George Gimblett announced the rules of the day and their president, F. H. Dearborn, in a brief address, welcomed all and thanked the boy for their splendid support.

With entries from Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope, Cannington, Whitby, Campbellford, Bowmanville and Peterborough, Fred Brown sent the first round away about 2.30 o'clock. Three fifteen-end games were played and play continued until around 1 o'clock this morning.

To C. Williamson and E. L. Sackville goes the honor of winning first place, and while the Peterborough club did not win all the prizes, they took down sixty-six and two-thirds of them — Cobourg, Oshawa and Lindsay accounting for the balance. And with the presentation of the prizes the open doubles tournament of 1942 will go down in the records as one of the best.

With regards to the ladies' tournament held up in Lindsay yesterday afternoon and evening, it was a clean sweep for the Peterborough ladies. They finished one, two, three. The winning rinks were:

1st—Mrs. W. Greenslade, Miss M. Patterson, Mrs. T. McDonald, Miss L. Allan, skip.

2nd—Mrs. J. Cullen, Mrs. N. Killingbeck, Mrs. H. Beatty, Mrs. W. Hepburn, skip.

3rd — Mrs. A. Heckman, Mrs. T. Doughty, Mrs. L. Beame, Mrs. F. Staunton, skip.

WHIRLY'S SUFFOLK DOWNS WIN TAKES BISCUITS' MONEY CROWN

11 Lengths Back Sudden Spurt Sets Track Mark

BOSTON, July 16—(AP)—Whirlaway buried Seabiscuit's all-time money winning record deep in Suffolk Downs "Graveyard of Champions" yesterday with a streak of lightning speed.

Taking over the Biscuit's throne as the world champion breadwinner of the turf, the long-tailed Kentucky cannonball turned loose his "crusher" kick in one burst of running power to come from almost out of sight and win the rich Massachusetts Handicap faster than it ever has been done before.

And with the $43,850 he won as he zipped across the finish line, the colt they used to call crazy added enough to his earnings to give him a total of $454,336 for his two-and-a-half years of racing, thereby wiping out the $437,730 mark the Biscuit took so long to pile up a few years back.

Should Make Grade

What's more, the way Whirly did it—carrying a wagon load of weight, running against a fancy setof front-flying "speed" horses and making his first trip over the Suffolk strip that has been disastrous for so many champions in the past—made it look more than ever as though he can go on to become the turf's first $500,000 baby in history.

Warren Wright's Whizzer had the deck stacked against him.

Yet, in spite of the 130 pounds on his back, in spite of the fact he was spotting the front-runners up to 26 pounds apiece, in spite of the fact he'd never tangled with Suffolk's "grave yard" before, Whirly came from 11 lengths back to hit the wire in 1:48 1-5 for the mile-and-one-length, loping two-fifths of a second off the track record War Relic chalked up in this same stake a year ago.

At the finish, he had a clear edge of two-and-a-half lengths on Rounders, the Irish-bred invader from Texas Emerson Woodward's barn—and the margin was getting bigger with every stride, so fast was he moving, to the accompaniment of roars of cheers from a jam-packed crowd of 33,000 customers who knocked Mr. Big Tail down to even money in the betting.

Another length further back came Mrs. Parker Corning's speedy Attention, one-time Whirlaway jinx, and four lengths behind him was William Woodward's Apache, the tall, handsome 3-year-old who was a surprise starter in this race after setting a track record at Empire City last Saturday.

They were supposed to be the horses Whirly had to beat, because they're able to turn loose lightning, too, and Apache was carrying only 107 pounds, while Attention had 122 aboard.

Whirly made them holler "uncle" completely and decisively. In fact Trainer Ben Jones said he thought it was the best race his 4-year-old champ ever ran.

Far, Far Back

For a while there, Jones probably was a little nervous about it. This was in the first three-quarters of a mile, when Rounders and Apache hooked up in a duel out in front. Whirly, making his usual liesurely exit from the starting gate, trailed them by as much as eleven lengths at one point in this early stage of the race.

Then Jockey Georgie Woolf, the "iceman" who has become the colt's regular rider in the last month, clucked to him that it was time to go. And he went. He hit the others as the field moved into the far turn. He hit them so hard, he was past the last three like an express train passing a slow freight.

Half way around the bend, Whirly straightened his six-foot tail straight out behind him and really got under a full head of steam. Attention made his move at this point, too, but Whirlaway roared right by him, ran over Rounders and poked past Apache just as they straightened out for home. From there on, it was just a case of how far, he'd leave the others behind.

They were strung out all the way down the stretch back of him. Apache fading in the final yards, wound up fourth; Mrs. May Factor Jr.'s California campaigner, Blueberry Pie was fifth, followed by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Swing and Sway, and Texan John L. Sullivan's Transfigure. Circle S Stable's Hysterical was a late scratch.

By smashing Seabiscuit's mark in the Massachusetts Handicap, Whirly went right along with the drama and color that has marked his entire career, from the time he couldn't run straight as a two-year-old, through his record-cracking Kentucky Derby triumph last year and the Preakness and Belmont which followed it to make him one of five triple crown winners in turf history.

For it was this same Massachusetts that the 'Biscuit used as a stepping stone to his big bankroll. And until today, he was the only favorite in its eight-year run to nod to the judges and the only one to win carrying 130 pounds. But the chips were down this time for Whirlaway, and he picked up the pot—the hard way.

New Betting Mark

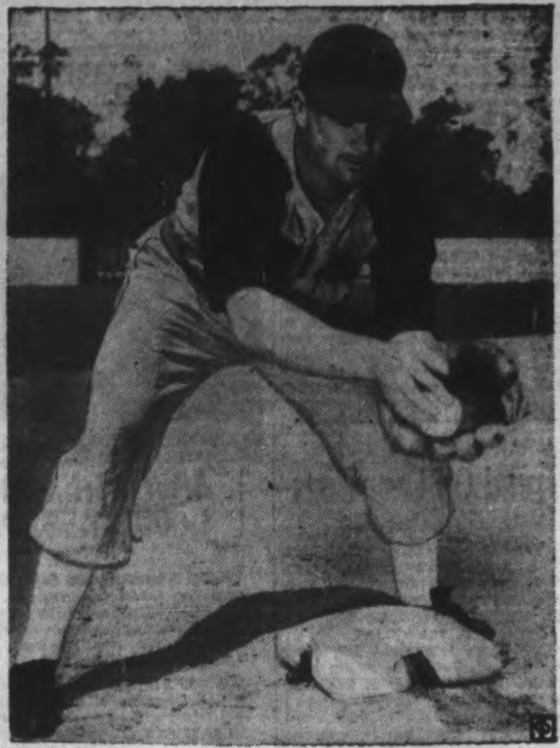
BOSTON, July 16 — (AP). — A crowd of 32,963 set a new one-race betting record for Suffolk Downs Wednesday when Whirlaway registered his smashing triumph in the $50,000 added Massachuseets Handicap. It poured $163,299 into the pari-mutuel machines for that race and a total of $968,796 during the nine-event program.

That "handle" was second only to the track record of $1,096,676 made last May 30.

Headed for Arlington

BOSTON, July 16 — (AP). — Trainer Ben Jones said last night that Whirlaway, who broke Seabiscuit's all-time money-winning record Wednesday by winning the Massachusetts Handicap, would be pointed for the $25,000 added Arlington Handicap at Chicago's Arlington Park, August 1, as his next start.

Is He Minor Star Of The Year?



Hitting around the .350 mark and playing a bang-up game at third base for the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association, Joseph Aloysius Bestudik, ABOVE, is being hailed as the minor league star of the year. Bestudik is sought by five major league clubs, including the Dodgers and Yanks.

BOSTON, July 16—(AP).—Those red-faced guys around your village today are the "experts" who said Whirlaway wasn't a great hoss because he had only "one run" in him in any race and that wasn't good enough to knock off the speed colts ...Well, the charts won't show it, but Mr. Bigtail ran the second quarter of yesterday's Massachusetts in 23 4-5 seconds...Incidentally, Warren Wright, who owns Whirly, didn't make the trip to Suffolk to see his colt break the 'Biscuit's record because he wasn't sure whether Whirly'd win...Lissen, Warren, he would have won this one if they'd put an outboard motor and five gallons of gas in the others.

In good with the boss:

When King Peter of Yugoslavia turned out in Yankee Stadium last week, Walt Judnich, the Browns' outfielder, who is a Yugoslav, shook hands with the King and then ended Hank Borowy's bid for a no-hitter with a single in the fourth ...Nothing like doing it when the head man's around.

This and that:

When the boys start to tell you how Seabiscuit would have been a bigger money winner if he hadn't missed those two Santa Anita hundred-grands by a couple of noses, just remind 'em that the 'Biscuit had three cracks at the big pot... And Whirly didn't have one...Art Ross, boss-man of Boston's hockey Bruins, is hollering for hockey to operate on a no-profit principle... Club owners shouldn't make a nickel, players should perform for coffee and cakes and rink owners should slice rents until it hurts... And then, says Uncle Art, there'll be some excuse for hockey next winter.

Five Cub Hurlers Let Dodgers Cop 10-5 Verdict

By JUDSON BAILEY,
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bad blood has been flowing between Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs for two or more years in one of the most vicious feuds in baseball annals and the situation is getting more serious.

Yesterday the boys were so busy throwing bean balls at each other that the ball game got out of control and the Dodgers operating in their element, captured a 10-5 verdict from the confused Cubs, who made five errors and used five pitchers to give 13 hits.

One version of the trouble between the clubs is that it started when Hugh Casey of the Dodgers threw at Pitcher Claude Passeau of the Cubs a couple of years ago. It has been kept fanned white-hot ever since with knock-down pitches, high slides, name-calling and even harsh business office relations.

Through it all Passeau has managed to keep the upper hand on the pitching mound, winning seven and losing only twice to Brooklyn—until yesterday. But the fellow who has won more games than any other pitcher this year, 13, got his bumps this time.

He was peted for seven hits in 2 1-3 innings, giving four runs, and was so infuriated by the riding of the Dodgers that he couldn't get the ball near the plate when Hiram Bithorn replaced him. Brooykn turned its baiting on the rookie and had him in such a frenzy that when he, too, had to be removed in the fifth inning he threw the ball at the Brooklyn benchwarmers.

Laabs Pounds in Five

This encounter dwarfed all the other developments of the day in the major leagues, although Chet Laabs of St. Louis Browns, currently on a batting spree, attracted attention to himself at Philadelphia by driving in five runs as the Browns beat the Athletics 7-4 in a night game.

New York Yankees extended their American League lead to 6½ games by scoring their second straight shutout 4-0 against Cleveland Indians on the four-hit hurling of Atley Donald. Buddy Hassett made three hits and Joe DiMaggio stretched his modest hitting streak to 12 games.

Boston Red Sox split with Chicago White Sox. Tex Hughson beat unlucky Ed Smith in the opener 10-1 for Smith's 15th setback. Then the Chisox took the nightcap 11-0, although Ted Williams hit his 19th homer.

Washington nosed out Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 11 innings in a night game when Jimmy Pofhal singled with two on for the winning marker.

St. Louis Cardnals swept a doubleheader from the Phils 7-3 and 9-4.

Cincinnati and Boston Braves divided their double bill with Bucky Walters winning the opener for the Reds 6-2 on five-hit pitching and Manny Salvo retaliating with a seven-hit performance as the Braves bagged the second game 7-2.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 16—(CP)—Winnipeg Maroons will be hosts to the Northern (Class C) Baseball League All-star game July 20. There are no statistics available on how seldom Canadian clubs have been awarded all-star venues, but it hasn't been often. Even this one had a touch of divine intervention.

The tale: In the Northern, the All-star game goes to the club on top of the league after games of July 9. On that date, Winnipeg was in first place by seven percentage points over Eau Claire, Wis., but was on the road and scheduled to meet a tough club, Wausau. Meanwhile, Eau Claire was at home to a soft touch, Grand Forks. The Winnipeg management wasn't confident about getting the plum.

But late on the great day rain, blessed rain, came down in buckets on Wisconsin. Both games were washed out, and Winnipeg got its first all-star game since the league was formed in 1933.

There's nothing like variety dept. When the heat was on between Phil Farley and Jack Nash in the Ontario Amateur Golf final at Brantford, a searing series of helps jolted the gallery . . . Across a nearby fairway a rabbit bounded into view, followed by a poisy canine . . . While the gallery watched spellbound, the quadruped disappeared from view with the rabbit easily holding its early lead.

Incidentally.

Bill (Kingston Whig-Standard) Walshe has raised an interesting point. He tells of one member of the Kingston Yacht Club who rescued six persons in small boats in a single day—on his own dwindling ration of gasoline. There is no official life-saving service there. Walshe suggests the Oil Controller make some provision for men doing this volunteer work, points out these yachtsmen soon will have exhausted their gas rations, and asks who will do the rescue work then. Legs Fraser scored five goals when Manning Depot beat Mimico 5-2 in a Toronto and District City Cup soccer match. . . . A residence switch from Saskatoon to Vancouver hasn't hurt Margaret Esson's golf. She was hitting the pill for 250-yard drives in an exhibition a few days ago and had a birdie on one difficult par five hole.

LONDON, July 16—(CP).—That great sire and unbeaten racer Nearco—only horse in Britain (and perhaps the world) to have a private air-raid shelter—has been sold to a syndicate fo approximately $275,000.

The syndicate includes the seller, Mr. Benson, who purchased the pony for $268,000 via long-distance telephone after he won the Grand Prix de Paris in 1938. Besson is chairman of the 20-member group, made up of British breeders interested in advancing their stock.

Nearco, whose two-year-olds began running this season, is considered to have a top chance of finishing at the head of the list of sires. Most of the smartest juveniles are his sons and daughters.

The famed racing silks of Lord Glanely, Welsh sportsman killed in a recent air raid, no more will be seen on British tracks. His horses in training, plus stallions and brood mares, which he left his nephew, George Gibson ,are to be sold at public auction.

The animals include some of the finest bloodstock in Britain. Stallions are the St. Leger winners, Singapore and Chulmleight, the 2,000 Guineas winner; Colombo, and the Ascot Gold Cup champion, Tiberius.

Austerity Note.—Goslings have replaced motor mowers at the Norwich greyhound track for the duration. The mowers ate precious gasoline while trimming the grass. The goslings trim the grass and satisfy their appetite in the same gulps.

Jackie Paterson, British and Empire flyweight champion, hasn't lost his punch. If anything, he's developed a better one. Anyway, he threw one that dislocated the shoulder of Gunner Frank Bonsor at Nottingham and stopped the scheduled 10-round match in the second round.

G. P. Hughes, 39, Davis Cup international and Wimbledon doubles team champion in 1936, has joined the R.A.F. with the rank of Acting Pilot Officer.

Newark Swamps Orioles In 23-3 Setup

By The Associated Press

It hardly seems possible for a baseball team to accomplish so much in one hour and 56 minutes, but that's all it took Newark Bears to score 23 runs—more than enough to defeat Baltimore Orioles, 23-3, in an International League game yesterday.

The league leaders exploded seven home runs, which tied a record set by Baltimore in 1930. Hank Majeski led with three, Frank Kelleher had two and George Stirneweiss and Bud Metheny one each.

Newark made the most of the nine bases on balls and six errors contributed by the Orioles, as the Bears only out-hit the Birds, 14-13. Newark led 20-0 going into the eighth when Ed Robinson hit a home run with two on to give Baltimore its only runs.

Bill Beckman, recent acquisition from Toronto Maple Leafs, hurled a five-hit 4-2 victory over Montreal Royals as Rochester Red Wings pounded a trio of Royal tossers for 10 hits.

Hooper Triplett drove in all Rochester's runs with a homer and a single while Les Burge accounted for all Montreal's tallies with a double.

Buffao Bisons basted six Toronto pitchers for 16 hits, incuding home runs by Jack Redmond, Johnny Welaj and Mike Rocco for an 11-6 triumph. Jack Tising was credited with his sixth straight victory although he was relieved by Rufe Gentry in the ninth.

Ripple's circuit clout was his eighth of the season and the 100th of his International career.

Nate Andrews of Syracuse Chiefs throttled Jersey City Giants with four hits to register a 3-0 triumph. The Chiefs ganered only three hits off the combined offerings of Johnny Wittig and Sal Maglie, but two of them, along with two walks and an error, came in the eighth inning and resulted in all the scoring. During this inning, a 24-minute practice blackout halted the game.

Army, ATS Solve Saluting In One Depot

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Officer

LONDON, July 16—(CP).—A controversy about when and if members of the Auxiliary Territorial Service and the Army should salute each other has been solved to the satisfaction of the commanding officer of a northeast depot, but it's a cinch his plan won't be adopted anywhere else in the county, judging by the reception it received.

In an order to me and women in his command he decreed that soldiers must salute A.T.S. officers and A.T.S. other ranks must salute army officers when in barracks. Outside saluting is unnecessary.

"In barracks," said the order, "Army and A.T.S. officers below the rank of major and senior command will salue officers about those ranks in the other service.

"Outside barracks the rules are relaxed and it is not customary for one service to salute the other. But when army officers are passing A.T.S. field officers the same courtesy must be shown as would be in civilian life."

Staff officers in the Northern Command, besieged by inquiries following publication of the order, hurriedly gave assurance that there had been no general order affecting the saluting of A.T.S. officers by soldiers. They added that the depot commander must have issued the order as a gesture of courtesy to the A.T.S.

Veteran soldiers in the affected area snorted in disgust when they read the order. They didn't like it a bit.

"It goes against the grain to salute these young women officers," said one with little enthusiasm. "But at least we don't have to do it outside the barracks."

The depot commander's reference to courtesy outside the barracks as in civilian life puzzled everybody. The boys don't know whether to stop and shake hands or raise their caps as they pass.

Let House Discuss

only if some member took the responsibility of asking specifically that he do so. Mr. Coldwell at once took the responsibility and Mr. King said he would table the letter next day.

But yesterday afternoon the Prime Minister announced that he would delay compliance with Mr. Coldwell's request until evening, and when the House resumed after dinner he presented Mr. Campbell's opinion.

Mr. Campbell referred to the Confidential information received by the commission for disclosure only to the commisisoner and commission counsel.

The legal opinion said: Col. Drew's letter "purports to give the effect of "a number of these confidential communications.

"Any disclosure, therefore, even to the House of Commons, would, in my opinion, be a violation of the substance of that condition."

In view of that opinion Mr. King said, "I hope my honorable friend will not expect me to table the communication because I should feel that it would not be proper for me to do so in my position as Prime Minister."

The Prime Minister also refused the request of Mr. Hanson to remove censorship requests against publication of the letter before its tabling in the House.

"I have not interfered with censorship at any time and I do not proposed to do so at this time," the Prime Minister replied.

A long debate ensued in which Mr. Hanson renewed his argument for disclosure to the House of the complete evidence taken at the inquiry which was conducted by Sir Lyman Duff, Chief Justice of Canada, sitting as a royal commissioner.

Col. Drew's letter was written to the Prime Minister July 11 and copies were sent to Mr. Hanson, Mr. Coldwell and John Blackmore, leader of the New Democracy.

Copy Released To The Press

Mr. Hanson said he had not released his copy of the letter but he was informed that "a press agency in this country has carried a large portion if not the whole of this letter to the public press in Canada—that thousands of newspaper employees from one end of this country to the other know the contents of this letter and that it is now in fact, if not de jure, in the hands of the public."

He said the Prime Minister was within his rights in refusing to table the letter because it was a communication from one individual to another.

"But let the public have this letter—let the chips fall where they may, I am not responsible for that," he urged.

"The press got the letter from some source, I do not know where and I do not care. They got it in good faith in the public interest, in order that the public should not know what hundreds of people in this country know? What I know? What the Prime Minister knows?

"And if Col. Drew has trangressed let Col. Drew answer. I venture to say he will answer."

"Will be answer to the British Government?" asked Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound.)

Mr. Hanson: "Certainly. He takes the responsibility, it is his and his alone and I think he will welcome it."

Munitions Minister Howe: "He will welcome the publicity."

Mr. Hanson: "Well, I will say that he is getting it and the publicity has made him one of the biggest men in Canada."

Mr. Howe: "Nevt Leader of the Conservative party."

"Let Us Have a Free Press."

"Well, we might go farther and fare worse," Mr. Hanson returned. "I say let us get away from the farce of covering up. Let us have a free press in this country. We have not got it."

Mr. Coldwell said there were criticisms in the letter "which I believe ought to be known in order that this Parliament may be guided in the future in regard to the despatch not of 2,000 men but of many more thousands of men overseas."

Mr. Blackmore expressed the opinion that there were "revelations" in the letter which should go to every member of the House, but he was not urging publication.

"There is something wrong in this country—something wrong in the conduct of our military affairs," said Mr. Blackmore.

"Whoever was responsible for the blunders that were committed in connection with the dispatch of troops to Hong Kong should be made known to members of this House and should be called to answer for those blunders.

"Such reforms should be made in the setup concerning the whole conduct of our war effort as would render unlikely a repetition of anything so regrettable as what occurred in connection with the dispatch of these troops."

Defence Minister Ralston said there would be an apportunity later for full discussion of the report and of "the sweeping statement" made by Mr. Blackmore, "and I trust I shall have the opportunity of saying a word or two," he added.

He said that the letter probably would reach a great many members "and I am sure they can use the arguments which are put forward there to their hearts content, and make them their own."

Mr. King, concluding the debate said the inquiry was held in secret because that was the decision of the Chief Justice who had been given complete power to make such a decision. No person had questioned that decision.

He said that, as Prime Minister, he felt a special responsibilityq in regard to attacks upon those in a judicial position and he referred to the House rules against such attacks in the chamber.

"The worst feature of the letter which I read was the imputation it cast upon the judgment and, I would equally say, the integrity of the Chief Justice of this country...

"It seems to me that it would be impossible to have this communication produced without, in the most serious manner possible, being a party to casting imputations upon the integrity and honor and good judgment of the Chief Justice of this country."

Mr. Coldwell suggested that there were no quotations in Col. Drew's letter which were taken from any of the secret communications received from the United Kingdom government.

Mr. King replied "there is a reference in a way which I have every reason to believe that the Commissioner himself did not regard as proper or Mr. Campbell would not have given the opinion he did."

before you could say Jack Robinson," said Mr. Ilsley. "I say this, too, that if by some miracle we were able to keep the price ceiling on we would have to keep it on for many, many years, because we would never dare take it off."

Mr. Slaght advocated alleviation of the taxation burden on married men and exemption from income tax for officers in the forces serving in Canada. He proposed that the minimum pay of men in the forces be $50 a month. He advanced suggestions on currency issue as a means whereby the Finance Minister might secure the money to make these adjustments possible without having to tax other sources.

Other nations would not think less of Canada if she increased her national currency $1,200,000,000 in a year instead of increasing her national debt by the same amount of bonds plus $55,000,000 of interest-bearing coupons every year, said Mr. Slaght.

Mr. Ilsley said that if a country devoted its full resources to a war the real costs were not monetary but were costs in men and property. There was no escape from the burden."

"The more devoted to war, the less for the people at home," he said.

There were three kinds of borrowing—from the public, the chartered banks and the banks of Canada. Borowing from the Bank of Canada would be more inflationary than borrowing from the chrtered banks.

"If we create $1,000,000,000 of Bank of Canada notes, new money, government money, Bank of Canada notes or deposits, and put these in circulation we have set loose inflationary tendencies of terrific power," Mr. Ilsley said. "This is the reason we keep away from borrowing from the Bank of Canada."

Prosecutions on Now

He had no sublime faith in the price ceiling. Prosecutions for ceiling violations were starting now.

It would be a "terrible thing" if any substantial part of the House membership supported Mr. Slaght's views.

G. G. McGee (Lib. Vancouver-Burrard) said there shoud not be dismissal of national currency and its power as a medium of exchange simply because it had been tried a few centuries ago and did not have a fair chance.

W. K. Estling (Kootenay West) said the new taxes bore heavily on grade one civil servants at Ottawa. Instead of girl workers receiving $66.60 a month, only $55.02 was available to them after taxes and other deductions had been taken.

Liquor Cry Up Anew

Approval was given budget resolutions amending the customs tariff and raising d uties on imported liquors.

Mrs. Cora Casselman (Lib. Edmonton East) suggested liquor bottles should carry labels warning against the danger of immoderate drinking and Mr. Hanson said the government had a responsibility in seeing liquor consumption was reduced.

C.C.F. House Leader Coldwell said the whole liquor business from the manufacture down to the sale should be handled by the government and taken out of the hands of distillers who were making huge fortunes.

Any provincial government which stood in the way of Federal action should be exposed and denouced. He thought the government of Ontario would stand in the way, under the leadership of the present premier (Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn), whose associations with the liquor business were known across the country.

Hepburn Denies It

(In Toronto Premier Hepburn, commenting on Mr. Coldwell's statement, said the "clear insinuation" was that he was tied up with the liquor trffic. The Ontario premier added: "I never have had, nor have I now, any direct or indirect interest in any brewery, winery, distillery or hotel.")

Mr. Ilsley said provincial governments doing their best to control the liquor bill of Canada would not welcome Dominion suggestions they should do better than they had.

A powerful factor has been the ability of the R.A.F. to maintain mastery of the skies. Day after day front-line dispatches and communiques have told of the continued pounding being given the Axis forces by Allied fighter bombers, medium bombers, and heavy bombers.

Numerous direct hits were scored on attacking Axis tanks in the Tel El Eisa sector.

Raise Oil Wreck To Use As Scrap

DETROIT July 16 — (AP). — The warped and twisted hull of a one-time oil tanker that foundered in a winter storm on Lake Michigan nearly six years ago was towed down the Detroit River yesterday to join the war production effort via the scrap heap.

The vessel was once the 254-foot J. Oswald Boyd, built at Paisley, Scotland, in 1913, used for a time in the Atlantic coastal service and brought to the Great Lakes in the early 30's. First of a number of shipwrecks the War Production Board hopes to salvage in its scrap metal drive, the hull is expected to yield up to 1,400 tons of scrap.

The Boyd carrying a cargo of gasoline from a lower Lake Michigan port, piled up on Simmons Shoal off Beaver Island on Nov. 8/36.

DEMAND FOR HORSES

Hugh Stewart reports a fairly brisk demand for horses in the New England States. He has been getting most of his stock in Western Ontario and forwarding from Montreal. There are more than usual enquiries for saddle horses, but the business in selling cattle has declined from its recent volume.

LONESOME BACHELORS.

A great many of the hard-to-catch prospective husbands between the ages of 30 and 40 in Peterborough have been lassoed by the long arm of the Natural Resourves Mobilization Act for military service in the July call-up. Quite a number of them when talking with men of their age who have families, nave expressed regret that they didn't pop the question sooner.

STRICTER SUPERVISION.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission reported to-day that after July 15, the approval of the Commission must be obtained before any increase in power is made to existing customers or to supply new customers in excess of 25 horse-power. This ruling was brought down because the Power Controller fears power shortage this fall and in late summer.

AN INCREASE.

The Filtration Plant Zoo has a new arrival a two-day-old fawn. The parents have been in captivity at the Filtration Plant for the past five years, and this is the first deer born in captivity at the local zoo. On Monday another fawn which had been found in a sickly condition in the Crown Game Preserve was broght in, and it is responding to treatment. This fawn is about four weeks old.

AMONG THE BEST

Major George Melton, recently returned from England, reports he visited the Glengarrians during a manoeuvre and that the officers from Peterborough are rated with the best. Harry Willis and Neil Gemmel are both Captains now. Lt. Jack Peterson, former staff photographer with the Examiner has returned to his unit and is platoon commander. He has made a complete recovery from serious injuries received during a blackout.

GIFTS TO CLINIC

The Peterborough Utilities Commission gave to the Blood Donors clinic the gas heater and tank which has been installed to heat water. Mrs. C. G. Graham and Miss Maude Rush comprised the purchasing committee for the furniture and furnishings, and much of the furniture was purchased unpainted and this work was excelently done by Mrs. Kenneth Graham as a contribution to the clinic. It was announced today that the clinic in all probability would handle its first blood donors next Wednesday.

HE MUST BE GOOD.

Ernest Nicholl, whistler from the Walt Disney studios at Hollywood, now vacationing at Buckhorn, gave a broadcast in aid of the British War Victims Fund on Wednesday night. Up at a cottage on Clear Lake a car radio was bringing in the broadcast quite loudly when suddenly many birds in the nearby woods, taking their cue from the whistler, started to purl out their merry tunes. The result was so amazing that the information was passed along to Fred G. Mann this morning.

A.R.P. BROADCASTS

A series of talks will commence this evening over radio station CHEX at 8.05 and will continue each Thursday night. These talks are to be given by Lt.-Col. M. R. Sloan and chief warden and co-ordinating officer and the talks will not only be informative to all A.R.P. workers but to all citizens.

UNDERSTANDING NEEDED

"If farmers would try to realize the extent to which city folks are hit by the income tax, they might be less inclined to complain about their own lot," said a local man this morning. "If both the urban and rural sections of the country would try to understand each other with more sympathy than usual, it would be better for all of us.".

HELP NEEDED THERE

A farm home that really needs some temporary help was mentioned to The Examiner by Dr. Harold Worton. A South Monaghan woman and her sixteen-year-old son began taking off the hay crop. Before it was finished the mother suffered an accident, straining or breaking a leg. At any rate, she was unable to continue with the work and will be laid up for a considerable time. What is going to happen to the crop on that farm of one hundred acres? Dr. Worton remarked. He intended to notify the agricultural representative for Northumberland about it.

Softball Fans Promised Exciting Game

A challenge from the star softball squad of the Thompson Products factory in St. Catharines means that local softball fans will have an opportunity of seeing a local all-star team tangle with this classy outfit from the Niagara Peninsula.

The Thompson Products team addressed their challenge to the local Genelco plant, and Arthur Pilling decided to choose an all-star aggregation from the twelve teams comprising the shop softball loop. They accepted the challenge and the battle is scheduled to take place at Riverside Park on Saturday evening at 6:15.

The visitors are a strong aggregation and are playing Senior B softball in the Niagara league along with other topnotch industrial teams. However the Genelco manager has the cream of the shop softball players to choose from and the game should be a dandy. So far no line-ups are available.

To make contest more interesting a Kenwood blanket is being offered as a gate prize, and everyone who buys a ten-cent ticket will not only be allowed into the Park but will have a chance to win the blanket as well. The Genelco crowd have gone a step further and have offertd to give the British War Victims at Peterborough the entire net proceeds from the game. This generous offer was accepted by Fred G. Mann, manager of the Fund, and all in all it should be a worthy undertaking to support.

Eddie Foley Entertains Soldiers At Centre

Eddie Foley, whose famous song, 'All the World's Proud of England Now,' was honored by His Majesty King George VI, and who is on tour entertaining soldiers in the Province of Ontario did his bit for the troops a the Military Training Centre Tuesday afternoon when ht gave two programs.

The song which captured His Majesty's fancy, has held the same charm for others and Mr. Foley is the recipient of letters from Lord Beavebrook, Winston Churchill President Roosevelt and others. All the proceeds from the sale of his songs go to the Red Cross British Bombed Victims' Fund. He has also written 'Strike For the Grand Old Flag,' which he has revised since first world war days, and 'Hurl Hitler.' His latest song, 'Up in the Air For Their Country,' which is to be published in October, is to be dedicated to the boys at the Trenton Air Base.

This composer has been writing songs for twenty-five years and with the exception of a few music lessons has had no training and relies solely on inspiration. It has been arranged that the Separate schools of the city are going to teach the song 'All the World's Proud of England Now,' to their pupils in September.

Ernest Nickel Makes Appeal For War Victims

Through the medium of his art as a top ranking concert whistler, Ernest Nickel, a native of California, who is holidaing near Buckhorn, made a most eloquent and delightful appeal on behalf of the victims of air raids over Britain on Wednesday night.

With absolute ease and mastery of his art, the program he rendered, which included "Finale" from the Overture to William Tell by Rossini, "Spring Song" by Greig, "Whistle While You Work" and "Hi-Ho" from Snow White, Pizzicatti, "Indian Love Call," "The Blue Danube," "I Love You Truly," and the most loved of Carrie Jacobs Bond's works, "A Perfect Day," fully demonstrated how he has secured for himself a reputation that is world-wide in its scope and fame.

He also gave a most amazing demonstration of the various different bird songs and calls which were remarkable for their accuracy and sweetness, and fully stamped him as a real master of his art. During the course of his program, and in addition to the appeal through his art, Mr. Nickel made a spoken appeal on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, that was fully indicative of his earnestness and sincerity to help the cause of those so much less fortunately situated than ourselves.

At the moment it is impossible to assess what may eventually be the result of this effort so freely given for the cause, and if the response in any way measures up to the pleasure he must have given to countless numbers of people, then the people of Britain should benefit very materially.

To Harry Northrop goes credit as assisting in this program with piano accompaniment, and six members of the Peterborough Women's Voluntary Service Corps in the persons of Mesdames R. Arnott, . Elliott and M. Cherney and the Misses B. Lytle, M. Weir and Linda Hall took care of the calls as they were received. The treasurer of the fund, John E. Keyes, and the accountant at the Bank of Commerce, A. J. Boorne, were on hand to assist in taking calls, while Walter Dyer gave excellent assistance as messenger and office helper

One donor in telephoning in a donation after the program had concluded, stated he had heard the program in his car while journeying from Toronto to this city, and that both the program and its reception was excellent. In today's receipts there is listed donations as a direct result of this effort from F. L. Roy, Mrs. Wilfred Boorman, Paris Beauty Salon, Peter, Anne and Elaine Grant, R. L. Dobbin, F. Brown, Mrs. R. L. Crerar, E.L. in appreciation of Ernest Nickel, E. Simmons, Mrs. O. Church, W. Thompson and Mrs. R. R. Payne.

To Ernest Nickel and all who assisted the fund management expresses its sincere thanks over and over again.

Also listed in today's receipts is an effort by four children, Cecilia Record, Eeelen and Rita Caravaggi and Bernard Withers, who made $2.13 by having a booth on the lawn of Mrs. Allen at Parkhill Road and Reid Street on Tuesday of this week, and they are to be commended for their work to help others in need. Another very regular contributor, "E.M.F.," is also listed with the usual contribution today.

Ball Game Saturday.

This Saturday at Riverside Park at 6.15 p.m., the Genelco softball team will meet in a game with the Thompson Products team from St. Catharines. Both teams are out to take the others number with keen rivalry the key-note and watchword. Admission will be by ticket, costing only 10 cents, which will also carry a chance on a Kenwood blanket, and these can be secured from workers in the Genelco plant. All the net proceeds will come to the fund, and tickets will also be available at the grounds on Saturday night.

Rambling Reporter

HAVE A RIDE

Shouts of glee, along with shrieks of "ride him cowboy", came from Dr. J. M. O'Brien's side lawn on Hunter street, Wednesday afternoon as all the neighbourhood children were present to help Jackie O'Brien and Beverly Johnston exercise their ponies. The pony belonging to Beverly was hitched up to a small buggy and when the children got tired of riding in style they changed to Jackie's pony and rode bareback. The two ponies almost wore a path at the edges of the lawn as they tore around to the immense delight of the kiddies. Even the dog had his own special rides. Beverly Johnston is the son of Dr. A. M. Johnston, on the Port Hope Highway, and Dr. O'Brien keeps his pony there. Periodically Beverly drives the O'Brien animal up along with his own, and the Johnston animal whoops it up ahead of the buggy and the O'Brien pony does his share at the rear.

School Nurse Granted Leave

At a special meeting of the Board of Education held in the Board Room of the South Central School on Wednesday evening, Miss Jessie Deyell, school nurse was given leave of absence for the duration as she has been called by the army nursing service.

John Londerville, a member of the public school staff was refused leaveof absence for the duration so that he might go into war work. The Board felt that with the number of men teachers now on active service that he was need on the public school staff.

No action was taken in the application made by a group of Collegiate teachers for an increase in salary until certain information which has been requested from the principal concernign the staff and their duties is given the Board.

The request of the lady public school teachers for an increase in the maximum salary was refused for on investigation it was found that the Peterborough schedule compared most favorably with other cities of the same size in Ontario who are now paying the cost of living bonus.

The application of Lt.-Col. M. R. Sloan for a room in the King Edward school as A.R.P. division base was granted.

3-Day Supply Of Food Urged

To take care of any emergency that may arise during the war, the Director of Nutrition Services of the Department of Pensions and National Health, has made certain suggestions so that civilians may have suitable supplies availble for two or three days, in case the regular output should be held up, and in case water should be lacking and cooking facilities unavailable.

It was suggested that every six weeks some foods such as cereals, chocolate, etc., that are stored away should be used and replaced by a new stock; that semi-perishable food should be kept in a covered butter crock or metal container such as a pail, and that if possible suitable spare dishes be kept with supplies, along with a can opener.

As last minute activities in an emergency, a large supply of drinking water should be drawn in a suitable container, such as a tea kettle, and perishable foods on hand should be collected in a shopping bag or basket kept ready of this purpose.

The basic food supplies for a family of four, consisting of two adults and two children are as follows:

Six 1lb tins of evaporated milk; 4 tins of tomatoes (28 oz. size) or 6 tins of tomato juice (20 oz. size), 2 tins of beans (20 oz. tins), 24 oz. of canned meat or fish, or 8 oz. tin whole egg powder; crackers, 2 lbs. graham crackers and 1 lb. unsalted soda crackers, and 6 oz. of plain chocolate bars. In addition to these, it is also recommended to have four 20 oz. tins of fruit juice, 20 oz. of ready-to-eat whole grain cereals, and 1 lb. of peanut butter.

For larger households make the following additions for each person: 1 tin of milk, 6 oz. of canned meat or fish for a child; 8 oz. for an adult. Proportionate increases should be allowed for other basic foods when the increase is for more than one individual.

Where other centres were hit by a sudden emergency many citizens were unprepared and suffered considerable hardship as a result. It is very simple to stock up gradually and then no matter what happens a family will not be caught short handed, and be a burden to himself and the community.

F.D.R.'s Breakfast

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16—(AP) —"The Government confiscated my father's breakfast," remarked the marine corps major. "I had just docked from the tropics, bringing dad a package of mangoes. He loves 'em," he explained to friends. "But the plant quarantine said dad will have to eat something else because the mangoes were infected with Mediterranean fruit fly." A stranger said, "Who's the marine?"—"Maj. James Roosevelt, son of the President."

Clinics Held For Children Pre School Age

In spite of what passers-by at Queen Mary School might think at the sudden sharp howls floating out every Thursday morning, there is no one being tortured. It is simply the Immunization Clinic in full session under the very efficient direction of Dr. D. B. Avison and his two assistants, Miss Margaret Cunningham and Miss Madonna Hurtubise. More and more the parents are realizing the full benefits that accrue from having the children innoculated against communicable diseases before they reach school age.

About twenty children, varying in aged from about 14 months to 16 years, along with a good many others sat in one of the school rooms where chairs faced towards the front, with part of the room curtained of, and behind which, in the opinion of the children, the doctor does his "dirty work." The older children walk in and out without a murmur, but some of the tiny tots don't like it a bit, and a good healthy roar which drown out the doctor's sympathetic murmur, announces that displeasure to the world.

This Clinic at Queen Mary School should rightly be named the Canadian General Electric Clinic, as nearly all those present on Thursday morning were families of men working in Genelco and the Canadian General Electric. Many of them are people who have come from other places and who have been residing in Peterborough only a short time.

Clinic Splendid Idea.

Mrs. C. McCullough, 508 Glengarry Avenue, whose husband is elployed at Genelco and who recently came from Trenton, thinks the idea behind this Clinic is a splendid one. She brought her two children of 19 months and six years for their second innoculation and although the baby was most unenthusiastic, the shots were given anyway. Her friend and neighbor, Mrs. Charles Alphey, 512 Glengarry Avenue, whose husband is also employed at Genelco, brought her 14-months-old girl along for another shot too.

Although they have only lived in Peterborough since March having come from the Muskoka district, Philbert and Gertrude Cadeau, 655 Gilchrist Street, who are 14 and 12 years of age respectively, were most unconcerned during the entire operation, and completely ignored the needle's prick. Their father is also employed at the Canadian General Electric.

Mrs. J. V. Brown 506 Glengarry Avenue, has two boys, 5 and 3, the oldest of whom starts to school in September, who were there to get their second shot, and Mrs. Brown most enthusiastically endorsed the idea of pre-school innoculations. Mrs. A. Mills another of the Genelco families, who resides at 485 Wolsley Street, brought her three-year-old son along. She said that a few innoculations were certainly worth while when they will prevent a good deal of serious illness later on.

Four From One Family.

Four members of the Wiechorech family, who arrived in Peterborough from Gronlid, Sask., only one week and a half ago to join their father, who has been working in Canadian General Electric since New Year's, were there. They reside at 783 Donegal Street. Wanda 16, is engaged at the present time in taking a course for the C.G.E. at the Vocational School and considered this medical care so essential that she arranged to have half an hour off so that she might get her innoculation. Her sisters Gloria 14 and Betty 9, were on their second and fourth shots, and her brother Casper 11 who had his last shot on Thursday, were very unconcerned, too.

Another mother supporting the idea strongly was Mrs. M. Mackey, 477 Belleville Street, whose husband is a welder at the C.G.E. Her two-year-old youngster was very much against the idea, but stopped fussing in a few minutes after the job was done. Mrs. Murray Barrons 634 Stonewall Street, has been in Peterborough about a year, having come from the Cordova Mines. Her two small children, 2 and 1, cried in sympathy, and their chorus made them feel better about the whole thing.

Mrs. Alice Rosborough 655 Donegal Street, formerly of Lakefield, believes emphatically that the children should be done in infancy and that parents who neglect this measure of protection are very foolish. Mrs. Clif Williamson, 755 Donegal Street, had her daughter Joan 4½ there, and Joan, watching the proceedings with great interest never flinched when the needle went in. Both Mrs. Joseph Amyott, 175 Rubidge Street, and Mrs. Harold Hoar, 466 Elm Street had their children there, and were very pleased to have the opportunity to make use of it. Mrs. Hoar was the only woman there whose husband was not employed in the C.G.E. Her husband works for W. J. Robson.

A former resident of Belleville, Mrs. Arthur Calvert, 677 Stormont Street, had her two-year-old youngster along and saw to it that their was no hanging back when the job had to proceed.

Last Rites Are Held For Burton Miller

The funeral of Burton O. Miller took place Wednesday afternoon from the family residence, 212 McDonnel Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, under the shadow of a posthumous legal process which accentuated to the members of his family the shock of his death and their mourning, and to his many friends their deep regret at his untimely passing.

After the final committal service at the cemetery, the grave was left open, pending the necessary steps for the autopsy ordered by the Attorney-General of Ontario, presumably as an ultimate episode of enquiry related to the motor accident near Newtonville last autumn in which Mr. Miller suffered painful injuries.

To the friends of Mr. Miller, remembering his dominant disposition of fairness, his sense of justice, and also his unogtrusive way in life, this action seemed a violation of a lingering personality, a final, even if legally warranted and unnecessary act of aggression.

The funeral service at the home was conducted by Rev. Dr E. W. Young, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Rev. Dr. Young mentioned especially the exceedingly close integration of the Miller family, their unity and loyalty and love, even to a more noticeable extent than in most families "And now that this link with the youngest brother has been broken by his death, the sense of loss and pain to the spirit is all the more keenly felt." Dr. Young said that the late Mr. Miller had been greatly devoted to his family all through his life, and he had also been an unfailing friend to those beyond the family circle. Everything about his private life had been a good example to those who knew him. He had suffered toward the end, and although there was something beyond human understanding in the incidence of death and God's eternal purpose was fulfilled. Dr. Young expressed sympathy, particularly for Mr. Miller's sisters, who were grievously injured in the same traffic accident in which their brother was hurt.

To them, he said, was the consolation of the fine record of life which Mr. Miller had left behind and the warm place he held in the esteem of those who knew him. And Dr Young quoted a poem which included this verse:

"Though not cold beneath the grasses,
Not close-walled within the tomb,
Rather in our Father's mansion
Living in another room."

The pall-bearers were J. Durham Collins, Keith G. Lech, Fred J. L. Green, J. O. Wilson, T. H. Theobald and Ian Strachan of Toronto. A profusion of floral offerings was a last tribute to the memory of a kindly friend and Christian character who had contributed much to the amenities of life.

With Giant Fish And Cigar-Smoking Frogs Bancroft Area Leads In 1942 Fish Stories

Here's a little story that nominates Adam Sands for the fraternity of Isaac Walton. It strains credibility, as it should, kindles risibility, making it welcome both in Bancroft and Peterborough, and it questions visibility at the time of the incident.

The Bancroft folks said it was a pretty good story, and probably they were aware it carried aldermanic authenticity.

Angler Sands was standing on the shores of Shanty Lake in Hastings county the other evening. Twilight was gathering over the scene and its beauty that they properly boast about in those parks. Alderman Sands was smoking a cigar that had burned down almost to the butt stage. A few minutes later he casually tossed it to one side over the water. Presently out of the corner of his eye he noticed a dully glowing point as if it were in the water. Looking directly toward it he saw a big frog sitting on a lily pad with the stub of the cigar in its mouth.

"That cigar never hit the water," Alderman Sands declared as his considered explanation. "The frog was waiting for something to come along for the evening meal. That is what must have happened. Any way just as I realized what it was the frog blew the cigar butt out of its mouth, a foot or so, and then slipped in of the lily pad. Maybe he wasn't feeling any too well by that time."

One does not intend to elaborate the story or to add a decorative frill, but it seems Alderman Sands also said that smoke acompanied the butt in the frog's blowing. That's only natural anyway. And so there's the story, and Vern Selkirk was close by when the frog did its puffing, but that is not mentioned for the benefit of bulwarking veracity.

If Alderman Sands tells you that story, and you look at him with an incredulous but smiling gleam in your eye, here is what he will likely say to you, as he probably said at Bancroft where he regaled some of the folks back there, and as he said to an Examiner reporter—"Well, all right!" in the tone of surely you are not doubting his aldermanic word.

Record Sales Of Salvage Made In June

The Salvage Committee enjoyed a bumper month in June, when, owing to the large amount of salvage collected in Thursday city area pick-up and the amount of metal sold by estimate, a grand total of $876.96 was realized. Of this total, $217 was received for metal, and $8.14 for tin.

The following are the amounts of different kinds of salvage: newspaper, 46,864 lbs.; corrugated paper, 13,530 lbs.; scrap paper, 25,930 lbs.; rags, 2,646 lbs.; satinette, 2,525 lbs.; mattresses, 851 lbs.; and $59.57 worth of odd rubber. Bottles are not included, figures on the sale of bottles being restricted. A donation of $500.00 was sent to the Prince of Wales Rangers, 1st Batt. for the purchase of band instruments.

A system has been instituted whereby organizations sending workers to the Salvage work on a competitive basis. The organization showing the highest number of working hours by representatives of that organization receives a donation of $50 to aid in its work. There are second and third prizes of $15 and $10 respectively.

A new order has come from Ottawa, stressing the urgent need for corrugated paper, brown paper, wrapping paper, containers, bags, enxelopes, letters, office scrap, old ledger paper, etc.

Because of the co-operation of all volunteer workers, it was possible to get the papers out very quickly after each pick-up in the city-wide drive. Another city-wide campaign will be run again, and continued until all areas are covered.

Y.M. Vacation Club To Commence July 20

The Annual Vacation Club for boys will soon be under way at the Y.M.C.A. It begins July 20 and continues daily until Friday, July 31. An interesting program is being planned and a capable staff has been arranged for.

The activities will include swimming, sing-songs, movies, trips to interesting places, interest groups of various kinds—light wood-work, finger painting, modelling, block-printing, stencilling, beginners' basketball, periods for non-swimmers, and soap carving.

The members of the Vacation Club staff are the following: Miss C. Wagar, Miss L. Dewart, Miss Dorothy Grady, Mrs. R. King, H. Sheppard, D. MacPherson, Q. S. McKinney.

As registrations will necessarily be limited, boys between the ages of 8 and 14 years are asked to register not later than Saturday morning, July 18.

This Vacation Club is arranged annually for the boys who through lack of time or finances or for other reasons are unable to attend the annual summer camp on Clear Lake. The Vacation Club gives these growing youngsters the next best thing, while permitting them to live at home.

Children's Cent Has Lost Buying Power

Little Willie with a cent to spend will soon find the corner store out of his usual stock, with the alternative of putting it in the bank to save up for a war stamp.

The corner store is probably the outer boundary of the small world of the young Toms, Dicks and Harrys, who are going to be told one of these days that their cent has lost its buying power. Their plight was even mentioned in Parliament and the Minister of Finance explained that if the "penny piece" candy was exempted the sweets manufacturers would concentrate on that kind of stock.

At one of the corner stores, in fact from William J. Grady, it was learned that the "cent-candy" cost the store man $1.05 a gross (144): and the new tax of 30 per cent raises the wholesale cost of $1.36, and that would leave a margin of only eight cents for the storekeeper, who is unlikely to continue to carry a stock of cent-sticks just to accommodate little Willie.

Dentists might try to comfort the small boys that after all they will have better if not sweeter teeth than before the war interfered with their desire for candy. Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., mentioned the loss of business to the corner stores, and in the centre of the more or less contending group is little Willie tightly clutching his long dependable cent that is now about to fail him.

When the present candy boxes are emptied, it is unlikely that they will be refilled. After all, the retailers have to get a bit of profit from Willie's cent or close out that part of their business, and the Minister of Finance has to plug loopholes in the sugar restrictions.

Only One Delivery Of Mail Daily

Starting today, there will be one complete mail delivery a day for residential districts, Post Master Charles Lacheur said. This means that a part of the district will be covered in the morning and part in the afternoon. Also deliveries have been extended to Anne street and the west side of Monaghan Road between Charlotte and Sherbrooke streets, and to the south isde of Weller between Albertus and Gordon avenues, and south of Lansdowne street, east of Lock. A further notification will appear shortly as to when each district will be covered, as the first day is just an experiment.

Important Notice

To Relatives of Men Overseas In the Army, the Air Force and the Navy

The National Film Board is arranging for additional interesting home news for the Canadian Army Overseas and is undertaking the production of a regular series of films entitled "Pictorial Home Town News."

The purpose of the films is to convey to the men overseas a pictorial record of everyday Canadian life under wartime conditions, including as far as possible the parents, wives, sweethearts and children of these men.

It is proposed that the contents of the films be along the following lines:

1. A George street scene with relatives of overseas men on apparent shopping tour.

2. Gatherings of Overseas Unit Auxiliaries.

3. Children whose relatives are overseas shown in supervised playgrounds, wading or swimming pools.

Peterborough is to be included in this film and it is expected that it will be taken some day early next week, and evreyone interested is asked to watch the paper and be prepared on short notice to be in a position to take part in any proceedings that will be included in the film. Further suggestions for scenes which would add to the popularity of the film may be sent to Art Cauley, at the Capitol Theatre, or R. M. Glover.

4 Canucks Spend Five Days In Rubber Dinghy

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, July 16 — (CP Cable). —Safe at an operational base and ready to fly into Germany again right away a young French-Canadian airman from Edmonton told the story of five days adrift in the North Sea in a rubber dinghy with three other R.C.A.F. men and one R.A.F. pilot.

He is Sgt. Gerard Phalempin, a wind and sun-burned wireless operator-air gunner, who saw nothing particularly heroic in the manner in which he and his companions faced their five-day ordeal with only the slimmest rations and without water.

With Phalempin were Sgt. G. D. Murray Eniskillen, Ont., Sgt. J. G. Cameron, Toronto, Sgt. R. Dempsay, Cobalt, Ont., and the R.A.F. man.

They composed a Wellington crew in the bomber force which hammered Bremen on June 25 and it was the first operational flight for all the Canadians except Cameron. For him it was No. 3.

The crew toured safely through flak and bombed in the target area, and were the best part of the way home when one engine conked, forcing them down into the sea.

Plane Sinks Inside Minute.

The pilot flattened out as he hit the water but the jar was sufficient to throw Phalempin through the wireless operator's compartment door and cut his forehead. The crew swiftly launched the dinghy and helped the dazed pilot into the water during the 40 seconds it took the plane to sink. It was no easy job to swim to the dinghy in heavy flying togs.

There was no water in the dinghy and only emergency rations and one workable flashlight.

As they tossed on the North Sea waves they heard homeward-bound planes pass overhead. Unable to attract attention in the darkness, they remained hopeful as they knew they were only about 40 miles from the English coast, Phalempin said.

The crew used the emergency ration tins as paddles. Every day they saw planes and though they waved their Mae Wests and did all the aproved things shipwrecked mariners are supposed to do, they remained unsighted.

Finally, on the fifth day, a cruising R.A.F. Boston spotted them and circled for three hours. Then two Wellingtons took over the watch for two hours, and at last an air-sea rescue boat picked them up and took them to hospital.

Help Build Timber Stores Greater Army

Canada's vast timber reserves have played a major part in helping to build up the army, through efforts of the Lands, Parks and Forest Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources.

At the outbreak of hostilities, the facilities of the Forest Products Laboratories in Ottawa, Montreal, and Vancouver were placed at the disposal of the government. The many and varied uses to which wood is being put during the present conflict have involved extensive research work, and in this connection the equipment, the skilled personnel, and the accumulated data and experience of the laboratories have proved invaluable.

The laboratories have been utilized in planning the construction of wooden military camps; in the fire-retardent treatment of wood and plywood for military requirements, and in the preservative treatment of timbers. Research work carried out by the staff has made possible amendments to United Kingdom specifications for wood used in war equipment built in Canada so as to permit using Canadian species as far as practicable instead of imported timber.

Multiply Wood Demands.

The highly mechanized character of the war has greatly multiplied the demands for wood in all forms, and the cutting off of normal sources of supply has necessitated substitution in many cases.

Problems relating to the design and testing of shipping containers of wood, fibreboard, corrugated board, and plywood for the consignment of munitions, foodstuffs and equipment have been solved by the laboratory workers. The transport of munitions overseas requires a multitude of containers of various sizes and types as well as the utmost economy in cargo space, and in numerous cases changes of design suggested by the laboratories have made possible saving in both ship space and material with no loss of efficiency.

Wenchow Falls Into Jap Hands

CHUNGKING, July 16—(AP). —Capture by the Japanese of Wenchow, important southern Chekiang province port, last Saturday was announced by the Chinese today and an army spokesman said its reports showed the invaders took the city because of fear it might be used as an Allied air or naval base.

The spokesman said Julan, across a peninsula about 12 miles to the southwest of Wenchow and also a port at the head of Deep Bay, fell to the enemy the next day.

Japanese operations near Foochow, in Fukien province to the south and the last remaining major port in Chinese possession, also arise from fears of its potential use by the United Nations he said.

Although the Japanese have been ejected from Futuo Island, near Foochow, the spokesman said they still held Lancgho Island.

The Japanese are reorganizing 20 brigades in China into full divisions he said, "and this means that the brigades will be given an offensive character."

The called ths evidence of "bigger ambitions" for the enemy but added that "where and when he will strike I cannot say."

Argentine Loses Ex-President

BUENOS AIRES, July 16—(AP). —Former President Roberto M. Ortis, of Argentina, who resigned his post June 24 after being inactive for nearly two years because of ill health and near blindness, died today.

He had received Extreme Unction early this morning from Bishop Temnos Miguel de Andrea.

Ortiz, who was 56, had suffered from diabetes for several years and his condition became serious yesterday after an attack of bronchial pneumonia. His condition was further complicated by a kidney ailment, it was said.

Ortiz, who favored closer co-operation with the United States and other American nations, said he had refrained from resigning earlier because there was a chance of regaining his health.

At the time of his resignation he concluded his 'last hope was crushed' and that he was leaving office because of 'unfavorable conclusions regarding my health which have just been reached by my physician.'

Sugar Coupons Good After Dates

TORONTO, July 16 — (CP). — Sugar ration coupons are good any time after their individual maturity dates, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board emphasized to-day.

The board said that while the first coupon could not be used before July 1, the second before July 13, the third before July 27, the fourth before August 10 and the fifth before August 24, all the coupons are valid at any time after their maturity dates.

However, all the coupons cannot be used at once, officials said because the sugar ration regulations provide that no one shall have more than two weeks' supply of sugar on hand at any one time.

Lady Gets Bail In Exchange Case

TORONTO, July 16—(CP).—Etta Copeland, 30, was remanded for a week on bail of $2,500 when she appeared in police court here today before Magistrate J. L. Prentice charged with a breach of a foreign exchange control board order.

Miss Copeland, arrested last night, is a sister of Joseph Copeland who was arrested last week-end at Buffalo, N.Y., charged with failing to register under the United States Selective Service Act. Copeland was released on bail of $1,500 on that charge in Buffalo yesterday but was fined $25 and costs for failing to produce a New York State driver's license.

At the time of his arrest, police said he was carrying more than $20,000 in cash and certified cheques an had bank receipts in excess of $24,000.

J. N. Pell, in charge of enforcement of the Foreign Exchange Control Act, said in Toronto last night that if Copeland could be extradited to Canada he would be prosecuted on charges of illegally converting Canadian money into American currency.

More Soldiers' Parcels To Be Sent Overseas

HASTINGS, July 16 — (ENS).—Two quilts were completed at the regular meeting of the Cobourg Red Cross Society held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Oliver.

Parcels, which took one month to reach them were acknowledged by Gnr. Elmer Richardson and Pte. Philip Ford, Percy boys now overseas. Their genuine appreciation of these tokens decided the ladies to pack still another parcel for each of the eight Cobourg Road boys overseas.

Individual contributions for these parcels, which will be prepared at the home of the president, Miss C. Williamson July 29, may be left at the residence of Arthur Beamish on or before that date.

Cigarettes for these boys will be dispatched immediately by the society.

It was revealed that the proceeds of the salvage campagn amounted to $57.00.

The knitting convener reported that one scarf, one pair seamen's stockings and two pairs of socks had been completed and the sewing convener's report showed 6 pairs of pyjamas and 16 girls nightgowns finished.

During the month a pot luck dinned and quilting, at which three quilts were finished, was held. Next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Carman.

New Zezo Model

CANBERRA, Australia, July 16—(CP).—Air Minister Arthur Drakeford announced today the Japanese have a new model Zero fighter in operation against Allied forces north of Australia.

The new model has greater structural strength and has about 1,000 horsepower compared with 800 in the old, Mr. Drakeford said, but climb and manoeuvrability have been lost.

He expressed doubt that the new planes could be launched from aircraft carriers.

Want Pigeon Men

OTTAWA, July 16—(CP). — The carrier pigeon has been given a place in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The R.C.A.F. is anxious to recruit immediately some 70 experienced loftmen—as pigeon handlers are called—for service on Canada's east and west coasts. Experience in handling and training racing pigeons will be the determining factor in recruiting.

Headquarters spokesmen said the call at present is just for loftmen; pigeons are not wanted so far.

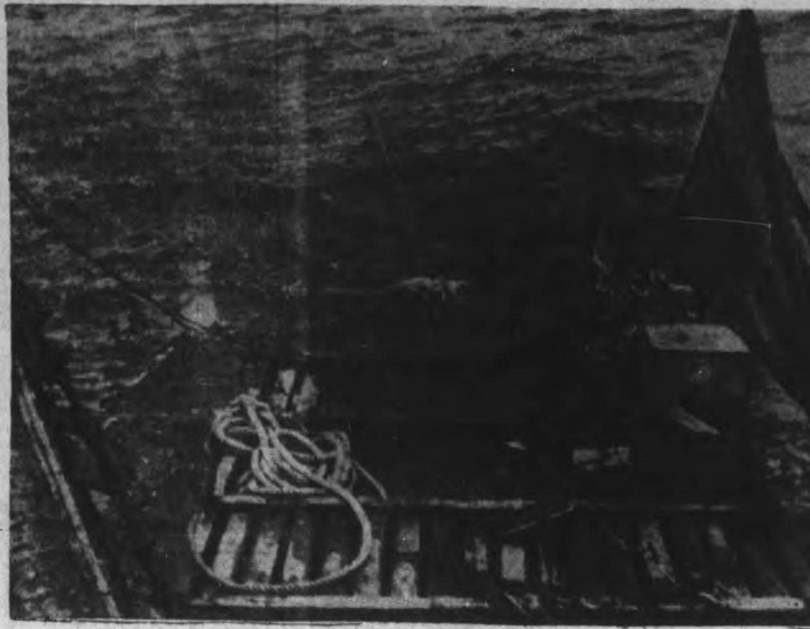
Survivors Of St. Lawrence River Sinkings Hauled To Safety By Rescue Vessels

A survivor is shown clambering up the side of a rescue vessel after spending hours floating on the river. Many of the rescued seamen were injured, but managed to row or raise sails on their liferafts which brought them ashore and to rescue ships.



Survivors of ships sunk in the St. Lawrence spent hours on sailing liferafts such as this one before being picked up by rescue boats. Many of the survivors managed to reach shore in their lifeboats and rafts, and were quickly given aid by villagers along the shore.

Training Of Army Tradesmen Is Vital Phase Of Army Program

How does a soldier become a tradesmen?

He is first selected by an officer of the Directorate of Personnel Selection in a Basic Training Centre. One completion of his basic military training, he goes to an Advanced Training Centre of the Corps to which he has been posted. During his training at the Advanced Training Centre, he is finally selected by the Commanding Officer and proceeds to one of the trade training institutions across Canada. When his trade course is completed, he returns to his Training Centre or Unit, where he received practical trade training and the military application of his trade.

The economic depression which commenced some ten years ago prior to the outbreak of present hostilities had a profound effect on the tradesmen situation in the Canadian Army, which effect became more pronounced with the very considerable expansion of the Armed Forces following the collapse of France.

Few Apprentices Trained

During the years of economic depression, few apprentices were being trained in Industry in the building and mechanical trades. It seemed that few jobs would be available for the apprentice upon completion of his service and it further seemed to the trained tradesman that it was unwise to train apprentices to compete with them for the limited number of jobs available. Funds for military training were sparse and no peace time expansion of military forces was in sight which could have absorbed any considerable number of tradesmen even had the training facilities existed.

This resulted in a minimum number of tradesmen being trained either by industry or the army during the years 1929-39.

The strain was not felt by the 1st Division, nor to any considerable extent by the 2nd Division. But by the time the 3rd and subsequent divisions were mobilized, it was apparent that the rapidly expanding munitions industry had attracted most of the available supply of tradesmen to the more lucrative (and safer) occupation of supplying munitions and equipment for the troops.

Devised Vast Scheme

It, therefore, became necessary to inaugurate a very considerable scheme of training to provide personnel sufficiently skilled to keep the wheels of the army in motion.

When it is realized that the proportion of men to motor cars or lorries in the army is roughly 5-1, and men to motorcycles 10-1, the problem of supplying tradesmen in the automotive trades to repair and service the tens of thousands of vehicles on establishments will be visualized as one of very considerable proportions.

Added to this problem of servicing Army vehicles is that of the expanding use of radio and wireless communications and electrical control system for anti-aircraft fire. The number of wireless and radio technicians, repair men and artisans to work on the more complicated type of optical instruments, range finders, etc., grows with the passing months.

The numbers of personnel and varieties of armament and fire control equipment for artillery continue to expand. R.C.A. units now utilize guns which vary in calibre from 2-pounders to the heavier coast defence guns, and each unit has to be supplied with artificers, instrument mechanics and fitters to service this complex equipment.

Heavily Armored

The Armoured Corps is equipped with thousands of tanks, reconnaissance and armored cars, all of which are special vehicles powered by various types of automotive, diesel and radial engines.

The majority of these vehicles are equipped with wireless equipment and armed with anything from machine guns to 6-pounder guns.

It will be readily seen that the Armored Corps require men who are not only highly trained as fighting soldiers, but skilled in a number of trades.

The Royal Canadian Engineers require tradesmen who cover the full range of the construction industry—operators of heavy road machinery, electricians, bricklayers, carpenters, plumbers, tinsmiths, blacksmiths, welders, painters. The requirements of the Egineers cover surveyors, miners, diamond drillers. Well drillers are also required, as it is the function of the Engineers to supply water.

Facilities have been set up for the training of army tradesmen for all corps as follows. Through the agency of the Department of Labor, arrangements are made with the departments of education in each province whereby trade classes are conducted in technical and vocational schools for some thousands of soldiers.

The Canadian Army Trades Schol at Hamilton provides training for automotive tradesmen, machinists, metal workers, carpenters, blacksmiths, welders, electricians, wireless and instrument mechanics, cooks, clerks, etc.

Train Driver Mechanics

The advanced Driving and Maintenance School at Woodstock provides facilities for the training of driver mechanics and instructors in driving and maintenance.

The Mechanics' Training Centre at London trains motor machanics and fitters for the R.C.O.C. workshop units and for the C.A.C. training this chool includes diesel and radial engines.

The Advanced Training Centres of every corps train certain tradesmen who are specialists in the corps.

Industry has provided training facilities and courses are conducted in automotive trades by the International Harvester Company, Ford Motor Company, Chrysler Corporation and General Motors Corporatin. In additin to these, Canadian army tradesmen may be found in training in a number of munition plants in Canada and the United States.

Allied Bombers Blast Salamana

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 16 — (CP). — Allied bombers paid another visit to the much-bombed Japanese base at Salamaua, New Guinea yesterday, and blasted at the airdrome runway from which Japanese planes take off on their raids on Port Moresby, most advanced Allied base.

Another flight of planes sank a small Japanese vessel and started fires in the port installations at Kalabahi, Alor Island, just off the north-west coast of Timor Island in the Netherlands East Indies, a Headquarters communique said today. It was the first time Alor Island had been mentioned in communiques. Kalabahi is a small port on the island.

Air Minister Arthur Drakeford, returning to Canberra after a tour of United tSates and Austalian air bases, said that "in the event of a Japanese invasion, the battle for Australia might be waged in its crucial phases in the skies."

"Probably the most notable feature of this war has been the emergence of air power as a battle-winning instrument," he said.

All Fishing Boats

NORFOLK, Va., July 16.—(AP).—United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox said to-day that while 'we shouldn't completely cripple the fishing industry,' the navy is taking all commercial fishing craft suitable for conversion to anti-submarine patrol vessels for duty off the Atlantic coast.

Stopping for a press conference at the Norfolk naval operating base after an inspection of the Little Creek section base, headquarters of the fifth naval district for inshore patrol operations, Knox said sound detection devices were being installed on all small boats that coud carry them.

Storm Upsets Scotia

HALIFAX, July 16 — (CP). — A severe lightning storm which ripped through the length of Nova Scotia for 2½ glaring and thunderous hours during the night caused two deaths in the Halifax area, damaged numerous buildings in various sections of the province, and disrupted Cape Breton's intertown tram service.

Ernest Grey, a fisherman at Sambro, the headland at the entrance to Halifax harbor, was killed by lightning, and L.Bdr. Donald Young, United States-born member of the Canadian army, believed to be a native of California, was electrocuted while dancing in the schoolhouse at Ketch Harbor, located on the outer tretches of Halifax harbor between Sambro and the city.

MonkeyBusiness In Ship Building

AN EAST COAST U.S. PORT, July 16 — (AP). — Capt. William R. McDonough expressed the beliel that there was "monkey business" in the sinking of his medium-sized United States merchant ship in broad daylight on July 1, in the Caribbean Sea.

"In my opinion," said McDonough on his arrival here "there was a lot of monkey business about this torpedoing.

"I feel that the crew of the submarine knew we carried a valuable cargo, and that our destination and route were known to them."

Three members of the crew of 42 were killed when two torpedoes struck the ship in rapid succession. Four memebrs of the 14-man Navy gun crew aboard are missing. The survivors were picked up after six hours in lifeboats.

Four shots were fired at the submarines periscope by the gun crew, but there was no evidence of a hit being scored.

Raspberries are Plentiful

EXCELLENT QUALITY FOR MAKING JAM AND JELLY

RASPBERRIES are both plentiful and fine this year. So you should make more raspberry jam and jelly than usual to compensate for the short strawberry crop.

Make your raspberry jam and jelly with CERTO. Here are a few instructions to help you in making the necessary purchases:

1 It is not obligatory to buy your fruit and sugar at the same store.

2 Sugar ration coupons are not needed to purchase sugar for jam and jelly making. Just sign the voucher your grocer has for this purpose.

3 CERTO IS PECTIN, EXTRACTED FROM FRUIT. When pectin is used in making jam or jelly, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 150 allows you to use sugar not in excess of one and one-quarter pounds of sugar for each pound of fruit. On the basis that "fruit" means "unprepared" fruit, this allows you to make your jams and jellies the Certo way which gives you approximately two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

Windsor Council All But 2 In The Reserves

LONDON, Ont., July 16—(CP)—It's a good thing that the men who hold the reins of civic government in Windsor, Ont., have capable assistants, because otherwise things might be in a sorry state this week in the Border City.

A big percentage of the city fathers are at Thames Valley Camp here right now, getting settled down to army life as members of the 30th Reconnaissance Battalion.

Its so big a percentage, in fact, that Thursday's Board of Control meeting will be held right in camp. The two controllers who aren't taking Reserve Army training are just out of luck—they'll have to visit Thames Valley for the afternoon.

Headed by Mayor Arthur Reaume, the meeting will be attended by the following controller-reservists: Maj. W. Stewart, secretary of the board and officer commanding the 30th Reconnaissance; Lieut. McMillan, Sgt.-Maj. W. Atkinson and Maj. D. S. White, the latter the city of Widsor's purchasing agent.

Mayor Reaume holds the rank of of leutenant.

Also in the 30th Reconnaissance tents at the Reserve camp are John D. Chuck, Windsor, vice-president of the American Hockey League; Paul Martin, M.P., for Essex East; Harold Vaughan, managing editor of the Windsor Daily Star, and Douglas Mackey, writer for the same paper.

Vote Campaigner Mrs. Scott Dies

MONTREAL, July 16 — (CP). — Mrs. John Scott, well-known for her campaign to obtain the vote for women in Quebec province, died yesterday in her 88th year.

A native of Glasgow, Mrs. Scott came to Canada in 1874. Her family settled in Scotstown, Que., where she formed the first branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the first women's organization to have as a plank in its platform the vote for women.

When she came to Montreal, Mrs. Scott joined the W.C.T.U. branch here, and through her interest in the society she became active in the woman suffrage campaign. Long before the First Great War she was a leader in the movement.

In the bitter Dominion general election campaign in Quebec in 1917, Mrs. Scott became the first woman in Canada to address large political meetings.

After the war, she resumed her activities in connection with getting the vote for women. During war years, women relatives of soldiers received the right to vote in federal elections and after the war this was extended to all Canadian women.

She is Mrs. Fred Henderson, wife of a retired steelworker, now helping to build ships.

Real War In Mock Battles At Borden

Before they ever come into contact with the enemy Canadian soldiers get a taste of real war. Mock battles, with all the realism of actual warfare, are staged frequently, as illustrated in the ABOVE photographs. In the UPPER PANEL infantrymen, equipped with gas masks and with bayonets fixed, emerge from a smoke screen behind a protesting screen of tanks. The LOWER photograph shows the sturdy Canadian-built tanks rumbling along ahead of the soldiers during the battle.

The Public Library

By FRED M. DELAFOSSE

The Public Library is so well known to the majority of city residents and to our neighbors in the surrounding townships that it would seem hardly necessary to dilate on any features of the service that it renders to the community. Yet, although everybody is fairly conversant with the various classes of books that are to be found in the adult and juvenile departments there are certain points on which more enlightenment may be acceptable. It is to provide this that the present article is written.

The Reference Library

This department, which is open to adults and juveniles alike, is, of course, the most important in the Library. Members of past boards and also of the present one have always been keenly alive to this fact and have striven, so far as was compatible with the financial resources of the institution, to make it the strongest feature. Year after year, its usefulness has been enhanced by the addition of valuable books, maps and treatises till today the city possesses a set of volumes which many larger institutions might well covet.

It has many encyclopaedias, books of quotations, and concordances dealing with the works of eminent authors, including a very comprehensive one on the whole of Shakespeare's works. There are, in addition, dictionaries in many languages, headed by that peerless product of over seventy years' research by eminent savants, the Oxford Dictionary, in twelve massive volumes. Dobbin's Biographical Index of Peterborough, histories, biographies and gazetteers, much ana dealing with the story of our city and county, a fine and extensive Art section, and that monumental work, the Dictionary of National Biography, combine, with many volumes on various subjects to form a solid phalanx of reference literature.

But reference work stretches far beyond the limits of reference shelves. For instance, our local newspapers, which have always been carefully fyled, are often consulted, as also are copies of the Globe and Mail, and the issues of the two papers before they were consolidated some years ago.

Our city directories have been kept ever since the Library was opened in the month of February, 1911.

A very valuable feature, about which little is known, are the back files of the New York Times, stored since the year 1925. This fact, in itself, may not seem particularly inspiring, but we also have complete indices to go with them. These form an "Open, Sesame" to every item, important or otherwise, that has appeared in this great newspaper for the past 17 years. The great value of such an adjunct to our reference strength cannot be overestimated, and as the city grows its usefulness will become increasingly apparent, especially to scholars, students and members of the Fourth Estate.

Comparatively few people know that we have an unbroken file of numbers of the Patent Office Record. Very few people are aware that the Dominion Government sends us this publication, along with most of the blue books published under its auspices.

We receive hundreds of catalogues from publishers in the United States, the British Isles and Canada, bescides the United States Catalogue of books published monthly and yearly ,and its English equivalent, Whitaker's Reference Catalogue. In addition to these we get the Book Review Digest, which gives criticisms of most of the outstanding books published each year, also the Reader's Guide, a most useful index to articles in many of the best known and influential magazines.

Only the more salient points in connection with the Reference Library have been touched on in this short article, but enough has been presented, it is hoped ,to show that the Library is well worth a visit to test the usefulness of this department alone.

A word of advice before concluding may not be out of place. Half the usefulness of a library is lost to the public by its inability in many instances, to master the catalogue. The hours that are lost in fruitless quest of books by visitors is immense and all because they are too proud or too shy to make their wants known to the staff. The average mind can master the intricacies of the catalogue in less than three minutes, and nothing pleases the staff better than to show enquiriers the method of its working.

In a fuure article more particulars will be given to show what the Peterborough Library offers to the public.

R.A.F. Busy Again

LONDON, July 15—(CP).—Fine weather for flying returned today and the R.A.F.'s fighters went to work again on Nazi installations on French soil across the Channel.

Several squadrons were assigned to morning operations Strong formations of planes roared over Folkestone shortly before noon, returning from the direction of Cap Gris Nez.

Adverse weather kept British bombers from raiding Germany overnight, an informed source said.

Death For U-Boats

As the U-boat menace daily comes nearer to Canadian shores, ships of the Canadian Navy seek out the skulkers, dropping deadly charges of explosives in their undersea lairs. In Canadian factories war workers are speeding production to keep up the supply of depth charges. Here a worker in a Pacific coast plant is shown assembling screw tops for the charges.

Air Raid Wardens Making Plans To Canvass All Homes In Area

If an air raid warden has not visited your home as yet to leave you a card with Air Raid Precautions advice, do not think you have been passed by. You can blame it on vacation time for some of the wardens and also to the fact that two of the divisions held "whiteouts" this week. On Tuesday night, the North Ward with a bit of Smith Township tacked on to No. 4 Division as it is called for A.R.P. purposes had their first "whiteout" which was very successful. Division Warden Coleman E. Blewett and District Wardens Vic Tully, Walter Fitzgerald and Rufus Payne with the hard working wardens of this division arranged it and made a good job of it. Lt.-Col. T. Dalton Johnston in his official capacity as Deputy Chief Warden and Wardens Dennis Fitzgerald and Ken Hogg of No. 2 Division were along to get some pointers for the coming No. 2 Division "whiteout."

No. 6 Division which is the North Monaghan division and which runs from Jackson Park Road to the Otonabee River held an equally successful one on Wednesday night. Division Warden Harold Cassan and his District Wardens Bob Hanscom and Jack Sinclair along with Captain Bert Cutmore as Deputy Chief Warden visited all the posts in the large area which constitutes No. 6 Division. The North Monaghan division which is part of the Peterborough A.R.P. area is in charge of Harold Cassan who is a member of the township council, and this division is never outdone by any of the city divisions in any of the enthusiasm or efficieny of the warden's work of A.R.P.

But to get back to your warden's visit. They will be around to see you in the next three or four weeks and they will be glad to help you with your problems of home protection against air raids to the best of their ability. They all have a lot of ground to cover and if you cooperate with them in answering the few official questions they have to ask you, it will lighten their task. After all it is in the interests of your protection, so your appreciation will aid them.

The cards they leave with you will be full of information and those who have already been visited speak highly of the data contained on both sides. Remember the card is for the house or apartment so if you change your residence leave your card hanging up and get in touch with the warden in the new section you are moving to. But be sure and study your card and try to fulfil some of the suggestions prior to air raids for it will be too late then to try and get equipment.

Queen Honors Dutch Nurse

NEW YORK, July 16 — (AP).— Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands congratulated a pretty Netherlands nurse yesterday for her bravery under fire when the ship she was on was torpedoed off the coast of Crete.

Eleven other members of the Netherlands merchant marine were honored by their Queen in a ceremony at the Seaman's Church Institute which the Royal visitor attended on the second day of her New York visit.

The nurse, Albertini Brij, was blown into the water and picked up two hours later by a destroyer which took her to Alexandria where she was placed in a camp for Greek refugees. She reached the United States several months ago.

That's why it's called the "SELF-STARTER" BREAKFAST.

AGAINST CANADA'S SKYLINE are silhouetted hundreds of busy carpenters like this one, working at top speed to provide living quarters for Canada's fighting men. A VERY ROSY OUTLOOK

A skirt gathered to a weskit beltband which keeps body, skirt and blouse in a neat trio, is silk-smooth spun rayon white, sprinkled with huge roses. The shirt is the same fabric in jet black, fastened with one rose button. Tops for leisure hours.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ENJOYING leisure is no waste of precious time these days . . . if you RELAX! Silly to go into such a close schedule to "get things done" that there's never an idle moment just to keep calm, cool and collected. Remember too that the mere sight of a woman eternally busy at something . . . often a very unessential something, merely the expression of a nervous wartime habit . . . is also tiring to the innocent observer. Cultivate repose of manner and build your strength for the "must" jobs. And look pretty . . . it helps. Choose your leisure clothes to please others as well as yourself. Beauty sure is in the eye of the beholder.

DOROTHY DIX

PRODIGAL SON AND DAUGHTER SHOULD BE DISINHERITED

Their Share Of Mother's Wealth Should Be Put in Trust For Their Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I have 3 sons and four daughters. One son is a drunkard. He goes on sprees that last from three to ten days every month and has to be sent to a sanitorium to be sobered up. He has a wife and three lovely children.

One of my daughters married a fine man and has two children. She fell in love with an older man who is also married and has two fine children. The result was two broken homes. My other children are as fine as can be.

I am about to make my last will and wonder if I should leave less to the children who have disgraced the whole family and brought so much trouble upon me. I also believe that anything left to the prodgials would be spent in riotous living and perhaps do more harm than good. I intend to provide for the children of the bad boy and girl but am inclined not to leave the parents anything. What is your advice.—W.A.S.

ANSWER: I think your plan of disposing of your property is an excellent one only I would suggest that you leave to the children of your wild son and daughter the entire amount that you would have given their parents. They are enttiled to that, for they certainly need some compensation for the lack of care that they should have received from their father and mother.

Leave Money In Trust

Only I would urge upon you to leave the children's money in trust for them so that neither the father nor the mother can get their hands upon it. They have already shown that they are only motivated by their own selfish desires to gratify themselves in doing what they want to do, and that no sense of responsibility to their children made them stick to their post and do their duty by them. So their children would have no right to expect them to be any more fair to them about money than they have been fair to them about life.

When I come to die, I will fold my hands in peace and feel that I have not lived in vain if I have made even a hundred men realize how important it is to tie up the money they are leaving their dependents in such a way that they will be protected, not only against crooks, but against their own folly and inexperience.

It is a common thing for instance, for a man, who has children to make a will saying: "I leave all of which I die possessed to my beloved wife Maria." That is a grand gesture, and he feels certain that the children's mother will always take care of them. But often Maria marries in a couple of years and the second husband is a crook, or maybe just a bad business man, and he gets away with all the money and the children get nothing.

Prodigal Sons and Daughters Profit

Or Maria, never having handled anything more than the market money, becomes the dupe of the glib talking promoters who persuade her to sell her husband's gilt-edge bonds and invest in Wild Cat Preferred. Insurance companies tell us that what between super-salesmen end borrowing friends and relatives and Maria going on a spending spree with the first money she has ever had to blow in, it takes her about ten years to throw to the winds what her husband has taken forty years to pile up. Furthermore, if there are any black sheep in the family, of course Mother is going to pay them out of trouble, and they get all the fortune while the good children get none. In every family it is the prodigal sons and daughters for whom the fatted calf is slain.

An when a man is going to leave his daughters some money, he should tie it up tight and fast on them so that they may not come to want in their old age. Not every husband wants to cheat his wife out of her inheritance but every man believes that if he only had his wife's money he could make a million. And when the money is gone it doesn't make much difference to daughter whether it went by accident or design.

A woman who loves her husband is put in a hard spot if her husban's fingers itch for her money, because he says to her "if you love me, you would trust me and you would be willing to give me your money to help me. She can't say "no" without practically breaking up the family, yet she may know that good and kind as he is and honest in his intentions, he is impractical and has no financial sagacity, and is utterly incapable of either making or taking care of money.

So think over these things, Mister, when you go to make your will.

Don't Marry A Girl Who Lies

Dear Miss Dix: A litle over a year and a half ago I met a girl who enchanted me and immediately I began dating her. She said she didn't like my dating other girls so I gave them up but, she continued dating other boys. I had my suspicions about her from the beginning when she let me kiss her on our first date. Now I find that she is free with her kisses with all the boys. She denies this. but I have every reason to know that she lies to me.

Now here is my difficulty: I cannot respect a liar. Lying is not up my alley. Knowing her to be a liar, shall I continue dating her? Or shall I tell her that I know she is lying and see what she says and intends to do about it? Or shall I immediately cease all of our relations and start dating other girls? —A DRIZZLE.

ANSWER: If you find the girl interesting and amusing and enjoy going out with her and have no intentions beyond an evening's pleasure, play along with her and become one of the kissees. But if you are really in love with her and have matrimony in view, break off the affair at once.

Don't marry a girl who is a liar. You will never have a moment's peace if you do. The Bible's definition of a good wife says that "her husband's heart doth safely trust in her," and that is the one thing that is indispensable in a successful marriage. A man must believe in his wife as he believes in God and not be continually tortured with doubts and fears.

This girl evidently cares nothing for you. She is just out for a good time.

Mrs. C. F. Kitney Is Hostess To St. James' WMS

Mrs. C. F. Kitney was hostess on Tuesday evening to the members of St. James' United W.M.S. Auxiliary, at her home on Crescent street. An unusually large attendance for a mid-summer meeting and the very interesting program combined in making a most successful and instructive evening, wtih the president, Mrs. Wesley Rose, in the chair. The meeting opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Craik and Mrs Rose welcomed the members, guests and friends, when she introduced the business session. Especially interesting was the treasurer's report, which showed an increase over last year, for the same period, of $13, and that the Bible Society collection had exceeded any ever reported by this auxiliary. Department reports were also heard, showing fine and sustained work. Mrs. Geo. Rowe told of many cards sent from her community friendship department, and Miss Mary Deyell read an article on Christian stewardship.

A beautiful worship service conducted by Mrs. F. McAdams, whose group had planned the program of the day, and who assisted in service, had for its theme 'The self-discipline of the Christian' and was both helpful and informative.

It being the anual temperance program, 'The case for total abstinence in the community,' was the appropriate reading by Mrs. Godfrey, while Mrs. E. Beavis, temperance secretary, gave a splendid talk, based upon excerpts from various temperance periodicals.

This fine meeting closed with prayer and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Craik.

Mrs. Woodley voiced the thanks of the W.M.S. to the hostess for her gracious hospitality in providing a cup of tea and cookies, as well as to the group for their fine program. In responding Mrs. Kitney assured the ladies of a cordial welcome, while she gave her name and membership fee to St. James' Auxiliary of the W.M.S.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 17.

A very propitious and encouraging state of affairs is read from the day's lunar and mutual aspects, with much of a very progressive nature transpiring that might advance the most ambitious of objectives in business, private and public associations. All should be pushed with vigor and confidence and sturdy application but not to the extent of impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very successful, active, and productive year, with much moving toward high goals by expansive and ambitious but well-executed programs and plans of action. This should attract influential persons and enhance personal prestige and popularity but only if pursued with calm conservatism and patience.

A child born on this day should be highly versatile and ambitious, with fine literary or professional ability. Its popularity and personality should assure a pleasant social life.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

The evil that men do, not only lives after them, it frequently receives a great deal of attention during their lives; so much, in fact, that it often obscures their good points and blackens the reputations of their professional colleagues. This is due les sto the villianous character of the evil-doer, than to a kind of unreasonable stupidity on the part of the human race as a whole.

In no field is this inclination to regard all men as tarred with the same brush so strong as in that of politics.. And it sometimes seems as if, in Canada and the United States, this pernicious mental habit is stronger than anywhere else. We subconsciously regard the linking together of the two terms "honest man" and "politcian" as a marriage of two wholy incompatible temperaments; and there seems to be a widely accepted idea that all government jobs, high and low alike, are sinecures obtainable only through a friend who knows somebody whose second cousin is engaged to your M.P.'s secretary; and we assume without question that all government officials are lazy and inefficient and that most of them are corrupt. And the higher the official the less efficient and more lazy he is supposed to me. This in spite of the fact that most of us number among our personal friends public servants whose honesty and intelligence are above question and some of us even know honest men who are politicians. And we all know, did we stop to think, that civil servants try strict and difficult examinations before getting jobs.

But what is worse than the widespread belief in this state of affairs is that fact that we accept it as ineviable; something inseparable from the political game and the workings of the government. We don't try to do anything about it.

It isn't true, of course. And few of us really believe it. It is true that the government does not work as swiftly or as efficiently as a business firm. But the government of our country is bigger than any business, and when clerks are needed in thousands they cannot be chosen with the same fastidious care as when they are needed in tens. It is true that some officials owe their jobs to pull and political preferment, but it does not necessarily follow that they are inefficient or lazy; and there must be many who were given the jobs simply because they were qualified to hold them.

Politicians and high officials probably have gerater opportunities for plunder than you and I. Since they are not all wealthy men they are probably greatly tempted. But even a politician is human, subject to human weaknesses; and probably gifted with average human strength to overcome them.

It is time we realized; or rather, admitted what we really know; that one politician may be a crook without involving his colleagues; and that politicians, statesmen, civil servants and high salaried officials are normal human beings with, at least average intelligence and honesty.

And last, but not least, if we sincerely believe that something is rotten on Parliament Hill, let us do something about it; not just shrug our shoulders and say, "Oh well, that's the government for you!"

Voluntary Discipline Now May Save Restrictions

By MARY MOORE

Ladies, you have before you one of your own ranks who has tightened her belt—and it is not just for reducing reasons!

I have just settled down to normal life again after having attended the Triennial Convention of the C.W.P.C. (Canadian Women's Press Club.)

The theme of the entire convention was "Discipline,"—discipline so that we may do a big job better. The women of the press have been called the most influential organization of women in Canada. That may be controversial,—but if so or if not I am not interested.

What I am interested in is the manner in which disciplinary measures may be applied to conservation and the extension of foods, so that the appalling losses of hipping can be reduced simply because so much shipping is not necesary. Canada should aim to be self sufficient.

If one more sailor lad's life can be saved I would be in favor of the nation as a whole giving up coffee and tea and sugar entirely for the duration. Aren't you with me to a woman?

Because to a certain extent it depends on your cooperation—for if the demand is great enough that will be the impetus the merchant marine needs to try to get through the Nazi submarine gauntlet.

When I mention "cereal coffee" I am not plugging for a certain brand; there are many made right here in Canada, and while it offends our pampered taste to think we have to use substitutes it is a very cheap price to pay for saving lives.

That fact is the astounding responsibility we women have to shoulder.

Are you courageous and ingenious and stern enough to invent or adopt new beverages? What have you done today to cut down your tea and coffee ration?

Skim Milk Cocoa

(We emphasize the skim milk because so many of you will exclaim "Cocoa is too fattening!")

Four tablespoons cocoa, ½ cup corn syrup, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup water, 1 quart skim milk. Mix together the salt, cocoa and water and bring to boiling, then add the corn syrup and milk, and stand over bottom part of double boiler and let heat through, covered. Before serving, mill very well with rotary beater. This is good served cold if any of it is left over. Sometimes I add 1 drop of oil of peppermint to the cold cocoa—it gives it an entirely different flavor and the children think they have a soda fountain beverage.

Cocoa Syrup

One-half cup cocoa, 1¾ cups corn syrup, dash of salt, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Combine cocoa, salt and water and boil 3 minutes, then add the corn syrup, cool, add vanilla and store in covered container in refrigerator. For chocolate drinks use 2 tablespoons syrup for one cup chocolate; for desserts or ice cream sauces, reheat add 1½ tablespoons butter and serve hot.

If you feel that you would like to cut down your morning coffee from 2 cups to one cup, you could follow the lead of one of ou. press women (I think the idea appeared in this column before): Order or provide yourself with a pitcher of hot milk. Pour your coffe- ..p half full of hot coffee and fill with hot milk. It is a very good beverage and an easy method of reducing your coffee intake—you drink two cups of Cafe au Lait but only 1 cup of coffee.

This same substitution holds good for tea too, but since it is an old custom in England it doubtless has become adopted by a great number of our thinking housewives.

I now beg permission to sound off about whole wheat bread again.

I bought our grocerie: in the second largest branch in our city of one of the best chain groceries in Canada and at noon on Saturday there was no whole wheat bread on their shelves.

I want to know WHY?

I wanted to know why so badly that I asked the manager. He said "Nearly everybody wants white bread—if we get a lot of whole wheat bread it is often leftover."

How much educating do Canadian women need before they will jerk themselves out of their ruts and take action? I am more impatient about the poor consumption of whole wheat bread than I sound.

With all the free and widely disseminated propaganda that we have been exposed to, consumption of whole wheat bread should have multiplied overnight—instead it appears that we need something equivalent to a Food Dunkerque to shock us out of our lethargy.

Whole wheat bread contains so many ingredients that make it superior to white bread that even a millionaire cannot afford to go without it—its ingredients are priceless. See this week's Best Wartime Recipe for an excellent supper dish using whole wheat bread and pork liver.

B vitamins, minerals, bran and that elusive combination of elements in whole wheat bread make the B-vitamins function most efficiently when starchy food is digested. You cannot replace it nor has a substitute been f und for it (up to time of writing).

Cracked wheat is not whole wheat —se that the wrapper on the loaf you buy declares the contents to be 100 per cent. whole wheat.

And another thing! Because you hear the sugar producers are plaguing the Government to buy their sugar which they have in abundance in their warehouses — don't blame the Government for the ration system.

The main reasons why you can't have sugar is because shipping is so dangerous and the munitions industry needs it. It is not cricket to complain.

A "CORRECTION"

Double Boiler Wartime Cake

The flour was omitted in the recipe when it was first printed,—the amount should be 2 to 2¼ cups.

The recipe should be thus: 2 tablespoons melted shortening, ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup sour milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon mixed spices, ½ cup or more of raisins, dates or nuts, 1 egg (the egg may be omitted if you use this for a pudding); flour, about 2 to 2¼ cups.

Method.—Mix all ingredients together. Grease a large double boiler top part) and pour the batter into it. Cover tightly and steam about 2 hours. Turn out on plate. Half of it could be used as a hot pudding with sauce, and the other half could be frosted when cold for a delicious cake.

Note.—One of our readers made up this recipe and guessed at the amount of flour using 1½ cups, and had a successful cake. I used 2 cups, and thought mine was fine, too. Another reader used 2¼ cups and was pleased with her results, so evidently it's one of those mixtures that can't go wrong.—Mary Moore.

JERSEY BATHING DRESS

With a bodice worthy of Alix, and such colors as light and leaf green, champagne and tobacco, in combination two-tone effect, this jersey dressmaker type swim suit is pretty as the mermaid.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ALL of us can't wear tight, step-in, skirtless swim bits...and most of us who do, shouldn't. Some of the sights stalking the beaches make one long for the return of Grandma's black alpaca number, bloomers, cotton stockings, et cetera.

But there is one bathing dress which will be kind to even the most difficult figures, whether they run to a great deal of heft or not nearly enough. Likewise, for the girl with the Perfect Sixteen figure... what's better for it than a bathing dress which has all the flattery in design of a good dinner dress?

Road Employees To Aid Farmers

COBOURG, July 16.— (ENS). — Counties road employees will be available to assist farmers in the harvest this year if so required, it was decided at a recent meeting of the Road Commission here. Announcement to that effect was made to-day by Warden Roy Dodge. Warden Dodge told the Examiner that there are twenty-eight foremen who are on call when needed by the counties road office and eight truck drivers who are permanent employees. Harvest time would coincide with the slack period of the raod employees the Warden said.

Beautiful Orchids Grow in Simple Glass Garden

Pan of Water Provides Humidity

Yes, you can actually grow your own orchid corsage! Lush yellow and pink orchids bloom gloriously in a terrarium!

The trick of growing them successfully is to make them feel at home. So provide tropical humidity by fitting a cake pan in the bottom of the terrarium and filling it with water. Across this, lay a few wooden slats for the orchid pots to rest on.

Keep your orchids out of direct sunlight, in a room where temperature is moderate. If nights are colder than 55 degrees, cover terrarium with a cloth.

To make your terrarium even lovelier put in pots of ivy and asparagus fern. Their twining greenery conceals the slats.

And if you want more terrarium thrills, grow a beautiful begonia garden in a narrow-necked glass jug! It's wonderfully simple to make but mystifies everyone.

Our 32-page booklet tells how to make gorgeous winter-flowering plants bloom NOW, in all kinds of terrariums; how to raise orchids, gardenias, begonias, violets, many other flowering and foliage plants, dish gardens.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your your copy of "Glass Gardens and Novelty Indoor Gardens." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

CARTOONS FOR LAUGHS

SOME OF the very best and cleverest cartoons any of us see are those which treat the taking out of a business double as the most heious of all crimes—except possibly the trumping of your partner's ace. But there are plenty of times when either of those things should be done, when failure to do it would be an arch crime. Don't think we are finding fault with the cartoons. We are not. We are merely pointing out that their purpose is to give us some fun, not teach us bad bridge.

North: ♠ K 7 4 2 ♥ 7 4 ♦ A 3 ♣ A 10 5 4 2
West: ♠ None ♥ Q J 5 3 ♦ J 9 6 2 ♣ K J 9 7 6
East: ♠ A Q J 8 ♥ K 10 9 8 2 ♦ K 8 5 ♣ Q
South: ♠ 10 9 6 5 3 ♥ A 6 ♦ Q 10 7 4 ♣ 8 3

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♥	1♠	2♥
2♠	Dbl	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♥

That bidding went on at two tables of a duplicate game, except that at one of them it stopped abruptly after East's double of 2-Spades. As the play went, the contract was made, with the loss of only one trick each in the side suits and only two in trumps, as East was end-played through his side's own bad defense, and had to lead trumps from his own hand. It could readily be set one by a different succession of events.

Where West reopened the bidding by taking out the double, a game was made, with the loss of only one trick each in hearts, diamonds and clubs, as South led a spade.

West really had two reasons for taking out the double—both of them sound. One was negative—the fact that his blank in spades indicated such length by the opponents that there was grave danger they would make the contract. The other was positive—the splendid fit with hearts and the fact that the spade blank was an asset at that contract. Failure to take out that double is definitely bad bridge.

After normal bidding West leads the club J to the A against South's 4-Spades on this deal. Why should he not now return his spade 2?

UrgeCloseCheck To Keep Up Butter Subsidy

OTTAWA, July 16 — (CP). — A Dominion-Provincial conference on butter production today received for consideration the recommendations of a committee appointed at yesterday's opening session to study means of increasing Canada's butter output.

The committee recommended that periodical reviews should be made of the relationship between the price of butterfat and the general supply position of butter to determine whether the present six-cent-a-pound subsidy is adequate. If adjustments were necessary, an additional subsidy should be applied.

The committee also suggested that there is unncesasry duplication in cream-trucking services with a waste of labor, gasoline and rubber, and increased overhead costs to the dairy industry.

Other recommendations were that:

Canadians should be urged to avoid waste of butter as a patriotic duty;

Dominion-Provincial feed boards should assure adequate distribution of feeding rations to dairy farmers and emphasize the importance of pasture fertilization and management;

The Dominion Government should investigate the "acute" shortage of cream cans and take steps to meet the problem;

The agricultural supplies board should undertake an advertising campaign in the farm press to explain the need for increased butter production.

The conference, which ends late today, will study the recommendations this afternoon.

The recommendations were submitted to the meeting, being attended by Dominion and Provincial agriculture officials and farm organization representatives, by R. J. Scott of Belgrave, Ont., chairman of the butter committee, Dairy Farmers of Canada, and Dr. F. H. Auld, Saskatchewan deputy minister of agriculture, chairmen of the eastern and western sections of the committee.

Game Wardens 5 Days In Bush

LINDSAY, July 16 — (ENS). — Following up reports to the effect that illegal deer hunting was being carried on in the vicinity of Marsh Lake, Haliburton county, Game Overseer Alf. Hodgson, of Lindsay, and Game Warden Scott of Kinmount, journeyed to the northland a tour of inspection. They suffered and spent five days in the bush on greatly from black flies and mosquitoes in their silent watch before they achieved results. They scoured the shores at night in a canoe, using a flashlight and were rewarded in the apprehension of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Griffin, of West Guilford, whom, it is alleged, had two dressed bucks in their possession. The animals, the oficers state, had been skinned and cut up, ready for transportation. A canoe, rifle, automobile and other equipment were seized by the officers. A charge of infraction of the game laws will be preferred.

The officers tell an interesting story of their five days vigil in the bush and marsh land. Owing to the prevalence of flies and mosquitoes the deer are forced from their haunts to the water's edge where they are an easy mark for those who are inclined to kill them out of season. A flashlight, it is claimed, serves as a magnet, the flash drawing the deer closer to the shore line.

Vichy After Jews

VICHY, July 16 — (AP). — The Vichy Government published a sweeping decree to-day taking over the management of all Jewish-controlled property and businesses, leases and rights in French colonies.

The edict came upon the heels of a gestapo order barring Jews from every public gathering place, indoors or outdoors, in the Nazi-occupied regions.

The German order was signed by the head of the gestapo and Nazi storm troops in France instead of by the commander of the military occupation forces and contained provisions more severe than the anti-Jewish regulations in effect in Berlin.

Shun The Trial Woman's Tip In Police Probe

PEMBROKE, Ont., July 16—(CP) —A Pembroke Police Commission inquiry into Constable H. A. Breen's conduct in arresting Gnr. R. J. Bradley of nearby Petawawa Military Camp following a street scuffle here on July 1 entered its third day today, with the interest heightened by a Pembroke housewife's testimony that she had been indirectly warned against appearing before the commission.

The witness, Mrs. Mary Malloy, said last night her brother-in-law told her on his return from the Pembroke Police Station at noon yesterday that things would be "uncomfortable" for her if she testified at the inquiry.

The inquiry opened on Monday night following a complaint by Roy Deavitt of Pembroke against Breen's conduct. Several witnesses remain to be called and hearings are expected to continue to-night.

Lives Across the Street

Mrs. Malloy, who said she lives with her sister-in-law, Laura Malloy on Renfrew street just across from the scene of the scuffle, testified she saw the police officer beat the soldier about the face and head and kick him in the abdomen. Afterwards she said, there was blood on Bradley's face and abdomen.

L. Cpl. W. P. Beese, testified he was driving past Renfrew in a military truck when he saw Breen holding Bradley down on the ground. Beese said the officer struck the soldier, apparently with his clenched fist, and that Bradley's face was covered with blood. He also mentioned there was a revolver lying under the soldier's body.

Sprs. L. S. Poirier, E. Lavigne and G. A. Dunn, who rode in the military truck with Beese, said they saw Breen slap Bradley on the face.

Bradley and another soldier, Spr. Page Elliott, are awaiting trial on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Rumor Stalin Directing At Stalingrad

Defence Commissar Said Ralling Huge Force Above City

LONDON, July 17. — (CP).—A Reuters news agency dispatch from Stockholm said to-day that 'German-controlled news sources here quoting from 'an absolutely reliable source in Ankara' said that Premier Joseph Stalin has left Moscow for Stalingrad."

The report said Stalin, who is defence commissar as well as premier, would direct personally the defence of Staingrad, at the big bend of the Viga river, toward which German forces in Southern Russia are driving.

"The chief of the Russian General Staff already is in the city, around which strong reinforcements of the newly formed Central Asiatic army are concentrated," the report adled.

(There was no confirmaton from any source of this report which might constitute a 'fishing expedition for information by Axis sources or merely an attempt to link two known facts—that Stalingrad is being increasingly menaced by the Germans and that Stalin personally has directed Russia's defence since the German isvasion).

Road To Russia Feeds Chunking

CHUNGKING, July 17 (AP) — Supplies for embattled China now are flowing from Soviet Russia to Chungking over a 2,800-mile highway, most of which has been constructed since the war with Japan began five years ago, it was announce dtoday.

The announcement revealed that Wong When-Hao, Chinese Minister of Economic Affairs, has just completed an inspection of the new road, during which he saw vital materials moving toward Chungking in modern trucks, in carts carrying 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of goods each and on the backs of thousands of camels.

The western terminus of the highway, which winds through lofty mountains and across burning desert wastes, is Tocheng, situated at the foot of the Alti (gold) mountains on the border between China and Russian Turkestan.

There the road joins a Russian highway leading to the railhead at Alma Ata.

2 Union Chiefs Shot In Duel One's Wife Slain

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP).—Two bosses of Chicago's brawling Painters' Union were wounded and the wife of one of them was killed in an exchange of gunfire early today.

Mrs. Loretta Youngblood, 39, was dying of a bullet wound in the breast when police arrived at her west side home. In another room, shot through the right arm, was her husband, Charles, 53, one of the leaders of Local 147 and a member of the Painters' District Council.

Detective Marvin Nelson said the Youngbloods told him they had been shot by Arthur Wallace, secretary and treasurer of the Painters' District Council No. 14.

About an hour after the Youngbloods were fired upon, Wallace was found lying on the lawn of the Franklin Boulevard Hospital. He had been shot in the abdomen, but police said he refused to say who wounded him.

Police learned that Youngblood and Wallace had attended a meeting of the council last night and had been seen talking together quietly.

They had been home about five minutes Nelson quoted Youngblood as saying when the doorbell rang. Mrs. Yonngblood answered it, and "they came in."

There were 10 bullet marks around the chair in which Youngblood had been sitting. Nearby was a .38 calibre pistol with four empty cartridges in it. A bullet of the same calibre fell out of Wallace's clothing when he was examined at hospital, police said.

RAF Blows Up Sub Yards At Luebeck

Try New Raid Tactics Strike At Dusk Escape Home In Dark

LONDON, July 17—(CP).—A force of Stirlings, Britain's biggest four-engined bombers, struck at Germany before the fall of darkness last night in attacks on submarine building yards five miles from hard-hit Luebeck and on shipyards at Flensburg, near the German-Danish border.

The raids carried to a climax daylight attacks yesterday on objectives in Germany which opened with single-plane assaults on points in the Ruhr.

Details of the Luebeck and Flensburg attacks were meagre but an Air Ministry communique said the bombs were seen to burst in yards and slipways of the submarine yards near Luebeck.

Two bombers are missing.

British air observers said the new tactic of striking late in the long summer day gave the raiders the advantage of daylight for precision bombing and the cover of darkness for return to their home bases.

The size of the force employed against Flensburg and Luebeck was not specified, but observers suggested it was probably moderate and utilized cloud cover for the approach.

Luebeck and Flensburg share British attention with Kiel and Rostock as German maritime centres on a westerly arm of the Baltic.

Shattering Repairs

An R.A.F. armada smashed heavily at Luebeck March 28. Observers said the thrust there late yesterday doubtless was intended to smash up repair work.

Flensburg, near the Danish border, was attacked July 2 and again last Saturday in a sideshow to a heavy raid upon Danzig.

The major target in the Luebeck area was identified as the Flender-Erke, a medium-sized shipyard. Official British circles said "as many as 15 submarines have been reported on the lips or fitting out at one time" there.

Some planes swept as low as 500 feet to loose their loads. The fliers reported bombs were seen bursting on yards and slipways where U-boats are fashioned for raids along the Russian convoy route and in the Atlantic.

The attack was made at 10.30 p.m. Double British Summer Time (4.30 p.m. EDT), 25 minutes before the nightly blackout started in London.

8750 Bomb Raids In 47 Nights Still Not Enough

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—Devastating as it has been in spots, Britain's air offensive against Germany still is short of expectations and still below the peak of striking power it must—and will—develop to become a decisive factor, air experts said today.

The appraisal of these sources, who would not permit their names to be used, is based on the 47 nights since the R.A.F. opened the Allies' second front in the air with the mass attack on Cologne last May 30, the first of three 1,000-plane raids on Germany. The R.C.A.F. cooperated in the three-figure plane assaults.

Associated Press tabulations show that beginning with the Cologne raid the R.A.F. has made about 8,750 bomber-trips against Germany in fulfilment of Prime Minister Churchill's promise to erase Nazi industry "city by city."

Only two raids with 1,000 or more bombers—against Emden and Bremen—have been made since the Cologne assault but air sources say they left those cities so devastated they can make little, if any, further contribution to Germany' war effort.

The air offensive, made at an announced cost of 261 bombers up to last night, is regarded by informed sources, however, as below expectations.

They said they believed the high hopes raised when the mass bombing of Cologne thrilled the United Nations appeared premature and "really intensive" attacks on industry in central and eastern Germany must wait for longer nights of autumn.

Three Reasons Why.

These experts agreed that three reasons explain the R.A.F.'s fail-

Rostov, Stalingrad Threats Grow Hourly In Retreat, Voronezh Bloody Toll Soars

Each River Crossing Costs Boche Thousands With Hitler Tossing In New Hordes; Red Planes Get 2 Big Berthas At Leningrad

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 17—(AP).—Masses of German infantry supported by their heaviest tanks—a force of perhaps 1,000,000 all told—marched through the lush, waist-high wheatfields of the Don steppes in a continuing offensive today as the Red army fell back both toward Stalingrad and Rostov.

Mindful of the hourly increasing threats to both of these important centres on the Volga elbow and the lower Don which flank each side of the entrance to the Caucasus, the Red army fought stubbornly from well-defended Voronezh on the north to the flat, river-wrinkled country southeast of Millerovo.

Near a river crossing southeast of Millerovo, 200 miles south of Voronezh, the Soviet fighters were reported to have handed a heavy blow to the invaders.

This river crossing was not named in Soviet dispatches, but it was not believed the German advance had yet surged to the junction where the east-west railway from Stalingrad joins the main Rostov-Moscow line.

(This might indicate that heavy fighting took place at Kamensk, or east of there. Kamensk is on the Donets 40 miles south of Millerovo. The Germans claimed they had cut the railway connecting Staliingrad with the Donets. This railway is just south of Kamensk.)

Slay 600 At One Crossing

The Russians said 14 German tanks were destroyed and 600 Germans killed in the battle at the crossing.

As the Russians fell back through the green fields which were to have played a large part in feeding their people this winter, reports told how the countryside was left littered with German dead, the wrecks of burned out tanks, and the ruins of guns and trucks.

In one other sector of this front, the Russians reported a hard punch in which 11 invading tanks were smashed and 1,800 Germans killed.

But the dispatches said the Germans were unmindful of these losses, throwing in more men and machines strongly supported by air forces, as they advanced upon Stalingrad, now less than 175 miles from the flaming front, and Rostov perhaps 130 miles to the southwest.

At Voronezh Russian chances brightened with every new counterattack the stiffened Red Army forces were throwing against the invaders.

But the Germans apparently were still clinging to positions at the west side of the city, and the danger to the city from the south, where Hungarian infantry and cavalry were attacking at the confluence of the Don and Voronezh river, was not lessened.

Boche Dead Everywhere

North and northwest of the city the Germans had been thrown back, leaving many ravines and hills and fields cluttered with broken machines and bodies.

Izvestia said Germans were dying before Voronezh in the same proportions but on a larger scale than they did at Sevastopol. The Russians have reported that 60,000 Germans lost their lives taking the latter stronghold in the Crimea.

The Soviet Information Bureau estimated that Hitler already had lost 900,000 men in 60 days of spring and summer warfare.

Naval dispatches reported that a German submarine, fleeing from a Russian destroyer in an unnamed sea, was blown up when it hit a mine.

On the Leningrad front Red Air Force planes staged two raids on long-range guns which were battering the city. The Russians said their own big guns blasted into silence 10 anti-aircraft batteries.

Dispatches said the Russians pounded the invaders with surprising tank strength in several areas, forcing them to take cover.

Twin breaks were reported made in invasion formations west of Voronezh, which Maj.-G , Nikolai Zhuravlev, a Red army commentator, described as "a mill to grind German troops crossing the Don into a bloody pulp."

Critical conditions persisted for Red army divisions fighting within the Don River bend to check the threat of an invasion of industrial Stalingrad, now less than 175 miles east of the front, and the more distant Caucasian oil fields south of the Don.

Southeast of Nazi-occupied Millerovo—itself 200 miles south of Voronezh, and 130 miles north of Rostov—another fighting withdrawal of

Nazi Recaptured On Farm Job Likes The Food

MONTREAL, July 17. —(CP)—Hermann Maiwald, 23-year-old German merchant seaman, was captured by Royal Canadian Mounted Police early today, less than 24 hours after he escaped from the military hospital at nearby Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Maiwald was taken into custody on a farm near the Dorval airport shortly after police were informed that a man dressed in the trousers and shirt of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and wearing bedroom slippers was seeking employment in the district.

Police said that Maiwald found the Air Force clothes in a bathhouse on the shore of Lake St. Louis and changed into them from his hospital uniform.

Police said that Maiwald, who escaped between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. from the hospital where he had undergone an operation for appen-

Nazis Send Turks 4 Of 7 Engines

ANKARA, July 16.—(Delayed).—(AP).—Germany delivered to Turkey today four of seven locomotives and 80 of 500 freight cars which were contracted for several months ago.

German failure to deliver important heavy goods pledged to Turkey under their nine-months-old trade treaty, particularly railroad equipment and war material, had prompted Turks to demand that the Germans send them or admit they could not.

Two explanations may account for what appears to be a token German delivery.

First, Turkey has specified that none of her goods for Germany would be released until equivalent deliveries were made to her.

Secondly, Britain has fulfilled her delivery schedules meticulously, including competitive heavy industry equipment, and the Nazis may regard their prestige at stake.

Propaganda also would be served by exporting railroad equipment and weapons, even in relatively tiny amounts, at a moment when German armies are in a full-scale offensive.

Furthermore, Germany's non-delivery to Turkey has hurt the Axis diplomatic campaign because large German purchases have filled Turkish warehouses while they await release, meanwhile driving up the prices of dried fruit, leather, tobacco and other domestic products.

All Units Hold As Rommel Reopens Blitz

N. Zealand Infantry Toss Tanks Back Retain Centre Gains

CAIRO, July 17 — (AP).—British troops engaged in a still indecisive tank battle since yesterday in the centre of the Tel El Alamein desert line, were reported to-day to have brought up General Lee tanks to give additional power to their defence.

The General Lee, an improved version of the General Grant, mounts 75-millimetre guns in the turret instead of at the side and has stream-lined armor. The General Grants previously had proved a mainstay of British armored forces in the desert.

The British forces were making stubborn efforts to hold their newly-won positions in the centre of the line.

New Zealand infantry and armored units scored a number of successes these against attacking German tanks.

In the northern sector, too, the Allied forces were having success. After a ding-dong all-day fight yesterday they re-occupied their original positions on the lower ridge of Tel El Eisa. They already had held the higher ground.

(The British forces were reported by Reuters to have advanced seven miles in the central sector on Wednesday, obtaining control of the Ruweisat Ridge.)

Sharp fighting also was reported at the southern end of the line where the enmy was said to have withdrawn slightly, and in the coastal sector to the north.

The communique gave no hint as to how the battle in the centre was going, but said that a number of enemy tanks had been knocked out.

"Details of our losses are not yet known," the bulletin added.

Other despatches from the front indicated that much of the armored strength of both sides was engaged in the struggle and it appeared that a crisis in this battle for Egypt was near.

British headquarters said the R.A.F. is strongly supporting the ground forces and that bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters are continuing to hammer at the enemy around the clock.

Direct hits were reported on Axis vehicles, tank workshops gun positions and concentrations of motor transport.

"Throughout the hours of daylight our fighters maintained continuous patrol over the battle area and shot down at least four enemy aircraft," the communique said. "From these extensive operations six of our aircraft are missing."

The immediate objective of the attacks against the British centre was a position on Ruweleat Ridge, which runs east and west for about 10 miles south of the coast.

Observers said the position would have to be erased before the Axis

Can Be No Mistakes Opening 2nd Front

Slip Might Cost War Then And There—Expert Sees Public Pressure Dangerous

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There can be no dispute with the assertion by Maj. Gen. Zhuravlev, military expert for the Moscow News, that "the German command is trying to defeat the Red army before a second front can be opened in Europe," although that isn't the only reason for Herr Hitler's speed.

Moreover, it's doubtful if there are many experts who wouldn't say that the front ought to be opened in the near future—if feasible. But the question of just when such a colossal and perilous operation is practicable must be decided by the Allied High Command.

This second-front problem, involving as it does a water-borne invasion, presents more difficulties than a porcupine does quills. The fact that the Allied leadership hasn't yet attempted an invasion of western Europe ought to make it clear that thus far it hasnt been possible. Our eagerness to help gallant Russia in her magnificent stand, and to smash Genghis Hitler, shouldnt be allowed to upset our perspective. After all, the Allied Command is just as anxious to win this war as is the man on the street.

It strikes me that the public pressure which is being aimed at all the Allied Governments to compel an opening of a second front is a dangerous thing. The Governments already have agreed this front shall be opened as soon as possible, and this is no time for civilians to try to force the hands of military leaders. When a surgical operation is to be performed you call in a specialist—and military decisions must be left to the professional soldiers.

Personally I've had a strong hunch recently it wouldn't be long before there was an Allied invasion of Western Europe. That feeling, which still persists, isn't based on official information—it's just a hunch. However, if this unprecedented operation were undertaken without proper preparation it might produce an Allied disaster which would end the war then and there.

And don't forget this: If things went wrong with this great adventure, there would be a long, long line of boys who wouldn't be coming back home.

Neither Britain nor the United States wants to commit its forces piece-meal. We have been getting calls from all over the world, and under those circumstances it takes time to get set for a major operation. While the Allies now are imbued with the spirit of initiative and are prepared to dare much and make sacrifices, yet they don't want to make useless sacrfices.

Finland, US Verge Of Break

Washington Asks Helsinki Close Legations

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Finland and the United States were one move short of an open break in diplomatic relations today, with the Helsinki government preparing to close all its consular offices in this country in compliance with a Washington "request."

The state department, announcing last night it had asked the Finnish government to discontinue its consular activities in the United States not later than Aug. 1, said it already had cancelled the consular commissions of American consular officials in Finland and was closing "immediately" the consular section of the American legation in Helsinki.

The status of the American legation and that of the Finnish legation in Washington remain unchanged, but the ousting of the consulates was ominously reminiscent of a similar development in German-American relations. The closing of German consular offices in this country and of American consular offices in Germany was one of the preliminaries leading to final rupture and declaration of war.

The state department's announcement made no mention of the fight which Finland is waging against Soviet Russia as an ally of Germany.

Swede Hospital Ship Sunk

Bombed Off Crete After Safe Conduct Assured

LONDON, July 17—(CP)—A Swedish legation spokesman declared today that the Swedish Red Cross ship Stureborg, reported sunk in the Mediterranean, had sailed with a safe conduct guarantee from the Axis and the Allies and that an air attack on her was a "direct violation" of the assurances.

The Swedish embassy said yesterday that the Stureborg had been sunk near Cyprus while on Red Cross duty with the loss of all but one of her crew of 20, including 16 Swedes.

The spokesman said a full investigation would be made and "proper representations" would be addressed to the power held to blame.

An informed British source said no British planes were "anywhere in the neighborhood" when the vessel sank and that Axis planes, therefore, "undoubtedly" were responsible.

The Swedish official said the Stureborg, one of several ships chartered by the Swedish Red Cross to carry food to Greece after safe conduct had been assured, was to have taken a cargo of more than 2,000 tons of wheat

ALL IS NOT WELL IN ST. LAWRENCE GOVERNMENT TOLD IN HOUSE

Hint Parachute Group Of 6 Near FDR Home

RHINECLIFFE, N.Y., July 17 — (AP).—Search for six "parachutes" reported seen descending in an area near President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate was renewed at dawn today, but belief was expressed they may have been festival balloons.

A farm superintendent's unconifrmed report of sighting parachutes late yesterday afternoon brought a small army of military, Federal Bureau of Investigation and State Police officials to the scene, but they postponed their search until daybreak today after townsfolk advanced a theory the reported aerial objects probably were balloons sent aloft by a group celebrating a religious holiday.

Robert Milroy, a hotel clerk in nearby Rhineck, told investigators he had heard fireworks about the time the "parachutes" were reported sighted and recalled that persons of Italian descent gathered at Glasgow on the opposite bank of the Hudson River celebrating a feast day by shooting off fireworks, roman candle and releasing balloons.

Other nearby residents also clung to the balloons rather than the parachute idea.

Check For 50 Miles

For nine hours last night, Hudson Valley residents and motorists within a radius of 50 miles were questioned as to whether they had seen any parachutes.

The report originated from Clyde R. Swendson, superintendent of Fox Hollow Farms, former estate of John Jacob Astor III, which is about 11 miles north of the Roosevelt country home.

The Public Relations officer of the Eastern Defence Command announced at New York last night a military investigation is under way but emphasized there has been no confirmation of the report.

A nine-State police teletype had reported Swendson as saying he had seen six large parachutes drifting down near Fox Hollow Farms, and his wife said she had seen a lone parachutist "trying to manipulate it down" in woods northwest of the estate.

It was the second time within two days that parachutes were reported seen in New York State. Searchers scoured the Glens Falls area all day yesterday after residents of Athol about 100 miles north of here ,told of seeing a parachutist descend.

He took a swim in the lake, they said, and then found in a bathhouse the kit of a Royal Canadian Air Force man who was spending his leave with friends in Point Claire. He discarded his light blue hospital uniform and, dressed in his new outfit began to look for work.

At the first farm house he visited his application for work was turned down. Later the housewife, had noticed that he was wearing bedroom slippers, heard a broadcast description of the prisoner and notified police authorities immediately.

In the meantime, Maiwald obtained work on a nearby farm. When police visited the farm they found several employees, but were able to identify the prisoner from scars on his hands.

The prisoner told police that the only reason he didn't take the complete R.C.A.F. uniform was because he had been warned in England if he ever utilized a uniform of any member of the armed services of the United Nationals to facilitate an escape he would be considered as a spy.

He submitted quietly to police and was brought to Montreal before being returned to a Quebec internment camp. After being served a breakfast at police headquarters, Maiwald told police that he has eaten more food in Canada in a day than he had eaten in Germany in a year.

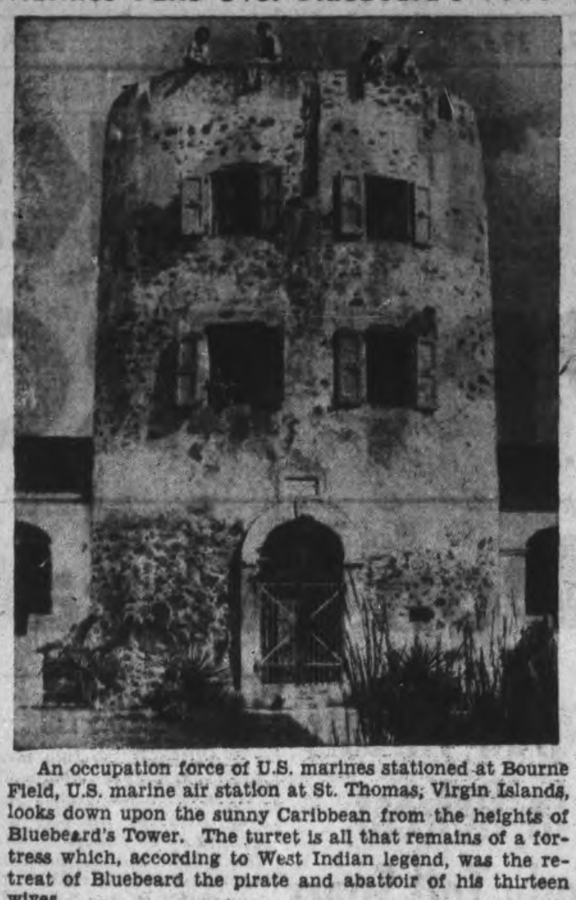
Marines Take Over Bluebeard's Tower



An occupation force of U.S. marines stationed at Bourne Field, U.S. marine air station at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, looks down upon the sunny Caribbean from the heights of Bluebeard's Tower. The turret is all that remains of a fortress which, according to West Indian legend, was the retreat of Bluebeard the pirate and abattoir of his thirteen wives.

1,800 Germans and destroyed 11 tanks. This was one of a series of actions to beat off strong Nazi flanking manoeuvres.

Nazi thrusts were declared stalemated on the Voronezh battlefield, "littered with German corpses and dozens of burned-out enemy tanks," and a single regiment was said to have lost more than 800 men under short-range defence fire.

Soviet tank crews and infantrymen co-operated to break into a Nazi fortified zone and "take up advantageous positions" in fighting which cost the Germans 60 men and five tanks, it was announced.

A special communique issued last night said that the Germans, while gaining ground by use of the basic forces and reserves had lost irreplaceable manpower and equipment between May 15 and July 15 — a period including the Sevastopol and Kursk-Kharkov front campaigns.

Berlin reports of Russian casualties, including a claim that 706,000 Soviet soldiers had been captured between May 17 and July 13, were denounced as "delirious lies.... clumsy forgeries."

"The German Fascist troops lost in killed wounded and prisoners (May 15-July 15) no less than 900,000 men and officers," the communique declared.

"Of this number, no less than 350,000 were killed. They lost in addition about 2,000 guns of all calibres, about 2,900 tanks and no less than 3,000 planes.

"During the same period the Red Army lost 399,000 men killed, wounded and missing, 1,905 guns of all calibres, 940 tanks, and 1,354 planes."

ure to keep up the 1,000-plane pace:

1—Exceptionally bad weather—air officers say the nights must be "pretty nearly perfect" or else the targets are obscured and fog imperils the huge bombers taking-off and landing on home airfields.

2—Drain on the bomber command by operations elsewhere—the campain in Egypt, the threat to India. These are said to have diverted heavy bombers earmarked last winter for this summer's raids on Germany.

3—Failure of the Allied air forces to produce a long-range fighter capable of escorting heavy bombers over targets in daylight attacks.

Thus, it wass aid the R.A.F.'s scale apparently does not yet mean relief for Russia.

Soviet sources here appreciate the immense damage the bombers have dealt to German war plants, but, in the opinion of one:

"Only British and American soldiers fighting on the Continent of Eprope under the protection of their bomber and fighter fleets will divert German troops from the Eastern Front."

An R.A.F. commentator described two prime aims of Britain's bomber blows as:

1—The destruction of all industry supplying Nazi armies on the Russian Front.

2—Curtailment of the Nazi submarine menace in American waters by smashing the U-boats in construction and at home bases.

Toward these ends, the Ruhr area which forges much of Germany's armament, has been hit five times since June 1 — once with 1,036 bombers.

Bremen arsenal of the U-boat fleet, also has suffered heavy attacks, with more than 1,000 planes in the heaviest of them.

More daylight raids such as the recent far-flung stab at Danzig may help stem the flow of German armor eastward. This was in line with the R.A.F.'s long-standing bombing policy but such flights can be made only under special conditions, such as the cloud cover which cloaked the 1,750-mile round trip flight to Danzig.

Another barrier to such long-range attacks or swift trans-Channel stabs is the Focke-Wulf 190 — a formidable German fighter plane

Malta's Traffic Too Thick For Real Scrap

LONDON, July 17 (BUP)—There are a wealth of stories behind those terse communiques which announce the destruction of enemy bombers over Malta—stories which easily compare with accounts from Canadian airmen who blast Germany and the enemy-occupied countries.

Canadian pilots who have recently returned from the most bombed spot on earth revealed here today that defending pilots really have their hands full. You can take it from Flight-Lieut. Robert (Buck) McNair, of North Battleford, and Prince Albert, Sask., there is always plenty doing.

McNair, who wears the D.F.C. for his Malta work, has returned to Great Britain after five months with a fighter unit at the island fortress.

The squadron in which he was a flight commander downed ninety-six Axis aircraft over Malta from March 9 to June 16 and held an impressive list of probables. The young pilot alone has a total score of eight destroyed and one probable. One of the eight was a plane he destroyed over Britain when he flew with an R.C.A.F. squadron.

When the fighting was at its heaviest, aerial combat developed into a wild melee of British and enemy aircraft, twisting and whipping through the air with guns spitting in combat which often brought the dueling planes within a few hundred feet of the ground, related McNair.

It was while engaged in such a scramble that the Canadian pilot damaged four Axis planes. His best day was when he bagged two JU 88's and scored another probable.

It was his opinion that enemy planes made traffic so heavy over the island that they hindered each other and gave the manoeuvrable Spitfires the advantage.

One fight which he vividly recalls ended in victory for McNair over Sicily.

"There was a reconnaissance aircraft which came over at about 20,000 feet after every raid. This day I stooged around upstairs waiting for him because with his height he was always able to escape when we scrambled after him.

"When he finally did arrive there were two ME 109's with him and when they saw us coming they got out of town. The "Recco" 'plane, a JU 88 started back to Sicily as hard as he could go. I caught up with him as he passed over the Sicilian coast and in a stern attack I saw him spin earthward," relted the Canadian.

In those spring months the enemy hammered Malta day and night with little let-up. The defenders were attacked as they landed and took off to meet the enemy, McNair said.

which British authorities say is superior to the Spitfire at certain altitudes.

Urge Inspection Of Guns Be Shaken Up

OTTAWA, July 17— (CP)— A House of Commons sub-committee headed by Lionel Chevrier (Lib. Stormont) reported yesterday that the gun production branch of the Munitions and Supply Department has done a 'magnificent job' in manufacture and production of weapons, but recommended changes in gun inspection systems and in relation with contractors.

Reports of the sub-committee, which functions under the War Expenditures committee, was tabled in the House to-day.

In brief, these are the recommendations it made:

1. Duplication and overlapping which it found in the inspection of guns should be eliminated;

2. The Canadian inspection should be put on 'the same basis as that prevailing in England under the existing urge of wartime necessity,' instead of being predicated on the peacetime British system, now changed;

3. A complete system of spot inspection and final inspection of the completed article should be set up —and the sub-committee said that if this recommendation were accepted several thousand inspectors could be employed elsewhere in the production of guns, and hundreds of thousands of gauges could be taken from the inspection branch and used profitably in other branches;

4. Studies now undertaken in the small arms branch to bring about reduced costs through design simplification and elimination of nonessentials, should be extended to heavier guns;

5. Main contratcors should be required to sub-contract items where possible, and the facilities of the industry and sub contracting branch, designed to speed war materials manufacture by obtaining the maximum use of existing facilities, should be used for such purpose;

6. No machine tools should be provided for any prime contractor where it is known an unused capacity of machine tools of the required type exists and can be economically and efficiently utilized;

7. An educational program of the industry and sub-contracting branch should be expanded to explain to the public the necessity of having work placed where it can be produced efficiently rather than being placed for the purpose of relieving economic distress.

The sub-committee said the gun program had suffered delays from time to time. These were not due to lack of planning or lack of co-ordination, however, but to over-production and the consequent demand on supplies of materials. The steel industry had played an important part in overcoming a bottleneck which was due to heavy demands on its production.

A second bottleneck facing industry in the expansion of gun production was the scarcity of machine tools.

More Canadian machine tools now were being produced. In May the requirements were for 970 new machine tools and of these 500 were to be made in Canada.

Old machine tools were restored and special fixtures added in order to do precision work.

"The introduction of single-purpose machine tools is one of the most remarkable accomplishments of Canada's war effort," said the report.

Because of Canadian ability to produce machine tools, "a very substantial contract" for small arms ammunition for the United States had been given the Dominion.

Detroit Busmen Tie Up Traffic

DETROIT, July 17.—(AP).—Motor bus operators striking contrary to advice of their American Federation of Labor union leaders, halted buses on Detroit's east side today, ejected the non-striking drivers and forced passengers to alight.

Many passengers, en route to jobs in war plants or office buildings, were left stranded.

Police received a general order to arrest on sight any one found interfering with the buses.

By mid-morning Woodward avenue, broad 'main stem' of Detroit's north-bound transportation, was without street car service, as a group of about 300 men blocked tracks leading from the terminal in suburban Highland Park.

Mayor Edward J. Jeffries told officials of the publicly owned transportation system:

"Fire every striker, every one of them and let the men know that anybody who interferes with equipment will be thrown in jail and key thrown away.'

The strikers, employees of Detroit's Department of Street Railways, are members of the Amalgamated Association of Set, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (A.F.L.) They had complained about what they said was undue delay on wage arbitration proceedings.

Edward McMorrow, International vice-president of the Union, had told the D.S.R. workers that contemplated strike action was 'dangerous, foolhardy, illegal, irresponsible and unpatriotic.'

A portion of the city's transportation equipment rolled out past picket lines to provide at least partial service.

D.S.R. officials expressed belief about 350 employees, a minority, were involved in the strike.

19 Ships In Week U-Boat Toll In W. Atlantic

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP).—The destruction of 19 merchant vessels by enemy submarines preying an Allied shipping in Atlantic waters has been disclosed in official announcements so far this week.

The latest victims of U-boat attacks—two medium-sized United States cargo ships and two Norwegian merchantmen ,announced Thursday by Washington and included in the week's toll—raised to 377 the unofficial Associated Press count of Allied and neutral ship losses in the Atlantic area since the entry of the United States into the war.

A single torpedo struck one of the American vessels in the Caribbean June 20, sinking her in 12 minutes. Forty-eight survivors in four lifeboats soon were separated in the heavy seas and made land at different points. One of the boats, said Captain Peter G. Winsens, of Bayside Hills, Long Island, New York, sailed more than 300 miles in five days. One man, the radio operator, was reported missing.

Twenty-seven seamen perished in the submarine sinking of the second American merchantman in the Gulf of Mexico July 9. Five lookouts were on watch at the moment the first torpedo truck. Ten seconds later the second crashed into the vessel causing a burst of flame. Many of the crew who were asleep below decks were killed in the explosions, but fifteen others managed to reach deck and dive overboard. Swimming to a burning lifeboat, they extinguished the flames and used the boat to row ahore. A fishing vessel sighted their fire on the beach and took them to port.

The deaths of more than 114 seamen were revealed in the sinking announcements in the first five days of this week, but at least 885 passengers and crew were rescued and landed safely at United States and Caribbean ports. Twenty-four others were said to be missing.

Sinkings since July 12 included seven American vessels, three Panamanian, four Norwegian, one Dominican, one British and three unidentified Allied ships.

Poultry Market Remains Steady

TORONTO, July 17 — (CP). — The dressed poultry market has remained fairly steady, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports.

Broilers are not quite so plentiful although there is still some surplus which is being packed for storage.

Heavy chicken are not too plentiful and are moving well. Medium weights are draggy. More fowl are arriving of good quality and a downward revision of price is likely. In fact, some dealers have already lowered their quotations on this kind of poultry one cent per lb.

A few fresh turkeys, old hens, arrived, for which 25 cents lb. was paid.

Stocks of frozen chicken are pretty low and sale of this poultry is not being pushed, dealers holding to fill contracts at a later date.

One car arrived from the Western Provinces containing Grade B milkfed and Grade B costing 30½c and 28½c lb.

Local demand is fair but out-of-town movement to summer resorts is good. This also applies to shipments to Newfoundland. Some lots of fresh frozen fowl are going forward to Montreal and Ottawa.

Dealers are quoting producers and country shippers:

Spring chickens, 25 to 26c lb.

Broilers—Grade A milk-fed, 25 to 26c; B, milk-fed, 24 to 25c; A, 25c; B, 23c.

Japs Get Another Chinese Port

TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcasts), July 17.—(AP).— Japanese naval units early to-day effected a landing without bloodshed at Hwanghwatsun, on the estuary of the Wu river in south-eastern Chekiang province, and started a drive westward toward Japanese-held Wenchow, a Domei dispatch from Shanghai reported.

(The aim of this force apparently would be to clean up the area to prevent the use of port facilities by the Chinese as an avenue for supplies.)

The landing followed by less than 24 hours an attack along the estuary by Japanese which bombed and machine-gunned important military installations, Domei saaid.

French Warships Not For Hitler

LONDON, July 17 (CP Cable)—The British government has no intention of allowing the nine French warships interned at Alexandria, Egypt, to pass into enemy control, the diplomatic correspondent of the Press Association wrote last night.

The correspondent added that this determination was emphsized in London after a Vichy statement was issued by Chief of Government Pierre Laval rejecting a suggestion of President Roosevelt that the vessels be moved to a port in which they would be safe from Nazi designs.

The ships—a battleship, four cruisers, three destroyers and a submarine—have been immobilized since the fall of France.

President Roosevelt has informed Vichy that the United States would consider Britain justified in destroying the vessels should it appear that the Axis is about to take Alexandria.

Holdup Shooting Laid To Boy 18

WINNIPEG, July 17—(CP).—Mrs. Johnson, 35-year-old grocery store owner of St. James, a suburb, was in critical condition in hospital today as police arrested an 18-year-old boy alleged to have shot and wounded her during an attempted holdup.

He entered the store early last evening and when she refused his demands for money, he fired a small calibre sawed-off rifle. The bullet lodged above her heart. She was given several blood transfusions during the night.

The youth, whose home is near the store, told Mrs. Johnson: "I am in a jam, I need some money." He was discharged from an aircraft plant here a month ago.

He also threatened a neighbor, Mrs. Fanny Hamilton, who went to the aid of Mrs. Johnson when she staggered from the store and collapsed on the street.

Negligence Indicated By Authorities Over Coast Waters

OTTAWA, July 17—(CP).—The House of Commons yesterday left its plodding progress through budget resolutions to engage in discussion on defence of the St. Lawrence area and monetary reform proposals.

When the House rose at 11 p.m. Conservative House Leader Hanson said six hours had been spent on the discussion of monetary reform, arising from the suggestion in the House on Wednesday night by Arthur Slaght (Lib., Parry Sound), who urged the issuance of $1,200,000,000 in national currency.

Finance Minister Ilsley agreed with Mr. Hanson that today the House should strictly apply the rules and proceed with the budget resolutions without too general discussion.

Speaking on a motion of J. A. Roy (Ind., Gaspe), that the House adjourn to permit a secret session, Prime Minister King said that Mr. Hanson and Mr. Roy should confide in the Defence Minister information which they said indicated all was not well in the St. Lawrence area.

Mr. King said a decision on a secret session could not be reached until such information had been studied. There had been many offshore sinkings of ships and the people should accept these possibilities. He questioned the need of a secret sitting when such acts of war occurred and assured all possible steps were being taken by the

Private To Hang For 3 Murders

MELBOURNE, July 17.—(CP).—Private Edward J. Leonski, former New York City grocery clerk, was convicted by a United States military court today of the slaying of three Melbourne women and was condemned to death by hanging.

The 10member tribunal debated barely 50 minutes before announcing its verdict, which is subject to review by the commanding general of the United States armed forces in Australia.

He had been under arrest since mid-May, a few days after the body of Miss Gladys Hosking, 40, a university chemistry school secretary, was found near an army camp.

The other victims were Mrs. Ivy McLeod, 40, killed May 3, and Mrs. Pauline Thompson, 31, killed May 9. All three had been strangled.

Confessions which Leonski signed following his arrest were introduced into evidence by the prosecution during the trial.

Witnesses had described Leonski as a "psychopathic personality" who sometimes drank a mixture of beer, ketchup, ice cream and pepper.

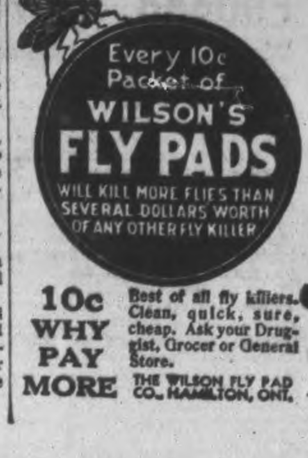
More Hostages

LONDON, July 15 — (CP).—The German - controlled Netherlands radio announced yesterday that a large number of new hostages had been seized by the occupying authorities in Holland in a drive against anti-German activities.

An official proclamation said the lives of the hostages would be forfeit is acts of sabotage continue.

"The population holds the safety of these compatriots in its own hands," said the announcement.



Out Of Chengtu 2 Missionaries Would Go Back

NEW YORK, July 17.—(CP).—Bombed out of their homes by Japanese, flown over cast stretches of the desolate interior of Asia and sailed across thousands of miles of submarine-infested oceans, Miss Lois Russell of London, Ont., and Miss Helen McDougall of Petrolia, Ont., had one emphatic statement to make today:

"If we get a chance, we'll do it again any day."

They were two members of a party of United Church missionaries who landed in New York from China via India and who will arrive in Toronto today to report to their denomination headquarters. Others in the party are Rev. and Mrs. Homer Brown and Miss Julia Brown of Toronto and Dr. and Mrs. Harry Williams and their two children of Winnipeg.

All were stationed for the last few years at a mission base in Chengtu, Szechwan province, 150 miles north of Chungking and all are veterans of many years service in China.

"Everyone in the party was in China for at least 20 years," Miss Russell explained.

"Japanese atrocities cannot be exaggerated," said Miss McDougall: "They're horrible."

Thinks China Will Win

"But," added Miss Russell, "with all her limited equipment and with all the atrocities committeed on her people, China, I believe, is going to beat Japan. China is stronger now than when the war began. She's only beginning to capitalize on her resources. In addition, she's starting to get help from the other powers. There are just too many Chinese for the Japanese to handle and their philosophy makes it just about impossible to conquer them.

"The morale of the Chinese people is wonderful. In addition, you have to remember that they're used to suffering. Why, in the 23 years I was in China they had 400 civil wars—so they know how to take it."

The missionaries flew from Chengtu to Chungking. Then to Calcutta and then proceeded to New York by a secret route. Other United Church missionaries are still in Chengtu.

Training School Site Is Sought In Cobourg

COBOURG, July 17 (ENS). — Officials of the Boys' Training School, Bowmanville, were in Cobourg yesterday looking over a number of properties for a possible site which would be used to house about 25 girls in the charge of the institution. The Lakehurst Mrs. Edith Kerr Macdonald's home, and Pontiac Stock Farms were looked at. Whether any decision was reached was not revealed.

Censors Decide Drew Letter Must Be Banned

OTTAWA, July 17. — (CP). — Spokesmen for the press censorship department said last night that publication in full of the letter written by Lt.-Co. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, criticizing the report of the Hong Kong Inquiry Commission, would be regarded as an infringement on the Defence of Canada Regulations.

Partial publication would not be objected to by the censorship, provided no part of the matter published infringed the regulations.

But the spokesman said this would mean that the "most interesting" parts of the letter could not be published.

Mr. King informed the House of Commons Wednesday night that the letter from Co. Drew, a commission counsel at the inquiry into the Hong Kong expedition, would not be tabled in the House.

The Prime Minister said tabling the letter and thus disclosing its contents would violate an undertaking to keep secret certain information obtained from the British government. He said also that it contained imputations upon the integrity and judgment of Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, who conducted the inquiry as a Royal Commissioner.

Continuing Purge

LONDON, July 17(CP) —A Czech government spokesman said today the Gestapo is continuing to arrest hundreds of persons in Bohehamia and Moravia in its purge resulting from the slaying of Reinhard Heydrich.

He said that while he had no knowledge of a Moscow radio report that 10,000 Czechs were executed in one month, "the Nazis have executed many more than the 1,350 they have announced, but we do not know the exact figure."

Chaser Chances Own Blasts To Get U-Boat

MIAMI, Fla., July 17 — (AP). — United States naval authorities yesterday released the story of how a game sub-chaser crew, with one engine of their craft disabled, made an attack on a submarine and then limped into port with her seams open. The disclosure was made while Navy Secretary Frank Knox made an inspection of the sub-chaser school here.

A new crew on a new patrol chaser spotted a submarine in Florida waters, related Lt.-Cmdr. F. E. McDaniel, commander of the school.

As the chaser rushed in to drop the first depth charges, one of the engines broke down and the speed was cut to 10 knots—too slow for the boat to race away from the concusion of the underwater explosions. The skipper went ahead with the attack and the crew tossed over the charges.

The explosions opened up the seams in the chaser, but the skipper kept the boat circling until every charge aboard had been dropped. Leaking badly, the chaser made for port. The crew moored her at the Miami dock and the commander reported the action, adding:

"By the way, I'm afraid the chaser is sinking."

She was, but a tug managed to get the craft into drydock before she went under. The vessel has been repaired and is back in action.

Arctic Convoy Battered Six Days

LONDON, July 17.—(AP).— Two convoys carrying supplies to a Russian port, one including American ships, fought off German submarines and bombers for days at a time and reached port with the loss of only a few vessels, survivors reported last night.

Officers and men of the freighters and escort vessels manned their action posts for six consecutive days in one convoy's battle and for three days in the other.

When the fight was over, at least two German submarines had been sunk by gunfire and depth charges and an undetermined number of attacking planes shot down.

"It was a miracle that, in spite of the incessant bombing, so few ships in the convoy were lost," Stoker Frank Robinson said in his account of the six-day fight.

"The trouble began with a lone Focke-Wulf plane," Robinson continued. "We saw it overhead. That was the beginning of six days and nights of excitement. While it lasted we were bombed an average of ten times a day.

"Our own ship was sunk. We were flung into the sea and German pilots came down low and machine-gunned us while we struggled to find something to cling to.

"As soon as we saw the Focke-Wulf reconnaissance plane we got busy preparing the ship for action. The first attack came shortly before nightfall.

"They came over in wave after wave of dive-bombers and torpedo planes. The air was filled with the roar of motors and the noise of bursting bombs and anti-aircraft fire.

"That was the beginning. It went on through the night and on into the next day. And then it went on again—for six days and nights. There was little sleep for anybody.

"We could only snatch our food between watches. The longest let-up they gave us was two hours.

"Once we saw a lone British fighter catapulted off a merchant ship. He went up to mix it with nine German bombers He got one of them and damaged another and then they got him and we saw him bail out. A corvette picked him up, wounded in the leg.

"The day came when it was our turn. A bomb hit the ship forward. Before we knew what had happened, three more hit us amidships. For a few seconds we were living in the confusion of rending, crashing smoke and the stink of explosives.

"The old ship fell away in two halves and those of us who escaped the bombs found ourselves in the sea.

"After we had finally got into a lifeboat, the Germans came back to machine-gun us again. We finally were picked up and the convoy went seadily on.

"We reached a Russian port, but still there was no let-up. Ten or twelve times daily they came over trying to set the whole place alight. Thanks to the Russian barrage, which was something terrific, they failed."

One British warship developed engine trouble during the voyage and had to be taken in tow by a merchantman.

Kinsmen Carnival Is Held In Cobourg

COBOURG, July 17 — (ENS). — Cobourg Kinsmen Club annual carnival opened last night in George Street Public School grounds for a two-night stand. The Cobourg Kilties Band, under the baton of Joe Goldring, are playing at the carnival both nights. Entire proceeds of the event are for the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund except the returns from the main refreshment booth which are being turned over to the Red Cross. Although scarcity of some articles made it difficult to procure them as prizes this year, the commitee nevertheless obtained a fine selection. Lloyd Dickhout is carnival chairman.

The Kinsmen had an army of willing workers in the various booths with lusty-lunged barkers calling in the trade. Gordon Garnet was the chairman of the Milk for Britain booth, with a number of local doctors asisting him. The ladies' bingo booth was in charge of Dr. Austen Allen and the men's bingo was in care of Fred Tucker) Chalk. Bruce Marshall had the over-and-under-seven booth and Roy Barker was in charge of the grocery booth. In charge of the other booths were Claude Fowler, penny toss; Garnet Thompson, wheel of fortune; Harold Bellamy, ringed money; and Robin Mallory, merchandise wheel.

Cobourg Briefs

COBOURG July 17 — (ENS). — The north-west corner of King and Division Streets will soon look as spic and span as the south-west corner. During the last two days the Bank of Toronto exterior was cleaned by workmen using a combination of compressed air, water and sand, and to-day the opposite corner on which stands the Dominion Bank was given its treatment. All of which serves to make some of the buildings on the main street more dingy in comparison.

Due to the attraction of the Kinsmen Carnival last night, the attendance at the weekly jitney at Cobourg Lawn Bowling Club was slim. Places of amusement suffered in a similar fashion, but as the carnival was for a worthy cause their proprietrs were not sorry.

Review VC Case As Honors Group Ponders

OTTAWA, July 17—(CP)—One of Canada's first Great War heroes, Philip Konowal, V.C., appeared before the special House of Commons committee on honors and decorations yesterday on presentation by J. F. Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata).

Mr. Pouliot said he called attention to Mr. Konowal's case in order to suggest that an award of the highest decoration for valor should carry with it some protection and assistance for the recipient during his life.

Questioned by the chairman, Hon. Cyrus MacMillan, Mr. Konowal said he was employed on the temporary charr staff of the House of Commons and received a pension of $15 a month. If he was off work a day his wages would stop but he had never been off. He appeared in smock and overalls and carrying a broom.

"I killed 16 Germans with the bayonet and captured a machine-gun," he said, in winning the V.C.

Mr. MacMillan said everyone who was at Hill 70 recalled Mr. Konowal's citation and knew his award was for "very significant deeds of valor."

Mr. Konowal said he had had various jobs since the last war before obtaining his present employment seven years ago. He was out of work for three years.

"A Typical Case"

Gordon Fraser (Con. Peterborough West) said the case was typical of a considerable number of returned men on the temporary staff of the government.

Later in the sitting D. F. McCuaig (Lib. Simcoe North) said it was not fair to say Mr. Knowal did not receive pay when off work. He understood temporary employees of the House of Commons did receive pay if off work for short periods.

"The only value of his testimony is to show that even the Victoria Cross does not protect a man from poverty," said J. J. Kinley (Lib. Queens-Lunenburg).

"I think a man awarded the Victoria Cross is entitled to live better than this man, whether he is employed or not," said Mr. McCuaig.

Dr. E. H. Colman, Under-Secretary of State, appeared before the committee to outline existing arrangements for granting medals aid awards to Canadian civilians, either for public service or for acts of bravery in saving life.

Mr. Coleman said he believed decorations were part of the prerogative of the King and the King was not bound to act on the advice of his ministers. In most cases, however, the recommendation for a decoration originated either with the King's ministers or with a commander of forces in the field.

HOW TO KEEP RAYONS FREE FROM RUNS

1. Buy carefully and be sure you get your right size and length.

2. Easy does it—put on your rayons as carefully as those silk ones you used to have.

3. Avoid cake soap rubbing: don't twist ... harsh handling weakens delicate threads, encourages runs.

4. Dip stockings in lukewarm Lux every night when you take them off. This saves their elasticity ... helps them fit better.

5. Gently squeeze out moisture without wringing, then roll in a turkish towel. Hang over a rod away from heat and sun. Don't use clothespins.

6. Dry a whole day at least, after dipping before you wear them again. Rayons are strongest when perfectly dry.

YOUR glamorous new rayons or bembergs need gentle care. Be sure you dip them in Lux every night. Gentle Lux whisks away harmful perspiration which rots delicate threads. Lux cuts down embarrassing, costly runs.

Colonel Drew's Letter

The Examiner, as an independent newspaper, has consistently supported the Government in power, and we believe that most of the people in this country have, until recently, retained the faith which led them to elect that Government in the spring of 1940, but the maladroit manner in which the affair of the Hong Kong Report is being handled will do much to shake that faith. By bringing charges against Colonel Drew under the Defence of Canada Regulations the Government achieved nothing, though it gave another example of the way in which those Regulations may be abused, and it made Colonel Drew the hero of the hour. Now, after having given his partial consent to table Colonel Drew's letter in the House, the Prime Minister, upon taking legal advice, has declined to do so. It is quite clear, however, that the matter will not be allowed to rest; Parliament and the Canadian people will want a full investigation of the Hong Kong Report and if such an investigation is not forthcoming faith in the present Government will never be what it was.

The Prime Minister's refusal to table the letter in the House will do little to maintain secrecy concerning its contents. Responsible news agencies sent extracts from the letter to every newspaper in this country before Mr. King made his decision; the papers had the story in type, ready to print the minute the letter was tabled. There can be few people in Canada now who were deeply interested in the contents of that letter who are not informed of what it said.

It is in everyone's interest that the letter be discussed publicly. If what Colonel Drew said in a public address was prejudicial to recruiting contents of his letter are even more so, and the present secrecy is almost enough to discourage recruiting altogether, for it seems to hint at serious incompetence in the management of our Army. Men will fight bravely for their homes and for those they love, but they want the assurance that their sacrifice is not being wasted by inept leaders. They will not be assured of this unless one of two things happens; either the Government must show that Colonel Drew is making an unnecessary fuss, or it must probe the whole matter, and root out the weakness which Colonel Drew says exists. Suppression of the matter will only give rise to rumor and suspicion, and there is nothing which the enemies of the Government would like better.

We cannot imagine that Colonel Drew would pursue this matter so vigorously if he were not at least moderately sure of his ability to carry it through to a successful conclusion. Certainly he is doing his best to vex the Government, but if his accusations against the General Staff and the Royal Commissioner are justified the Government needs vexing and the gentlemen who control the fate of our Army need replacing. We have already said that we think that Colonel Drew is making the utmost of any information which he may have and that his reasons for doing so are not wholly unconnected with his concern for the welfare of the Conservative Party as well as for the country as a whole. His fellow-Conservatives have made no attempt to conceal their glee at the disturbance which his criticism is causing. When a Liberal member in the House on Wednesday interjected a remark into Mr. Hanson's speech, saying that Colonel Drew would welcome the publicity which this affair brings him, Mr. Hanson was quick to reply, "Yes, he will welcome the publicity this gets; this publicity has made him the biggest man in the public life of Canada today." And when another member asked if this meant that Colonel Drew might become next leader of the Conservative Party, Mr. Hanson replied, "Well, you might go farther and fare worse."

No one will deny that this incident is a windfall for the Conservative Party, and no one will be surprised if they make the most of it. The Government has frequently been accused of playing politics, and the charge has not been without grounds, but we had better recognize that playing politics is a Canadian, and not an exclusively Liberal, vice. When the Conservative Party has any ammunition to fire it can fire it as skilfully as anyone; even the C.C.F. is learning the national game, as its eye-catching move on the conscription bill showed.

But this matter of the Hong Kong affair is beyond mere politics. it involves the General Staff of our Army, and our most eminent jurist. It has tremendous bearing on the nature of our war effort. The great body of Canadians who are indifferent to politics do not care in the least what political party profits from the investigation, or whether a new demagogue is made. The men and women who do the hard labor of the war and who furnish the fighting-men, want to know that the war effort of the country is being properly directed and that their work and sacrifice is not thrown away. So far Colonel Drew has made his accusations and has not been allowed his chance to prove them. It is in the interests of Canada that he be given that chance.

Anti-British Intellectuals

In a recent editorial the Toronto Globe and Mail condemns Canadian "intellectuals" who, after a brief stay in Britain, return to this country with a prejudice against all things British. It speaks of them thus:

> "Those intellectuals who visited Britain on a Rhodes or other scholarship or spent a year or two at Oxford or the London School of Economics and were not received with the unrolled red rug developed a childish complex which has plagued them into older years, but, unfortunately, not maturity."

There is deep truth in this; we have seen it happen. Many a young Canadian who goes to England full of his own importance is cruelly shocked when the people whom he meets there refuse to take him at his own valuation; sometimes he never forgives the British for the calm way in which they accept the apocalyptic revelations of his mind. He is quite likely to return to Canada with a conviction that Britain is played out. It is always humiliating to discover that one's grandmother knows how to suck eggs.

It is high time that we found out more about Britain and the people there who are our allies in this war. The States is learning to like the British and we might do so too, with advantage. After all, a man who wears a monocle may do so merely because he thinks spectacles are ostentatious. No one wants Canada to become a land of Anglophiles, but we should mistrust people who attempt to discredit the English because they themselves have acquired some painful self-knowledge while living in England.

Lord Haw-Haw And Goethe

We read with deep interest that William Joyce, the British traitor who broadcasts regularly from Berlin and who is known to English listeners as "Lord Haw-Haw" because of his excessively broad English accent, has written an explanation for his conduct. But what particularly interests us is his confession of a holy belief in National Socialism, an unbounded adoration of the heroic figure of Adolf Hitler, and profound veneration for Goethe and Wagner.

Obviously Haw-Haw admires Hitler or he would not have chosen to work for him. And if he "adores" him, well and good; each to his taste, as the old lady said when she kissed the cow. We can understand that a pretentious, troublesome fellow like Haw-Haw would enjoy the noisy, ponderous music-dramas of Wagner. But what in the world does this hired ruffian find to admire in Goethe? What possible sympathy can he have with that genius?

Goethe never hesitated to call himself a citizen of the world. He had no use for petty nationalism and he had a true appreciation of the shortcomings of his countrymen. He was a man of noble and generous character and a despiser of pretence and vulgarity. What can Haw-Haw see in Goethe? We strongly suspect that he does not know what he is talking about. He is no more a lover of Goethe than Guy Fawkes was a lover of Shakespeare. There is something infinitely contemptible about a mind which lumps the greatest of German poets with Hitler, the evil genius of true German culture.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

WHEN this appears in print there will be a good deal of Fall wheat in stock and it promises one of the best yields of wheat we have had in Ontario for some time. Some fields have gone down in spots with wind and rain but the injury in this way is not large. At the moment the corn crop for ensilage is not very promising, but it is surprising how many farmers when asked what they are filling their silos with this year reply "hay." Some have put in straight alfalfa but an astonishing number have just cut a heavy hay crop and were glad to 'save' is quickly by getting it into the silo, and they much prefer handling green hay rather than corn in the filling. Where anyone was depending upon a heavy crop of corn fodder on a large acreage it is not so good, and their supply of feed will be some short.

Potatoes and roots are late in many places and it is difficult to take time out from harvest to hoe and thin the latter. Mangels are going to be missed next spring. They are such good keepers that many farmers plan having mangels for feeding in May and they are excellent feed to have at any time of year.

HEAVY applications of commercial fertilizer have been made in England early in June. This practice improves the yield of grai without adding much, if anything, to the straw. When the application is made the farmers like to have the crop covering the ground with a good strong stand. If the fertilizer burns the leaves of the crop, to some extent, they say, so much the better. It is a heavier grain yield they are after and if the crop is burned a little there may be less straw, but the roots will strengthen and have something, from the newly applied fertilizer, to feed the grain as it forms in the head. No effort is being spared in Britain to secure as heavy a yield of grain as is possible.

CITY people in Ontario are buying farms in increasing numbers. Fancy prices are not being paid but land is moving quite freely. As is usual in such cases farms near the cities are in the strongest demand, but good land anywhere in Ontario is worth a good deal more money than it was. There will undoubtedly be an after-war movement from over the ocean to Canada, and land is likely to be good property to have when the war is ended and things are being set to rights.

A TOOL bar, made for easy attachment to a tractor, has rapidly come into very general use in England. Before the war such a thing was by no means common and many farmers held the firm idea that cultivation of row crops could only be done in a satisfactory manner by horses. The hurry, because of lack of help, since the war began, has created a demand for cultivators which will take three or four rows at a stroke. Tool bars are now made with wheels on the frame to regulate the depth of the cultivator teeth in doing their work, and British Farm Journals are giving a good deal of publicity to this new method of cultivation. In some cases a small motor car has a tool bar, fastened on its front end, with cultivator teeth attached, and the car pushes this contraption ahead of itself making a good job of cultivating potatoes or field roots.

THE Wartime Price Board is going to pay a bonus of 6c per lb. butter fat on cream that is made into butter. This will work out at about 5c per lb. on butter and will cost, it is estimated, about $15,000,000. I cannot for the life of me see why this fifteen millions is either to be added to Canada's debt or taken from the taxes. All that was necessary was to raise the price ceiling on butter to 40c per lb. The people would have gladly paid it in wartime and the matter would have been disposed of, without the afterclap of $15,000,000 to come on taxpayers already quite burdened. We are bonusing cheese and bacon, why? Because we are producing them for the war zone, and Britain is only able or willing to pay a certain price, so Canada, wanting the extra bacon and cheese for export, is stimulating its production by bonuses. It is different with butter. We do not export it—we want it only for home consumption, and feel that it should be priced high enough to be fair to the farmers selling cream. The logical and sensible thing to do was to raise the price ceiling and the matter would be settled. This is not to be done, however. Evidently these price ceilings are fixed by people who then fall down and worship them, and so we fin dourselves in the foolish position of bonusing food for home consumption when our people could, and would, easily pay the small advance on a pound of butter.

What is the use of telling the people that we need every dollar for the war and then squander $15,000,000 in such foolish fashion as this? Surely a little common sense would work in well here and the fifteen millions, already raised by taxes, could be used to fight our enemies.

THE live cattle coming onto the Canadian markets are to be bonused, it appears, in an even more cumbersome fashion. We have had an exhibition for some weeks of the Government paying several cents per pound above the "ceiling" for beef to supply our army. The packers, of course, had to be taken care of, and so we had a condition in the Toronto yards, which if brought about by ordinary business men would be regarded as very silly. Now, we are told, the wholesale price of beef is to be reduced from the present price of 19¼c per lb. to 18¼ about the middle of this month. A further reduction of one cent, to 17¼, early in August, is to be made. A one-half cent additional reduction to be made toward the end of August, and by the middle of September a further one-half cent, bringing it to 16½c. If cattle are higher across the line some sort of bonus is to be paid.

The whole difficulty seems to be that while the farmer has some people in this organization who are trying to see that he has fair play, the all powerful persons in the price fixing business are more interested in working out their theories than having a simple straight-forward plan that would eliminate bonuses as far as possible, and under which farmers could make some calculations upon which they could safely operate their business.

"ENEMY ANNIHILATED"

Hitler's Blitz Slows in Russia

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

A MEAGRE gleam of hope that the German offensive in the Don Basin is losing some of its momentum and may be halted is reflected in Moscow press advices.

They make no effort, however, to conceal the extreme gravity of the situation or the imminent danger of a German break-through to the Volga down the Don-Donetz gateway. Russian censorship policy, that even seems distrustful of revealing too intimate a picture of the growing crisis to Washington and London authorities, makes no bones of letting American and British correspondents paint it in darkest colors.

That Russian policy probably is traceable to hopes that the gloomy press versions sent to the United States and Britain will help develop popular demand into a compelling voice on both sides of the Atlantic for second-front operations. It recognizes that even in the depth of the greatest war crisis they have ever known, the Anglo-American democracies are dominated by the very force they are seeking preserve as the cornerstone of the world of the future, public opinion.

COUNT ON PUBLIC

Russian fostering of second-front agitation on the home fronts of her war allies is obvious. It may be born of desperation, and the hope that despite all the risks involved, Anglo-American troops can and will move in on Hitler's western flank. Yet it also must be based on the Russian belief that on both sides of the Atlantic the voice of the people is sovereign; that it commands in war as in peace, and is resolved unshakably and beyond counting costs or risks on smashing the Axis.

The basis for the faintly more optimistic note which has pierced the gloom of the otherwise sombre reports from Russia is not clear. It could rest on knowledge of increasing German difficulties in replacing manpower and equipment losses as the battle expands. It would reflect undisclosed Russian achievements in regrouping and reinforcing retreating armies in the south for a stand short of the Volga.

Or it might grow out of the fact that not only has the Voronezh pivot in the north been held against incessant Nazi battering for many days; but that a slow-down in the German sweep southeastward through the Don-Donetz gateway toward the Volga is indicated. The Nazis have stabbed deeply between the two rivers into the Don bend, but there is yet no indication that any considerable Rusian force has been trapped.

SUCCESSFUL WITHDRAWAL SEEN

On the contrary, a successful Russian withdrawal on a wide front seems indicated. It could account for the speed with which German spearheads have moved down the Donetz south of Lisichansk, down the Don south of Boguchar and midway of the basin between those river points.

Russian staff skill in effecting gigantic retreats under enemy pressure is well proved. That as well as early onset of a terrible Russian winter upset Hitler's campaign last year. Russian peril is even greater now than it was then, except on the immediate north and west sectors of Moscow's defenses; but there is still room in the south for retreat.

A retreating army sucks its advancing foe after it, extending his communication lines, expanding his battle front, thinning out and exhausting his advance striking forces. A retreat strategy robs the aggressor of some of the advantages of the initiative. He must keep contact with his foe or risk being drawn into a trap himself.

German war bulletins have stressed for days that action in the east except in the Voronezh region was a fast "pursuit" of Russian "rearguard." That of itself indicates that Marshal Simeon Timoshenko is engaged in the far south in pulling his armies back to some selected front, or falling back upon reinforcements he knows to be coming up. In either case, if he continues to escape Nazi encirclement, the odds might shift in his favor once he reached his intended positions to give battle anew.

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 17—(CP).—Through all the defeats, disappointments and disillusionments that have plagued the United Nations in the last few months, one man in Washington has retained his confidence, a sense of proportion and the ability to get things done—President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

No wartime President has carried the responsibilities that are his today. He is the leader of the American people not only in name but in fact. The great decisions made in Washington are his and history must judge the United States by what he has done.

No wartime President was better fitted for his historic role, both by knowledge and temperament than Roosevelt. He faces his difficulties with high enthusiasm, vast experience, a sense of urgency—and a smile.

Being President of the United States is a man-killing job even in peacetime and the cares and duties of that office are multiplied many times in war. The President's routine day means hard work with little relaxation, beginning at 8 or 8.30 in the morning and continuing until 11 or 11.30 at night.

Through it all, Mr. Roosevelt remains in remarkable health, despite his 60 years. The famous smile that captivated the American people in three presidential elections still flashes frequently and few men enjoy a hearty laugh more than he.

His days are filled with appointments, Cabinet meetings and discussions with military and civilian advisers. He signs his name 150 to 200 times a day and the White House mail averages from 2,000 to 3,000 letters a day. His only relaxation is a 15-minute swim before dinner, but close associates say that "when he quits work, he really quits."

This ability to relax and his ability to sleep soundly despite the worries of war and government are his greatest physical assets these days. He gets eight or nine hours of sleep a night and arises fully rested, his mind clear.

One who knows the President well says he worries, "but not too much," and that his general health is as good today as at any time in years.

NOTE TO NUMISMATISTS

Alexander Loudon, Netherlands Ambassador to the United States, has one of the rarest coins of the war, a Dutch silver coin minted in the German-controlled mint of Holland and bearing a likeness of Queen Wilhelmina.

In one of the most subtle acts of sabotage of the war, an employee of the mint, while turning out reichsmarks, substituted a die bearing the Queen's profile. Nobody knows how many were struck off or how many were smuggled out of the country because the man was thrown into a concentration camp as soon as the Nazis discovered what he was doing.

DAVIS WINS HIS FIRST BATTLE

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, is more solidly entrenched than ever with the majority of the American press as a result of his one-man fight against the military authorities to get some publicity on the saboteurs' trial in Washington. It took intensive campaigning on his part—it has been reported he even threatened to resign at one stage—the direct intervention of President Roosevelt and a helping hand from War Secretary Henry Stimson, to open the door even a crack. If the military authorities had had their way, they would not have announced even the opening of the court.

Although he has spent many hours there in the last few years, Leon Henderson, Price Administrator, got lost in the winding corridor of the Capitol the other day... The United States is using Japanese from the west coast to reclaim swamp lands and dust-bowl lands in the south and middlewest. There are 10,000 Japanese in Arkansas.

What 1942 Taxes Do To

SIR,—"Resentful Taxpayer" says people earning large salaries will still have plenty to live on, and while I do not exactly come in the "large" salary class, it might be illuminating to with a $7,500 per year income comes out under some of your readers to know just how a person the new tax set-up.

My assets are as follows:

I own a house (free and clear) in another city where we lived before I was transferred here four years ago. It cost $12,000 and as I could only have sold it for $5,500 I rented it, and for the four years the total net income has been $12.46 with nothing for interest or depreciation.

Have stocks costing about $6,000, now worth about $1,200, no dividends have ever been received on these stocks.

Cleaned out saving accounts to buy the first war bonds and have bought $1,000 out of income each year since, making a total of $10,000, which gives me about $300 a year—also have paid $1,100 for war saving certificates.

Have two 'teen age daughters, a wife, and a salary of $7,200, which with the interest on the war bonds gives me a total of $7,500 (the same as 1941). Comparison between my condition in 1941 and 1942:

	1941	1942
Income	$7,500	$7,500
Income tax	1,650	3,050
War Saving	600	600
Bond	1,000	1,000
Rent (lease expires Oct. 1, '43)	1,320	1,320
Lights, gas and phone	110	110
Life insurance	620	620
Auto, operation	180	50
Girls, school and camp	420	420
Church, lodges and charity	100	100
Food, clothing, laundry, medican and miscellaneous	1,500	230
	7,500	7,500

It would be interesting to know just how Mr. Ilsley or "Resentful Taxpayer" would handle this situation.

Of course, the life insurance premiums can be deducted from the $900 enforced saving item which will give us $850 for the last items instead of $230 or an average of $4 per person per week.

CURIOUS, NOT RESENTFUL.

Merchants Must Show Price Less Tax, New Rule

OTTAWA, July 17 — (CP). — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board requires merchants who sell goods subject to the retail purchase imposed in Finance Minister Ilsley's budget to show the price of such articles exclusive of the tax.

A board order has been issued prescribing the procedure the board announced last night. The price must be exhibited by price-tag or otherwise.

It is optional with merchants whether they also display the amount of the tax or whether they display the cost, tax included.

Goods subject to this tax included purses and handbags, diamonds and jewellery, cut glass, china and porcelain except articles for use in preparation or serving of food and drink) clocks and watches.

The board previously issued an order "respecting maximum prices of goods and services affected by 1942 Federal tax changes," which provided for the addition by persons having paid the new or increased taxes, of not more than the exact amount to their lawful maximum prices in reselling.

Because furs are not under the price ceiling, the order has been amended so that it no longer applies ot them.

On the other hand, a new subsection has been inserted to cover the excise tax, at manufacturers' level, of 35 per cent on certain goods which the budget originally made subject to a 25 per cent retail purchase tax.

An amendment in the House of Commons affecting "penny candy" has caused a rephrasing of the subsection listing the 30 per cent excise tax on confectionery, to which is now added: "And the tax of one cent two cents, and three cents on chocolate, candy and confectionery which may be classed as candy or a substitute for candy (other than chewing gum) packed by a manufacturer to sell at retail for 5, 10, and 15 cents."

10,000 Instruments Used To Keep The Army In Step

"Sound the trumpet, beat the drum."

Since the days of Jericho, Johnny-the-soldier-boy has demanded martial music. Canada's fighting men of today are no exception, and the Department of Munitions and Supply is helping to maintain tradition by assuring the armed forces an amply supply of bugles, drums, and even less commonplace instruments.

With negotiations under way for the purchase of 200 bagpipes, the number of musical instruments bought by the department for the three services since the war started totals nearly 10,000, involving an expenditure of $300,000.

The new bagpipes will cost a little over $80 each and specifications call for first quality African blackwood, mounted in imitation ivory, and supplied complete with tartan covers, cords, and tassels. To keep our warring Highlanders in fighting mood, the best is none too good.

Some fifty types of band instruments, including several species of drum, horn, trombone, clarinet, and saxaphone, are among the purchases made by the department. In addition, there are large quantities of accessories and spares, such as heads, straps, sticks, and aprons, for the drums; cords and chains for the bugles and trumpets; mouthpieces and reeds; instrument cases and music card holders; and maces for the drum majors.

For the men in uniform, the bugle is not only an alarm clock; it is a curfew signal, a rallying call, and a toll bell. Evidence of its importance to military life is apparent from the fact that since the beginning of the war, 2,170 have been purchased, together with 2,287 trumpets.

Big voice of the parade, metronome of the march, is the bass drum with its satellites, the side drums. Since September, 1939, a monthly average of more than 80 percussion pieces has been purchased. The total includes 277 bass drums, 2,185 side drums, 152 tenor drums, as well as 47 set of cymbals and one lone triangle.

That bands are plentiful in Canadian fighting units is indicated by the purchase of 405 clarinets, 295 cornets, 271 trombones, 147 saxaphones, 49 flutes and 27 piccolos. The horn section alone is represented by 564 instruments, such as the bass, the alto, the baritone, the tenor, the French horn, the Flugel horn, and several other pieces with weird names and strange shapes—sousaphones, euphoniums, mellophones, bombardons and bassoons. The list is completed by 4 oboes, 26 fifes and 150 bagpipes, Scottish and Irish.

Because they must be perfect in pitch, and therefore call for the highest quality of materials and workmanship, the cost of some of the instruments is high. A sousaphone may cost anywhere from $275 to $350; a bass horn, from $200 to $250; a French horn from $150 to $250. Then there are flutes at $185, clarinets at $150, saxaphones at $225, trombones and cornets at $100. A bass drum calls for an outlay of close to $70 and a side drum, of around $40. Cymbals range in price from $20 to $50. The average price of bugles is $7.50. Even a diminutive piccolo may cost as much as $100.

The purchase of these band instruments, however, form but a very small part of the duties of the man who buys them. As head of one of the 12 divisions of the General Purchasing Branch of the Department of Munitions and Supply, his responsibility is to order barrack stores material for the services, as well as a tremendous diversity of wartime requirements.

Great changes have taken place in the art of warfare. Gone are the bow and arrow, the sword and the lance, the cavalry horse and the scarlet garbs. But the trumpet blare and the roll of drums still echo on the battlefields. Essential to the morale of the men who fight our battles, martial music will remain until the end of wars.

"Sound the bugle beat the drum!" and watch Johnny-the-soldier-boy pull out his chest, straighten his back, and walk to battle with a song and a smile.

Propose Death For Robbers

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—Disclosure that robbery cases are on the increase in London brought a suggestion in parliament to-day that the crime be made punishable by death before a firing squad, but the government refused to be alarmed by the situation.

Herbert Morrison, home secretary and minister of home security, told the House of Commons that during the first six months of 1942 there were 85 cases of robbery or assault with intent to rob as compared with 75 for the corresponding period in 1941.

He saaid, however, that the police 'are satisfied there is no ground for apprehension that there is a growing menace.'

'My own opinion,' he said, 'is that the figures are a remarkable tribute to the character of the people of London in all circumstances of blackout and wartime conditions.'

Chinese Nip Off Jap Garrison

CHUNGKING, July 17.—(AP).—The Chinese high command announced today re-occupation of Tsingtien in Chekiang Province Sunday, with 500 to 600 Japanese killed or wounded and the remainder fleeing toward Wenchow, 25 miles to the southeast.

(The Japanese took the port of Wenchow Saturday. The Chinese apparently employed their familiar tactics of closing in from behind and nipping off the garrison left behind by the Japanese at Tsingtien.)

A Chinese communique also said a Chinese force "penetrated into the Japanese barracks at Sinyang," an invasion base in Southern Honan Province, and killed or wounded many Japanese soldiers and slaughtered 100 horses.

Burned Lifeboat Saves 15 Crew

A U.S. GULF COAST PORT, July 17.— (AP). — Fifteen crewmen struggled to a partially-burned lifeboat and escaped while 27 other crew members perished in the torpedoing and sinking of a medium-sized United States cargo vessel in the Gulf July 9, naval authorities announced here to-day.

The sub neither surfaced nor shelled the ship. The master and many ship officers lost their lives. Most of the crew were asleep below decks when the torpedoes struck, enveloping the bridge and the forward part in a sheet of flame.

Members of the crew of 42 rushed on deck and plunged overboard, swimming to windward to avoid the flames until they reached a burning lifeboat. They extinguished the fire and used the charred lifeboat to row to shore.

The men built a signal fire on the beach and were picked up by an unidentified fishing vessel and taken to port.

Lord Beaverbrook's morning newspaper, the Daily Express, gave the story front-page prominence.

RATIONED GOODS?

He helps in their fair distribution

CANADIAN manufacturers—and the people of the Dominion as a whole—are today dependent on commercial travellers to see that goods are adequately and fairly distributed. Distribution, not selling, is the wartime function of Canadian Commercial Travellers.

Many commercial travellers are technical men calling on industrial firms. Their experience and their knowledge are invaluable to purchasing agents and engineers of wartime industries in the selection of materials, the use of substitutes and in the maintenance of difficult-to-replace equipment.

The ranks of Canada's commercial travellers have been thinned by enlistment in the armed forces and by the drafting of men to government boards. Despite all difficulties, those that remain are carrying on a full time job—proud of the part they are playing in Canada's all-out war effort.

BRINTONS WHIP THE ELECTRICS

C.G.E. Electrics Suffer 26-7 Whipping

With a seven-run rally in the seventh innings and consistent scoring throughout the whole game the Brinton girls defeated C.G.E. Electrics 26 to 7.

L. Hughes pitching for the winners kept the 14 hits fairly well scattered with the exception of the fifth and final innings and only allowed three passes and struckout eight. The Brinton packed in their hits in the third, fourth and seventh innings touching M. Larmer for 20 throughout the game, however the Electrics hurler had fairly good control only allowing four passes and striking out six. Her support however was poor and considerable shifting was done to get a working line-up.

Not only pitching a great game Miss Hughes got a homer, a double and three singles in seven times to bat leading her team with the willow. M. Batley, H. English, N. Smith and E. Basciano each got four hits. M. Hunter with a homer and three singles lead in the hitting for the Electrics while R. Masters and R. Milburn each got three singles.

Canadian Watercraft Defeats Woollens

The Canadian Watercrafts, in an Industrial League fixture Wednesday night, took the Dominion Woollens squad by a 25 to 8 score.

The game was an exciting affair regardless of the one-sided score. The Hillier brothers on the mound did stellar work, but lacked the support of their comrades. Killingbeck for the Watercrafts pitched steady ball all the route and Neely on the receiving end of the Watercraft battery did fine behind the plate. The Wool Makers played good ball but couldn't stop the Watercrafts on their hitting spree.

Batteries:

Dominion Woollens: P. Hillier, D. Hillier and G. McMann; Watercrafts: Killingbeck and Neely.

Watercrafts defeated Outboard Marines last Friday at Brinton Field, 16 to 13.

Rules Amateur Golf

Since the U.S. national amateur golf championship has been shelved this year because of the war, the western amateur championship, now completed, stacks up as the top golf event of the year for the amateurs. The winner of that event, Pte Pat Abbott of Hollywood, Cal., a former bit actor in the movies, thus rules as the 1942 amateur king. Abbott defeated Bruce McCormick, Los Angeles fireman, in the 36-hole final at Spokane, Wash., to win the event.

Spring Trophy 2nd Round Played Thursday

The Kawartha Golf and Country Club has a big day planned for this coming Sunday. The main event is a Scotch mixed two ball foursome starting at 2 p.m. The partners will be decided by a draw and the special committee would like to see a large turnout. There will be a small fee for prizes only, part of which will go to a local charity.

Mrs. Lionel Browne was the winner of the second round of the Spring Trophy. Due to a late start these matches are a little behind time, but by bringing the games closer together the ladies will manage to have them finished on schedule. In the ladies' Thursday afternoon competition, Mrs. Lionel Browne was the winner, with a low net f 77 for the 18-hole match. Mrs. Al. Drynan was the winner in the nine-hole competition.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

We have just been looking over our records and we find that notwithstanding all the rainy weather we had during the month of June our schedule games are just about all played up to date. Only one night's games remain to be played and that is of Monday, June 1st. In the ladies' section that are one hundred per cent. played—or in other words with about six weeks bowling we had to stop only one night. Some record!

There was no change in the standing of Group No. 1 after last night's games. All the top matches won.

Tonight it will be a mixed tourney. Play at the usual hour, 7.30 o'clock. Phone your name in early.

Notices have been posted up in our club house and have also been sent out to the surrounding clubs, regarding our big open tournament for men's rinks on Monday, Aug. 32, (Civic Holiday). As the number of rinks for the tourney have been limited to 32, it might be well for our local boys to contact chairman R. F. Downey at once.

WhipperWatson Flattens Rudy Dusek

By JIM COLEMAN

Whipper Billy Watson, perspiring freely but looking mighty 'andsome, ma'am, demolished Rudolfus Dusek in 13.07 last night, employing a gruesome little device known as The Irish Whip. Our Willie merely grasped Rudy by one chubby mitt and spun him through air numerous times until the only thing the crowd could distinguish was the rubicund outlines of Dusek's nose, beaming like a light on the outer rim of a ferris wheel.

Swings at Sharkey

Billy destroyed Dusek without any noticeable assistance from Jack Sharkey, who acted as clerk of the course and frowned austerely whenever Rudy appeared to be contemplating the use of blackjacks, brass knuckles or other foreign matter.

The boys had exchanged malevolent scowls and a fearsome collection of elbow jolts before Billy planted Dusek shoulder deep in the resin.

When the bout was over, Dusek made a commendable effort to force Sharkey to earn his dough. He took a clout at the former heavyweight box-fight champion but was careful to miss by a substantial margin. Obviously Dusek's shrewd business instincts told him that he would be better able to count his own pay if he went into the box office in a vertical condition.

Roland Gets Rough

Mons. Jean Baptiste Pusie was greeted rapturously by admirers of his art and won on a foul from that cad, Roland Kirchmeyer, who belabored Pusie until he had the Garrulous Gaul's teeth rattling like a set of castinets.

Pusie, who demonstrated that he is the only wrestler who can carry on a non-stop conversation with the gallery customers while plying his vigorous trade, reached new heights of indignation when he was charged unjustly with sinking his right arm, up to the elbow, in the ample tummy of Referee Bunny Dunlop.

Referee Dunlop, incidentally, was complaining about the rough treatment he received from Dusek last week and was exhibiting a tyo-inch scalp wound which looked suspiciously like a gouge which had been inflicted by a carelessly wielded croquet mallet.

Rascals Whip Royal Grill 4-2

PORT HOPE, July 17— (ENS).—In a game that took only one hour and ten minutes, the Rascals defeated the Royal Grill 4-2 to take a firm hold on second place. Blow, on the eve of leaving for camp, pitched good ball, holding the losers to three hits. Mort Rafter, on his second appearance on the mound this season allowed six hits, three being bunched in the sixth inning when the Rascals scored three runs. Two successive singles by Bailey and Huffman in the third accounted for the winners' other run.

The Grill took a 2-1 lead in the fifth inning on a single and two errors.

Former Town League stars attended the game in the persons of Jack Bradley, Jack Redburn, and Frank Hills, who played third for the Grill. All are in the armed forces.

Less Egyptian Cotton

CAIRO, July 17.—(AP).—Reduction of Egypt's cotton acreage by more than 50 per cent. from last year was announced to-day by the Ministry of Agriculture. The area under cotton for the present crop is only 700,000 acres compared with 1,600,000 last year, and the crop will be the smallest in 50 years.

The reduction was brought about by legislation and government bonuses offered to farmers for growing cereals instead of cotton. The intention was to cut down imports, saving war shipping.

Where Your Salvage Goes — No. 1: Rubber

Modern Puss-in-Boots stands guard over the most important salvage item in wartime—rubber. Canadian rubber plants need 50,000,000 pounds of old tires, hot water bottles and other rubber articles to be converted into war products.

This is not black spaghetti, but reclaimed rubber being forced through fine screens to eliminate metal particles. It is rolled into sheets of hairbreadth thinness then pressed into stripe of raw rubber. Much of the life remains.

In a reclamation plant a de-beading machine removes the wire from the rim of a salvaged tire. Owners of old tires can sell them to authorized dealers, but many patriotic people prefer to donate them to their local salvage headquarters.

Tires for 25-pounder guns are one of the many war uses into which goes a proportion of salvaged rubber. An aircraft tire requires hundreds of pounds of rubber. A Canadian corvette uses the rubber equivalent of more than 150 auto tires.

Mess Room Chatter From Britain

By LOUIS HUNTER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 16—(CP).—"I felt I had kept faith with my pals"....That is how Herbert Peterson of Calgary described his first thoughts after he learned he had been award the D.F.C., to which he already has won a bar.

First warrant officer in the spring.

R.C.A.F. to win the D.F.C., Peterson joined the Air Force at the same time as two friends, Flt. Sgts. Tom Royan and Tom May. Royan, veteran of 32 operational trips, and May, with 22 "Ops" to hi: credit, were posted as missing last Winter.

Peterson won the D.F.C. for a daring, low-level attack against the German naval base at Trondheim last Spring. Among Canadians in his crew was Sgt. Howie Savor of Cardinal, Ont. He won the bar to his D.F.C. for bringing his Halifax home on two engines after a Ruhr raid during which his gunners, Sgts. Jim Hayes or Toronto and A. R. Lapere of Niagara Falls, Ont., destroyed an ME110 which attempted to attack it off the French coast. It's no mean task to put down a 25-ton Halifax with only two engines operating, "and I wouldn't like to have to do it again."

Some of the boys of the first Canadian Bomber Squadron have been doing all right in the way of promotions recently....PO. Bill Swetman of Kapuskasing, Ont., has been stepped up to flight-lieutenant.

Three Oshawa Motorists Hurt

TWEED, July 17—(ENS)— Three Oshawa residents sustained injuries when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the ditch near the village of Tweed. The injured persons, who were removed to the Belleville General Hospital, were identified as Arthur Baker, Misses Leona and Kathleen Shields, Oshawa.

Baker was driving the motor car at the time and informed Chief J. C. Hayes that he apparently fell asleep at the wheel, resulting in the automobile leaving the road and turning over in the ditch.

Miss Leona Shields proved to be the worst injured of the trio, sustaining a fractured arm and broken collar bone, while Baker was badly lacerated about the face as the result of flying glass.

Miss Kathleen Shields was suffering from shock when admitted to the hospital.

William Grier, young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Grier, Sulphide, recently found an old penny dated 1812 in the garden at his home. The coin was badly corroded but after a thorough cleaning up, the marks were quite legible.

Russia Getting All Supplies Great Britain Pledged

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, July 17—(CP)—The far northern supply route to Russia, past Cape North in Norway and into the Arctic seaports of Archangel and Murmansk, is standing up, despite all the efforts of the Germans to block it with sea and air attacks, it was stated here yesterday by J. C. Patteson, Canadian-born director of transport for the British Ministry of Supply.

He said that up to the end of June Britain had delivered to Russia every tank, machine tool and plane that was promised and, although the Germans have subjected the convoys to intense attacks from aircraft, submarine and surface vessels, their claims of sinkings have been "absurd and fantastic."

Patteson, former European manager for the Canadian Pacific Railways Company, with headquarters in London, went to the Ministry of Supply 18 months ago as director of transport under Lord Beaverbrook. He is here to confer with American officials on transport problems, including the despatch of lease-lend materials.

As a side line, Patteson is director of storage for the Supply Department, and it is his job to find warehouses and open spaces for military and civilian goods when they arrive in Britain. As more and more troops land there, this is becoming an acute problem and such queer places as salt mines, abandoned coal pits and mine shafts are being used to store rubber, cotton, parachute silk, chemicals and other imported materials.

Although not concerned directly with shipbuilding programs, Patteson expressed the opinion that within 12 months the United Nations would be in "good shape," largely as a result of Canadian and American yards. He particularly praised the Canadian shipbuilding program, geared to turn out a 10,000-ton ship every four days, calling it a "magnificent achievement."

Patteson said he has no doubt that United States shipyards will turn out 23,000,000 deadweight tons of shipping in 1943 and, with the submarine menace checked, as he had no doubt it would be, many of his transport problems will disappear in thin air.

The Arctic route to Russia, over which all Canadian and British supplies are shipped, has been standing up, but it is getting to be increasingly difficult to maintain the flow, Patteson said. The Germans have concentrated hundreds of planes, including the latest models of torpedo-carrying aircraft, in Northern Norway. These shore-based planes have been taking a toll of the convoys, particularly in the summer - long daylight, but not enough ships have been sunk to prevent Britain from delivering all the tonnage promised to the Russians.

The southern route to Russia, using the Red Sea and the trans-Iran railroad, is employed mostly for American supplies, Patteson said. The railroad has been stocked with American and British locomotives and cars and an automobile plant built there to assemble trucks which are loaded withw ar goods and driven to Russia by road.

Night Fighters Tops At Sport

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 17.—(CP).—The boys of a Royal Canadian Air Force night-fighter squadron believe that keeping in shape is a mighty important factor in downing Nazi bombers. Just to prove how fit they are they defeated several units of airmen and British soldiers in a track and field meet.

Led by Wing Cmdr. Paul Y. Davour, of Kingston, Ont., the night fighters scored 45 points, 14 better than the second-place station headquarters team. An army signals unit was third. Davoud with 13 points was second highest individual scorer.

Davoud placed second in the shot-put and won the discus throw with a toss of 101 feet, six inches.

An R.C.A.F. day-fighter squadron outpulled station headquarters in the tug-of-war final. Flt.-Lt. Hugh Davidson, of Port Erie, Ont., R.C.A.F. padre, tugged for the station huskies.

KERR SHATTERS CEDAR BRAE RECORD WITH A 61–9 UNDER PAR

7 Birdies, Eagle For Pro On Home Course

By HAL WALKER

TORONTO, July 17.—Good natured Bill Kerr, one of Canada's foremost professional golfers, had himself a field day yesterday when he toured his home clu—Cedar Brae—in 61 blows, establishing a new course record with this nine (count 'em, chums!) under par round.

Imagine a 61!

Kerr, serving in his first year as Cedar Brae pro tore the course to the proverbial shreds, his woods and irons etching seven birdies and one eagle. Previous course record is 65, shared jointly by Kerr and Stan Leonard, the long-driving Vancouver pro, who set up his 65, winning the P.G.A. championship two years ago.

This 61 round, at a quick check-up, is the lowest card ever turned in by an Eastern Canada pro—or amateur—in competition or friendly match over a championship course.

Flatly denying he used mirrors, Bill modestly claimed he had no illusions about such a smashing score. He was trying to grab himself a par and kept reminding himself and his caddie of this. Witnessing this smashing round as a playing partner of Kerr was Stan Defoe ,Cedar Brae member and a southpaw golfer, who gained sufficient inspiration from Bill's smashing golf to carve himself a neat 74, only four over par. And remember, he's a southpaw!

He Almost Had a 59

Fantastic as it may seem, the sweet swinger of Cedar Brae almost grabbed himself a 59. On the eleventh green a four-foot putt for a birdie three rimmed the cup, but wouldn't drop. He had the same tough luck on the seventeenth when a three-footer slid around the hole and refused to stay in the can.

Kerr only missed two greens. He was short on the fourth and the eighteenth, but he made amends on the dog-legged fourth by chipping into the cup from about 25 feet for a birdie three.

His most sensational scoring came on the first nine—at the seventh hole. The seventh is a 585-yard par five, with a creek fronting the green. Bill was on the green in two blows. He sank a sizeable putt for his eagle three.

Wants to Win the Millar

Asked to explain his 30-31 and how come, Kerr said his round was a tuneup for the Millar Trophy event.

"I wasn't pressing at any time," he said. "The only thing that had me worried a little was whether I'd get through in time to get down to the ball park."

Reminded that he could have used such a round in the Millar, Bill said: "I sure could use it. I've got to try extra hard to win that this year though. Mother wants to keep the trophy in the family."

For he uninitiated it might be well to explain that Sam Kerr, Bill's kid brother, won the Millar last year. Samuel is now in Winnipeg flying with T.C.A. He resigned his pro shop at Glen Mawr this

Dodgers Split With Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP).— With the big mid-July feud of the Cubs and Dodgers standing at one round for Brooklyn and two even, the Chicagoans chose to-day to lead again with their strong right arm, Claude Passeau.

It was big Pass, the major league's leading game winner with 13, who as cuffed off the mound in less than three innings by the Bums on Wednesday, and Manager Jimmy Wilson figured he'd use the long-jawed right-hander in an effort to salvage a split in the four-game series with the National League champs.

Yesterday both sides bandaged the wounds suffered in the opening day's hostilities and played baseball according to the basic double-day plan, thereby dividing a double-header, but tongues were sharp on both sides.

"That bithorn got pretty hot. Maybe he just can't take it," said the Dodger's manager, Leo Durocher, finding it a little difficult to smile.

His face muscles ached from the verbal blistering he gave Hi Bithorn the Cubs' Puerto Rican hurler, in Wednesday's game and the rest of his body from the exertion of ducking an extra-curricular pitch Bithorn zoomed into the Dodger dugout as he left the playing field.

Bithorn's manoeuvre brought him a $25 fine from Frick league president, and the sympathetic Cubs offered—none to seriously—to aid him in his hour of financial crisis.

The chief lament heard in the Chicago dressing room was that Bithorn's lack of control on the pitching mound was still evident when he threw at the Dodger bench. He didn't wing anyone there.

2 Laabs' Homers Help Browns Paste A's 5-1

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The biggest batting spree of the season is now being staged by little Chet Laabs of the St. Louis Browns and, brother, when he hits people forget all about the complaint that the ball is deader this year.

In the last six days he has hit four home runs and driven in 16 tallies with amazing raids at New York, Boston and Philadelphia. His total production all last year for the Browns was 15 homers and 59 runs batted in, but with his recent surge he already has brought his mark for this season to 15 circuit clouts and 58 runs driven in.

Laabs started his chain of firecrackers against the Yanks last Saturday with a two-run homer off Ernie Bonham in the ninth.

Yesterday he drove in four runs to beat the Athletics again, hitting two homers, each with a mate aboard, to help Al Hollingsworth win 5-1. Laabs' impetus has boosted the Browns to an even .500 percentage and a tie with the Detroit Tigers for fourth place.

Detroit stumbled to its fifth straight defeat and eighth in nine games last night at Washington. The Tigers made six errors and lost 6-5 in 10 innings even though the Senators were held to five hits. One of them was George Case's single for the deciding run.

Yanks Up A Notch

In the meantime the New York Yankees boosted their first place margin to 7½ games by belting the Cleveland Indians 8-5 while the Chicago White Sox nosed out Boston 3-2. Ernie Bonham pitched seven-hit ball for the Yanks' fifth straight triumph.

At Chicago the wrought-up Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers divided a doubleheader in approximately five hours of paying strict attention to baseball. The Cubs made 14 hits and took the first contest 7-0 with Lon Warneke helping Lefty John Schmitz in the ninth.

Then Brooklyn battled back in the nightcap to win 2-1.

Mel Ott shook up his New York Giants at Pittsburgh, sending reserve First Baseman Babe Young to centerfield for the first time in his life, and old Carl Hubbell conjured up a four-hit pitching masterpiece that stopped the Pirates 3-1. It was Hub's third win and he had a two-hit shutout till the ninth.

The Phils, led by Danny Litwhiler, who batted in three runs and scored twice topped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in ten innings. Cincinnati took a 7-6 decision from the Boston Braves, even though Ernie Lombardi hit his second homer in two days and made three other safeties against his old teammates.

Hallelt Hurls Leafs To 8-2 Victory

By The Associated Press.

With the exception of last-place Rochester, every baseball team in the International League has gone on an extended winning spree this season and the latest to enjoy such a happy state of affairs are Buffalo Bisons.

The Bisons won nine of their last 10 starts to boost themselves to the .500 mark in games won and lost.

They defeated Rochester, 4-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Andy Sierra last night, climbing to within 1½ games of the fourth-place Toronto Leafs.

Buffalo led 1-0 when Hooper Triplett hit his second homer in two days in the sixth inning to tie the score. Dutch Meyer sent the Herd one run ahead in the seventh as he walloped his 14th circuit smash, and Mike Rocco applied the crusher in the seventh as he connected for No. 20 with one on.

Jack Hallett hurled an 8-2 triumph over Montreal Royals to end a three-game Toronto losing streak. It was a typical Hallett performance. The big right-hander struck out 10 men and contributed two hits, one a double, to help his team along.

Baltimore Orioles snapped a four-game losing streak as they walloped Jersey City Giants, 10-1. Ray Flanigan turned in a five-hitter.

Syracuse Chiefs scored four times in the seventh inning to overcome a two-run deficit and defeat the league-leading Newark Bears, 6-4. Jack Juelich was the star of the stormy seventh, his triple wth two mates on base tying the score at 4-4.

TORONTO, July 17.—(CP)—Theo Dubois would like to put the skids under the theory that oarsmen should concentrate primarily on bulidinig bulging muscles. He told Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick: "The strength angle is over-rated. They think that all they need apart from a build is to go out and get into shape. They forget rowing is largely based on skill."

Dubois is North American singles champion, so he should know. But you could prove either his own theory or the one against which he argues, just by looking at him work. He is skilful, of course, but he also is a tremendously strong man in perfect shape.

When he rows in the Canadian Henley as a mmeber of the Ottawa Rowing Club, he almost certainly will win. But skill will count for no more than the great strength he built during a thousand mornings and evenings spent training at the Winnipeg Rowing Club—his home club.

His faith in rowing skill carries plenty of weight, but it would take more skill than there is in amateur ranks on this continent to match his strength alone.

I must have another two-year-old. Make me an offer..." So Mr. Speers sold him Happy Dustre, a promising juvenile.

Premiere Of Gehrig Draws 100,000

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP).—"The Pride of the Yankees," a motion picture depicting the life of the late Lou (Iron Horse) Gehrig, baseball star, had its world premiere last night in 41 New York City theatres.

R.K.O. Radio Pictures, Inc., releasers of the Samuel Goldwyn-produced film, starring Gary Cooper as Gehrig, estimated that more than 100,000 persons, including scores of notables, saw the premiere.

Kleig lights were not used for the opening because of dimout rules.

Gehrig, who died last year from a rare form of paralysis, was first baseman for New York Yankees. One of his records—which won him the nickname, Iron Horse—was his appearance in 2,130 consecutive games. He retired in 1939.

Propose Selling War Houses To Renters, Now

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP).— A nation-wide campaign, supported by local committees, to make surplus living accommodation available to homeless families was urged in the report of a sub-committee of the House of Commons committee on war expenditures tabled in the House of Commons yesterday.

The sub-committee found more than one half of the housing shortage of a permanent character.

Headed by Hughes Cleaver (Lib. Halton) the group undertook a study of the work of Wartime Housing, Ltd., a government company organized to construct homes in areas where there was not enough accommodation for war industry workers.

The sub-committee said the proposed campaign should be undertaken by volunteer workers.

Other recommendations were:

1 A plan of loans for financing conversoin of old single-family homes into two and three family apartments on a basis similar to the home improvement plan. Loans should be repayable in instalments over a period of at east five years.

2 A survey to establish the number of permanent homes which can be built without endangering a post-war surplus in urban centres where a serious housing situation exists. The sub-committee said the shortage could be met by building permanent homes under the National Housing Act where it could be demonstrated that by the use of building materials non-essential for war purposse, or by the use of building lots already serviced by local improvements, an actual saving in labor and esstntial war materials could be effected through the construction of permanent homes rather than temporary structures buit by Wartime Housing.

Reduce Wartime House Costs

3. Wartime Housing should study the wisdom of erecting temporary homes of either standard or ready-cut construction rather than semi-prefabricated construction now used, so that the unit cost might be reduced. This study would also involve sonsideration of the use of scattered vacant lots already serviced by local improvements and the awarding of building contracts in groups of less than 50 houses in order to enlist the services of small home-building contractors.

4. In localities such as Nobel, Ont., where there is no possibility of use being made of houses now being built, after the war, modification in the house plans, should be made to reduce their cost to the limit, in line with proper living accommodation. Houses in such localities will have practically no salvage value, the committee said.

5. Dependents of soldiers overseas, civil servants, and Canadian workmen who are indirectly servicing war workers should be provided with low-cost housing accommodation which they urgently require.

Wherever title to land is held by Wartime Housing Ltd., or can be acquired, sales of houses built by the government company should be made now to occupants desiring to buy them. The report said that the movement of labor from normal residences to centres of war industry had caused serious congestion. Many instances were given of eight, nine and 10 families living in eight, nine and 10-room houses, with one room per family and one bathroom per house.

Since incorporation in February, 1941, Wartime Housing had received approval of building projects totalling 11,842 houses and 85 staff houses and other special building at a cost estimated at $48,021,761, under which 5,385 houses and 72 staff houses and other buildings had been completed at a cost of $33,448,715 and now are occupied.

Roughriders Of Canada's Army

Canadian soldiers send their sturdy Canadian-built carrier flying over the brow of a knoll during manœuvres at Camp Borden. With expert service crews to keep them rolling, machines are not spared in training men for the toughest brand of modern warfare. When these boys come up against the enemy they'll be the equal of the toughest battle-scarred warriors.

Government to meet the danger.

Mr. Roy's motion for adjournment was defeated by 111 votes to 55.

Reports on gun production and war-time housing, submitted by sub-committees of the House of Commons war expenditures committee, were tabled in the House yesterday.

Urge Inspection Changes

A sub-committee headed by Lionel Chevrier (Lib., Stormont) reported that the gun production branch of the Munitions and Supply Department had done a "maginificent job" in manufacture and production of weapons, but recommended changes in gun inspection systems and in relations with contractors.

The report showed that cost of producing guns in Canada is coming down. It cited the case of the Bren light machine-gun which cost $192.28 at the end of the first quarter of 1942, against $390.59 at the start of the first quarter of 1941.

A sub-committee under Hughes Cleaver (Lib., Halton) urged a nation-wide campaign, supported by local committees, to make surplus living accommodation to homeless families, and reported that more than one-half of Canada's housing shortage was of a permanent character.

Thinks All Not Well

This information, from reliable persons, was "of such a character and covers such a field as to make me believe that all is not well," said Mr. Hanson.

"That is putting it mildly both in relation to what has happened . . . and of other things which also have happened and which have not yet been divulged.

"I think the Prime Minister and members of the government will know to what I am alluding."

He said it was a right of members to be given an opportunity to question the ministry on these matters and "furthermore, as to certain irregularities which it is alleged have occurred in connection with the operation of at least one arm of the armed forces in that area—with which I intended to acquaint the minister."

First duty of Canada was to protect international convoys but secondairy was the defence of Canada. Something has been told at an earlier secret siting of defense establishments.

"With respect to the area in question we know very little. I do not know the nature of the defences or what steps have been taken since a week ago Sunday to repair and deficiences which there may be."

The Senate yesterday gave second reading to the government's war risk insurance bill and referred it to the Senate Banking and Commerce committee. It also gave second reading to a bill providing for Dominion incorporation of the Canadian Alliance Insurance Co. of Quebec. The Upper House then adjourned until July 21.

Hints Negligence

When the House opened, Mr. Roy sought adjournment to discuss a matter of urgent public importance "following further developments of a very grave nature" in the St. Lawrence area. The Gaspe member said information received by him gave reason to fear that persons responsible for the protection of coastal water had been negligent in their duty.

Mr. Hanson said his information made him believe all was not well, and there had been happenings which had not been divulged. He thought the ministers would know to what he was alluding.

He was prepared to lay before Defence Minister Ralston information which he had received, so Col. Ralston might be able to tell "us what has happened, not on two occasions but on three."

(Torpedoing and sinking of five ships in the St. Lawrence area has been announced in Parliament by Navy Minister Macdonald. He announced last Monday that three had been sunk and some time previously told the House of the sinking of two others. Mr. Macdonald was not in the House on Thursday.)

Mr. King speaking at the conclusion of debate on Mr. Roy's motion, reminded the House that "a very large number of ships" had been sunk off the Nova Scotia coast and that there had been an attack on the Pacific coast itself.

(Estevan Point on Vancouver Island was shelled by an unidentified hostile warship last month.)

The Prime Minister thought it would be agreat surprise "if further occurrences of the kind do not take place at any time, on either coast, and I think this country must accept those possibilities."

Two In Favor, Two Against.

G. G. McGeer (Lib., Vancouver-Burrad) and Victor Quelch (N.D., Acadia) gave support for money reform principles in the debate on Thursday, but J. J. Kinley (Lib., Queens-Lunenburg) and Ralph Maybank (Lib., Winnipeg South Centre) did not think the burdens of the war could be avoided by a new monetary policy.

J. J. Leclerc (Lib., Shefford) thought the Finance Minister should arrange taxation adjustments to make easier the position of the family man of medium salary, and Ross Macdonald (Lib., Brantford City) said officers in the services stationed in Canada should not be called on to pay the full income tax.

Gordon Graydon (Con., Peel) said the taxation collection system should be made less complicated in view of other payments working men had to make.

T. L. Church (Toronto-Broadview) said the budget represented confiscation of property for the small man, the retailer and the wholesaler.

Joseph Noseworthy (C.C.F., York South) said the budget provisions left no incentive or a man of moderate salary to raise a family.

Mr. Queich said interest in money reform was growing although Mr. Ilsley had said the Social Credit group had few supporters. He added that the press was controlled and owned by large financial syndicates and wealthy individuals and had tried to discredit and misrepresent what members of his group had said. It was therefore natural that people were not impressed with what the papers had said his group had said.

Mr. Ilsley had been forced to adopt many proposals of Social Credit which had been ridiculed in the past.

New German Financing

He contended that Germany, using a new-type financing, is "blowing us off the map foot by foot, step by step, and unless we change our ways and change them quickly they are likely to blow the top off us."

Mr. Ilsley assured the Acadia member that the rumor that the next issue of war bonds would be on the basis of two per cent interest, tax free, was entirely unauthorized.

Mr. Church said he spoke for Toronto, "the main income-tax paying city." Before Canadians were through with the budget and all the control organization now set up, there would be inflation. Orthodox principles had been upset, and Canada was the highest-taxed country in the world.

The Bank of Canada could have handled many of the controls now imposed without cost to the taxpayer instead of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board being necessary.

Mr. Roy said he had been 'rebuked' in the House by Navy Minister MacDonald following his speech last Friday when he revealed the latest sinkings in the St. Lawrence river.

The Minister's remarks would make it appear that "I was a sort of traitor," Mr. Roy said. "I was firmly convinced within my soul and conscience that I was performing my duty as a citizen of this country and as a Member of Parliament."

Right To Confidence.

A secret sitting would cost nothing and would provide a suitable opportunity for the government to take members into their confidence. Members had a right to that confidence and a duty to make whatever contribution they could toward wise decisions by the government.

"This Parliament should have the right to know what is going on even though the government or some political party may suffer through the disclosure of information which would not be of advantage to it."

Mr Hanson said there should be a secret or public discussion of these matters and he was supporting Mr. Roy's request.

"I am not asking for a public discussion," Mr. Hanson said. "I do think there are good grounds for asking for a public discussion, however, and I do not believe a public discussion of this kind would be refused in Britain."

The Conservative leader said he had information on happenings in the St. Lawrence river and had tried to communicate it to Navy Minister MacDonald who was out of the city. He said he would see the Minister to-day.

forces could make any advance elsewhere.

Rommel Reinforced

From the scale of the action, observers here believed that Marshal Erwin Rommel, whose German-Italian forces have been stalled before El Alamein since June 30, might be staking everything on a new attempt to smash the British defences and push on to Alexandria, 75 or 80 miles away.

While the heaviest fighting was reported in the central sector, a see-saw battle also was surging around Tel El Eisa (Hill of Jesus) on the coast.

Military advices received in Cairo last night said counter-attacking Australian troops had recaptured the Tel El Eisa ridge yesterday only to be driven out again by enemy infantry supported by tanks.

Heavy artillery duels were reported along the entire front and aerial activity was growing in intensity, with the Germans calling upon plane reserves which they apparently had been saving for a crucial moment.

The battle in the central sector was joined Wednesdal when British forces pushed forward about seven miles and occupied a ridge approximately 12 miles southwest of Al Alamein—presumably with the intention of relieving pressure on Australian forces in the coastal salient.

Repulsed in a series of counter attacks on the British postions, the enemy began throwing heavier armor into the struggle late yesterday and by nightfall the battle had swelled to such proportions that its outcome threatened to prove a decisive favor in the campaign.

Rommel's chances of success appeared to hinge on the size of reinforcements he has received during the comparative lull which marked the first two weeks in July and the degree to which he had been able to strengthen his extended lines of communication.

(Dispatches received today from Ankara, Turkey, said reports of German-Italian convoys plying daily between Greece and Tobruk indicated that Rommel had been reinforced heavily with both men and equipment. His air force was said to have been bolstered by planes ferried across to North Africa from Crete.)

Combing Montreal

MONTREAL, July 16 — (CP). — Royal Canadian Mounted Police said today that a search has been started in the city and in the district around nearby Ste. Anne de Bellevue for Herman Naiwald, a 23-year-old German merchant seaman who escaped from a military hospital.

Naiwald escaped between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. from the Ste. Anne's Hospital where he had been receiving medical treatment. Police said that there is no internment camp in the district.

Hospital authorities at Ste. Anne's said that Naiwald had been operated on for appendicitis and that he escaped only a few hours before he was scheduled to be returned to the internment camp from which he came originally. He entered hospital July 6.

Youth Makes Off With Employer's Tractor While Farmer And Wife Are Away Shopping

LINDSAY, July 17—(ENS)—Theft of a tractor is the latest stunt in juvenile escapades in this district. Traffic Officer Sipple has been called upon to investigate this unique type of theft, which occurred at Cameron. Mr. and Mrs. Royce Naylor, of that hamlet, left their farm in charge of a hired boy while they drove to a nearby village on business. In their absence the youth, Howard Fox by name packed his belongings, purloined a wrist watch and pencil set, unhitched a Ford tractor from a plow and headed for Toronto. Ward was sent along the highway and the youth was seen travelling at high speed in the vicinity of Brooklin. He was taken to the boys' training school at Beaverton.

At a session of the county court held at Lindsay Arthur Bates, of Cheddar, Haliburton County, was charged with cruelty to animals, the information being laid by Provincial Constable Hendren. Bates had three horses, three pigs and three goats, and according to evidence they were poorly housed and allowed to go without food. The accused was given two years' suspended sentence.

His Honor Judge Smoke, of Peterborough presided at a County Court Sessions in Lindsay on Tuesday, and reserved judgment in a case for damages amounting to $500 claimed by Mrs. Bertha Fischer, of Minden, against Pte. R. R. Home of Camp Borden, and his wife Isabella Home, of Minden. The case arose out of a boundary line dispute and the location of buildings owned by Mrs. Fischer. The defendant, plaintiff claimed, had admitted that he had taken the buildings which were on his property "bit by bit." The buildings, he claimed, were on his property. Home said he removed them gradually in 1937 and 1938. Judge Smoke fitted the damage claim to $300, but reserved judgment as to the establishment of a boundary line.

In a matter of seconds the cause of the trouble was removed, with very slight damage being done.

"WALTZING MATILDA"

Matthew Halton's story of fresh Australian troops reaching the Libyan front, approaching in the dark singing "Waltzing Matilda," wartime song hit in their homeland, was briefly told in a poignant paragraph that must have left a haunting impression on those who read it, knowing its lines. One of them is: "You'll never take me alive said he." Some of the phrases are strange to Canadians, but not that sentiment, and the music is tuneful. Apparently the eerie circumstances under which he heard it and the masculine harmony of the Aussies, and the blend of gallantry and pathos, deeply affected the Canadian war correspondent..

DEMONSTRATE TREATMENTS

BROADCASTING IGNORANCE.

An Otonabee farmer, active in the Federation of Agriculture, Peterborough Exhibition and other occupational activities, said today: "I have heard several men say to me they don't read or listen to the war news, I am not saying they were from the country. You know I felt like telling each of them that he should not advertise such stupidity as that. The world in a life and death struggle to leave in peace and freedom, and some people actually broadcasting that they are not interested enough to read about it. I felt like telling one of them that the cows on my farm were not interested in the war, but what was the use. Imagine a community trying to make headway with people like that dragging along seeming determined to remain ignorant of the history of their own time. I couldn't help thinking about it the other day, riding in on a load of hay."

Set Trial Laws For Ally Troops

TORONTO, July 17.—(CP).—Under the Foreign Forces Order, 1941, Attorney-General Conant notifies all Ontario law enforcement officers as to jurisdiction of Ontario courts over members of the forces of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, and the United States now serving here.

The order gives to courts martial of the foreign powers concerned authority to exercise within Canada the powers conferred upon them in trying members of their forces for certain offences. But they have not jurisdiction on acts of murder, manslaughter, or rape under the Criminal Code, and cannot sentence a person to death, except for an offence from which a member of their forces or Canadian forces would be liable to be sentenced to death.

Civilian courts have jurisdiction to try a member of a foreign force whether or not he has been tried by the foreign power court, Mr. Conant states, but the civil court in sentencing would have regard to the sentence delivered by the foreign power court. The foreign power court has no jurisdiction to try a person who has been acquitted or convicted by a civil court, and by arrangement with officers commanding these camps most cases of violations may be left for their courts martial. A member sentenced may serve his sentence in any prison or detention barracks of Canada, and no foreign power has authority to enforce in Canada the laws of the foreign power ordering its nationals to undertake compulsory military service.

Canadian Army Takes Part In Big Scheme

The Canadian army overseas was included in test operations carried out by Imperial forces during a continuous period of ten days in southeast England, as described in a Daily Herald account of the endurance scheme, a copy of which was received here by the wife of Lieut. John V. Baird.

Orders insisted that no food or drink be bought in any town or village during the ten days. Hard scale rations only were provided, and the infantry had to move everywhere on foot.

The following is quoted from the Herald correspondent's story:

"The 'super-austerity' endurance test was planned by Lieut.-General Bernard Montgomery, commander of this vital sector of England.

"Keenest 'physical fitness' chief of the army—he makes every officer and man, staff or not, run six or seven miles a week.

"To harden up his men he arranged a great battle between a whole Canadian corps, supplemented by an English division, and a whole English corps supplemented by an armoured division.

"Hundreds of tanks were engaged as well as tens of thousands of infantry soldiers.

They Liked It

"General Montgomery planned the battle so that large bodies of men made long moves at short notice, and he kept them on the run with calculated mercilessness.

"One division, for instance, marched 40 miles in 18 hours, at the end of 10 days marching. Another unit marched 56 miles in 50 hours.

"And the men have liked it.

"Eager for action, they are pleased at least to have shared for a time some of the hardships of their comrades in the Far East and Libya.

"A 20-year-old corporal of the Royal West Kents summed it up: 'I'd much rather have this than barrack life. It's far more interesting,' he said.

3-Week Trek

"I found a large tank unit whose officers and men had been on the move since May 10—for three weeks —sleeping in the open the whole time, living on hard rations, never even having a drink of beer.

"General Montgomery, explaining why he had driven his men so hard, told me:

"'A wartime atmosphere is absolutely essential. If we drift into a peacetime atmosphere we are finished.

"'The troops' physique is very good, and the present-day soldier is every bit as good as the soldier of the last war.'

"General Montgomery gave me striking facts to prove this.

"Despite their exhausting experience, total real casualties were only four per 1,000—one being accident and the other three illness.

"Lieut.-General H. G. D. Crerar, D.S.O.—to whom the soldiers always refer as 'Harry'—commanding a Canadian corps, said:

"'In this exercise the men worked and fought in precisely the conditions they would find on the continent.

"'They used the equipment and transport that they would be able to carry across the channel with them.'

"The two exhausted armies were given a rest at the end of the endurance test—and then had to make a three-day march home."

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 18.

A very active and profitable day in which much may be accomplished by strict attention to affairs in hand, with the exercise of skill, initiative and the application of unusual brilliance and cleverness to what might be called "knotty problems." These have the element of subtlety intrigue or undercover tactics or strategies, which must be met with equal shrewdness and resources. Elders and superiors may assist in this, while reason, good judgment and stability also contribute to progress.

Those whose birthday it is may be ready for a lively day in which large issues are to be developed by ingenuity, skill, enterprise, original resources and keen mental insight and cleverness. Sound reasoning, quick strategies with patience and endurance will circumvent duplicities. A similar condition figures in private relations, although important persons or superiors are ready with encouragement and real support.

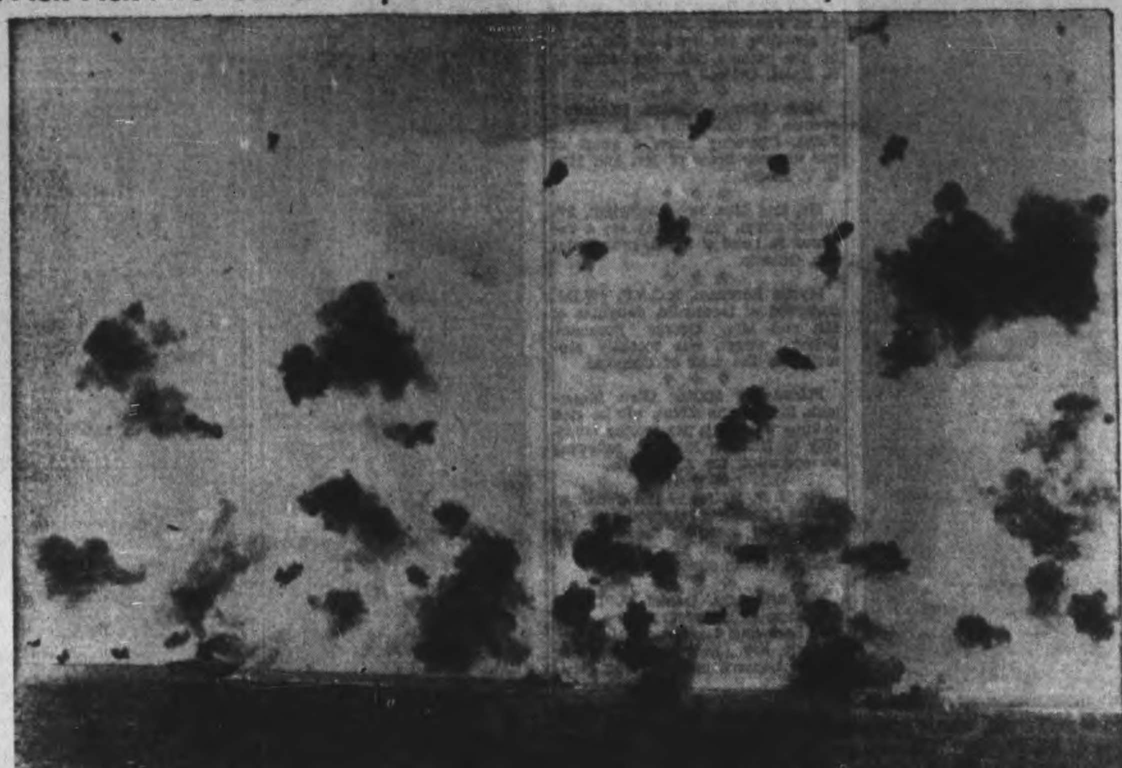
A child born on this day should have much intellectual ability, good judgment, reasoning faculties, which it will need to circumvent treachery and jealousy.

Sugar For Fur Trappers

OTTAWA, July 17—(CP). — The fur trader and the prospector who roam through Canada's remote northern territories, and Indians and Eskimos living in the hinterland can still get sugar without producing ration coupons.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced last night that operators of stores and trading posts dealing with Indians, trappers and others living in "unorganized" areas may supply sugar to such groups for any necessary period on the basis of one-half pound per person each week.

As Ack-Ack Fire Beat Off Jap Bombers In Battle Of Midway



Here we see a U.S. aircraft carrier, LEFT, sending up ack-ack fire at attacking Japanese torpedo planes. The defence was so strong that the Japs thought it better to retire than dive into the withering fire. The battle lasted from June 3 to 6, and at the end of that time the U.S. navy and air forces proved too powerful for the Jap Armada and they withdrew.

Mrs. T. G. Stratton Dies

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP).—Mrs. Thomas G. Stratton, 58, died at her home Thursday after a brief illness.

Born in Kemptville, Ont., Mrs. Stratton was married in Peterborough, Ont., and has resided here since 1925. A sister-in-law, Mrs. Theron Barnes, lives in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Two Youngsters Steal Boat Go For Joy-Ride

Gasoline rationing was forgotten on Thursday by two Peterborough youths who went on a merry ride down the Otonabee river in a stolen motor boat, and wound up in the clutches of the law at Hastings.

The two youngsters, aged 14 and 15, took the boat from near Rye's Wharf, got it going by some clever manipulating, and zoomed down the stream. It is understood the boat is owned by Max Rishor, and he must have had the tank well filled with gas for the motor didn't give up the ghost until the young mariners were near Birdsalls. They abandoned the boat here and proceeded on foot to Hastings. En route they met Frank Taylor, a deputy game warden, who notified Chief Wellman about the suspicious actions of the boys.

Wellman, though the boys were "runaways" so he held them and notified their parents in Peterborough. It was also alleged that the boys took the car keys from an automobile owned by a Mrs. Willard of Buffalo but did not disturb the car. The car was parked near Green's Point. When the parents arrived, Chief Wellman turned them over to their parents.

Provincial Constabie Grayling of Havelock brought the boat back and is investigating the case to determine whether the evidence warrants laying of charges.

Young Man Is Found Dead

Despondent from illness, William Winters, 25, of Chandos township, was found dead with a bullet wound in his head at the home of his sister, Mrs. Elwood Peters near Glenalda, ten miles west of Coe Hill, Thursday aftrnoon.

Provincial Constable R. S. Patterson, Madoc, who investigated the fatality, reported that Mr. Winters had returned to his sister's home from a Peterborough hospital Thursday morning. She noticed that he acted omewhat queerly, but her impressions did not cause any feeling of alarm or apprehension if anything serious. Durng the afternoon, Mrs Peters left the house for a while, and shortly after returning to the kitchen she missed her brother. She found him dead in his room upstairs

Provincial Constable Patterson said that death was evidently caused by a bullet from a .22 calibre revolver. No other cartridge was found in the room. Dr. Donald Munroe of Warsaw was informed of the circumstances, and requested Dr. J. C. Smith of Apsley to investigate the affair. He said that it was unlikely an inquest would be held. Information from Bancroft this afternoon affirmed that an inquest was regarded unnecessary and would not be ordered.

Operation Of Price Control Is Demonstrated In Comparison Of Price Levels 1920-21 And '42

Graphic proof of the effectual operation of price control was set forth in a comparison of the cost of a list of groceries at the market levels of 1920, 1921, and 1942 as tabulated in a recent window display at Mason's Uptown Groceteria, 429 George Street.

This bill of staple goods cost $39.93 in 1920, $21.10 in 1921, and will cost you to-day $18.88.

"Prise control has some flaws, but it has more good points in its favor," said J. A. Jebson, manager of the Mason stores, to the Examiner to-day.

The tabulated details of the prices at the post-war peak of 1920, followed by the extreme recession of 1921 as a background for contrast with the prices of the same staple commodities to-day, tell their own story with all the emphasis of plain facts. They tell the buyer and the consumer that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board under the direction of Donald Gordon is sitting on the lid of inflation, keeping a close rein on the market, and preventing the "wild cat" splurges which the householders during the last war painfully remember. They are probably now convinced that Donald Gordon and his associates, who were appointed by the Government at Ottawa, have already accomplished most of the objective that was placed before them; and furthermore that the public itself is so closely and materially bound up in the Board's scope and efforts that it deserves the loyal and vigilant support of the people as a whole.

Butter 70 Cents a Pound.

Sugar 22 cents a pound in a market that was only slightly affected by the outreaching of German war machine; eggs, 55 cents a dozen; butter, 70 cents a pound; and so on down the list which for 1920 and 1921 was prepared by the late E. F. Mason showing the extent of the decline in twelve months when trade and business began to shuffle off the excesses which had accumulated in the unrestricted conditions of those years of the last war and continuing into 1921.

Mr. Jebson completed the comparative statement simply by adding the prices that are now in effect to impress the buying public with full significance of price control in the grocery trade, and what it means to them and their earnings.

Mr. Jebson intends to send the big Mason chart to Donald Gordon with the suggestion that copies of it be prepared and distributed among retail grocers. When the price display window was prepared Mr. Jebson captioned it with the banner appeal to the public: "Don't Let This Happen Again."

What happened during the last war when the limit was just about "all the traffic will bear" is told in the Mason chart as follows:

	1920	1921	1942

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 17, 1917—Russians driven from Kalisch, Galicia. French captured two lines of German defences of one-and-a-half mile front near Verdun. Sir Edward Carson succeeded by Sir Eric Geddes as First Lord of the Admiralty; Winston Churchill named Minister of Munitions.

17 Already Joined Navy In July

Peterborough city and district are still finding the Naval Service attractive and Peterborough recruits are continuing to swell the strength of Canada's rapidly expanding Navy at Kingston.

During the month of July, 17 more Peterborough and district men were taken on strength at Kingston. This is an average of better than one man a day for the month. The most recent budding sailors include:

Frederick Caravagie, 338 Park Hill Road, Peterborough; Morley Crowe, Lakefield; Cecil Hunter, 272 Euclid avenue, Peterborough; Arnold Jackman, Lakefield; Michael Kerby, 331½ George Street, Peterborough; Michael McAuliffe, 134 Albertus street, Peterborough; Gordon McCartney, 223 George St., Peterborough; Thos. McCarthy, 212 Perry St., Peterborough; Edgar Millen, 223 George St., Peterborough; Jack Merritt, 363 Leslie Ave., Peterborough; Percy Payne, Lakefield; Alex Ross, 305 Park St., Peterborough; Patrick Shaughnessy, Otonabee St., Peterborough; Leslie Wade, River Road, South, Peterborough; Isaac Larmer, Y.M.C.A., Peterborough and Millbrook; F. A. Barnes, Bank of Nova Scotia, Peterborough; John Gannon, 138 Albertus St., Peterborough.

There have also been a considerable number of skilled tradesmen such as machinist, fitters, electricians, plumbers, motor mechanics and men with stationery engineers papers who have also applied for service. Many are in the process of being called for duty, but as men with these qualifications usually secure a Petty Officer's Rank, there is usually a short delay in being accepted.

John Ridley, 493 King St., a machinist at the C.G.E. is one of the local men who has been accepted as a Petty Officer.

Plumbing Count Dismissed By Magistrate

A charge against Gordon Bigelow of this city for an alleged breach of the plumbing by-law was dismissed by Magistrate R. B. Baxter in city court on Friday morning.

In his dismissal Magistrate Baxter said: "In this matter I have considered the evidence and I have come to the conclusion that I must dismiss the charge. In the first place I think the limitation section of the Code has disqualified the prosecution from bringing this action, especially in view of the evidence of the prosecution to the effect that in April 1939, they talked the matter over with Bigelow and it is quite apparent that at the time the Inspector considered the plumbing was finished, and in my opinion that was the proper time to bring action against the man.

I don't think this is a continuing offence within the meaning of the section. In the second place I don't think the plumbing by-law was intended to cover a situation like this where a man does his own plumbing, but it is to protect a home owner who is having his plumbing done by some other person. It is in a case of that where the smoke and water tests come in. It was not, in my opinion, the intention of the draftsmen of the by-law to cover such as we have here, and I think the Inspector has shown this too by the manner with which he has dealt with the matter. I cannot come to the conclusion that there was any offence committed within the meaning of the by-law and in any event if there has been an offence committed, the prosecution is barred by the Limitation Section of the Criminal Code, and so I am dismissing the case."

Butter Ban Lifted

OTTAWA, July 17 — (CP) — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced to-day it has lifted the ban on sales of creamery butter in packages weighing less than one pound. Prohibition of packages under one pound was included in a previous Board order effective since June 1.

Legion Total Nears $900 For War Victims

In a very steady manner, characteristic of the work they formed in the last Great War, the veterans of Branch 52 Canadian Legion have been consistent supporters of the local and district fund to help the people of Britain ever since the fund commenced operations in December 1940. This very steadiness of purpose is one so vital to the winning of this present great conflict, as it was in the last, so that once again they are in the forefront by their work in helping the cause of our nation. Regular once a month the fund has been able to depend on them for a contribution to the fund, which varies according to the amount of net proceeds of the Wednesday evening social games which they conduct on behalf of their own extensive welfare work, and this time the amount is $29.63, which brings the total given thus far up to $880.26. Their support is one of the many encouraging features to the fund management in this humanitarian task of helping those who suffer from air raids over Britain, and is very much appreciated.

The first contribution to come in by mail as a direct result of the appeal by Ernest Nickel, famed concert whistler over Radio Station CHEX on Wednesday night was received from George Hendren and Sons, Lakefield, and there are indications that this will be further amplified by others to follow in short order.

On a number of occasions, various groups beside the Church as a whole of Mark Street United Church have given assistance to the fund, and once again they are heard from with a donation of $3.50 which this time has been given by the Young People's Society, per Audrey Alton, the treasurer of this group.

Two personal donations are listed, both of whom wish to be identified as friends, a word which carries a wealth of meaning, particularly when it is to carry succor to those afflicted whom one has never seen.

This Saturday night, in Riverside Park at 6:15, a picked all star team from the many teams taking part in a league at the Genelco plant will meet the challenge of the Thompson Products team of St. Catharines in a game of softball, and this promises to be one of the highlights of this season's schedule, for both are out to give a knock-out punch to each oher, so the game promises to be a real fast one.

Admission is by ticket costing only 10 cents and at that this also carries a chance to win a Kenwood blanket, and all the net proceeds will come to the fund. Tickets may be procured from korkers in the Genelco pint, or at the grounds at the time of the game.

I.O.D.E. Sponsors Big Fur Draw

"To carry on the official war work of the I.O.D.E., Mrs. Fred Hooper explained today that the Retail Furriers of Ontario have donated 68 beautiful fur garments, worth $25,000. These furs will be sold by draw ticket in a campaign ending with a big draw in Toronto's Massey Hall on November 6.

A campaign committee has been formed, consisting of members of the Retail Furriers and members of the I.O.D.E. Those on the joint board of directors are: Mrs. H. Ryland New, provincial president, I.O.D.E.; co-chairmen, Mrs. E. S. Duggan, provincial vice-president, I.O.D.E., and Mr. E. Walker, Stan Walker Ltd.; Mrs. O. Main, Mrs. G. Fairclough, Mrs. S. Thompson and Mrs. N. Davis, I.O.D.E.; Mr. J. Creed, Creed's Ltd., Mr. B. G. Tritt, Holt Renfrew Co. Ltd., and Mr. E. Shipley Birrell, E. Shipley Birrell Furs

It will be remembered that last winter the Retail Furriers of Ontario donated a number of beautiful fur garments which they sold by draw tickets in a campaign similar to this, the proceeds all being turned over to war work. It is hoped that the proceeds from this campaign will far surpass those of the previous one, since they are many more donors, many more furs to be drawn, and the interest is province wide.

Tnckets now in the hands of local members of the I.O.D.E. are being sold for 50 cents apiece. Any ticket may win any one of the garments up to the mink coat. The ticket sale will close October 17 to give time for adequate checking before the draw at Massey Hall.

Public Failing to Respond To Canada's Call for Tin

OTTAWA, July 17—(Special). — When you squeeze out that last ounce of sunburn soother, don't toss away the tube. Turn it in, instead, to help manufacture a water canteen to refresh the lads that are fighting on Egypt's frenzied front.

When you pinch that last drop of toothpaste out of your tin tube, take the tube to the nearest drug store as your contribution toward he building of a Bolingbroke bomber.

Tin is urgently needed, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board emphasizes. It is needed for the making of Bren guns, for tanks, for bronze bearings, for main bearings and high pressure valves on transport planes, for electrical equipment for aircraft.

A check-up indicates that not more than 25 or at most 30 per cent of the collapsible tubes are being returned to drug stores, cigar stores and general and departmental stores which are required to have receptacles for used tubes.

Last year there were 31,520,000 tubes of almost pure tin manufactured. They were the product of 725,000 pounds of tin. It is estimated that there is at least half a million pounds of tin collectible if all the collapsible tubes in this country are salvaged.

Just how the used tube can fight our battles is indicated as follows:

The tin from 250 toothpaste tubes is required in the building of one Bolingbroke bombers.

The tin from one paste tube supplies vital parts for 20 shell cases.

The tin from a tube of sunburn soother can be stretched to plate 20 water canteens.

The tin from one ointment tube is sufficient to line 20 soldiers' water bottles.

A little rooting around the medicine closet would bring out enough tubes to coat water bottles for a whole platoon.

From the bathroom must come the tine for war purposes. Canada produces NO tin ores. With the loss of Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, the basic supply of tin has been lost to the Allied Nations and the principal smelters as well.

Used tubes are turned over to smeltres under the direction of Wartime Salvage Limited. It is against the law to thro away or destroy any used collopsible tube. It must be returned in to a retail drug store, cigar store, general store or department store for possession by Wartime Salvage Limited.

Save your used tubes for a brush with Hitler. The law demands it and your loyalty requires it.

Victory Budget On $14.40 A Week

Jacqueline Sprung, 18-year-old Toronto City Hall switchboard operator, has the solution to the problem of how to meet the greatly increased income taxes. Her answer is a "Victory Budget."

Miss Sprung ,who says she always tries to live on a strict budget, has designed one to absorb the increased "take" out of her pay envolope. Her salary is only about $14.-0 a week, but her tax for 1942, according to her figures will be $79.50.

Like hundreds of other working girls, Miss Sprung has already given up silk stockings. She wears non at all, not even painted ones, to work.

"It was a little embarrassing with bare legs at first," she said. "But most of the girls are doing it now, and it saves worry about runs as well as money." She saves leg paint for dances and parties.

Here is her Victory Budget:

Salary about $14.40 per week.

	Present Budget.	Victory Budget.
Board	$5.00	$5.00
Lunches	1.25	1.00
Car fare	.75	.75
Clothes	4.00	3.70
Cosmetics	1.10	.90
Taxes	.80	1.54
Entertainment	1.00	.76
War stamps	.50	.75

Sacrifices on Cosmetics

The increased tax, Miss Sprung met by "stealing a little" from entertainment and cosmetics. Not satisfied with this contribution to the war effort, patriotic Miss Sprung stole another quarter from lunches and tacked it on war savingss stamps, an item which has been in her budget ever since they were offered for sale.

Clothes, the largest item in Miss Sprung's budget, outside of board, suffered delatively slight injury.

"I think it is our duty to keep presentable," she said. "We can't go around looking frowsy; that wouldn't help keep chins up.

Brown For Autumn

By ALICE ALDEN

ALTHOUGH brown was one of many colors used in summer fashions, it is going to be featured for autumn in all its rich variety of shades. Orry-Kelly designed a most wearable brown frock for Geraldine Fitzgerald which she models here. It is made of fine sheer brown wool with brown grosgrain ribbon trim, a pointed set-in waistband and long sleeves. The brown sailor has scarf drapery.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL INSISTS ON STEPPING OUT

Encourage Entertaining at Home—Point Out Advantage of Several Boy Friends

Dear Miss Dix.—We have a daughter just past her fifteenth birthday who has suddenly assumed the young lady attitude, an overnight transformation from adolescence to maturity, and in this short period she has begun to associate with a young boy about seventeen. Wants to date this boy regularly.

We do not know how to handle the situation and desire to lay down an established rule dealing with our daughter's social life. Can you furnish us with such rules? At what age should a young girl have dates? How can a girl of fifteen be discouraged from associating with one boy only? How often and under what circumstances should she be permitted to have dates? At what age is a young girl considered on her own?

Our daughter has two more years of hight school.—A Bewildered Father.

Answer.—There is nothing peculiar in your problem. Your daughter is just running true to form. All girls seem to suddenly turn from children into women, and it is always a surprise to their parents who thought Mamie or Susie would go on being a little girl indefinitely.

Don't Try Heavy Father Act.

It is a situation to which you have to reconcile yourself, and it is one that must be handled with tact if you want to keep close to your daughter and be in a position to really influence and guide her. For if you try to do the heavy father act and to make her obey you, as if she were still a little child, and if you allow her no more liberty than she had when she was five years old, all of you will do to make her deceive you and shut you out of her confidence.

One thing that is important for you to remember is that we have speeded up life as well as we have manufatories, and that a girl of 15 is really as worldly wise and mature as her mother was when she got married. Another thing you must remember is that youth has fought for freedom and won the battle, and that you have to give children much more liberties than you had when you were a boy.

It is impossible to lay down any hard and fast rules for regulating a girl's social life, because circumstances alter cases and what might be the wrong thing to do at one time, may be the right thing to do at another time. So I can only give you suggestions.

I would advise you to accept without comment or protest the fact that your daughter is old enough to step out a little and have dates. But as long as she is in school that she is only to have these privilgges during the week-end. No boys, no parties during the week, and she should be home at a reasonable hour, not later than 11 or 12 o'clock unless there is some especially big occasion.

Encourage her, to have her boy friends come to the house. That gives her the protection of a background and enables you to get acquainted with the lads and see if they are fit company for her. Tell her that if she just narrows herself down to going with one boy it looks as if she didn't have glamour and wasn't able to attract other boys. Make her seem socially poor, if you get what I mean. Tell her to run around with a lot of boys. Give them all the one-over. And make her understand that nothing makes a girl so desirable in a boy's eyes as for all the other boys to be keen to have dates with her.

No girl is on her own until she is self-supporting.

A Quitter on Two Counts

Dear Miss Dix.—I have a son by my first marriage who is serving in the army somewhere in the British Isles. He has sent me three cables since he has been "over there" and naturally I would like to answer them, but my second husband constantly refuses to give me the money to even answer one of them. I would also like to send my boy a box of candy or a few cigarettes, but he refuses me the money for that also.

If my husband was poor, I would not expect him to give me anything. But he isn't. He makes a grand salary and is lavish in giving to his own family, but nothing to me or mine. I told him last night that I wanted to hire someone to keep our baby and do the housework so that I could get a job in order to have some money of my own, but he wouldn't hear of it. He said: "If you go work, then I'll be drafted." What can I do?. — A Heartsick Mother.

Answer.—Your husband seems to be as anxious to evade his duty to you as he is to his country. He is a quitter on both counts. He wants you to slave doing the work of two servants in cooking and washing and scrubbing and penny-pinching and baby-tending for him, without ever giving you a cent for your labor. And he wants another man to go out fight to defend his country and his freedom and his way of living, he isn't willing to contribute to the comfort and happiness of the soldier who takes his place on the firing line.

If there is one figure in the world just now to whom public sympathy goes out, it is the mother whose son has gone forth to fight his country's battles. He has gone where only her love and prayers can follow him, into far countries, she knows not where; confronting dangers that her imagination magnifies. Whether he will ever come back to her, she cannot know, and her only comfort is in trying to keep in touch with him by means of the cable and the mail, and by sending him an occasional little gift that will be dear to him because it is a tangible expression of his mother's tenderness.

That any man could be stingy enough to refuse to give a mother the few cents that it would take to send a message to her soldier son overseas, passes belief. When a man refuses that small sum to the wife he makes work without wages, it entitles him to the Mean Man's medal.

Just a Myth.

Dear Miss Dix.—Why does every woman have a horror of being an old maid? Are all old maids lonely and unhappy? Don't you think an old maid who is financially independent and who has a nice home where she is the boss is happy?—Inquirer.

Answer.—The unhappy old maid is a myth. Just as many unmarried women are contented as are married ones. Most of the old maids I know are jolly as sandboys. Probably no other human being has less to worry over than the rich spinster.

The Experts Say ....

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 16—(CP)—Tips on housewifely war strategy from experts on Canada's home fronts:

WOOL: Canada at war needs every scrap of wool and Wool Administrator D. C. Dick of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has been campaigning to get housewives to take out the little bits they have tucked away in corners before they buy more . . . Conservation is half the battle, too . . . Retain the warmth and shape of wool fabrics by cleanliness; retain resilence by frequent brushing. . . . Rest a garment from constant wear and air it frequently. . . . Shine on wool is caused by wear and embedded dirt so minimize it by frequent cleaning or steaming through a damp cloth with light iron pressure.

BREAKFAST FOR HEALTH: Dr. L. B. Pett, head of nutrition services in the pensions and health department, urges: "Don't eat a Dagwood breakfast" . . . Too many people, he says, are falling down on their war jobs because they don't eat enough in the morning. . . . He advises something appetizing: dried, canned or fresh fruit or fruit juices . . . And something filling for energy: oatmeal, toasted Vitamin B bread, eggs . . . And something hot for extra vitality: cocoa, hot chocolate, coffee or tea.

SHOPPING: Byrne Hope Sanders — "Mrs. Consumer" of the prices board — wants Canadians to love their neighbors in wartime and prove it . . . If Mrs. Jones across the street can't go shopping because there's nobody to watch her children, do her shopping . . . It will help out with the new restrictions against delivery of orders under $1 . . . And when the car goes to town round up your neighbors who might have errands to do . . . Empty seats mean wasted gasoline and rubber in these days of stringent shortages.

GLASSWARE: The people who look after production quotas ask you to take the best possible care of glass cooking utensils . . . Like aluminumware they are limited in quantity . . . Make sure they don't touch cold water while they're hot . . . Even a wet patch on a table may cause a break . . . Wash them with hot water and an alkaline soap and dry them very thoroughly to assure longest life.

RAYON: S. G. Dixon, rayon administrator, is doing his best to keep Canadians supplied with rayon goods but there isn't enough to allow any waste . . . use a mild soap, suitable for silk—and no cleansing agents containing caustics . . . Use lukewarm water and squeeze sudsy water through the fabric without rubbing . . . Rinse carefully by squeezing several changes of lukewarm water through the rayon, without ringing or stretching . . . Roll the fabric in a thick towel to take out excess moisture and dry in the shade, then iron with a not-too-hot iron.

VEGETABLES: It's important to preserve the food value of vegetables these days, says Marion Harlow of the nutrition services . . . Cook vegetables in as little water as possible and only until they are tender . . . Liquid left should be used in soups . . . Peel vegetables as thinly as possible because thick peeling wastes minerals just below the skin . . . Cook potatoes in their skins and scrub carrots—don't peel them . . . And buy in small quantities so none are wasted . . . It helps to balance the budget.

Feminine And Flattering

By ALICE ALDEN

THE SMARTEST prints are those that are simply cut and handled, that reply on their beautiful colorings and designs for effect. Irene, like all great designers, follows this idea in a lovely dinner dress designed for Claudette Colbert. A large leaf pattern of black and sky-blue trim the bodice and one side of the circular skirt. A small leaf pattern in paillettes in sky-blue outline the V neckline, the short sleeves and the wide midriff which extends down the front of the plain colored silk crepe skirt.

You'll never be satisfied with anything else once you see RINSO WHITENESS

MOTHER: How do you do it, Ruth? Jenny's dress makes my little girl's look dingy. And 'pon my word, I tried so hard to get it snowy.

RUTH: That can mean only one thing—you don't use Rinso! Try Rinso next washday and see the difference. Rinso doesn't merely get clothes white ... it gets clothes the WHITEST ever!

MOTHER: That's wonderful news! And just one look at your lovely print dress tells me Rinso's grand for washable colors.

RUTH: Indeed, it is! And remember, Rinso floats away dirt without hard rubbing or scrubbing. That's one reason why Rinso helps make clothes last longer.

MOTHER: What a big saving that is!

TODD.—In memory of mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Todd, who passed away five years ago, July 17.

And Heaven, the heart's true home, will come at last.

But in our hearts she lingers still.

Newlyweds Honored

A jolly evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Larmer on Tuesday when friends and neighbors gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. William Price (nee Edith Bray) a newly married couple of the community.

Dancing was enjoyed till midnight when the couple were given seats of honor and presented with a prettily decorated basket of gifts carried in by Jessie Bell, Audrey Timlin, Betty Sayer and Audrey Larmer.

Mr. E. Butler wished the newlyweds much happiness on behalf of the community. The groom thanked all for the lovely gifts and all sang "For they are jolly good fellows." The rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

Friends were present from Norwood, Westwood, Peterborough and Millbrook.

Some Real Steel

PORTLAND Ore., July 17—(AP)—The old U.U. Oregon, for years State Park museum piece at her berth in the Willamette River, may return to the wars piecemeal. Pride of the United States battle fleet in the Spanish-American War, she contains some of the best steel ever forged and scrapping of the vessel is under consideration to provide steel for a new aircraft ferrier.

Bright Footstool Cover You Can Weave Yourself

Fun to Make on Simple Loom

Ah, luxury! A gaily woven, sturdy footstool cover to give the man of the house a feeling of delicious comfort!

You weave it easily from strips of bright cloth in harmonizing colors—perhaps a flowered fabric for the centre and a darker for the borders. Fold strips to 1-inch width.

Four wooden slats nailed together, with strips of burlap tacked to the two longer sides, form the simple loom.

Up and down, through the burlap strips, you thread a weaving base (warp) of heavy twine. Then double a strip of the cloth (weft) the long way. Set fold against upper left warp thread, running one end of strip under twine and the other over it.

This double weaving gives an attractive braided effect. You bring the upper half under the second warp and the lower half up, crossing this latter half over the weft just used, bringing it over second warp and under third.

You'll find exact details of making this luxurious footstool cover in our 32-page booklet. Also tells how to weave charming evening bag, matching bracelet and belt, scarf, knitting bag, coasters, other novelties.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "How to Weave Useful Novelties." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHY AID THE ENEMY?

IF YOU let your opponent do his own guessing, instead of giving him positive answers to the questions that assail him, he will make his share of mistakes. Why, then, should you help him to know the winning play of a suit, which you can tell is badly bunched against him? If you know something which he does not, why not preserve that advantage and keep him in the dark?

East should have been able to read the trump situation very clearly after West led his club J to the A. South's bidding made it almost certain that South had five or six spades, and that they probably included two of the three honors ranging from J to K, but probably not all three of them. In other words, East should have read that his partner had either three or four trumps headed probably by one of those three honors. If it happened to be three headed by the J, then the declarer could catch them with three leads of high trumps. But if it was four topped by the J, or three headed by the K or Q, then the honor could not be caught except by finessing.

East's mind went through no such figuring, however. Seeing that the declarer might be planning to ruff a club in dummy, he decided to lead a trump, his singleton. South put on the 8, and no matter what West did, his chance for a trump trick was gone. So the defenders managed to get only two tricks, the club and heart aces.

Any other return would have compelled South to guess how to play the trumps, and the chances were heavy he would have taken three top cards, setting up the J for West, and preventing the extra trick.

Infantry From Crete

LONDON July 16 — (CP). — British sources said to-day that a German light infantry regiment flown to North Africa from Crete had been put in the Egyptian line to reinforce Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces.

There had been previous reports that the Axis, finding its trans-Mediterranean Sea lanes under the sharp British air and naval watch and its African supply ports pounded by the R.A.F., had resorted to air transport to get fresh manpower into the drive toward Alexandria and the Nile.

Verify Nurses Findings On Paralysis

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP).—The first verification of an Australian nurse's belief that muscle spasm is a damaging and ever present symptom of infantile paralysis was reported to-day in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

By making more than 500 graphic records of the electrical current produced by muscles in action, this part of the once-unaccepted teachings of Miss Elizabeth Kenny was substantiated by Drs. R. Plato Schwarz and Harry Bouman of the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, Rochester, N.Y.

On Trial in Ontario.

TORONTO, July 16 — (CP). — The Ontario Government has decided to investigate the "Kenny method" of treating infantile paralysis developed by an Australian nurse, Elizabeth Kenny and referred to to-day in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Miss Kenny's belief is that muscle spasm is an ever-present symptom of the disease.

Health Minister Harold J. Kirby said last week that arrangements would be made with Ontario isolation hospitals whereby poliomelitis patients could receive the new treatment during acute stages of the disease without cost to themselves.

Syrian Tribes Raiding Lines

VICHY, July 17.—(AP)—Vichy French press dispatches purporting to come from Syria, repoted to-day that outlying Syrian tribes had been joined by Kurds from Iraq and Iran in raids on British communication lines across the eastern Syrian desert to Mosul on the upper Tigris river in Northern Iras.

The attacks were said to have forced British troops to strengthen garrisons along the desert routes.

Native demonstrations were reported in some of the towns.

The dispatches said natives were harvesting at night and refusing to deliver wheat to the British authorities.

(These alleged disturbances have not been reported from any other source).

US Meets Rebels Vichy Howls

VICHY, July 17 (AP)—The Vichy government protested today to Washington against assignment of military representatives to General Charles de Gaulle, declaring this "constitutes an attack on the sovereignty of France."

An authorized source declared it was "inadmissible" that the United States government, "which is maintaining normal relations with the French government, also maintain relations with a rebel force."

(The United States Department of State announced July 9 that Admiral Harold Stark and Brig. Gen. Charles Bolte had been assigned to consult in London with the National Committee of the fighting French headed by Gen. de Gaulle "on all matters, relating to the conduct of the war.")

The protest was announced pending publication of the French stand concerning French warships interned at Alexandria. The latter was understood to reject all proposals to move the ships elsewhere than to French territory, on the grounds that to do so would not conform with French - German armistice terms.

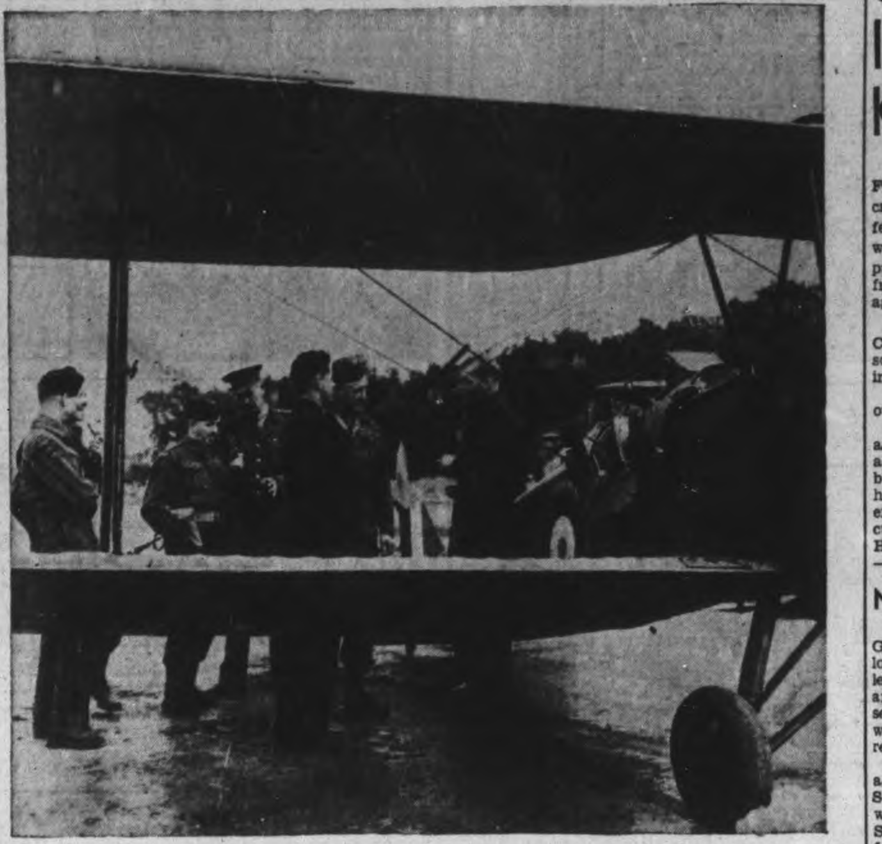
(The State Department announced in Washington two days ago that Vichy had already rejected two proposals by President Roosevelt for removal of the nine demilitarized French naval vessels from the Egyptian war zone.

(As indicated by the following, the French public apparently was informed concerning the American proposals only today and still did not know that they had been rejected by Vichy.)

The papers this morning for the first time published parts of a statement by the Acting United States Secretary of State, Sumner Welles, on negotiations over the French squadron, but cautiously refrained from all comment while awaiting publication by Premier Laval of details of the negotiations.

The Welles statement was given in two paragraphs, consisting only of direct quotation.

First Plane Lands On New Canadian-Built Airport



A colonel of the engineers chats with Squadron-Leader F. Greenwood of Montreal and W.O. Engineer John Murphy of Ottawa, after Squadron-Leader Greenwood had landed the first plane on a new airport in England, built entirely by Canadian engineers and designed for use by the R.C.A.F.

July 31 Zero Hour For Metal Call

OTTAWA, July 17.—(CP)—Midnight, July 31, is the zero hour set for filing of quarterly quota applications under the production requirements plan, new priorities system aimed at speeding war production, Munitions Minister Howe said today.

After that date any Canadian manufacturer using $5,000 worth of metals in three months will be denied the right to purchase metals in the United States until his quarterly quota application is on file with the priorities officer of the Department of Munitions and Supply in Ottawa.

The ruling, said Mr. Howe in a statement, will apply equally to war industries and to those making civilian articles.

"From the reports received by the end of the month, Washington and Ottawa will have a much clearer picture of the requirements of the two nations," he continued.

"With this picture as a guide, the available metals will be allotted. At the top of the preference list will be the direct war needs. Whatever is left over will be divided among the essential industries, and if there is still a small balance, which, in the instance of most critical metals, is most unlikely, the less essential civilian industries will get it."

Call Young Folk To Aid Farmers

TORONTO, July 17.— (AP). — Alex McLaren, director of the Ontario farm service force, to-day appealed to young people more than 16, married women, people on holiday and older persons to go out in the fields and help farmers who are faced with an unprecedented shortage of labor.

Mr. McLaren said the need is particularly great for farmerettes and vacationists, although there are already 1,200 members of the farmerette brigade in camp in the Niagara fruit belt and between 3,000 and 4,000 others who have gone to help farmers recommended to them by school principals or friends.

'Many more of these girls of 16 and over are needed,' he said.

LINCOLN, Ill., July 17.—(AP).—'Leland Dunham of Atlanta, Ill., has resigned his post with the Logan County Tire Rationing Board. He had been driving his automobile from his home to Lincoln twice a week to attend board meetings, but when his tires started to wear out and he applied to the State Board for new ones, he was turned down.'

Veteran Of Spain Fears Invasion

BROCKTON, Mass., July 17.—(AP). — "This coast will be invaded before long," Yank Levy of Windsor, Ont., veteran of the Spanish Civil War and a former commando instructor in England, declared as he gave officers of the Massachusetts State Guard some tips on guerilla warfare.

"The enemy has made all the arrangements," he told the officers. "Don't wait. Those civilians who do wait will be handling a shovel instead of a gun, and Nazi taskmasters are not the nicest in the world. Impress upon all that concentration camps, splitting of families and the herding of children, yours and your friends, will be one of the heartless steps the Germans will take. On you men of the State Guard rests the job of holding these beasts."

The Guard officers are attending a weeks school during which particular attention is being given to guerilla tactics.

French Canadian Squadrons Ready

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F., SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 17.—(CP Cable.)—Organization of the R.C.A.F.'s new French-Canadian squadron neared completion to-day following promotion of the outfit's leader, Joseph St. Pierre of St. Eustache Sur-Le-Lac, Que., from squadron leader to wing commander.

St. Pierre's chief lieutenants, Logan Savard of Quebec and Georges Roy of Westmount, Que., were raised from flight lieutenant and squadron leader. Each will lead a flight of the new Wellington bomber squadron.

The squadron adjutant, Fo. Jean St. Germaine, a permanent force man who has become a veteran of four raids since his arrival several months ago, was made a flight lieutenant along with Fo. Jean Saint Pierre of Montreal, who made a reputation as a Spitfire pilot but now is training to fly bombers.

Wing-Cmdr. St. Pierre, a dark-haired flier of 30 who has been piloting aircraft since he learned to fly as a hobby in 1929 in Chicago, where he was born, and his flight commanders form the backbone of the squadron whose members hope to make a name in the air to match the famous Royal 22nd Regiment's exploits in the front line trenches in the First Great War.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

Extra $1,857,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—The Senate passed and returned to the House of Representatives to-day a $1,857,000,000 Supplemental Appropriation Bill. It carries $125,000,000 for the office of Price Administration.

Although the O.P.A. appropriation was increased 5$0,000,000 above the sum voted by the House, it still was $15,000,000 short of Administrator Leon Henderson's "rock bottom" estimate of needs and contained a restriction against the use of any of the money for subsidy payments.

U.S. Draft Looms For Married Men

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(AP)—War Secretary Henry Stimson expressed belief to-day that young married men and youths of 18 to 20 would have to be drafted for the armed forces before the Axis is defeated.

Asked at his press conference whether the War Department still believes these men will be needed for the army, Stimson replied that "we have never had a great war in which we did not find it necessary to call up both these classes."

He reminded reporters that some young married men already are being drafted under the selective service law, and said also he believed it would be necessary eventually to lower the draft age to 18.

"However," he said, "young men in that group should not feel it necessary to alter their plans for the immediate future."

Gas Pump Blast In Cincinnati Kills Four Men

CINCINNATI, July 17.—(AP).—Four men died, a fifth was injured critically ad a dozen others suffered minor hurts late last night when gasoline from a sheared off pump exploded and ripped walls from a three-story brick ren a car agency in downtown Cincinnati.

Among the dead was Police Sgt. Carl Hille, 36, summoned to the scene by a report of 'gas fumes in a garage.'

Glass and debris were scattered over a three-block radius.

Fire Chief Barney Houston said an agency parking attendant probably set off the blast when, after backing a car into a gasoline pump, he threw an electric switch in an effort to stay the flow of fuel. The current arced and fumes ignited, Houston speculated.

No Visas From Poland

LONDON, July 17. — (CP). — German occupation authorities no longer issue visas permitting travellers to leave Poland because "they are determined that no neutral observer ..shall reach the outside world," the Polish Telegraph Agency reports.

To support this contention, the agency quoted a report in the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet which described how Nils Berglind, Swedish manager of the Ericson factories in Poland, was arrested by the Nazis shortly after he left Berlin for Stockholm on his holidays.

Threshing Sugar

Ottawa, July 17 (CP).

EXTENSION of special sugar ration provisions now allowed for threshing gangs to other groups is receiving consideration, said a reply tabled in the House of Commons yesterday for Gordon Graydon (Con., Peel).

Special purchase permits have been printed and distributed to local offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for use in making purchases to meet requirements of threshing gangs, the reply said.

100,000 French Meet Nazi Call

VICHY, July 17.—(AP)—Premier Pierre Laval today assumed direct control of the recently-created Government Department of French Labor in Germany and immediately delegated his powers to Jacques Benoist-Mechin, Secretary of State in the Foreign Office.

Latest estimates were that the present drive for labor would net in all about 100,000 workmen for Germany.

The question of repatriation of war prisoners in exchange for the laborers remains to be settled.

Benoist-Mechin, who also is chairman of the central committee of the French Tri-Color Legion, formed from volunteers fighting against Russia, announced last night that the Germans had agreed to free members of the immediate families of legionnaires who have been wounded while serving with the German army on the eastern front.

Order Provincials To Handle North Bay Probe

TORONTO, July 17. — (CP). — Attorney-General Conant of Ontario, following a request from North Bay City Council, today directed Inpector William H. Lougheed of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Ontario Provincial Police to inquire into North Bay Police Department operations in connection with the escape of a German prisoner of war.

The prisoner, Egbert Brosig, who escaped from a Northern Ontario prison camp, spent several hours in North Bay, June 16 but was not apprehended. North Bay Council protested the manner in which the case was handled by an officer of the department, who had received a telephone "tip" of the prisoner's presence. Council also condemned the findings of the Police Commission which exonerated the department.

Brosig was recaptured in New York State several days later.

Mr. Conant has been informed by H. C. Pilley, North Bay council clerk, that the council agrees to have Inspector Lougheed conduct the inquiry.

The Attorney-General said the officer had considerable experience in investigating municipal police forces. The most recent was at Kitchener in May and June, 1940.

Berlin Claims Troops On Lower Don

Already East of Rostov Says High Command; May Bypass City Now

BERLIN (From German broadcasts), July 18 (AP)—The German high command claimed today German forces had reached the lower Don river east of Rostov on a broad front.

(Such an advance would place the Germans on the way toward major objectives of the southern campaign, conquest of Russia's oil-rich Caucasus and industrial centres of the lower Volga, topped by Stalingrad.

(Separation of the Rusian southern and trans-Caucasian armies is an intermediate aim.)

Soviet attacks on a German bridgehead were reported repulsed in the battle of Voronezh, at the northern wing of the 300-mile offensive front:

"East of the Donets river tank units and motorized infantry continued their advance southward and reached the lower Don east of Rostov on a broad front," the high command said.

(Rostov had been heavily fortified by the Rusians since last November, when they expeled the Germans after a brief ocupation and drove them back 40 miles along the Azov Sea coast into winter quarters at Taganrog. The Germans my bypass it, and seek to reduce it later by encirclement.)

"An infantry division destroyed some encircled enemy forces and gained ground towards the east in frontal attacks," it was declared.

"Strong air force formations made devastating attacks on Soviet communications, especially in the area of the lower Don."

Railway lines and crowded stations were reported "attacked with notable success."

Large parts of Voroshilovgrd, Donets river industrial centre, still were in flames after capture of the city by German infantrymen in heavy fighting, the high command said.

The high command acknowledged that Red Arm attacks "made a local breach in our lines" in the Lake Ilmen sector below Leningral, but said the ground was recovered by a counterattack.

Bostons In Russia

MOSCOW, July 18—(AP). —Boston bombers are in operation against the Germans in the Don basin and on the Don steppes, it was learned today.

(The Douglas Boston is a two - engined light-attack bomber carrying a crew of three or four men. It is the 5type chosen by the United States army air forces for their first raid on German-held western Europe July 4. It is extensively used by the R.A.F. but how widely it is used on the Russian battle-front has not been disclosed).

Coastal Patrol Cracks Down In U-Boat Chase

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Caandian Press Staff Writer.

WITH THE R.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 18 — (CP). — The coastal command of the Royal Air Force, after many months of defensive warfare escorting and protecting convoys, is on the offensive against the deadliest enemy of the Allies—the submarine.

Patrolling the biggest "beat" in the world 5,500,000 square miles of ocean from Iceland to Gibraltar, the command is carrying out probably the most vital task in the R.A.F. at this stage of the war when shipping is the greatest worry of the leaders of the United Nations.

This new and unheralded offensive lacks the glamor and spectacle of offensive sweeps of the beat-up type over occupied territory. Ninety per cent of the work is humdrum routine,' but the offensive has already brought its rewards and victories. Fifty Tanks Weekly Going To Reds

Aircraft Shipments 11 P.C. Over Pledge Lyttleton Reveals

ALDERSHOT, England, July 18—(CP).— Oliver Lyttelton, Minister of Production, said in a speech today that Britain had been shipping 50 tanks weekly to Russia and to date has fulfilled her contracts with the Soviet Union for supply of other war materials.

He added that Britain by the end of May 'actually shipped 11 per cent. more aircraft than had been promised up to the end of June.

'We did not allow considerations of our own safety to stand in the way of supplying Russia with arms, Mr. Lyttelton said.

'At no time since the Battle of Britain have we stood in graver peril; it would be folly to deny that these 80 days in front of us are some of the gravest we ever faced

Declaring the parallel between this war and the Napoleonic war was 'almost uncanny,' the production minister told his audience he was convinced 'Hitler's adventure in Russia will bring him nothing but disaster.'

GANANOQUE, Ont., July 18—(CP).—Unless the town wishes to take over a swing bridge which forms part of one of Gananoque's chief traffic routes, it will be torn down and sold for scrap, the Town Council was told in a letter from the Thousand Island Railway Company, owners of the bride.

The Town Council, at a special session last night, voted to take no action, contending that the railway company are legally bound to maintain the structure for 40 more years according to their agreement with the town in 1892 when the bridge was built.

Russians Retake Five Towns Smash Nazis Back Over Don In Bitter Voronezh Battle

Soviet Resistance Stiffens In South Front As Boche Pivot For Key To Caucasus Air Bombing Cities, Towns, Villages Afire

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 18—(AP).—The Germans veered southward on their drive across the Don steppes south of Millerovo today as the Red army, striking savagely in the battle of Voronezh, recaptured five communities and attacked surprised Nazi garrisons protecting Don River crossing.

The Moscow radio said Nazi troops fled back across the river in one sector south of the city, pursued by counter-attacking Soviet shock troops who engaged the Germans early this morning on the high west bank

This gain was not mentioned in the mid-day communique, however, indicating that the action was regarded as insufficiently developed or that the Russian thrust had been neutralized.

The danger to Voronezh, a provincial administrative centr 300 miles south of Moscow, still was great.

The Germans, who broke into the city's approaches last week, were clinging to every building and trying to erect barricades.

South of the city, fresh troops were reinforcing the badly-mauled Hungarian 7th Division. But the Russians doggedly were expelling the invaders, Red air squadrons co-operating with tanks, artillery and infantry aground.

Headed For Rostov.

The heavy German forces south of Millerovo appeared aiming down the Moscow-Rostov railway in the direction of Rostov, toward the way-stations of Likhaya, Sulin and Shakhty.

Dispatches stressed that German planes were bombing cities, towns and villages repeatedly before the advancing mechanized hordes.

"On Soviet sectors of the front our troops went over to the counter attack, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy," the Soviet Information Bureau announced.

From the active theatre came reports of 4,300 more German casualties.

Tank-led Soviet infantrymen gained ground in violent combat in the Voronezh area despite the Germans' effort to "hold on to their positions at all costs."

Three German artillery batteries and two mortar batteries were routed by tanks, the Information Bureau said, and 350 invaders were killed in a fighting retreat, the survivors leaving behind three disabled tanks, seven guns, nine mortars, four machine guns and an ammunition dump.

"In another sector," it said, "enemy infantry supported by tanks attacked our positions. In beating off this attack our artillerymen destroyed three German tanks and wiped out about 300 Hitlerites.

A stiffening of defences across the hot, level grain fields within the big bend of the Don was implied, even while Soviet foot troops fell back again before the armored vanguards of a 1,000,000-man army massed by Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock.

Major fighting in that area was reported centred not southeast of Millerovo, as it had been for three days, but south—in the direction of Rostov, a Russian bastion before the Caucasus oil fields.

Tanks Wipe Out 1,200

"Our men are repulsing fierce enemy attacks," a communique declared. "Not far from the village of 'K' our tanks, covering the retreat of our infantry, launched a counter attack, annihilating 1,200 Hitlerites."

Perhaps ominously, however, there was no news from the sector of Nazi-occupied Boguchar, 70 miles northeast of Millerovo, where the Germans were last reported driving down the Don upon Stalingrad.

Definite Red Army advantages were indicated in the 10-day-old Battleof Voronezh, 300 mles south of Moscow.

The Soviet radio said Russian soldiers had plunged the Germans back in disorder in several places, recaptured two communities and pursued routed detachments across the Don south of the city to fight on over fields piled high with Nazi dead.

The German 222nd regiment was reported wiped out, adding to the tens of thousands of invaders killed. An elite Soviet guard force was credited with slaying 600 Germans and a neighboring unit with 400.

Backing up the ground forces, Red airmen destroyed or damaged 90 German tanks, 265 trucks and several oil tanks on various sectors Thursday, it was announced.

German shipping concentrations in the Gulf of Finland were at-

Axis Pay Dear As Two Counters Fail

RAF Gets Two Ships In Tobruk Harbor; Main Scrap In Centre

CAIRO, July 18 — (AP).—British troops on the northern sector of the El Alamein front drove southward yesterday, but later were counter-attacked twice by Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis forces and compelled to give up some of the ground they gained, the British Headquarters announced to-day.

On the central front, where New Zealand troops were holding the eastern end of the Ruweisat Ridge, an attack by motorized infantry was repulsed, the communique said. There also was activity on the southern end of the 40-mile British line about 75 miles west of Alexandria.

Air activity was intense over the battle front, especially in the central sector, and British fighters shot down five Axis aircraft.

Light British bombers ranged over the central sector of the front attacking transport vehicles and tanks and violent explosions were caused.

In a raid on the Axis supply port at Tobruk, Allied heavy bombers hit a large ship and a tanker in the harbor and started a fire in the dock storage area which was spreading as the bombers withdrew from the former British stronghold.

Over Malta, the communique said, British fighters shot down four Messerschmitt fighters without loss to themselves. The total Allied losses in the African theatre yesterday were seven planes with two of the pilots reported safe, the communique said.

The Axis forces were reported to

He disclosed to-day that in the 36 days that United tSates heavy bombers have been operating in the Middle East arena they have accomplished 31 tactical missions.

In addition to bombing enemy convoys in the Mediterranean and attacking Bengasi and Tobrck, the main ports of entry for the Axis to the African theatre of war, the bombers have shot down five enemy aircraft in combat and possibiy have destroyed three others, Brereton said. Three American bombers have been lost in combat since operations started here.

Japanese Troops Chased From Wenchow

CHUNGKING, July 18—(AP). — The Japanese garrison at recently-captured Wenchow, a port in South Chekiang Province, has been forced to retire under heavy Chinese pressure, the Central News Agency reported today.

Chinese forces were reported re-entering the city with the Japanese retreating toward Juian, 13 miles to the south.

The fall of Wenchow to the Japanese had been announced by the Chinese command earlier this week, following a series of enemy operations which completed an arc from Hanchow on the north to Wenchow in the southeast.

In North China Central News said the Japanese had captured Hsiaoyi, in Central Shansi Province, after an engagement of several days.

The new agency's account of the Chinese success at Wenchow apparently contained later news than was included in today's high command communique which said a Chinese column had reached the city's suburbs Thursday night.

The communique said the enemy suffered heavy casualties about the port city and that the Chinese had gained the upper hand in hard fighting below Juian.

In Kiangsi Province which adjoins Chekiang, the high command reported that Kinki, a town 80 miles south of Nanchang which often has changed hands, again is in possession of the Chinese.

Bush Fire Nears Debert Camp

HALIFAX, July 18.—(CP).—Uncontrolled fires were burning over five tinder-dry Nova Scotia areas to-day, one near the huge Debert military camp any two others close to sizeable Hants county villages.

Efforts of 2,000 soldiers and airmen armed with pickaxes and shovels under the direction of Brig. E. L. M. Burns, stopped the Debert fire from moving in on the military camp but the flames were still spreading towards the main Truro-Moncton highway in the other direction.

The fire was discovered yesterday, burning in bushes both sides of a military road running through the camp property. The soldiers quickly bought the fire on the camp side of the road under control.

The two Hants county fires were blazing fiercely close to the main Halifax-Truro highway, one of them 1½ miles from Enfield and the other two miles from Shubenacadie. Smoke from these fires could be seen in Halifax, 40 miles away.

New York, July 18 (AP).

THE New York Times to-day quoted shipping men as saying that New York, until now the main United States terminal for neutral foreign passenger lines trading from Portuguese and Spanish ports, would be abandoned as a port of call for ships of those countries.

"Several weeks ago," the paper said "Spanish-flag vessels ceased calling at New York, and in recent days local shipping agents have been advised that Portuguese liners no longer would come here with cargo and regufees.

"In both cases, for reasons attributed to pressure brought by the German government in Spain and Portugal, the sailings have been shifted to Batlimore."

CIO Steel Men Take 44c Raise

By The Canadian Press

Acceptance by the C.I.O. United Steel Workers Union of a 44 cents a day pay increase for "Little Steel's" 157,000 employees instead of $1 as demanded, somewhat brightened today a labor situation in the United States clouded by a half dozen wildcat strikes and work stoppages.

Yielding to President Roosevelt's appeal, for "co-operation" in meeting the mounting trend of living costs, the Union hastened to effectuate the War Labor Board's lesser award accepted by the steel workers Policy Committee in Pittsburgh yesterday.

C.I.O. President Philip Murray said heads of Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Inland already have been asked for immediate resumption of contract negotiations terminated last February.

Meanwhile, production of vital aircraft materials halted in the American Magnesium Corporation's Buffalo plant where about 1,000 employees staged a walkout Thursday over a wage dispute. Asserting the

Rommel on Adolf's Now-or-Never Plan

Suspect Auchinbeck Has Now Received All The Reinforcements Available

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Those General Lee tanks which suddenly turned up in the Libyan desert and were flung into the battle for Egypt yesterday may prove to be a godsend at a very critical time.

We aren't told just what the nature of this tank contingent is, but one of those gossipy sparrows had been intimating that Gen Auchinleck received a fairly strong measure of help. The importance of this lies in the fact that up to this juncture Field Marshal Rommel has been superior in armored equipment — a very grave threat to the hard-pressed British army. The powerful Generals Lees will reduced Rommel's balance of numerical tank strength and may whittle it down to a point where Auchinleck can handle it.

There is every indication that Rommel intends to try to resume the devastating offensive which drove his steel-pointed divisions to a position only 65 miles from Britain's great naval base at Alexandria. Brig.-Gen H. S. Sewell, British military expert, tells me he believes Rommel will go all-out in an effort to break through, since this Axis operation is an integral part of Hitler's now-or-never strategy. That seems likely, especially since the Field Marshall is by nature a sticker and one of the most aggressive military captains of his day.

Undoubtedly the also highly-capable Auchinleck will do his utmost to maintain his present position, with his right wing anchored on the sea and his left resting at the edge of the great Qattara depression, about 40 miles almost due south. This gives invaluable protection to his flanks, an advantage which he would lose where he pushed back into the open desert beyond the depression. The unbroken desert, of course, is the terrain which would suit Rommel with his fast-moving tank divisions.

There has been no recent indication of the comparative strengths of the two armies. Possibly Auchinleck has from 75,000 to 100,000 men and Rommel may have something more than 100,000, but those are just estimates and we must remember that both sides have been receiving reinforcements, the nature of which hasn't been made public.

As already indicated, Rommel presumably still is superior in tanks, while Auchinleck at last advices had the edge in air power, although the German reportedly had received warplane reinforcments. One of the first things to be ironed out as the battle flames up anew must be the question of who's who in tanks, and much will depend on this phase of the fighting. Rommel likely will make an early effort to weaken Auchinleck's armored strength and then try a flanking operation, per-

Japs On Three Aleutians

Live Risky Lives Under U.S. Air Bombardments

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP). — Japanese forces have set up temporary living facilities on three undefnded islands at the tip of the Aleutian chain, the United States navy reported yesterday, but since early this month have failed to enlarge their holding and have been subjected to intermittent heavy attacks.

The installations are on Attu, Kiska and Agattu. On Kiska, where 20 tents and other structures were observed by aerial reconnaissance June 12, army aircraft recently dropped 58 bombs in one of a series of attacks by United States planes cost the Japs five ships sunk, one and submarines which to date have believed sunk, and nine damaged

(Canadian troops and aerial units are aiding in Alaska's defence.)

The latest of these attacks was made July 11 when a cruiser was bombed at Kiska with undetermined results. Since that time, the navy said, there has been no material change in the situation in the fog-shrouded islands, although operations against the enemy are continung.

Little '06' Goes Hunting Japs

BC Fisherman Combs Thousand Coves for Sub Lairs

By HERBERT JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WITH THE WEST COAST PATROL A SEAT, July 18.—(CP).—Up and down Canada's west coast war zone, where in peacetime she plied the fishing trade, she's known now as the '06' and her job is hunting enemy submarines.

Changed a bit to fit her for a wartime role, the '06' is typical of the scores of grey auxiliary war craft that carry the white ensign of patrol duty from Alaska to Cape Flattery and back again, an ever present menace for any enemy that might dare approach the coast.

Manned by a crew of young but experienced and specially-trained men under an able skipper and mate, she noses into a thousand bays and inlets along Vancouver's bleak and treacherous west coat, where reefs stick their jagged teeth out of a white-capped sea. It is there that a brazen Japanese submarine might attempt to hide out unseen.

Like the others of her class, the '06' has a regular patrol in the waters she knew so well in peacetime. Sometimes her radio brings orders that send her speeding off on a special mission—perhaps to put a party ashore for a special investigation, perhaps to send her bucking miles out into the Pacific swell to investigate reports of flares at sea.

In the navy she's known as a 'tiddly' ship—meaning a good ship, able to navigate between the treacherous reefs and into little shallow inlets where large vessels dare not venture.

MR. KING REFUSES TO TABLE SECOND LETTER FROM COL. DREW

Desert Heat Spurs Rommel On

Hopes Relief Ahead; Voronezh Stands Key To Russian Front

Written for The Canadian Press
By MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHARLES GWYNNE

LONDON, July 18.—(CP Cable). —The last few days, preceding the start of the current major tank battle in Egypt, brought a temporary lull in the fighting which was broken at intervals by several important tactical engagements which helped prepare the stage for today's encounter.

Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck advanced his right flank July 10 about five miles to Tel El Eisa and captured 1,000 prisoners, mainly Italians, and some tanks and guns. It has not been made clear whether this attack had the object of giving greater depth to the Allied position near the coast or forestalling an Axis offensive.

The position gained was consolidated and held successfully against Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's attempts to recover it July 11, 13 and 14. These attacks were made in considerable force, including a proportion of his armored strength. In these attempts the Axis forces lost heavily and suffered not only from the fire of ground troops but also from persistent attacks by R.A.F. fighter-bombers.

Both sides appear to have massed their less mobile troops in the north on the main road and railway where the Empire troops hold a pronounced salient. In the centre of the front, opposing armored forces are concentrated and Gen. Auchinleck launched a limited offensive a few days ago while Rommel was making his third attempt against the salient to the north.

On the southern flank, along the northern side of the Qattara depression, small mobile detachments operated, presumably using their defensive posts as pivots.

Here, British and Empire troops appeared to be the more active during the relative quiet which prevailed until the start of the present engagement. Both sides were constantly bringing up reinforcements to an extent so far unrevealed, but there has been no indication Rommel has been reinforced by any complete formations and may not yet be receiving more than enough to make good his wastage. His water supply difficulties have been eased by cleaning and repairing the wells at Mersa Matruh.

Find Girl Shot Arrest Jeweler

SAN LEANDRO, Calif., July 18.—(AP).—With two bullets through the temple and another through the chest, the body of 20 year old Dorena Hammer was found to-day in the cabin of an auto court.

A few minutes after the discovery, Leslie B. Gireth, wealthy Glendale, Calif., jeweler, was taken into custody at a hotel in Fresno, Calif.

His arrest followed a telephone call from Fresno to Oakand police, in which ofifcers were told that the body of a girl would be found in the auto court.

Beside the bed in which the girl lay dead was a table bearing a vase of red carnations, and a silver-plated photograph which police identified as that of Gireth. The photograph carried te inscription: "Dorena, my darling, humble words could never express how I love you; how I adore you. Always remember that. Your Les" It was dated Sept 15, 1941.

When Gireth was taken in custody his only comment, Deputy Police Sheriff Dick Condon said, was, "It's a long story and people wouldn't understand.'

Gireth's wife, Anna, recently filed suit for divorce charging her husband was 'not conventional in his desires.' Told her she 'didn't know how to live,' and squandered money on other women and in night clubs. The Gireths, married in 1920, have two sons.

On the whole, while the British position still is one of peril, it is much better than it was when the shattered British army finally was able to make a stand on its present front. Luck in the matter of reinforcements will play an important part and here Rommel may be in the more favorable position. The chances are that apart from air support Auchinleck has received about all the aid available from nearby bases and that further help must come over the long routes from Britain or America, whereas Rommel is close to continental reinforcements. Bombers, of course, can be flown to Auchhinleck.

Berlin Fishing On Ship Losses

LONDON, July 18.—(CP Cable)— Colonial Secretary Viscount Cranborne told the House of Lords yesterday before start of the secret session on the shipping situation that Germany has made effort to obtain a public disclosure of this matter.

"How anxious they are to get this information," he said, "is shown by their own broadcast statements, especially those of the new 'British broadcasting station' — octensibly British but really German."

Lord Cranborne quoted the following from a statement broadcast by that station July 7:

"The best way to end the Churchill regime is to demand the truth. We want to know the truth about who is to blame for the situation in Egypt; about how much help we are giving Russia; the true facts about our shipping losses and what risks we are taking, and also about whether the convoy route to Russia is worthwhile.

"These are things which should not be debated in secret."

The only reason the Germans want to know about Allied shipping losses, Lord Cranborne said, especially in regard to the convoy routes, is "they don't know the facts and want us to give them. It is indispensable to keep them in as much ignorance as we can."

CobourgKinsmenClub Postpones Carnival

COBOURG, July 18.—(ENS). — Rain forced the Cobourg Kinsmen Club to postpone its carnival last night, but it will be held to-night instead. For some time it appeared that it might rain on Thursday night but the rain held off. However last night the rain came down in torrents around seven o'clock and the Kinsmen were forced to call it off until to-night. Winner of the attendance prize on Thursday night was Corporal Douglas Randal. To-night the big draw will be held for war savings certificates with the first prize being a $50 victory bond.

of the command and forced constantly to submerge, reach their hunting grounds in poor condition to attack shipping.

For weeks and even months the men who patrol the great tracts of sea never see the wake of a U-boat or the "feather" of a periscope.

"Yes," confided a Wing Commander just back from a fruitless patrol, "we are the boys who have the boredom."

Some Fast Work

The sinking business is tricky. Imagine patrolling the sea for weeks and weeks without sight of a seagull. Then imagine seeing a speck from miles away which may be a submarine.

"In half a minute," the Wing Commander said, "the enemy can crash-dive out of danger. So we have to work fast. We drop our bombs. But we can't claim a kill unless one of the crew has a picture of the wreckage."

To counter submarines, Coastal Command used long-range aircraft, Sunderland and Catalina flying boats, Liberator reconnaissance bombers, Whitleys, Wellingtons, Hudsons and Hampdens. They carry bombs and patrol three main treatres, the Bay of Biscar, the western approaches to the British Isles, and in the North Sea between Britain and Norway.

Since the start of the war Command aircraft have flown more than 50,000,000 miles and it now is larger than the whole of the pre-war R.A.F.

Hepburn Claims Drew Is 'Gestapo' Victim

ORONO, July 17.— (CP).—Premier Hepburn called Friday for a total war effort and for 'clear-thinking without partisan bias'.

"Surely the time has arrived now for clear thinking without partisan bias and some clear talkng as well from our political leaders notwithstanding the unwarranted and ill-fated gestapo attacks on Col. Drew (Lt.Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader) which sought to prevent free expression of opinion," the Premier told the Durham County Federation of Agriculture.

(Col. Drew faced a charge under Defence of Canada Regulations following his comment on the report of the Hong Kong Royal Commission but the Crown withdrew the charge in court here last Friday).

"The one ray of hope seems to be in the fact that so far we have not put our very best in a total war effort," Mr. Hepburn said. "Bungling, vaccilating poltics and wasted valuable tme and money are now so much water over the dam. You can not retrieve that which is lost in he national effor by such practices and stupidity.

"The first requisite in a total war effort is total unity in support of a common cause. That objective has been reached in the United States of America but not in Canada.

"The greatest enemy in our country has been partisan political expediency practised by a group in power at Ottawa and censored sugar coated news which has as its objective the bolstering of the political machine to which I referred.

"There has been in Canada an organized effort to conceal the truth of the whole situation from the people. If we have any illusions about who is winning the war to date, at least, let us take a look at the map of the world as at the outbreak of war two years ago, and to-day—then arrive at your on conclusion."

Mr. Hepburn said that wherever a group of Canadians gathered the one topic of conversation was the war and its possible consequences. Yesterday he discussed "our problems" with an American who asserted "he was astounded at the lack of interest here and, as he described it, the blind adhesion to the old conception that Britain and the United States were invincible."

Serious Warning

"High officials of the United States government have recently sounded serious warning about imminent attacks upon the North American continent. The Japanese are crossing the Aleutian islands almost at will, consolidating as they go, while we are rushing frantically the much-delayed Alaska highway in order to move men and supplies to the threatened areas.

"The fate of Britain in the Atlantic may be decided by the final disposition of the huge French fleet now in active manoeuvres in the Mediterranean manned by 'expert German sailors."

"The question then arises in our minds as to what can each of us do within the sphere of our own jurisdiction," Mr. Hepburn said.

"He reviewed what the Ontario Government had done to aid Ottawa by handing over public buildings, refraining from borrowing new money, loaning employes to war services and turning over the income and corporation taxes to Ottawa.

"Must Work Harder"

Recalling that farmers had been aided through services in the Department of Agriculture, he said: "If we are to do our job as farmers, if we are to feed ourselves and our hard-pressed allies of Russia, we must worker harder and longer.

"I believe some relief can be made available by a change in government policy at Ottawa. The farmer can barely purchase the necessary repair parts for equipment. Sale of non-essential consumer goods should be stopped at once in order to make more materials possible for basic production. The farm income should be sufficient to operate the farm as a well-balanced economic unit. No fortune can accumulate with today's tax rate. But the other extreme is equally dangerous.

"If by high production costs, taxation and price ceilings the farmer is forced under our fiscal system to reduce or curtail his farm operations, the nation suffers as a consequence. Any and every means possible must be found to stop liquidation of basic farm livestock. Ontario herds are the pride of the country. If we are to obviate the possibility of severe rationing of secondary farm products, the livestock farmer and poultryman must be given greater consideration."

Urges Moratoriums

Mr. Hepburn insisted a moratorium must be declared on many debts. This is necessary until such time as we recast our whole monetary system.

"When this war is over, and all wars do end, we shall never again put money in the driver's seat," he said.

A wave of prohibition hysteria is sweeping the country, he continued. But before efforts are made to force prohibition, experiences in the past should be considered.

Liquor production cannot be controlled like the production of automobiles, he asserted, and it is not much of a step from the licensed to the illicit distiller, nor from the beverage room to the bootlegger. He paid compliment to Finance Minister Ilsley for imposing heavier taxes on liquor.

Puts It Up To Consumer

"I do believe that much too much liquor is being consumed, the increased consumption corresponding with the increased consumption of tobacco," he said. "But there is only one control possible and that is in the heart and mind of the consumer himself."

In the darker days ahead, he said, it was inadvisable to drive the whole traffic underground into the welcome arms of the class of society which handled the illicit traffic during the last unfortunate experience "we had in our attempt to force prohibition, even as a war measure, against the will of the people."

Further, on the war effort, Premier Hepburn said he had discussed our problem with a United States citizen who had ventured the expression that he was astonished at the lack of interest here and, as he described it, "the blind adhesion to the old conception that Britain and the United States were invincible."

CHICAGO, July 18 — (AP). — Wheat prices declined to the lowest levels in nearly two weeks yesterday, dropping at one point to about 2 cents under the preceding session's close, as persistent hedge selling met with only limited buying interest.

A break in cotton futures and Washington reports that anti-inflation measures were under consideration helped the downturn. Spring wheat movement is not far off in the North-west and the storage situation in that area is also unfavorable, traders said.

Wheat closed 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents lower.

Corn displayed independent strength, finishing ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher.

Oats closed 1⅛ to 1⅞ cents lower, rye was off ¼ to ⅝ cent and soybeans finished ⅝ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher.

Chance Shot Gets Paddy Finucane

LONDON July 18 — (CP). — Wing Cmdr. Brendan (Paddy) Finucane R.A.F. ace credited with destruction of 32 German planes, was killed last Tuesday in a crash off the French coast after a German machine-gun bullet disabled his Spitfire, the Air Ministry announced last night.

It was a "million to one chance" shot which ended the career of the 22-year-old ace as he was leading his wing during the largest mass attack yet carried out on German targets in France. The bullet struck the Spitfire's radiator.

The motor was turning too slowly for Finucane to gain height, so he opened the sliding hood over the cockpit, took off his helmet, and attempted to set his plane down on the sea. The Spitfire "sank like a stone," carrying Finucane to his death.

The No 2 leader of the wing PO. F. A. Aikman, 23, of Toronto, avenged the death of the Irish ace in his own ground strawing attack on the German machine-gun post, set up on a spit of land, Pointe au Touquet, facing the English Channel from whence the R.A.F. men came.

Aikman said the wing was flying at "nought feet" when it skimmed across the French coast and that the airmen were almost on the machine-gunners before Funicane realized it. The machine-gunners opened up with point-blank fire.

"As I went in," Aikman related, 'I took a crack at the gun post. When the dust settled down a little there was nothing to be seen on the sand and I guessed my fire blew that post to blazes."

St. Lawrence Blackout

MONTREAL, July 18—(CP)—Information brought to Montreal Friday told of blackout precautions taken on the St. Lawrence north shore following the sinking of three ships in the Gulf July 5.

Prophet Hosea Proclaimed Israel's Earliest Evangelist

REV. E. R. JAMES

Then Shall We Know If We Follow on to Know the Lord.—Hosea 6:3.

Much light is thrown upon this book when we no : that the author's name means 'Salvation.' George Adam Smith, the famous Scotch theologian, writes that Hosea is the first prophet of grace, Israel's earlies evangelist. The human emotion of love is its chief thought. His wife Gomer, whom he loves deeply, betrays him. Repeatedly he forgave her. Through his own broken heart he learns that God also loves and sorrows because of Israel's idolatry. Living more than seven hundred years before Christ this prophet discovers the New Testament secret that 'God is love.' Though his own pain and sorrow he learns that Jehovah loves His people Israel; that Jehovah also is hurt by Israel's idolarty. Let these startling words sink into your minds: 'When Israel was a child I loved him and called my son out of Egypt. I drew them with the cords of love..'—Hos. 11:1-4.

How helpful to remember that Hosea's faith in God was deepened through his thoughts about God. He has received a little light into the character of God wich deepened his faith He has grown in the knowledge of God through is thinking about God. So he speaks to us in our day of darkness and horror that 'we shall know if we follow on to know the Lord.'

We are not thinking deeply upon the Christian revelation to-day. Too much emphasis has been laid upon the simple Gospel so that men have come to despise those who lay stress upon thinking upon the deep things of God. We are to be prophets, students of the mind of God. Then only will He reveal His secrets. To receive these secrets we must advance along tree lines.

1. The Heart—There must be appeal to the heart The heart is the seat of the emotions. 'Lovest thou me?' is the primary question the risen Lord asks of His followers. The Lord called the Apostles that they might be with Him and that they might discover His secret. Evinto that inner circle He admits sadly: 'I have many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.' Christianity asks us to love a Divine pPersonality who has been revealed in Jesus Christ All true love has the power to see into the very heart of the loved one. 'The tyes of our understanding are enlightened' trough love.

2. THE MIND. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy mind" is Our Lord's own command. We have the hard work of thinking. Theology is t.e queen o' sciences. Our father love' to listen to deep sermons. The tablojd newspapers reveal our intellectual fall. When your mind is stimulated and strengthened by the deep things of God you will receive strength to stand in these darl days. All the martyrs were intellectually convinced that Jesus Christ is the Son of God in a mysterious, wonderful sense.

Probably you will say: "I have very little education; I am but a plain man." God has provided for this. An ancient prophet says: "A man shall be as the shadow of a rock in a weary land." A symbolical expression for the im..ginative Jew. Perhaps you know some sane, wise man of Christian character. You can rest under his shadow, the shadow of his knowledge. Because he .tands the assaults of doubts you will stand. This is God's promise: "I have sent unto you wise men."

3. THE WILL. To each of His Apostles the Christ said: "Follow Me. They were free to refuse. If they followed they pledged their obedience. To them He promised to reve Himself. "If any man will do My will he shall know." And more: "If any man will lov: Me I will manifest Myself to him"

THE PRACTICAL APPLICATION.

"The Lord God wakeneth morning by morning, He wakeneth mine ear to hear as they that are taught." It is the hour for the morning sacrifice. You feel tired, dul, sleepy. The Lord knows how you ' l. It is your duty to obey; to rise, to pray, to read his Word and to listen to His Voice. Sometime on such occasions you discover that the fire from heaven descends and consumes your morning sacrifice, unworthy though it is. "Thanks me unto Thee, O Lord."

Lo, I come to do thy will, O my God: I am content to do it.

Cain and Abel a Contrast In Son of Adam and Eve

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 19, is Genesis 4, the Golden Text being Hebrews 11:4, "By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, through which he had witness borne to him that he was righteous.")

ADAM AND EVE, banished from the Garden of Eden, had a son wrom they caled Cain. The name means acquisition or possession. Can you imagine Eve's joy when she saw her firstborn, even though he was born in agony?

Another son was born to them, whom they called Abel. Abel means vanity, which is an odd name for a child. When these children grew up Cain was a tiller of the soil, but Abel chose to be a shepherd, tending his sheep on the hillsides around his home.

When harvest time came around, Cain, the elder, brought an offering of his products to the altar of the Lord Abel did likewise, sacrificing the "firstling of his flock and of the fat thereof."

For some reason Cain's offering was not acceptable to the Lord. Possibly the offering was acceptable but Cain's sacrificial attitude was wrong. At any rate, the author of Exodus says, "unto Cain and to his offering He (the Lord) had not respect." Abel's offering was received with favor, however, and that made Cain very angry.

Lord Sees Cain's Anger

The Lord saw at once that Cain was furious, and said to him, "Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen? If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door. And unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him."

Meaning that if he allowed his passion to get the best of him he would sin, but that he should seek to rule his anger and so overcome the sin.

Cain talked to Abel when they were in the field, an dhe did not rule his anger and he killed Abel.

"And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel, thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I not brother's keeper?"

The Lord said, "What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground."

Cain then heard these terrible words, "And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hat hopende her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand; When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth."

Cain did not express any sorrow for his awful deed, but was horror stricken at his punishment, and wailed, "My punishment is greater than I can bear. Behold, Thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth; and from Thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass that everyone that findeth me shall slay me."

But the Lord said to him, "Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold. And the Lord set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him."

There is no record of the mark set upon Cain, and no one knows what it was, but to this day we say of murderers, that they have "the mark of Cain" on them.

Cain went to live in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden. He married, his wife probably being a sister, as there were no other women, and a child who was named Enoch was born. Cain built a city and named it for his child, Enoch. Enoch's son was named Irad; Irad's son, Mehujael; and Mehujael's son was Methusael, and Methusael was the father of Lamech. The last named took two wives—the first polygamist. Their names were Adah and Zillah.

"Adah bare Jabal," who was the father of the tent-dwellers and cattle owners. Jabal's brother's name was Jubal, and he "was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ."

Zilah had a son, Tubalcain, "an instructor of every artificer in brass and iron;" and the sister of Tubalcain and Naamah.

Lamech seems to have inherited Cain's evil traits, for he confided to his wives that "I have slain a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt If Cain be avenged sevenfold, truly Lamech seventy and sevenfold."

Eve was again a mother, and bare a son whose name she called Seth, "for God, said she, hath appointed me another seed instea dof Abel, whom Cain slew."

"And to Seth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name Enos: then began men to call upon the name of the Lord."

Cain's descendants seem not to have known God, with all their skill, but the descendants of Seth were godly men.

Fought Japs at Hong Kong Now in Canada for New Go

OTTAWA, July 18 — (CP). — Ben Proulx is home to join the Canadian Army after fighting the Japanese at Hong Kong and fighting them again with the American Volunteer Group fliers in China.

The former Hong Kong stock broker gave a first-hand account of the losing battle for the island colony in an interview here yesterday, his first public statement since his escape from a Japanese prison last January.

He was in prison with Canadian troops who fought in the battle. He said at first they suffered severe hardship and were on a starvation diet, but before his escape they were moved to another camp where food conditions were better.

His wife and two sons are still prisoners of the Japanese but he has had word they are alive and well and not too badly treated.

A native of Ottawa, the nephew of Judge Edmond Proulx of Sudbury Ont., he had lived in the Orient for many years, part of the time in Japan. eH was a sub-lieutenant in the Royal Hong Kong Naval Volunteers when war broke out and when the Japanese landed on the island after pushing the British forces out of the Hong Kong mainland territory he and all other naval men went ashore, grabbed rifles and pitched in to help the army.

In Repulse Bay Scrap.

In the Battle of Repulse Bay he was one of the defenders of the summer hotel there. The defenders awoke one morning to find Japanese in the street beating several naval officers. The Japanese did not know the hotel was defended and the defenders opened fire and wiped them out.

Repulse Bay, however, was surrounded and the defenders opened fire and wiped them out.

Repulse Bay, however, was surrounded and the defenders received order to break through the Japanese lines since otherwise 200 women and children concealed in the hotel, including Proulx' own family, would have been slaughtered.

Discarding their boots and creeping along the roads the troops, a mixed body of Canadians, naval men and British soldiers, managed to get through to Fort Stanley. A few who became lost returned to Repulse Bay and were killed by the Japanese.

Mr. Proulx said he did not consider this an atrocity as 30 Japanese had been ambushed and killed at the same place the day before and the Japanese naturally killed any military personnel they found there.

"To my mind that's not an atrocity," he said. "That is war. You go into war to kill men."

Creeping through the mountains to reach Fort Stanley, Proulx said, he came across the bodies of a lot of soldiers and naval officers, with hands tied behind their backs, and bayoneted.

"There is no doubt that up to the time of the main surrender the Japs were not taking prisoners; they were polishing everybody off," he said.

Proulx said that the fighting was general all over the island. There was no such thing as a front anywhere.

"There was a mixture of everything. We were scattered all over the island, fighting everywhere."

He told of the water mains being turned off the last five days, because of the bodies polluting the water.

Prisoners were moved to the mainland, to the Kowloon prison, on December 26, and remained there till January 24. He escaped January 27

Proulx saw action at Repulse Bay on Dec. 10 when the Japanese landed and struck in the middle of the island, cutting off roads and isolating the defenders. From that time on he said, it was guerilla fighting. With him were a group of the Royal Rifles commanded by a Major Young.

Prisoners Mistreated

"At dawn on Dec. 20 we found out that the Japanese had filtered through and were out in front of the hotel where we were. They had captured six British naval officers and were handling them roughly.

"We fought for about six hours," he continued, "and toward the end a company of the Royal Rifles under Major Young came along. I think it was B Company. We polished the Japs off, only three of about 32 getting away. We got the British naval officers out.

Proulx then told of the 700 Japs who tried to swim the narrow 300-yard channel at Lymoon Pass.

"The Canadians came down the side of the bank and wiped them out while the Japs were still in the water."

"On the night of Dec. 22 we were in a terrible position. We had 200 women and children in the hotel, in the tunnel under it, including my own wife and two children. We were completely surrounded and the general commanding at Hong Kong sent us a message telling us to break through the Japanese lines that night, or else the women and children would be slaughtered with us.

"We decided to make the break that night, leaving the women and children with a few civilians. We thought it better to do that than to have them all slaughtered, as the Japanese were moving up heavy artillery.

"We discarded our boots, so we could go without noise. The breakthrough was successful, though we lost perhaps 30 or 40 out of the 150 in skirmishes along the roads or in the mountains. The majority reached Fort Stanley the next morning at six o'clock.

Died of Starvation

Asked how food was at Kowloon, he described it as "starvation rations." He said that Col. Sutcliffe, of the Winnipeg Grenadiers, who was a hale and hearty man, undoubtedly died because he did not have enough food. The rice lacked nutrition.

"And when you eat bad rice you get beri-beri. Sutcliffe died, and when I saw him he was a very fit man."

"The Japanese refused every request we made. We asked for a Catholic priest, and that was refused. When we got dyentry, we asked for drugs; that was refused. Five died. We asked that they be buried in a cemetery outside; that was refused. We had to bury them inside the camp with us.

"We got rice twice a day. We requested European food one meal a day and that was refused. Every third day we got a very weak beef stew, or a weak vegetable stew. But they refused our request for a European meal. We asked to be allowed to write one letter to our next of kin, to let them know we were alive, that was refused.

Ignore Convention

"When we reminded the Japanese commandant about the Geneva Convention, he very politely told us Japan was not a signatory to it."

Somebody asked about Father Deloughrey.

"He was with us," said Proulx. "As a matter of face he gave no communion and confession the night I left. He asked me to tell his father in Pembroke that he is still alive. I wrote him from Calcutta, but I am afraid my letter didn't pass the censors there."

Proulx said that conditions improved when the prisoners were moved back to North Point on Hong Kong Island. The soliers were able to go outside and buy flour, better rice, small supplies of beef, army biscuits and cocoa.

Then came details of his dramatic escape.

"We bought a sampan from a Chinese who had got hold of several. Undoubtedly they belonged to people who had been murdered. I realized when I came to write a cheque for it that may name would mean nothing, so I signed it 'Adolf Hitler.' I told him to put it in a tin and hide it under his shack till the end of the war, then present it to the Hong Kong Bank."

The water was phosphorescent and every time the oars struck the water, the channel lighted up. However, they ran the gauntlet of Jap naval craft and reached the mainland.

The poor Chinese of a fishing village took up a collection of $40 and engaged them a junk. Then the junk crew tried to rob the trio while at sea, but after a long argument, they landed the fugitives at a deserted island. Then they got another junk and this operator tried to steal Proulx' wrist watch.

"We threw him overboard, then picked him up again, beat him up and made him row us ashore," said Proulx.

His pilgrimage overseas during which time he was nursed back from dysentry by Chinese drugs was a 59-day affair. At Kunming, U. S. General Clare Chennault took him in.

Proulx fought with the Chinese air force and to-day was wearing their uniform.

Then he went to Karachi, and finally from Bombay wired Col. F. W. Clark of Ottawa, for funds to come home. Thus he arrived two days ago.

Summing up, Proulx said Hong Kong could not be held against 75,000 Japs. He stated the first attack synchronized with the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Led By Nazi Officers

Something new was revealed when he said the attacks were led by German staff officers at Hong Kong.

Aasked if the British and Canadians had any air support, Proulx said there was none.

"The Japs just came over and bombed us at their own free will," he added.

Asked what equipment the Canadians and others had ,he said there were heavy artillery, Bren guns, howitzers, machine guns and other equipment.

Questioned as to how the troops got their orders from headquarters Proulx said: "Strangely enough, the telephone was working."

He descried the final fighting as guerilla warfare.

About trucks, he said that if the trucks from Canada had arrived they could not have been used since the Japs cut all the communications.

Asked about Brigadier Lawson and Major Hennessy, he said they both were killed around December 19 at the Wing-Nei-Cheong gap.

The reservist's wife and two children are still prisoners at the Japanese camp. Asked if he knew they were still alive, he replied: "They were on March 19."

Cain and Abel: A Contrast — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 4.

Adam and Eve had two sons, named Cain and Abel; Cain was a tiller of the earth.

Abel, the younger son of Adam and Eve, was a keeper of sheep — the first shepherd.

Cain grew angry because his sacrifice was not accepted by God, like Abel's so he killed Abel.

For the murder of his brother, Cain was driven forth from his home. (GOLDEN TEXT—Hebrews 11:4)

Party Politics In Canada

A Toronto evening paper, in an editorial directed primarily against the Montreal Star, has impugned the Examiner's independence in political matters. We are neither surprised nor concerned on that account. In the past we have criticized the present Government of Canada both adversely and favorably, according as we saw fit, and we shall continue to do so. But there is a section of the press of Eastern Canada which cannot bear to see a good word said for the Government in the columns of its contemporaries; it has built up in its own mind, and in the minds of the uncritical, the disgruntled and the ignorant among its readers a conviction that Canada is being driven down the road to ruin by a Government which combines cowardice with Machiavellian scheming, and hypocrisy with a complete disregard for the welfare of this Dominion.

Was there ever such nonsense? No sensible person, and the Examiner as little as any, pretends that the Government is without fault. It has temporized when bold action might have won the day, and at present it seems headed for a crisis over manpower. But it is the Government which the people of Canada elected with the greatest majority in our political history in the Spring of 1940. It is opposed by two parties which are numerically weak and lacking in outstanding talent; the Conservative Party is involved in a tangle over its leadership and the C.C.F. is still too young to be strong. The country chose the present Government two years ago and; so far as we can judge, would make the same choice again, because there is no other choice to make, if for no better reason. It is the duty of an independent newspaper to support the Government of the day when it can do so honestly, and that is the course which the Examiner will follow.

Much of the rancour which characterizes Canadian politics today is the result, in our opinion, of the exaggerated party feeling which persists here from the latter part of the nineteenth century. As a people we Canadians are strangely intractable politically. Gilbert's assertion that

...ev'ry boy and ev'ry gal
That's born into the world alive
Is either a little Liberal
Or else a little Conservative

is true in Canada as it has not been true in Britain for forty years. The Moslems and the Hindus are scarcely divided by more complex vagaries of inherited belief. At election time judgment and reason prevail with some sections of the population, but there are hundreds of thousands who vote for the representative of the party in which they were brought up, and are prevented from doing otherwise by taboos as powerful as any which control the lives of the South Sea Islanders.

The party system is a good one and a democratic one, but a party system gone rank and sour is a menace to the well-being of the country. It appeals to the sides-taking instinct in the population, and it enlists that vast body of unused intellectual and spiritual power which exists in every community, and which psychologists call floating libido, although simpler folk have known it for years by the more descriptive name of cussedness. Too frequently the good of our country is wholly overlooked in the wrangling and jangling of our parliamentarians.

Let no one misconstrue this criticism of the party system as a plea for national government. Canada tried that expedient once without notable success. It is a suggestion, however, that the rancorous parish politics which were considered good fun when this country was in its infancy are out of place now that it has grown up. And let no one asperse the independence of this paper because it supports the Government which we have, instead of boosting an hypothetical Government which we have not. The present chorus of vilification against the Government rises all too clearly from that small conception of party politics which we have deplored.

Women To The Fore

Before long a definite move will be made in Peterborough to attract women into wartime industrial work. It is believed at present that a meeting in the Collegiate Auditorium will shortly be announced at which women will be told of the gravity of the manpower situation and an appeal will be made to them to help if they possibly can. Married and unmarried women alike will be needed, though it is considered undesirable that women who have young children should leave them in order to take work in the factories.

Women in this city have already shown that they appreciate the situation in which industry finds itself and they have anticipated the approaching crisis. Large numbers of women have been training for some time in the industrial classes at the Collegiate. It is expected that this sort of training will have to be increased markedly in order to meet the new demand for skilled women.

This paper has already stated its view that a deadlock in manpower is not far away, and that unless the Government departments agree upon some unified action in this respect the country will soon face an impossible situation. The increased use of women in industry is a palliative measure, not a cure, and although it may relieve the situation temporarily it will not be many months before another crisis is reached.

Who Said No Titles?

We are glad that a Parliamentary committee is looking into the matter of titles and decorations for Canadians and we hope that they will recommend that the King be invited to honor his Canadian subjects in the customary way. We think that a return to the traditional system of titles would be a nice change from the system which we have built up ourselves. Who said we had no titles in Canada? With some aid from our friends across the border we have evolved quite an aristocratic system, and he is a humble fellow indeed at Ottawa these days who cannot preface his name with some resounding honorific.

Let us take two examples which are far from humble. The Minister of Munitions and Supply is the Hon. Clarence Decatur Howe, and the Minister of National Defence is the Hon. James Layton Ralston. Yet how often we refer to them as Munitions Minister Howe and Defence Minister Ralston; the usage is incorrect, but newspapers have adopted it because there always seem to be people who cannot place a Cabinet Minister unless they are reminded of his portfolio. This might be tolerated in the interests of clarity, but we see no reason to write of Manpower Director Little. To refer to that gentleman properly may take a little more time and a little more space, but it is certainly better than conferring upon him the thunderous style of Manpower Director. Price Controller Gordon is another case in point.

But the habit is growing with astonishing rapidity, and no one seems to be doing anything to check it. We fear that if it persists our society will soon be as overfraught with titles and distinctions as was that of pre-revolution Russia. We dread the day when we shall be introduced at parties to Co-ordinator of Garbage Disposal Smith and Filler of Inkwells in Secondary Schools Brown. A democracy on the rampage can produce more extraordinary form of address than a monarch in his wildest excesses.

While we are on this subject, we may as well confess our dislike of seeing public men who are entitled to that prefix called "Hon. Mr. So-and-So" instead of "The Hon. Mr. So-and-So." The omission of the article may save a little space, and many writers assume that the reader will instinctively insert it when he is reading. That this is not so is shown by the growing habit of ommitting it in conversation and often in public addresses. Let us adhere to the fuller form, if only for the benefit of those dewy young things who think that Hon. is an abbreviation of Honey.

A Little Known Author Passes

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

NOT many authors have been distinguished for their avoidance of publicity; it would be easier to make a list of those who court it. But who shall blame them for this? Nowadays many authors attract readers as much by their personalities and their exploits as by their writing; they go to Africa to shoot lions, or they espouse a political cause, or they pick a quarrel with a critic, and the resulting publicity helps to sell their books. Still, it is delightful to hear of a modest author.

An author in whom modesty and retirement from the world achieved the proportions almost of a vice was the late Ernest Bramah Smith, who died in England last month at the age of 74. He took great pains to conceal his identity and his books were published as by Ernest Bramah. So far as I have been able to discover only one picture of Smith was ever published; it showed him as the possessor of a large head and a face rather like that of an old-fashioned Shakespearean actor. But behind the apparent solemnity and severity of that face there was visible also a remarkable expression of humour and insight. Smith was undoubtedly one of the great literary humorists of our time.

HIS literary output was not large. He is known entirely for his "Kai Lung" books and the series of mystery stories which he wove about the character of Max Carrados, a blind detective. But he wrote nearly twenty books altogether, and they ranged in subject from "English Farming" which appeared in 1894 to "A Guide to The Varieties and Rarity of English Regal Copper Coins", published in 1929. Smith lived for many years in China, and upon his return to England he retired to Somerset, where he remained until his death the location of his home is not known and his widow has asked that the place of his death be kept a secret. Smith was no lion of literary teas and publisher's parties. You may read all the important volumes of literary reminiscence written during the past forty years without finding a mention of him.

But thousands of readers knew him and delighted in his wit and ingenuity. The Max Carrados books were good, but the Kai Lung books were the ones which won him a public, not large, but extraordinarily devoted. Kai Lung, in Smith's books, was a Chinese story-teller, and the volumes in which he figures—"The Wallet of Kai Lung" (1900), "Kai Lung's Golden Hours" (1922) and "Kai Lung Unrolls His Mat" (1928) and "The Moon of Much Gladness" (1937)—are written in a English adaptation of a florid Chinese style. I have been assured by one who is familiar with Chinese literary work that Bramah Smith has rendered its spirit into English with fidelity and discretion. The manner is flowery, but it never becomes tiresome. And the humour of the stories is superbly mellow. Consider this sentence, for instance: "At this display the elder and less attractive of the maidens fled, uttering loud and continuous cries of apprehension in order to conceal the direction of her flight." For forty years the readers of the Kai Lung stories have been devotees, continually quoting pithy sentences from their favorite author; they have become, indeed, almost as much of a cult as the adorers of "Alice in Wonderland".

THE appeal of the Kai Lung books is a special one, and people who do not feel it cannot be persuaded that it exists. Of all critical journals on this continent the The New York Times Literary Supplement has probably the highest reputation for intelligence, honesty and insight. And yet, when the last of the Kai Lung books, "The Moon of Much Gladnes", appeared, this journal was able to say "it is a strangely variegated mixture of P. G. Wodehouse, Charlie Chan, the maxims of Confucius, and the Japanese schoolboy, with a good deal left over that must be pure Bramah". To anyone who knows and appreciates the stories the elephantine crudity of this description is amazing. Rarely has a writer borrowed less than Smith, and certainly not from P. G. Wodehouse, that anarchist of the English language.

If you are not already acquainted with the Kai Lung books, let me advise you to dip into them next time an opportunity occurs. It may be that you will not like them; many people do not. But on the other hand you may be one of those to whom the tales come as the fulfilment of a long-felt want. If that is so you will read and re-read them with increasing pleasure and appreciation of their brilliant style and their matchless wit. But do not look for any covert revelations of the personality of the author through his work; Ernest Bramah kept his secret during life as, to judge from his last wishes, he means to keep it in death.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

AND the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate. . . . Then said Pilate to the chief priests and to the people, I find no fault in this man. And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place.

When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean. And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem at that time.

And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him; and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him. Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him nothing. . . .

And Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

Pilate therefore, willing to release Jesus, spake again to them. But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. . . .

And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.—Luke xxiii; 1, 4-9, 11, 20, 21, 33, 34.

Egyptian Front Encouraging

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

ALTHOUGH the Nazi steam-roller is crushing its bloody way southeastward in the Don basin, its slowing pace warrants a shift of attention from Russia to Egypt, where a decisive crisis seems ever more imminent.

The fate of Alexandria is again at stake in a new British-Axis tank battle somewhere in the narrow, sun-scorched desert corridor between the Mediterranean and the Qattara depression.

There seems little doubt that the German desert warfare genius, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, is making desperate efforts to break the stalemate forced upon him by the British stand at El Alamein June 30, efforts that if he fails must expose him to dangers of a disastrous defeat.

The mere fact that General Sir Claude Auchinleck, British supreme commander in Egypt, has not only accepted but invited pitched battle southwest of El Alamein is encouraging. It indicates he has made the most of his shorter and easier communication lines to bring up men and machines.

BRITISH FORCE ACTION

British tank and equipment losses in the lost Battle of Lybia and retreat to El Alamein have been sufficiently overcome to permit offensive preliminaries. Meagre accounts of the present action from Cairo indicate it was brought on by British scouting forays feeling out Axis dispositions.

They spoke so strongly of an impending major British counter-attack as to force Rommel into action. That the reinforcements which have reached him by air, sea or land are comparable to those now available to General Auchinleck is improbable. All his communication lines have been under continuous Anglo-American air battering.

While German initiative in the tank battle is admitted, neither the time nor the place of action was of Rommel's choosing. By every indication, his attack was primarily prompted by fear of a British desert sweep around his right flank to cut him off from the rear and pin him against the coast.

If this analysis of the situation is correct, Rommel has reacted to his increasing peril with characteristic boldness. He is desperately trying to drive a wedge that not only will prevent a British flanking sweep to the south, but may also smash through to force further British retreat.

Rommel's victories in Libya and Egypt have invariably turned on his masterly use of speed and the high mobility of his mechanized forces, coupled with effective staff work and an astonishing rapidity in communicating and executing orders. German use of radio to integrate action by far-separated units is reported by eyewitness observers. The risks of British interception are said to have been ignored to gain a time advantage. Radio-transmitted battle orders were not even coded. The result was cohesive and integrated Axis action in battle that outmatched the British and helped produce the debacle in Libya.

ROMMEL NEEDS ROOM

Successful employment of that Rommel technique requires what sailors call sea-room, however. It corresponds to the action of fleets at sea, which may cover a field of operations hundreds of miles in depth and width, yet with every fleet element keyed to orders from the commander's flagship.

Squeezed in between the sea and the great depression impassable to tanks and trucks, Rommel lacks elbow room for full exercise of his cunning. The neck of the corridor is hardly thirty miles wide south of El Alamein. Even if he had a distinct superiority in numbers in men and machines, which is doubtful, and control of the air, which he has not, Rommel is at a disadvantage in so confined a theatre of action.

And if he fails to break through himself or shatter the gathering British offensive power, his situation must become critical.

HISTORY—Conservative House Leader Hanson, a successful lawyer, recalling the days when a nickel or a dime made him feel like a millionaire.

Waiting for the House to resume one evening Deputy Speaker Thomas Vien and Assistant Clerk Thomas Boyce exchanged spectacles for trial purposes. . . . You should have seen the sad shaking of heads over the results.

THE BUDGET DEBATE:

Arthur Slaught (Lib., Parry Sound) waved a $100 bill to drive home a point and the House laughed. . . . "I had to borrow it, Mr. Chairman." said Mr. Slaght quickly. . . . And he added that "the public interest would not permit me to table it."...Then it would become House property.

Dr. J. K. Blair (Lib., Wellington North) was talking about drinking and he mentioned that some races "swing to beer and others swing to whisky." . . . Mr. Hanson's modern touch: "Swing is a technical term now, isn't it?"

Mr. Ilsley looks pretty mild at most times, but one of Ottawa's photographers put on display a new picture and now we marvel the Minister left us anything . . . he fairly bristles.

CUFFNOTES:

George Cruickshank (Lib., Fraser Valley) is noted for his spur-of-the-moment quips. . . . Mr. Ilsley had just commented that war risk insurance would only be paid of the house in which a person "ordinarily resides." . . . He didn't know which house would be covered if a man lived 183 days a year in one house and 182 in another. . . . Mr. Cruickshank had an answer for that one. . . . "If he's in the one that gets bombed he won't want anything," he said.

SEEN ON THE HILL—One of the Mounties with his arms around a couple of girls, having a picture taken . . . but he was just "co-operating" with visitors. . . . The shutter snapped, he let go, stepped smartly back a couple of paces, saluted, and went about his business.

Conservative House Leader Hanson uses more Latin phrases in the House than any other member. . . . They're all good legal terms. . . . And speaking of lawyers there seems to be something that gets them singled out for digs. . . . For instance, John R. MacNicol (Con., Toronto-Davenport) mentioned that lawyers' brief cases are exempt from the new 25-per-cent. excise tax and Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East) snapped in with: "The clients will pay the tax."

Space Russia's Ally

SPACE remains Russia's greatest ally and her mightiest reinforcement. To win Hitler has to annihilate the Red Army, and he cannot do that as long as it can draw him on from the Don to the Volga, from the Volga to the mountains, and thence into the limitless hinterland beyond. If he reaches the Caucasus, it is still at his back. If he reaches the Urals, Russia is still ahead.—New York Times.

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir,—

Will you please permit me through the columns of your paper to correct the impression that I am in arrears of taxes to the township of Otonabee, notice of which appeared in the July 11th issue of The Examiner.

I did owe a small amount in taxes, which I paid in 1940 and for which I have a receipt signed by the county treasurer, Miss Batten, for the balance of taxes owing and the computed interest.

I was very much surprised, therefore, when I received a letter earlier this year from the county treasurer stating that there was still a balance owing.

Miss Batten distinctly told me that I did not owe any more, and the receipt she gave me naturally confirms this. Now, in 1942 Miss Batten "discovers" that I still owe more and does not recall whether she had told me. I have never yet met the person who when a receipt in full is given for taxes he or she is going back to see if more can't be found, and surely with a business such as the county of Peterborough has it rates a copy of all correspondence. At least it seems quite a while from 1940 to 1942 to "discover" an amount due. Incidentally I do not owe taxes of any kind.

Thanking you,

Yours truly,
ALFRED FLETCHER.

THOSE HALF HOLIDAYS

The Editor of The Examiner,—

I am a newcomer to Peterborough. On Wednesday afternoon I found the stores closed. I was told that the storekeepers are considering closing all day Wednesday.

The beer parlors are open, and the workers in the factories are, in some cases, working twelve hours a day; and there are reports that munition workers will be called on to work seven days a week. But they are strong men and can stand it. The farmers and their wives work from sunrise to sunset and have chores which must be done on Sundays too; but they also are strong and able for it. But my heart goes out to the poor storekeepers and their clerks. How tired they must be waiting on customers all day! Why, at night they are so worn out that they cannot go to the theatres in the evenings. Instead they go to bed to rest up for the next day. Poor dears, let them have all day Wednesday if they want it. We can easily order goods from Eaton's and Simpson's by mail and save the store clerks the trouble of waiting on. Here's my vote for all-day closing on Wednesdays.

Shelter Bags Are Appreciated

NORWOOD, July 18.—(ENS).—Those who have filled "shelter bags" and turned them in through the various patriotic organizations, and are wondering what use is made of them, and if they are appreciated, will be very interested in the following letter, received by a contributor of this district:

Dear Miss Burgess,—I am in charge of the rest centre which we have here for people evacuated from two of our big shipping and naval bases. After air raids, those rendered homeless come to us for a few days until we can find permanent homes for them. Amongst supplies sent for the equipment of our rest centre are a number of most beautiful comfort bags, sent over by you in Canada, and in one of them I found your note.

I cannot tell you how deeply touched we here are, by the thought and kindness and practical help you have all sent us. It is, to me, more moving than I can describe, to find your notes in the lovely little bags, all filled with such care and thought and kindliness, and I feel I must write a note of thanks to you. If you know any friends who have made these bags, perhaps you will pass on our very deep gratitude, not only for the work, but for your thoughts too.

We are all willing to face anything over here as long as we know that in the end it helps to bring peace and a decent world to live in. But the consciousness of your thoughts and ... is very heartening to us when things are difficult. Reading your note was like a real handclap from overseas. Here in the country, England is just as lovely as ever, the trees bloom and the flowers grow. No matter what Hitler does we can build our towns again when peace comes. England itself will be unchanged.

This is Empire Day and our thoughts are with you in Canada and with all the rest of the Empire. May our trials bring us all very much closer in spirit and in devotion to each other. Your work certainly does much to this end. Thank you so much. — Yours sincerely, Noral Hull.

HEALTH CHATS

By D. B. AVISON, M.D., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health

POLIOMYELITIS.

On June 29 the health officers from those cities of Ontario having isolation hospitals were called to Toronto for a conference with the Provincial Department of Health. We were informed that it was anticipated that we might have an outbreak of "Polio" in Ontario this summer and it was desired that we make such preparation as possible for handling it.

Polio used to be called "infantile paralysis" — "infantile" because it seemed to occur only in children and "paralysis" because it was diagnosed by the paralysis which occurred, usually in one or more of the extremities. In the last Great War large numbers of our troops were attacked, and in epidemics since then many adults were affected and, further, it has been proven that many have the disease without resultant paralysis so that the term "infantile paralysis" has largely been displaced and Anterior Poliomyelitis adopted in its stead. This is a descriptive term signifying that the disease attacks the grey matter of the anterior part of the spinal cord. As a matter of fact it may attack the brain itself.

Symptoms and Signs.

Since we are to be on the lookout for this disease we naturally want to know what are the signs and the symptoms of this disease, aside from paralysis, that would lead us to suspect it and call in the doctor. Yes, we would all like to know — even us doctors. The signs and the symptoms, aside from paralysis, are unfortunately indefinite. What would lead us to suspect it? The safest rule is that at a time when there is Polio around, or that we expect it may be around, we call in the doctor for any case that is unwell and where the cause of sickness is not apparent. These patients may have vomiting and diarrhoea, moderate or high temperature, headache, restlessnes, or drowsiness.

Diagnosis.

Where paralysis occurs following any of the above symptoms, the diagnosis is fairly obvious. Where paralysis has not yet occurred, the doctor in a suspicious case, will examine specimens of the spinal fluid which in polio cases yields certain definite findings.

Prognosis and Treatment.

If the patient does not die but is paralysed we want to know what the extent of the final paralysis will be and how much crippling there will be. This cannot be accurately known for some months.

Up until recently our chief aim has been to support the paralysed limbs in such a way as to maintain their normal positions so that no damage beyond paralysis itself should result. Later on manual massage and electricity was used to help restore those muscles not actually paralysed but which had suffered indirectly.

Sister Kenny Treatment.

A few years ago we began to hear of a new treatment brought forward by an English nurse named Sister Kenny and every opportunity has been afforded her by the medical profession both in England, Australia, and on this Continent to demonstrate the value of her method which involves active treatment from the date of onset of the disease. While there is some scepticism of its value, large numbers of the profession and public are convinced of its worth. So true is this that the Department of Health of the Province of Ontario has decided to make Sister Kenny's treatment available to all new cases of Polio in the province.

A special training class for nurses has just been completed in Toronto under the direction of Miss Margaret Blackwood of the Hamilton General Hospital, who had completed a course in it at the University of Michigan Hospital.

Our own nurse, Miss Elizabeth Wright, nurse-superintendent of our Isolation Hospital, took this course in Toronto last week and on Thursday of this week Miss Blackwood came to Peterborough to put on a class, with Miss Wright's assistance, for the nurses of our two general haspitals. Thus Peterborough is the first city, since the Toronto class, to benefit by this training.

Sourves of Infection.

We do not know for certain just how this disease is spread. There is evidence to show that it can be spread from person to person and by polluted milk and water. Our milk is as safe as human means can make it and the same holds true for our public water supply. The Health Department has erected signs where it believes swimming would be dangerous from a health viewpoint. We cannot dry up these places or so police it as to keep bathers out. We have done our part by testing the water and posting signs. Citizens who ignore our warning do, of course, at their own risk.

Refundable Tax Changes Loom

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—And announcement is expected soon, probably from Revenue Minister Gibson, making the collection of refundable income tax at the source less onerous than was originally planned.

The refundable tax was the budget's method of instituting compulsory savings. From it may be deducted the amount the taxpayer pays in life insurance premiums, superannuation payments and principal payments on mortgages—alternative forms of saving. The money is to be repaid to the taxpayer after the war.

It was originally planned that employers in collecting the income tax from their employees by pay envelope deductions, should include one-third of the refundable portion of the tax for the lower bracket incomes and a lesser proportion for the higher brackets.

The taxpayer would settle with the Revenue Department for the remaining two-thirds. If the taxpayer could show that he paid more than the two-thirds in alternative savings the difference would be refunded by the income tax division, and if he paid less he would have to pay the shortage direct to the Government.

It is understood that announcement of this plan has brought a great number of letters to the finance and Revenue departments, complaing that such a procedure would be an extreme hardship on the taxpayer.

It was understood today that Finance Minister Ilsley and Mr. Gibson have appreciated these complaints and will ease the procedure.

One report is that they are considering a plan that no deductions for the refundable tax will be made at the source if the employee files a statement with the employer that his insurance and mortgage payments are equal to the refundable tax.

While there was no definite word they have decided on this procedure it seemed pretty definite they would announce some changes to make the collection less of a burden than first was planned.

Centenary W.A. Holds To Aid Deficit Fund

ROSENEATH, July 17.—(ENS).—The W. A. meeting of Centenary United church was held in Mrs. Manassa Browns home. Mrs. D. Timlin, president, was in the chair.

The most important feature of the meeting, financially, was the response to the roll call, the members placing donations in sales department. They were many and varied and included towels, aprons, dresser covers, soap, china, and a cushion. Mrs. I. Skuce, in charge of this department, disposed of most of the articles, adding a tidy sum to the treasury.

It was decided to make a donation towards the United Church of Canada deficit in the form of war saving certificates.

Set June '41 Price For Most Soaps

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP).—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced today that some changes have been made in a previous board order setting manufacturers' maximum prices for soap.

The original order dated last March, applied maximum prices of June, 1941, rather than prices in the basic period, Sept. 15 to Oct. 11 last, to a list of groceries specified in an accompanying schedule.

It included "soap (laundry and toilet; cakes, flakes and powders)." This is deleted from the latest order and the following words substituted:

"Soap of all kinds except liquid, granulated, powdered and flake soaps; granulated, powdered and flake soaps when packaged and sold by the manufacturer in cartons not exceeding five pounds net weight when packed."

Manufacturers are required, effective July 17, to revert to June prices "only with respect to sale of soap coming within the foregoing description," the board said.

French Patriots Machine Gunned

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—The CBC monitor station here Thursday picked up a broadcast by a spokesman for General de Gaulle, who said he had received word by underground channels that hundreds of thousands of French patriots turned out in Marseillers to celebrate the anniversary of the Bastille.

He said the police tried to stop them but they broke through police cordons and place V-shaped wreaths on monuments throughout the city. As they passed the United States consulate they shouted "Long Live America" and "Hang Laval" and "Don't go to work for Germany."

The spokesman said as crowds dispersed machine gun crews drove up in lorries and opened fire on the people, and four were killed. Laval has ordered the people of Marseilles to stop demonstrations at the mass funeral today. Speaking over the BBC from London, the spokesman for the fighting French asked the people to observe a minute's silence at the time of the funeral. He also asked the French people to march past monuments and deposit wreaths at that hour.

HYDRO POWERS ONTARIO'S BITS and PIECES PROGRAM

WHAT "BITS AND PIECES" MEANS
In scores of Ontario plants "bits and pieces" are being manufactured for war weapons, some parts very minute others weighing many tons are being cut, moulded, machined and finished. These are finally assembled into fighting units at central points. That's "bits and pieces" production. Hydro powers these plants. As a further contribution to the war Hydro's own maintenance equipment when not required for its own use is producing "bits and pieces." Hydro makes men, minutes and materials count for more—provides power to help Ontario produce about half of Canada's total of war weapons.

• Men and materials, machines and power—all on a tireless, almost timeless schedule. These are the factors that have turned Ontario's wonderful "bits and pieces" production into a well co-ordinated, steady flow of war materials.

Hydro-Electric energy is the driving force that is enabling hundreds of Ontario plants, from little village machine shops to huge industries, to be dedicated to the great crusade for Victory.

In excess of 2,000,000 horsepower of electrical energy is being supplied in Ontario by Hydro—approximately one half is now harnessed to war production. More is demanded. New plants are being projected.

NOW—let us all conserve Hydro by "bits and pieces" in our own homes and offices, to keep Ontario's wartime "bits and pieces" program going full blast. Every man and every machine must be kept working every minute.

HOW TO SAVE ELECTRICITY
Turn off electric lights when not needed. Use the electric range sparingly. Everyone must resolve to save some electricity in some way every day. Every unit of electrical energy that can be saved for wartime purposes will help.

Save HYDRO

MARSHALL REGAINS MEN'S TITLE

Shades Thomas By A Hand In 200-Yd. Swim

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STE. ADELE, Que., July 18 (CP)—Dominion swimming and diving records are expected to take another beating today when competitors from various parts of Canada and the United States take part in the more than 20 events remaining to be run off at the Dominion championship meet here.

The competitors started a slam-bang assault on the records last night when opening events of the meet were run off under floodlights in the pool of the Ste. Adele Lodge and Country Club at this Laurentian Mountain resort, about 45 miles north of Montreal.

Three records were broken and another record was set as half of the meet's events, many of them finals, were run off in fast order.

Perhaps the night's most exciting race was the final of the senior men's 200 yards breast stroke, which was won by Allan Marshall of Peterborough, Ont., holder of the Dominion record. Marshall regained the title he lost last year to Aurele Thomas of Montreal by defeating Thomas by not more than a hand's length. Marshall failed however to threaten the record he set two years ago.

Surprise of the night was the victory of Joan Langdon of Vancouver over Lorraine Fischer, New York swimming star, in the final of the senior women's 100-yard breast stroke.

New Women's Record

Marilyn Sahner of New York started the record breaking in the first event when she splashed across the finish line in the senior women's 200 yards free style race.

Miss Sahner clipped one and four-tenths seconds off the existing record of 2.20.8 as she finished ahead of Irene Barr of Hamilton, Ont., and Kay Gordon of Winnipeg.

Record for the senior women's 150 medley relay race was broken twice in quick succession as first and second heats of the event were staged. The New York Women's Swimming Association team knocked almost two seconds off the old record in finishing ahead of Hamilton and Winnipeg quartets.

In the second heat, a Montreal team knocked two-tenths of a second off the record in edging out Vancouver and Winnipeg teams.

Another relay record was smashed in the final of the junior women's 150-yard medley race, won by a Toronto High Park foursome. The Toronto gals finished in 1:43.6 to knock two-tenths of a second off the old record.

A record was set for the final of the junior women's 150 yards medley swim by Margie Thompson of Hamilton who beat out Peggy Rowley and Isobel Rooney, both of Montreal. Miss Thompson finished in 2:08.6 to establish the first record time of the event.

Six Lengths To The Good At Odds Of 25 To 1

Fires Hole In One But It's Wrong Green

By HAL WALKER

TORONTO, July 18 — (CP). — They're telling weird tales in the locker rooms of our golf clubs these days. And small wonder if you consider the evidence.

Exhibit A concerns Glen Mawr where C. E. "Bung" Norris scored a hole-in-one that Mr. Ripley may get around to chronicling some day. The hefty ex-Argonaut and Don Rowing Club oarsman stepped lightly to the 18th tee at his home course the other day and smacked a wood shot 250 yards. While he and his playing partners watched transfixed, the ball rolled on to the 14th green bordering the 18th fairway.

The ball rolled right into the cup for a hole-in-one. BUT IT WON'T COUNT BECAUSE IT WAS THE WRONG GREEN.

How about that?

The class will now consider Exhibit B, and this little dram was enacted at Summit. Lionel Ross tels how George Meyers who has been golfing for 20 years got the thrill of all thrills when he canned his tee shot on the 139-yard 17th hole. Meyers, playing in company with Dr. Glassey, pitched a seven iron to the green and the ball caught the cup, rolled around, and finally fell in.

The ball dropped on flight. Never touched the green.

How about THAT?

Glen Mawr has had three aces on the same hole this week and the latest member of the "I Did It Club" is R. A. Towler who made good with a seven iron on the 115-yard 8th hole. The shot was witnessed by A. H. Barber and J. T. Dandy.

Hugh Borthwick advises that the entry of Stan Horne, Montreal Islemere star, is on hand for the Millar Trophy match play event at Islington next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Horne has never won the Millar, but was a finalist in 1937, bowing to Gordie Brydson the cigar-smoking Mississauga pro.

Bill Chinery, now on active service, has forwarded his entry. The ex-York Downs player has been granted leave of absence to take part in the Millar.

Les Franks, Islington pro, has been shooting well lately. At Oakdale the other day in a tune-up match, Les was putting for a 69 on the eighteenth. He was 33 out and 37 in.

Borthwick also announced something new and entirely different will go hand in hand with the Millar this year. On Friday and Saturday the final two days of the tourney, the pros will give demonstrations of different types of shots. This educational eature will be under the direction of Gord Brydson.

TORONTO, July 18.—(CP)—The Army has broken up many otherwise important sports combinations to help build the winning combination our country needs most. There are no tears, naturally, because sports people are first to admit they are strictly auxiliary units in a country at war. But worth noting is the impending split between Jockey C. W.—dubbed Can't Win for some obscure reason—Smith and the great gingerbread horse, Ten to Ace.

Smith has ridden Ten to Ace in every race the swift Ontario-bred has started. Eight times the Ace was first, once thrid, once last. Now, simultaneously with word that Ten to Ace is a fit horse again, comes the information that Smith has received his Army call.

In a few days, or perhaps weeks, Ten to Ace will begin with another rider his atempt to wipe out the memory of his overpowering defeat in the Canadian Derby. He has been galloped daily since returning East from Winnipeg and probably will return to the races at Hamilton early in August.

The back rooms still ring with arguments about the action of western race officials in cancelling betting on the Canadian Derby. The boys in the back room have criticized the no-bet move,, calling it a dodge by track officials (Winnipeg Polo Park) to escape paying off a huge minus pool. They point out in contrast—and with unassailable logic—that track officials do not stand by the mutuel wickets and implore bettors to lay off horses that can't win.

They say that in the one race when everyone believed a horse couldn' lose—Ten to Ace in the Derby—the track broke faith with its hungry faithful by sabotaging what seemed like a hot chance to puck up a few honest nickels, if nothing more. The argument is strictly theory, of course, because with the defeat of Ten to Ace the punters would have been hungrier than ever which is hunger to an astronomical degree.

But the first official statement to hand indicates the back room boys are all wrong. It comes from Charles Roe, assistant manager of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders and Racing Association, through Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott.

Roe said: "There would probably have been $25,000 wagered through the mutuels on the Derby and of this amount $20,000 would have been on Ten to Ace. Ten to Ace was a sick horse when he arrived in Winnipeg and...had never gone over the mile and one-quarter Derby route. The officials, knowing that most of the money would have been bet on Ten to Ace and almost certain that the horse was not himself, called off the betting in the interests of the public. As it turned out we made the proper move."

There you have both sides. Mr. Roe appears to have a slight edge on the back room boys, in light of the race's result. But had Ten to Ace won, Canadians who buy mutuel tickets or bet with the books as part of their daily routine would be screaming like panthers for months to come.

COBOURG, July 18 (ENS) — St. Michael's Girl Guides were defeated by the Ontario Hospital girls by the score of 23-17 in softball game played here. The three St. Michael's pitchers, Betty Martin, Jean Fleming and Mary Hogan all took turns on the mound but were unable to stem the tide of the hard-hitting hospital nine.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR ARMY?

(21) LIGHT RECOVERY TRAILER

This may look something like an oversize farm wagon with pneumatic tires. Actually, however this strange-looking vehicle is a L ght Recovery Trailer—a most important piece of equipment in the prosaic but necessary job of transporting immobilized caterpillar-tread battle wagons from the field of conflict to a shop behind the lines where they can be repaired.

The principal use of the Light Recovery Trailer is the carrying of Universal Carriers and other tracked vehicles when they have been immobilized by brokendown tracks or other serious damage. The Ordnance Corps and Army Service Corps are the branches that handle this piece of equipment in Canada's fast-growing mechanized Army.

An English-made vehicle is the one shown above. A similar looking type but with a different style springing arrangement is being made in Canada. On the front end of the vehicle — at the right of the picture—are hand-winches used for hauling a tracked vehicle up the ramp which can be lowered and raised at the rear end.

Children's Day At Belmont W.I.

HAVELOCK, July 18 (ENS)—The July meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon, with a somewhat smaller attendance than usual for this jolly children's event. The president, Mrs. Eric Ellis, presided for the business session. The roll call took on a humorous slant and was "Whistle, hum, sing or pay a 5c fine," and from those who were not musical, quite a collection of nickels was gathered. An all-day quilting bee with a pot-luck dinner will be held next Wednesday. A bingo party to raise funds to send cigarettes to Belmont boys overseas will be held on Friday, July 24, and the president and secretary were appointed to buy prizes for same. Tickets have been made for a draw on a wool blanket to further aid in the war work. A short program was given, consisting of humorous readings, solos and community singing.

The children's part of the program took the form of out-door sports and results were:—

Girls' race, under 5 years, Lillian Toms.

Boys' race, under 5 years, Eric Scott.

Girls' race, under 6 years, Mavis Ellis.

Warkworth Bowlers Visit Hastings

HASTINGS, July 18 —(ENS)— In an attempt to partially replace the Trent Valley Bowling League, defunct this season because of war conditions, members of the Hastings and Warkworth clubs got together for a friendly tournament on the local greens Friday evening.

The 40-odd bowlers from the two villages were split up into ten rinks, each containing two players from the respective clubs. Winning skips were C. Churchley with 29 points, W. Phillip and Dr. Allen tied at 24 points. The three winning teams were skipped by visiting players.

Local club members hope to return the informal visit next week.

Land Of Egypt Described To Kiwanians

Memories of the beautiful and unusual places seen when he was attached to the 1st Seaforth Highlanders and the 33rd Punjabis from 1916 to 1920 in the Near and Middle East, gave Kiwanian Tom Rodger the material for a fascinating address illustrated with pictures, at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis, Friday.

Starting with Alexandria, the main British naval base today in the Mediterranean, which was the best harbor of any place on the North African coast, he told something of its past history. It was he said, in 330 B.C. by Alexander the Great, and although a very old city has been destroyed a couple of times since it was built. Around 1500, it was razed almost to the ground by the invading Turks.

Passing on to Cairo, so well known for its pyramids, the speaker said that it was a city of about 1,000,000 people, and that it was a very old city and in parts a very modern one. The pyramids are close to Cairo, and the first one can be reached by taking a street car. The famous Sphinx, which is situated between the first and second pyramids is carved out of solid rock and is at least 56 feet high. In the whole group of magnificent stone monuments, there are probably twenty-five pyramids, Mr. Rodger said.

Then moving south 300 miles to Luxor on the bank of the Nile, he touched upon the older part of Egypt. One of the outstanding architectural works, a monument to Rameses I, is covered with the most wonderfully preserved hieroglyphics and he considered it a most amazing thing, the way in which dragomen had the translations down pat, when they are as a rule very illiterate. Across the Nile from Luxor stands the magnificent ruin of the Temple of Karnak. At one time these two were connected by a tunnel, but that no longer exists. The speaker said that he considered that Egypt had one of the most excellent railroads in the world, even though it is not the speediest.

A very lovely picture of the mountains of Thebes delighted the audience. It is at the base of these mountains that the famous monarch, Tutankhamen, who ruled somewhere around 1200 B.C. was buried. His tomb was discovered in recent years. Near this also is the Rameseum, the most famous of all Egyptian buildings, which was a statue of Ramese II. During the Persian invasion, it was knocked down, but the remnants are still worth visiting, he said.

"Freetown, Sierre Leon, is now a very desirable base, but it was formerly known as the white man's grave. It has one of the most uncomfortable climates in the world, but it is a paradise for soldiers. The soldiers never carry their own guns, but have natives who tramp along behind them and do the job of carrying. When a man gets to the position of sergeant, he goes one better and has four men to carry him around."

Discussing briefly the cities of Capetown and Durban, he passed on to Bombay, which with one of the finest harbors in the world, has been compared to Naples Bay for its scenic beauty. It is here, Mr. Rodger said, that one can notice the wonderful change from the Occident to the Orient. Thousands of natives throng this city representing every tribe in India, such as the Jats, Bengalese and Sikhs, and the only way they can be told apart is by their different headdress. The temperture in Bombay averages around 100 degrees and the humidity makes it a very trying climate.

Natives Educated

"One of the most interesting places is the city of Lahore, where Rudyard Kipling got his first start in the reporting line. Many of the natives receive a free education at Christian College, and when they jobs after graduating, they immediately begin to go full speed ahead in criticizing the way the British Government is runinng things."

The lovely Taj Mahal, with its white marble ornamentation, which took five years of slave labor to build, and the engineering wonder of the Kyber Pass, where the great military encampments are set up, came in for their share of praise. Describing one fort near the frontier, Mr. Rodger said that it was capable of holding 1,000 men for six months with sufficient supplies, and also that it had a year's supply of water in the cellars, underground. Giving a personal experience as an example, he said that frontier soldiers had amazing vision. During the Afghanistan campaign in 1919, while the British troops were advancing, even with his powerful field glasses he could distinguish nothing before them. But the native soldiers could, and described in minute detail the position and number of their enemies.

He touched on the high spots of the Near and Middle East, and mentioned particularly the city of Amara, with its extremely primitive conditions, and everlasting sand. It was described as an Arab city larger than Peterborough, which was lively rifle-stealing centre. Even the hanging post outside the city gates, where a few Arabs were punished every morning in the hope of teaching the rest a salutary lesson, failed to make any impression on the thieves.

The speaker was briefly introduced by Stan Longhurst, and the vote of thanks was moved on behalf of the Club by Ted Pridham.

Closer Work Check

EDMONTON, July 18 — (CP). — Efficient use of available farm labor to meet the present shortage of field workers is urged in a report issued by the Alberta Department of Agriculture. It offers three solutions to keep up the production of essential commodities — postponement of non-production jobs; more work per hour and to work longer hours.

Giant Cargo Plane Seen As Answer To U-Boats

Members of the newly created air cargo committee of the U.S. war production board board the huge flying ship Mars for an hour-long ride. Glen L. Martin, builder of the huge plane, accompanied them. The Mars was described by the officials as the winning card in the battle against enemy submarines, because of the ability to carry large cargoes.

Jap Occupation Of Aleutians Hurts U.S. Pride

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 18. — (CP). —With public attention focussed on the fighting on the Russian front in Egypt and in China, the United States navy is saying little these days about one of its minor problems—how to get the Japanese out of the outer Aleutian Islands.

It is still the official view in Washington that the Japanese occupation of Attu and Kiska Islands is more of a blow to national pride than to the war effort of Canada or the United States and that it represents no immediate threat against Alaska or the continent.

Many official sources in Washington seem touchy about the whole thing—they would be just as glad if everybody forgot about the Aleutians for a while because they don't like to admit their present inability to retake the islands and they don't like to be reminded that the Japanese hold a tiny part of the Western Hemisphere, speaking geographically.

Foul Weather

It is generally agreed among airmen that the foulest weather in the world grips the outer Aleutians at this time of the year—low ceilings, fogs, rain and 50-mile-an-hour winds. Reconnaissance flights over the rocky, barren islands are generally useless and united States army and navy bombers, when they locate shipping, seldom are able to report what happened to their bombs.

Although there has been no official intimation, it has generally been understood that Canadian airmen have not taken part in these flights over the Japanese-held islands, their work being confined to another sector in the North Pacific.

Meanwhile, Washington is living from day to day in the expectation that Japan will strike at Siberia, once Tokyo becomes convinced the Germans have the Russian armies rocking on their heels on the Eastern front. If the Japanese strike there—and there are reports that at least 350,000 troops have been concentrated in Manchukuo for that purpose—the strategic importance of storm-bound Attu and Kiska may change, particularly because of Kiska's fine harbor, capable of being used as a submarine and seaplane base.

Midnight Shows Out

Hamilton, Ont., July 18 (CP)

CHIEF Constable Thomas A. Brown warned today that any Hamilton theatres opening for Sunday midnight shows would be doing so at their own risks and that a summons would be issued to "each and every" theatre operating midnight shows.

The situation arose from the passing of a by-law June 3 by the Board of Police Commissioners prohibiting theatres and places of amusement from holding midnight shows beginning at 12.05 a.m. Monday. The question was carried to Osgoode Hall, Toronto, where Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland yesterday adjourned sine die a motion on behalf of a local theatre manager that the by-law be quashed.

Ilsley Expecting Spinster Howl

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Financ Minister Ilsley anticipated a new taxation grievance in the House of Commons yesterday, but at the same time said there was nothing to be done about it.

He said it had been necessary to amend proposed income tax rates to give an inventive to married women to remain in employment. For taxation purposes the married woman earning more than $660 a year will be considered a single person while her husband will be treated as a married person.

"I do not want to raise grievances for people," said Mr. Ilsley, "but of course the person who has the grievance now is the single woman, who sees working beside her a married woman who has a husband to support her, and whose husband is getting an allowance on the assumption that he has a home and is supporting his wife when actually he is not supporting her, because she is working.

"We cannot help it; we have to get these people at work and keep them at work, so we had to make that change."

The Minister forecast he would receive "plenty" of complaining letters from single women.

Arthur G. Slaght (Lib., Parry Sound): "Would it be all right for the Minister to table some of those letters?"

Mr. Ilsley: "Yes, I think I could table them all without embarrassment."

Mrs. Cora Casselman (Lib., Edmonton East) had said that if a married woman was in employment she was doing a double job, looking after her work and her home, or employed extra help, perhaps a maid or a nurse for the children.

"If we get any complaints in this connection I will send an excerpt from Hansard of the remarks of the honorable member from Edmonton East," said Mr. Ilsley.

Havelock's WMS Entertained At Round Lake

HAVELOCK, July 18.—(ENS).—On Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Wing entertained the members of the United Church Missionary Society at their Round Lake cottage.

Although the weather was considerably cooler, boating and swimming were much enjoyed by the younger set. Indoors several games of crokinole and Chinese checkers were the chief attraction. A bountiful picnic supper was served to about seventy members and visitors. The W.M.S. pianist, Mrs. Harry Watson, presided at the piano for community singing.

A rather painful accident befell Clifford White on Thursday noon at the rock quarry, three miles east of here. Mr. White was drilling, when the bit broke, and a heavy part of the machine dropped on his left foot.

Dr. D. J. Holdcroft was called and it is feared the big toe is broken. At any rate he will probably be off work for a month.

On Tuesday a very pleasant social evening was held at the home of Mrs. O. Parcels, when Mesdames Keith Chiles, Fred Hill and D. Rylott were joint hostesses for a presentation to Mrs. C. McLean, Kingston (nee Winnifred Chiles of town) a bride of early July.

The rooms were appropriately decorated with pink and white streamers and baskets of cut flowers. During the evening court whist was enjoyed and the first prize was won by Mrs. R. Campney and the consolation award by Miss Vivian Gordon. The guest of honor was escorted beneath a large white bell in the archway and presented with an aqua-green occasional chair by Mrs. D. Rylott, while Mrs. Fred Hill read a suitable address. Mrs. McLean thanked her friends in a neat little speech, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Sawdust Rationing

VANCOUVER July 18 — (CP). — Percy Bengough, secretary of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, said yesterday that its Fuel Committee considers rationing the only solution for shortages of sawdust and wood for next winter. An increase in sawdust and wood consumption together with a decrease in supply and transportation services, leaves rationing as "the only hope," Bengough said.

THEATRE HIGHLIGHTS

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, July 18 — (CP). — A professional partnership formed in Toronto 20 years ago is largely responsible to-day for the lavish stage productions of the world's largest theatre, the Radio City Music Hall.

Leon Leonidoff is the Music Hall's senior producer and Florence Rogge associate producer and director of the Corps de Ballet. In 1922 these two first came together as co-directors of the Russian School of the Ballet in Toronto. A decade later, after several years of separate endeavor, both joined the Music Hall organization at its inception.

In the ten years in which the Radio City Music Hall has built up its reputation as the "showplace of the nation," upwards of 55,000,000 customers have paid to see the colorful stage extravaganzas and first-run movies in which the Music Hall specializes.

To Leonidoff and his petite, fair-haired colleague goes a large measure of credit for the Music Hall's sustained box office appeal. Some 350 dancers, singers and entertainers work under their direction. An entirely fresh show is turned out every three or four weeks.

This week the Music Hall broke all attendance records when "Mrs. Miniver," movie version of Jan Struthers' novel of wartime Britain, entered its seventh week. It is the first time in the huge theatre's 10-year history that a movie has run so long.

Incidentally, a Canadian actor is the star of "Mrs. Miniver"—Walter Pigeon, born in East Saint John, N. B. Co-starring with Pigeon is the English actress Greer Garson, who became acquainted with Canadians in February when she visited Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal to participate in the victory loan drive.

In the Music Halls Corps de Ballet are two Canadian dancers who learned their art at the Leonidoff-Rogge School in Toronto. A leading soloist of the group, as well as its asociate director, is red-haired Hilda Eckler who danced at Hart House, the Uptown Theatre, and Shea's in her native city before moving up to the big time in Manhattan.

The second Leonidoff-Rogge graduate in the troupe is Clarice Goldner, born in Montreal, but a Toronto girl from the age of 13. She, too, danced professionally at the Uptown Theatre before coming on to New York.

Micheline Lane, third Canadian member of the Ballet danced in Montreal under her family name of Michelin Petolas.

In the Rockettes, internationally celebrated chorus line, is pretty Judy Sammons of Toronto, who danced in floor shows at the Royal York and King Edward Hotels before coming to Manhattan five years ago.

Orioles Wallop Jersey City

By The Associated Press

There's many a pitcher breathing easier now that Frank Kelleher, one of Newark's big hitsmiths, has graduated to Cincinnati Reds.

The big Californian was leading the International League in runs batted in, runs scored and home runs at his departure.

Kelleher enjoyed a good season last year with the Bears, leading the loop in four-masters with 37; runs batted in, 125; and runs scored, 106. He also received the most bases on balls, 120.

This season Kelleher was improving his 1941 record. With the race about half over, he already had driven in 84 mates while scoring 79 times himself.

Kelleher will be joined in Cincinnati with an International League rival, for the Reds have recalled Catcher Al Lakeman from Syracuse Chiefs.

Only one game was played in the league yesterday and Jersey City Giants took it on the chin again, dropping a 5-1 decision to Baltimore Orioles.

Elmer Burkart set down the Giants with seven hits as his mates pounded Bobby Coombs and Warren pickell for 11. Del Jones and Bob Lemon led the assault with three hits each, with one of Lemon's being a three-bagger.

Rizzuto Poles Grand Slam; Browns Take A's

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Yankees are turning the thumbscrews on the rest of the American League again with four of the circuit's finest pitchers furnishing most of the pressure.

The world champions have won six games in a row and the last four of these were credited to Hank Borowy, Atley Donald, Ernie Bonham and Spud Chandled, who among them have won 34 games and lost only nine this season.

Of their last four games, two were shutouts and one was a one-run affair—the 8-1 triumph over Cleveland Indians yesterday.

Chandler, in winning his 10th game against two defeats, limited the Tribe to six hits and had the benefit of four double plays as the slick-fielding Yanks boosted their total of doule killings to 119 in 86 games. The champs showed disdain for Cleveland's only run which came in the fourth when the Yanks already were leading 5-0. Ken Keltner doubled and came around unmolsted on two infield outs.

The game really was decided in the first inning when Phil Rizzuto homered with the bases loaded. Later Red Rolfe hit his third circuit clout in five days and both he and Rizzuto also hit triples. Joe DiMaggio singled in the seventh to extend his batting streak to 14 games.

After Rizzuto's grand slam opener, much of the interest of the fans concerned the Indians' wrangling with the umpire. It started in the second inning over an infield fly on which the Yanks made a double play and broke out again in the fifth when the umpires would not let Roy Weatherly pinch hit for Pitcher Al mith because they said he had been ordered from the field during the previous argument.

Athletics Drop a Pair

Chester Laabs continued his sensational slugging at Philadelphia as St. Louis Browns captured a double-header from the Athletics 4-2 and 11-1 ,to run their winning streak to eight games.

Laabs hit a homer with one on and a double in the first game and another home run with one on and a triple with two on in the nightcap. This gave him 17 home runs and 64 runs batted in to date, more than he made in the entire 1941 season. He has hit seven homers and driven in 22 runs in the last week.

Boston Red Sox finally nudged out Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 12 innings to keep from losing any additional ground to the Yanks. The game was a picture duel between Johnny Humphries and Broadway Charley Wagner with a single by Ted Williams eventually deciding it.

Brooklyn Dodgers piled on Chicago Cubs again for a 10-5 victory to take three of the four games in their rowdy series. Claude Passeau returned to the mound for the Cubs on one day's rest in an effort to stop the National League champions, but was belted out in the midst of a five-run fifth inning and suffered his seventh defeat. He has won 13, more than any other major league pitcher.

Brooklyn saved its top talent for the series opening today with the second-place St Louis Cardinals. As a result Schoolboy Rowe, who didn't have a decision in the National League got a chance to start the Chicago finale and obtained his first victory, although he had to have help from Ed Head in the last two innings.

The Cardinals slaughtered Philadelphia Phils 10-1 with Howard Krist pitching five-hit ball and his teammates making 13 safeties as well as taking advantage of four Philadelphia errors.

New York Giants overwhelmed Pittsburg Pirates 11-2 with a 20-hit offensive led by Billy Jurges, who hit a homer, double and two singles. Hal Schumacher and Ace Adams limited the Bucs to six hits.

In the first twilight game ever played in Washington, the Senators blanked Detroit Tigers 3-0 as Buck Newsom limited his former mates to four hits and shaded Hal Newhouser in a hurling duel. Newhouser also pitched four-hit ball and went the first six innings without giving up a blow, but the Senators clipped him for three hits and all their runs in the eighth inning.

Expect 30,000 Out As Mori Track Opens In Jersey

By SID FEDOR
Associated Press Sports Writer

CAMDEN, N.Y., July 18.—(AP).— The gay nineties go modern in these parts today as Garden State Park, a beautiful, spacious racetrack thrown up on the edge of the South Jersey farmlands, brings regular horse-racing back to this state for the first time in half a century.

Not since the roaring meeting at nearby Gloucester before the turn of the century, with its gaudy gambling and fighting and noise, has a regular flat-racing track operated in the Garden State.

And as the vanguard of an expected crowd of 30,000 began to reach this new horse park for the 2:30 p.m., E.D.T. post-time, in spite of transportation difficulties, the old-timers sat around and marvelled at how times have changed.

For Eugene Mori, an automobile salesman from Vineland, a community some 40 miles away known chiefly for the eggs it hatches, has built an up-to-the-minute layout for which he can take a pat on the back in spite of criticism this is no time to be tossing money into such things as race tracks.

Priorities cut heavily into the available construction material since he and his associates conceived the idea last November. And some local opposition has provided a few headaches.

But he went right along and, while workmen were still driving a nail here and laying a piece of sod there and sweeping up building debris at another spot today, he has a plant, constructed on Georgian Colonial designs, that will be a standout when it's polished up. Altogether, $1,500,000 has been tossed into it to the present.

It seats 10,500 customers.

Although no railroad trains stop within three miles of the place, buses go by only on scheduled runs and taxicabs in Philadelphia, seven miles away, have been forbidden to run fares from the Quaker City, offircials figure there'll be enough folks getting to the place by getaway day, Sept. 12, to give the state $1,000,000 as its "cut" of the mutuel handle. Today, Mori wouldn't be surprised to see the boys and girls toss in more than $500,000 in the eight-race card.

The feature event, the $6,000 Camden handicap, a six-furlong sprint, has attracted a field of 16.

Joe DiMaggio cracked out three hits—one a ninth-inning home run with the bases loaded—to pace New York Yankees to a 5-1 victory over Bob Feller Cleveland Indians' pitching prodigy five years ago today. Feller allowed seven hits and struck out seven but failed to stop the Yankees' hard-hitting outfielder.

Woe Is Me

A basket of peanuts, a nice spot at Forges Field, Pittsburg, and then no game because of the weather. Yep, that's sad, Salesman Jimmy O'Connell, but tomorrow's another day.

Entries Aplenty For Mixed Foursome

Entries are coming in fast for the mixed two-ball foursome to be played on Sunday afternoon and evening at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club, and all that is need to make the tournament a top success is good golf weather.

Don McIntyre, who with Mrs. C. G. Graham is accepting entries, stated today that post entries would be accepted up to two o'clock on Sunday afternoon, but he hopes most competitors will get their names on the line before that time. Prizes will be war savings stamps.

Every year the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union provides a certain sum of money for war relief purposes, and in order to raise the sum required, the women's division of each affiliated golf club is given a quota. All the proceeds from this mixed two ball foursome will be turned over to the ladies' division of the Peterborough Club to aid them in reaching the money quota allowed to them. Thus competitors can have a fine afternoon of their favorite sport and at the same time make a valuable contribution to the war effort.

First R.C.A.F. Squadron Overseas Has Proud Record

Veterans of Canada's first squadron of flying fighters to go into action in Britain, these officers and their fellow "originals" have established impressive records in combat. It is just two years since they landed on British soil and in the Battle of Britain and the long daylight sweeps over German-held territory they have inflicted heavy losses. In the UPPER photo is Group Captain Ernest A. McNab, D.F.C., pictured in his fighter aircraft during the Battle of Britain, when as a squadron leader he was in command of the squadron. The three officers in the LOWER photos are: (LEFT) Squadron Leader A. Dean Nesbitt, D.F.C., another leader of the squadron; (CENTRE) Squadron Leader Keith Hodson of London, Ont., present commanding officer, and (RIGHT) Wing Commander W. R. McGregor, D.F.C., who succeeded Group Captain McNab.

Six D.F.C.'s Won By Men Of Canadian Squadron Who Went Into Action Against Nazis In 1940

By FLYING OFFICER BASIL DEAN, R.C.A.F.

LONDON.—Canada's first fighter squadron to proceed overseas—the only R.C.A.F. unit to serve during the Battle of Britain—has just celebrated its second anniversary. It was two years ago in June that the squadron landed in Great Britain.

Since that day, it has carved out a fine name for itself in the Battle of Britain. It accounted for a considerable number of German raiders, and since then took a leading part in the great daylight sweeps over Northern France which Fighter Command has been staking during the summers of 1941 and 1942.

Today it is commanded by Squadron Leader Keith Hodson, of London, Ont., former chief instructor at the service flying school in Moncton, N.B., with 2,000 flying hours in his log book. A former commanding officer, who was moved recently, is Squadron Leader A. G. Douglas, an R.A.F. pilot who was awarded the D.F.C. for his work with the squadron. Two other members of the squadron got D.F.C.'s at the same time—Flight Lieut. Eugene "Jeep" Neal of Quebec City and Flight Lieut. Ian "Ormie" Ormston, of Montreal. Seven decorations in all have been awarded to members of the squadron.

Two Squadrons Merge

The squadron was born from the amalgamation of two pre-war Canadian squadrons, No. 1, which was based at Calgary, nd No. 115, which had its headquarters at Montreal. The unification came at Dartmouth, across the bay from Halifax, at the end of May, 1940, just before the squadron came overseas.

The boys first got together on the boat early in June and by the time they landed at an English port were fairly well acquainted. First they were at "A" for a couple of days after landing, and then went to a station in the vicinity of "B" for three weeks. July 7 saw them at "X," not far from London. It was at the latter station they say, that "we found out what the war was all about."

A day or two before they were schedulde to leave for still another station, Jerry came over to leave his visiting card with the Canadians.

"That night we really got a pasting," the veteran members of the squadron recall. There were no casualties, however ,although a bomb went right through the orderly room. Some members of the squadron will tell you that this bomb was the only "good" one the Nazis have dropped in the whole war. It destroyed, it seems, many squardon records, including the crime sheets. All petty offences anyone had committeed prior to that date, therefore, were wiped out and forgotten.

The squadron moved on to another station according to schedule, however ,and it was at this new station, August 26, that it first went into combat as a unit. A few days previously Squadron Leader (now Group Captain), Ernest McNab, who later won the D.F.C., went on an operational trip with another squadron "just to see what it was like," and managed to shoot down an enemy aircraft. The first action as a squadron, however, was on August 26 and it was the date they lost their first pilot, FO. R. L. Richards.

Three Bombers Downed

It was a grand record for the first time out, however. The squadron was ordered to intercept 25 enemy bombers raiding Britain, and they did so with a vengeance. They destroyed three DO215's and damaged three others, and pretty well broke up the formation.

In the show that day were a number of pilots whose names have since become bywords in Canada in this war. There were Flight Liuetenants G. R. McGregor, A. Dean Nesbitt and V. B. Corbett, and Flying Officers Jean Paul Desloges, H. de Molson and D. B. Russell. Including the squadron leader, six of these men now wear the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Another big day in the life of the squadron was September 27. On that date, in repeated combat, the squadron's score was 11 enemy aircraft destroyed, one probable and three damaged. Only one Canadian was lost, FO. O. J. Paterson. A sad day was October 27, when four of the squadron's pilots were lost.

Two of the first Focke-Wulfe 190's shot down by Allied airmen went to the credit of the sqcadron on November 22, when the total score was four destroyed, one probable and four damaged. On that day F.-Lt. Ian Ormston, later to become a flight commander and holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross, got his first enemy aircraft. It was the first aerial combat, too, for another who was to become a flight commander and a D.F.C., F.-Lt. E. L. "Jeep" Neal. FO. H. A. "Hank' Sprague was reported missing in that day's operations, and is now a prisoner of war.

Then on February 12 of this year the squadron took part in the "Scharnhorst do" up the English Channel, and in this affair raised a score of two destroyed and two damaged. And although Jerry has become less and less anxious to meet Canadian and British airmen in combat, the squadron's score has steadily mounted. Many times this spring and early summer they have gone out over the Channel or over France without seeing an enemy, and other times he has fled home before the Canadians have been within firing distance, but still our squadron keeps at it.

Carry on Tradition

While many former members have gone to other squadrons the "newcomers" still carry on. There is Sgt. Don Morrison of Toronto, who has destroyed two enemy aircraft and helped destroy another, besides between two and three damaged on his board. There is Ian Ormston, who destroyed two and helped destroy another, besides a probable and a damaged. And there are many others.

There are two men now officers who have been with the squadron since it came overseas, and probably about 25 airmen. The "originals" among the officers are FO. C. W. Johnson, of Montreal, intelligence officer and FO. A. H. Warner of Calagry, engineer officer. FO. Johnson came overseas as a Leading Aircraftsman, gaining his commission for outstanding work, and FO. Warner was a warrant officer Class 2 when the boat docked. The latter is familiarly known as Igloo Warner by the way, because of a tour in the Eskimo country on photographic survey work with the R. C.A.F. before the war.

Among the airmen who came over with the spuadron and who are still with it are: F.-S. C. J. H. Fisher of Wadena, Sask. F.-S. James Coburn, Edmonton, Sgt. R. G. F. Fair of Black Cape, ue., Sgt. A. L. Kay, Westmount, Que. Sgt. W. C. Gunn of Vancouver, F.-S. J. W. Cantelon, who married a member of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force over here; Sgt. J. Moffat of Regina, and F.-S. J. M. Jacques of Montreal.

The squadron has, of course, had a number of homes since it came to Britain two years ago some very nice and some not so nice. In the latter category the boys remember a winter they spent in northern Britain, a winter all agreed was worse than any they had encountered in Canada. They were quartered in temporary huts, with no electric light. The pipes froze, the snow was feet deep and often the trains to and from the place were blocked for days. Even the highway was cut off, and a trip to any centre meant many hard hours of shovelling. Every one went around bundled to the ears all winter, and many of the lads grew beards, "to keep our faces warm."

In Historic Quarters

On the other side of the picture is a place where the squadron was quartered recently. It was a baronial castle not far from London. Its scores of rooms were lined with Rembrandts and Rubens and other old masters. The staircases were of oak and teak and mahogany, and 10 feet wide First constructed about 1500, the castle in pre-war days was, together with its many acres of grounds, completely self-contained, even to a brewery. Senior officers lived in a room in which Queen Elizabeth often stayed, and many of them bound in parchment, the airmen had a private swimming pool. The library contained some of the earliest books printed, and the music room was as big as the ballroom in many hotels. It was even complete with a ghost.

Many former members of the squadron have gone on to lead squadrons of their own or to responsible staff jobs, and promotions to senior Air Force rank have come to not a few of those who were once the greenest of youngsters. To every man who is in it or has been through it, however, it is "the best squadron in the Royal Canadian Air Force."

Silence To Honor Martyred Polish Women

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Plans are being made for Poles in Canada to observe one minute of silence July 30 in protest against German atrocities on women in Poland and to honor the memory of the "martyred" women.

The Canadian demonstration, being arranged by Poland's minister to Canada, Victor Podoski, will coincide with similar ones in the United Kingdom and Polish organizations elsewhere in the free world.

In Britain a special committee has been organized to plan the silent moment, under chairmanship of Helene Skiorska wife of Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, the Polish prime minister.

"A minute of silence seems on the face of it to be a bit futile," Mr. Podoski said today. "But word that the demonstration is held will get back to Germany. After the arrest of Krakow University professors leading men around the world expressed the strongest criticism of their interment. Within a few months most of them were freed.

"Even the Germans listen."

So, through Polish consulates, the word is going to Polish Canadians that at noon July 30—"the decision is time for the lunch hour so war work doesn't stop," said Mr. Podoski—they should spend one minute in silence.

Winnipeg with its 15,000 Poles, Toronto with 10,000 and Montreal with 8,000 will be the principal centres of protest against the German acts against women, but there are Polish settlements in many other cities—Hamilton, Brantford, St. Catharines, Windsor and Fort William in Ontario; Regina, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver.

All told, Mr. Podoski estimated, there are about 170,000 Polish-speaking persons in Canada.

10 Slot Machines Nabbed In Raid

FORT ERIE, Ont., July 18—(CP)—Headed by Sgt Thomas Wilkinson, the flying squad of the Ontario Provincial Police paid a totally unexpected visit to the adjacent village of Crystal Beach, on Lake Erie, eight miles west of here yesterday afternoon and seized 10 slot machines.

Crystal Beach municipality licenses slot machines at the rate of $300 per year for the first machine and $20 for each additional one The 10 machines were loaded on a truck and taken to Toronto. No charges were laid.

This is the second time the squad has visited this area, two raids on alleged bookmaking establishments being made here on May 6, resulting in one jail sentence and several fines.

Urge School Boys Stay On The Farm

TORONTO, July 18. — (CP). — A special appeal to High School boys, who will shortly complete the 13 weeks on the farm needed to obtain their year's scholastic standing was issued today by Alex MacLaren, Director of the Ontario Farm Service Force.

"Were they to leave now it would seriously impede harvesting operations," Mr. Maclaren said. "The farmers are going to need every bit of help they can get for the next six weeks."

Leamington, Harrow, Blenheim and Pelee Island need 150 boys by August 10 for six weeks for peach, tobacco and potato crop harvesting, as well as general farm work ni Essex and Kent counties.

There are 156 boys in these camps right now, but double that number are needed.

'Peg Mercy Killing

WINNIPEG, July 18.—(CP).—Police today investigated Winnipeg's first "mercy killing."

The victim was Mrs. Elsie L. Davis, 66-year-old legless invalid, who was clubbed to death in her Elmwood suburban home late last night.

George H. Davis, the 68-year-old husband, was taken into custody and is held pending investigation. He made a statement to police shortly after his arrest but its contents were not divulged.

Midway Hero

Major Lofton R. Henderson, 39, U.S. Marine Corps, who, it has been officially announced by the navy in Washington, disdained 'bailing out' of his disabled Marine Corps bombing plane, and instead dived squarely down the funnel of a Jap aircraft carrier, during the dramatic battle for Midway Island.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

MARKET PRICES.
Potatoes opened at 70 cents peck on the Market this morning, the usual tuning up before competition gets to work. Raspberries were 30 and 35 cents a quart, almost in the same class as the black currants since they opened their 1942 season at a decidedly strong 35 cents a box —take it or leave it.

SUB-LIEUTENANTS GRADUATE.
F. M. Tovell of Port Hope was a member of the class of 3 naval sub-lieutenants who graduated to-day from the Royal Canadian Navy Training School at King's College, Halifax. The majority of the grads came from Ontario and Quebec.

PICKING TOMATOES.
John Williams of North Monaghan, cut 3000 bloom stalks from his Sweet William for the florists in Decoration Day and sold an additional eighty-five bouquets. He has been picking ripe tomatoes since Wednesday. One of his plants with its fruit was shown at Joe Chimenti's stand on the market his morning. They are the Stokedale tomato and have responded bountifully to Mr. Williams' care.

NICE GOING
Sure-footedness and nerve are two of the requisites needed by the gentleman who cleans the second floor windows in the Kresge Building. While vigorously engaged in scrubbing the wide panes of glass, all he had between him and the sidewalk was a very narrow stone ledge, and he scrambled around quite at ease, practically hanging on by his toe nails.

WANTS A FRIEND.
One bright eyed little wire-haired pup, who got rather bored with his own company, after his master had left him shut up in the car, was sitting up with his two front paws resting on the window sill and eagerly watching the passing sidealk traffic, early this morning. Nothing escaped his keen gaze as his eyes beamed friendliness on all who passed, even though his head barely cleared the sill.

TOO MUC HWATER.
The rain came down so heavily early Friday evening that the catch basins in East City could not carry the water away. Deep pools formed at several points, and motorists had to drive with caution to avoid trouble. At the east end of Hunter street bridge, half way between Mark street and Driscoll Terrace and half way between Douro and Hunter on Rogers were the bad spots

REMEMBER.
Rotarians are asked to note a change in time at this week's meeting. The regular session will be held at 6.30 p.m. when all the voluntary non-members who assisted at the Carnival will be entertained. There will be no official speaker at the meeting, but a special musical program under the direction of Harry Northrop, assisted by Wes Brown, will be given, along with several local artists, among whom are Jack Smith and Bob Hendry.

WATCH THOSE LIGHTS.
According to an amendment to the Highway Traffic Act, April 1942, it is a breach of the act to make a right turn against a red light without coming to a full stop. It is also a breach of the act to drive through the intersection when the green and amber lights are showing simultaneously. Police have started checking up on the motorists who take a quick right turn without stopping as this is a dangerous habit, and gives pedestrians little chance to get clear.

WANTS AN ACCIDENT.
Cars will not drive themselves, and apparently there are some who forget this fact. A man driving a large blue car down George street Saturday morning had both hands off the wheel while he lit a cigarette. He was also listening to the radio and for his further enjoyment had the morning paper laid across the steering wheel.

BIRDS POISONED.
Reports from the Engleburn Avenue district indicate that some person has set out poison and the song birds are getting it. Ten birds were found dead on one Engleburn lawn and while it is unlikely that the poison was set out for th birds, it is nevertheless taking heavy toll of them. Whoever has done this should remove the poison at once, as there is a severe penalty for this act.

Alert Employees Prevent Fire In Cloth Mill

CAMPBELLFORD, July 18 (ENS) —Alert employees of the Campbellford Cloth Company who spotted the blaze from the second floor of the mill prevented a serious fire here early Friday morning. The blaze had grown spectacular by the time the fire siren sounded and as sleepers looked from windows in the early morning to see flames shooting up into the sky they hurried to the scene and some from the Queen and George street area didn't take time to do more than don a bath robe over pyjamas. By the time the firemen arrived under Chief C. B. Williams, who ordered a line of hose laid, several neighbors of Harry Simpson, whose chicken coop was fast becoming a total loss, had already begun tossing pails of water on a wooden fence that was bringing the flames to within twenty feet of the Simpson house where Mr. Simpson and his three children had been sleeping peacefully only a few minutes earlier. The fact that it was a windless night was all that saved several frame dwellings and the United church, all close enough to be in the danger zone. Cause of the base was not determined and damage was estimated at $100.00.

Two Girls Hurt When Car Skids

Two young Toronto girls were injured, one of them seriously, when the car in which they were passengers, went into a skid and rolled over in the ditch on Highway 28, late Friday afternoon.

Miss Margaret Priestman, age 18, of 8 Cliton street, Toronto is belived to be suffering from a fractured back, between the shoulder blades, and Miss Barbara Cattell, same address, aged 20, is suffering from extensive bruises and shock. Fred Caslick, a boarder at 332 Rubidge street, said to have been the driver of the car, is also in hospital suffering from lacerations of the scalp and shock. Carmen Cross, 302 Margaret avenue, who is believed to be the owner of the car, was slightly injured and was released from the hospital late last evening.

According to Provincial Contable Lloyd McClure who investigated the accident, Fred Caslick was driving west on Highway 28 into the city. He attempted to pass a truck going in the same direction just west of the Water Trough hill, when the car went into a skid, hit the ditch, gave a three quarter roll and smashed into a maple tree.

Penny Box Total Now $1,053 For War Victims

No better example of what the savings of small amounts can accomplish is to be found than the actual fact of what the penny boxes have done on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund. While the percentageof silver coins that are contained in them varies from time to time when collections are made, still there is a law of averages that works out fairly well even in this, and based on this it is quite reasonable to state that about 65 per cent. of the total value of each box when collected is made up of coppers.

From this it can readily be figured that amongst the $1,053.79 which has been collected from this source of income for the fund to date, there must have been over 65,000 of the lowest coins of the realm, let alone all the nickels and dimes which rank next in number to be found in them at collection time. It would of course beimpossible to figure how many separate contributions would comprise this large number of coins, but in many places, particularly at the three theatre in the city, the secretary of the fund has on many occasions been informed that children are as good contributors as anyone, and this in itself is remarkable, for few of them have lots of money to handle, and in many cases to them a few cents means a lot of money.

This one feature has in the aggregate been responsible for one of the largest collective efforts to help the fund along, and therefore has very much justified itself, in spite of the time needed to collect, count and wrap such a large number of coins.

In today's receipts are to be found two such collections, onef rom the Utilities Office on Simcoe street amounting to $4.10, and the other at the Examiner office for $1.05, while both were maong the first to help in this way and have been continuous in so doing ever since. One personal donation of $5.00 is listed from "A Friend", this coming from one who has on quite a number of occasions similarly given to help the people of Britain.

A leter arriving in this city on Friday gives news of the total destruction of three church's in the city of Norwich in the raid made towards the end of June, while one very fine Parish church, the largest in England, seating some 3,000 people located in a celebrated seaside resort on the east coast which the writer on a number of occasions has had the privilege of attending divine service in, and which dates back to the twelfth century has also been totally destroyed. A remarkable feature of this destruction is that the reredos near the High Altar is completely undamaged, the central figure of Our Lord is unmarked, and stands with the right hand raised in blessing. A few ornaments and the Cross from the High Altar, with the musical library were the only things rescued, since the fires started by incendiary bombs set the building wholly ablaze in five minutes, and within 15 minutes the spire collapsed and fell inwards. Such is the civilization of those who seek to conquer us, and in a similar manner though in theopposite way, is one of the reasons why this fund continues to function in the name of the citizens of this city and district to have an off-setting effect against their evil.

War Time Marriages

Ministers have frequently been asked of late what they thought of wartime marriages. There are a large number of them taking place in this city and throughout Canada.

No answer that can be given will cover every case. Some of these marriages appear to be all right, others all wrong. A great deal depends upon the young couple concerned. If they have known one another for sufficient time and have an adequate idea of the implications of marriage, then nothing can be said against them. If, however, they are hastily conceived and undertaken, they will leave an aftermath of misery in the post-war years. Marriage is a life-long union, and some serious thinking and planning are necessary beforehand if it is to prove a successful union.

When young men return after the war they will have a changed outlook upon life. This will come to them as a result of the experiences through which they have passed. It will not be easy for them to fit into the ordinary channels of life. Unless there has been a true and abiding affection established before the war these young husbands will chafe under the discipline of married life.

Wartime marriages will be the subject of the address in Trinity Church on next Sunday night.

HE STAYED AT HOME
CADDINGTON, England— (CP). —A woman told juvenile court authorities in this Bedfordshire town her 10-year-old son who stayed away from school on 98 occasions out of 130 did not like his teacher because she told him he looked like Hitler and "his face was not good enough."

British Girls Go To Backwoods To Relieve Britain's Timber Shortage

One of the most strenuous of Britain's wartime jobs undertaken by women is perhaps the work done under the organization of the Forestry Commission. It is a little known fact that the Forestry Commission has established throughout the British Isles numerous timber camps for women workers of the timber corps, the largest of which is located at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, in the midst of the most delightful countryside. Here the girls live a typical foresters' life, being accommodated in loggers' huts, and feed at the camp kitchen. They undertake the most difficult of forestry tasks, including felling and sawing the giant timbers into various lengths as well as cutting on circular saws in the sawmill attached to the camp. One of the fair timber maids, LEFT, rests on her axe. She was a former silk-stocking maker in London. Two members of the Women's Timber Corps, UPPER RIGHT, carry logs which have been cut into required lengths, while other members, LOWER RIGHT, measure and cut up felled trees.

Nicholls Oval Picnic Centre For Community

Alderman Curtis is taking the members of the parks committee to the Nicholls Oval for an outdoor session, and to look over the ground on which certain changes have been proposed.

It is understood that the Canadian General Electric Company intends to obtain permanent accommodation for their picnic which they have developed into a big community affair. Their first choice is the Oval, but if it is not available with facilities required they would go elsewhere, even if they had to buy a property.

The company has to spend considerable money every year putting up temporary stands and so on, and they have become so pleased with the success of their picnic that they wish to provide accommodation for their thousands of employees and their families. It is reported that the company is willing to assume part of the cost of a pavilion which would be big enough for concert features, band programs, broadcasting, and would also afford shelter against rain.

Ian F. McCrae, C.G.E. works manager, attended one meeting of the committee, when it was agreed that circumstances opposed a complete project this year, but it was felt that it could be distributed over a period. The committee is in favor of enlarging the oval track, raising the level of the north side and other such improvements to enhance the value of the park for picnic purposes.

Several big Toronto associations have been coming here, their visit this year cancelled by traffic restrictions; local Sunday Schools also hold outings at the park, and the committee is said to be eager about accepting the co-operation of the C.G.E.

Censors Ban All On Drew Letter

OTTAWA, July 18—(CP).—The press censors said yesterday they could not approve for publication any portion of a 7,500-word patrial text of Lieutenant-Colonel George A. Drew's July 11 letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The partial text was submitted for censorship by The Canadian Press.

The censor also declined to approve three stories based on the partial text and also submitted by the CP.

The partial text, it was said at the office of the Directorate of Censorship, comprised a reasoned argument of which each part was an integral portion of the whole, and it was not possible to approve any section for publication.

Earlier today a spokesman for the directorate said the censors had made "no general ruling of hypothetical prohibition" against publication of material based on the Drew letter.

The function of the press censors was "merely to pass or refuse to pass for publication matter submitte dto them, and they refuse to pass only matter which they regard as conrtrary to Defence of Canada regulations."

If any portion of the Drew letter submitted to the press censors for publication were foud not to violate the Defence of Canada regulations, such portions would be passed for publication, it was said.

Friday's Rain Revived Pasture Fields

Farmers who got under the eaves of the barn with the last load of hay Friday were smiling this morning. That detail of the season's big job was agreeably tucked away leaving an intermission of a few days until they tackle the fields of grain.

About 75% of the hay has already been hauled out of sight, and although the rain was heavy and pentrating it is expected that the rest of the grass crop will be gathered in good condition.

Pasture fields and ranches were revived by that rain, the root crop will take new life and according to Frank Paterson it was a timely and generous precipitation.

Mr. Paterson told the Examiner that the men who have been helping farmers have been doing a grand job. He mentioned among them an anonymous teacher who was helping at Gordon Hancock's farm in Smith.

From another source it was learned that this teacher is Don Crawford, principal of King Edward School.

Incidentally the wage arrangement was reversed in this engagement. Mr. Crawford wanted to help with the crop, and he thought he might be worth two dollars a day, but Mr. Hancock offered him $2.75, and Mr. Crawford had no objection to that increase in his economic value. But, apart from the wage aspect, it is said that he has been a real help, forking 11 loads of hay in one day.

If the names of the other harvest helpers were available they would also be mentioned, but they have to be dismissed as a group with Mr. Paterson's warm approval of having done well.

Next in order of labor will be the grains, now ready for cutting.

Ilsley Budget Contrary To Wage Policy

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Pat Controy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said in a letter to Finance Minister Ilsley made public today that Federal fiscal policy, as expressed in Mr. Ilsley's budget resolutions, is "inconsistent" with the Government wartime wages policy.

Mr. Conroy said the wages policy, embodied in an order-in-council of last November, represented an effort to maintain living standards of the workers at their present levels.

"...It is obvious," he said, "that the very drastic requirements of the budget, including the compulsory savings feature, will make it impossible (to maintain living standards at present levels), with the result that the fiscal policy of the government is inconsistent with its wages policy."

Not Adequate Return

At another point, he asserted that the Canadian Congress of Labor is firm in its opinion that the unprecedented taxation outlined in the budget would not be necessary "if the people of Canada were getting an adequate return for the money spent."

"The attention of the government has been drawn on several occasions to the lack of co-ordination of the productive facilities of the country to the inefficient use of manpower and material, to preventable waste, and to the failure to provide machinery for the co-operation of managements and workers in the interests of all-out production," Mr. Conroy said.

"The establishment of a satisfactory labor policy, providing for union recognition and collective bargaining, would greatly improve relationships between employers and workers, and promote the production of war-materials. In the absence of such a policy, friction and waste are inevitable, with the result that in many instances costs are much higher than they would be otherwise."

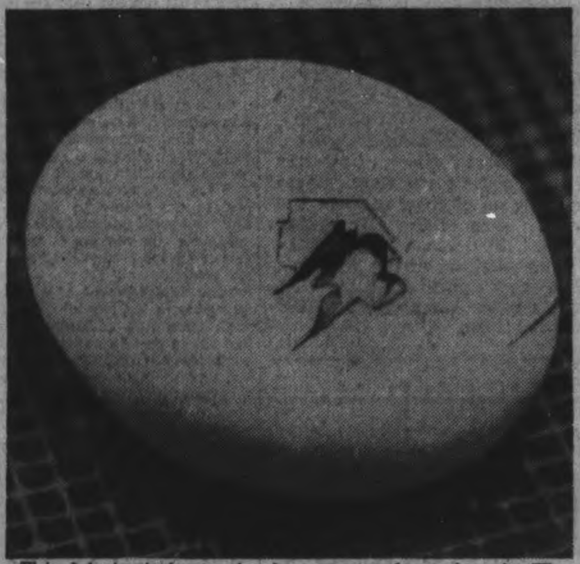
Canada's Farmers Fight Production Battle to Fuel United Nations War Machine

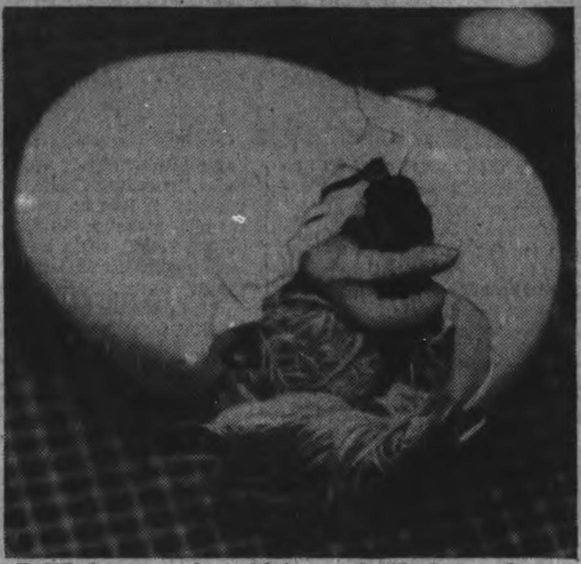
Swiftest growing industry in Canada is production of dried eggs, chiefly for shipment to England. These "Grade A" eggs are ready to be carried to breaking room. Three dozen make one pound of powder, retaining all food value of eggs.

By grading all cheese prior to shipment, every pound of Canadian cheddar shipped to England is known to be up to standard. Photo shows government grader at work.

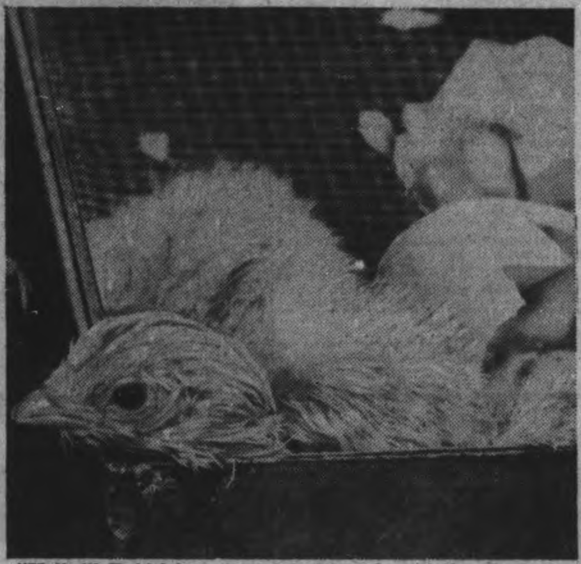
Convoys daily defy the Nazi submarine blockade to carry food to the people of Britain and the Canadian Army. Increases in shipments of cheese, powdered eggs, bacon and other products testify to the vast war effort of the Canadian farmer.



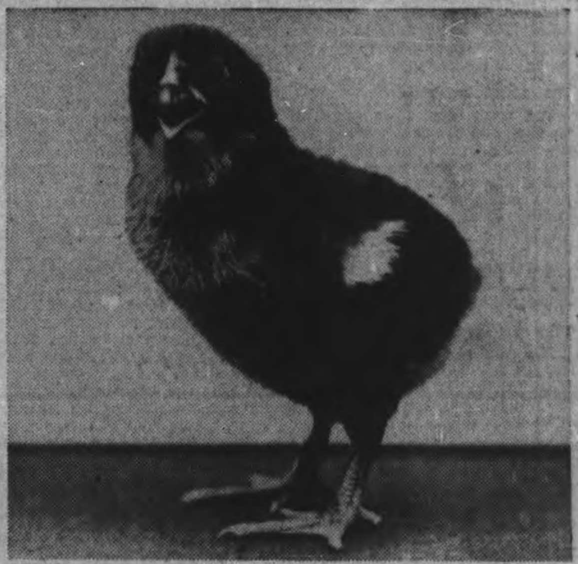
This debutante is running her own coming out party. The hatchery industry, becoming one of agriculture's leading specialties, now produces 50,000,000 chicks every year.



Debbie is progressing with her work. She is one of more than 20,000,000 chicks hatched yearly on farms. Planned production is overcoming wartime farm problems.



"Hello!" Debbie's out and looking for work. Perhaps she'll contribute to the powdered egg industry, which this year will ship over 15,000,000 pounds to England.



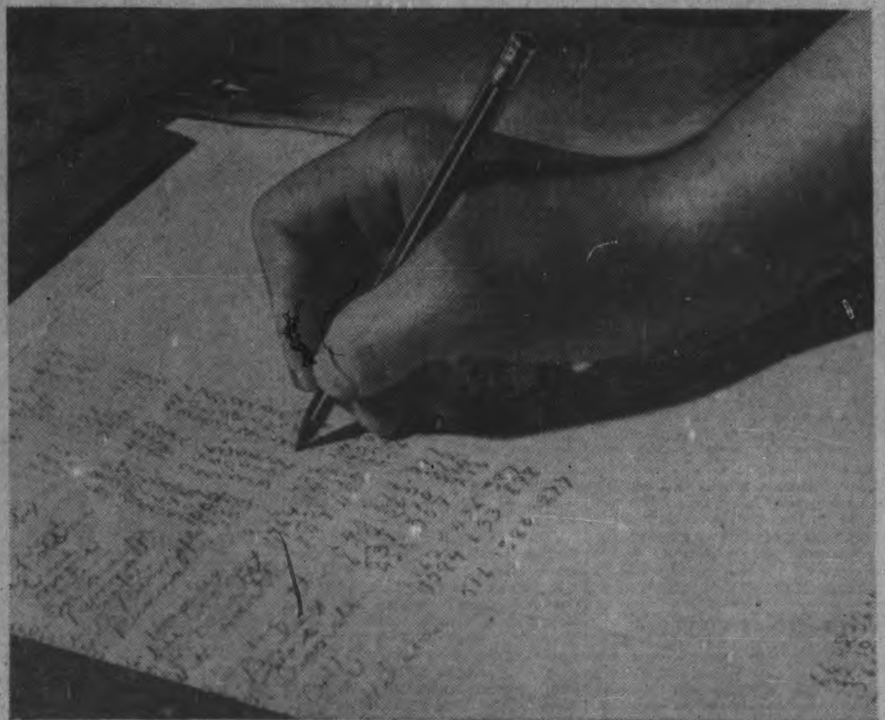
"Let's get on with the war!" demands this barred rock chick. The Department of Agriculture is guiding new hatcheries to keep them spaced out across the country.

Canadian cheese producers expect this year to exceed contracts for shipments to England, as they did last. Photo shows man testing aroma of curd after milling.

Pasture and crop conditions augur much greater excess of cheese production over contract than in 1941, when conditions were comparatively poor. In 1941 contracts called for 112,000,000 pounds; 115,000,000 pounds were shipped to England. New contracts set 125,000,000 as goal. Photo shows delivery of milk at a cheese factory.

The kitten, forbidden to enter the milk shed, slipped in with the photographer. Electric milkers are widely used in dairy industry, though manual method persists.

High quality of Canadian dairy products is appreciated by this calf, enjoying a meal at the milk stand. Herds have been increased to meet growing needs as importance of food as war weapon places greater responsibility on the farmer.



In spite of production difficulties, shortage of labor, supplies and materials due to the tremendous demands of war industries, cheese production continues to increase. Milk sheet at cheese factory shows daily deliveries by farmers.

Canadian cheddar cheese is regarded as best in world, winner of many international prizes. This young man is putting the hoop on a cheese after it is bandaged.

For Sunday, July 19

Sunday's horoscope promises events of major and far-reaching importance both to the present and the future welfare and happiness. Sullen and breathtaking occurrences may be looked for, precipitating upheavals, disruptions, novel experiences and romantic adventures. But such dramatic and thrilling affairs are sustained by a factor making for stability, security and enduring good fortune.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of sudden and thrilling adventures and surprises. This may bring important change, uprooting, devastating moves, new experiences, and romantic attachments, all attended by assurance of enduring security, stability and sound fortunes or investments. But don't be led into extravagance or excess.

A child born on this day may have great originality, inventiveness as well as depth and sincerity of character and mentality, assuring it a successful and dramatic career.

For Monday, July 20

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather disconcerting and confusing one, the outcome of which depends upon individual restraints, stability, sound ideas and objectives with properly directed energies. High tension, nerves, erratic and impulsive conduct are bound to defeat and nullify very promising conditions. Take small setbacks with calmness and be wise with all writings.

Those whose birthday it is may be able to turn some erratic and surprising situations into unexpected success and gain by rigid self control, sound tactics and plans, and refraining from emotional strain and excitement. There may be splendid promise in unusual lines of endeavor or through strange adventures, original creations or inventions, but in all affairs be careful in handling all writings and documents. Shun vexatious attitudes.

A child born on this day may be sensitive, high strung, nervous and perhaps irritable. It will be original, inventive, talented in unusual lines or rare discoveries. Early training may assist its stability and poise.

PLAYING IN THE RAIN

This natural color cotton poplin coat has been treated to be water resistant; the pores are not sealed by the process. Easily mopped off, the coat remains rainproof even after cleanings.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

YOUR mud puddle aged son (2-4-6) will enjoy a coat which keeps him dry.. for your sake, anyway. In most rainy days conflicts between boredom and the great outdoors adrip, the child wins if he has rainproof clothes to ward off the sniffles. This department has always thought it rather unfair that the weather is seldom too wet to go to school, but frequently too wet to go out and play.

A coat which protects from rain should be as prominent in the schoolday wardrobe as woollies which protect from Jack Frost. Newer and more practical than the full length waterproofs are the shorties with handy pockets.
